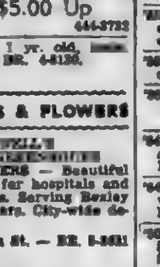
FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK



What's Plentiful For March?

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — grapefruit, bananas, oranges (Valencia and Navel), apples (CA storage) Vegetables — Carrots, cabbage, celery, onions, potatoes (all-purpose) Meat and Poultry — eggs (large grade A), broiler-fryers, beef, chuck ground beef, hams. Other — canned pink salmon, tuna, pears, prune juice; dairy products.

Eggs are the big protein value for March.

You get a lot for your money when you buy a carton. A dozen large eggs, graded by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, weigh a pound and a half. At current prices of 40 to 45 cents a dozen, you can easily figure and compare the cost with other low protein foods. And because heavy production is scheduled to continue, low egg prices will be around during spring.

Mrs. Franks

Supplies of broiler-fryers are picking up again and you can look for them to be featured more often than in past weeks. Lightweight stewing hens are more in evidence than usual because poor egg profits have prompted farmers to send the older and less productive layers to market.

As for beef, marketings of choice cattle in the next few months are expected to fall below the new record level of recent weeks. Wholesale beef prices will be firmer during March and this likely will be reflected at retail. Freezer owners who will need beef before late summer will do well to take the tip and restock the freezer now.

It's fish and seafood time in markets from now until Apr. 18. Inventories of frozen fish, shellfish and canned fish will be adequate to meet expected demand, although fish products on Jan. 1 were about 13 percent lower than a year ago. Frozen food chests will offer an adequate supply of the popular kinds of fillets and fish sticks. And there's a chance that fresh fish will be coming from the Great Lakes later in the month.

In the canned fish line both tuna and pink salmon are in greater supply than last year. With tuna, expect the best money value in the light meat type . . . and it's just as nutritious as the white meat. The same is true of pink salmon, compared with the red.

A record number of fresh apples went into controlled atmosphere storage this year, assuring lots of apples during March. And citrus fruits will never eat better than during this month.

Cabbage, celery and carrots top the list of plentiful vegetables to serve separately or in salad combinations. Winter cabbage production is three percent above last year; the celery crop is 12 percent larger; and carrot production — although down seven percent —is still in excess of normal winter market needs.

40 Recruits To Enter Police Academy Mar. 8

The new police academy class, beginning Mar. 8, will mark the introduction of 40 additional police officers (46, counting replacements for retiring personnel) to the Columbus Police Department.

These are the first of 100 new officers to be added to the force during 1965, and the "spring class" will bring sworn police personnel to 631, in addition to 136 civilian personnel.

Another class of 40 will be added in July, and the remaining 20 officers will be sworn in in the fall. This marks the first time in city history that 100 new officers will have been hired in one year, and that the Police Academy, under Capt. William Born, has held spring, summer and fall classes.

Officers reporting for duty Mar. 8 will be the first to be trained in the city's new $300,000 Police Academy at 2609 McKinley-av. The building, completed late last year, will be formally dedicated May 15, with an open house for the public May 15 and 16. It will be dedicated to police officers killed in the line of duty under a resolution that was presented by Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner, and approved by council.

Twenty of the new officers will be earmarked for foot patrol duty.

In addition to basic police training new officers will learn, according to Capt. Born, everything from "constitutional law to delivering babies."

The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

Someone Special

When I heard Tiger Ellison, OSU freshman football coach, speak recently and recount the influence of a junior high school teacher on the life of Jerry Lucas, I turned back the pages quite a few years and recalled a similar experience when I was in junior high.

It is quite apparent that people who are motivated generally have had a "someone special" in their life.

Mrs. Matie P. Baber was that someone to me.

Well do I recall when I was still quite backward and not so sure of myself as I entered the sixth grade at Hyslop Junior High School, Huntington, W. Va. how Mrs. Baber gained my confidence, took a special interest in some of my problems, and from that time on, school became a joy rather than a trial.

When I moved to Huntington High School my good fortune continued in that Mrs. Baber was transferred to the high school teaching staff that year, and to her goes a great amount of the credit for the many fine things that happened in my four years in high school and since then.

It was so good to have a friend to turn to who could counsel and advise. More particularly, by the very fact that she had instilled confidence in me, it became apparent that my efforts were magnified because, among other things, it was a real pleasure to know that any success I might have would be shared by Mrs. Baber.

While teaching methods have changed, it still remains a fact that youngsters are motivated only by people who . . .

If I could believe that many years from now someone could say the same thing about me . . . this would be immortality enough.

Bexley To Proclaim First 'Week'

'VOICES OF AMERICA' SET AT SCHOOL

SOUNDS OF AMERICA, a musical presentation of "Voices of America," will be given by the fifth grade music classes of Beechwood School Thursday, Mar. 11, 8 p.m. in the school. The program will trace the country's development in song. "Voices" of the country includes, from left, Mike Darr, Marc Schwartz, Gary Harrison and Mark Hoffman, portraying coon hunters; Mike Fowler as Steven Foster, and Kevin Hall, narrator. The musical will be directed by Miss Marilyn Obrecht, vocal instructor.

Bexley Council Tuesday night set a precedent for the city, sympathetically considered the plight of a businessman in need of easier access to his parking area, and approved the installation of new "Welcome To Bexley" signs by Capital University's student group.

Council's agreement to the request of Capital University's Board of Public Affairs that the week of Mar. 24 to 31 be designated "Week Of Social Concerns" in Bexley marks a first for the city.

It will be the first time that Bexley's veteran mayor, Mayor William Schneider, has issued a proclamation for a week of special observance.

Capital based its request on the appearance of three experts of the social sciences on the university campus that week. The public is invited to hear them.

Dale Cochran of Cochran Drugs, E. Main-st at Cassady, appeared before council to ask consideration of a problem created by making the alley behind his pharmacy one-way east.

Access to his rear parking lot is from the alley, and customers turning from Cassady into the alley to park in the lot have been cited by police for violation of the one-way ordinance.

Cochran's recent appointment as deputy registrar has added to the store's parking needs.

Customers must circle the block to legally enter the rear lot.

The matter was referred to committee for study.

Capital University will furnish and maintain large metal signs, in the shape of Ohio, reading "Welcome To Bexley, Home Of Capital University," at all entrances to the city. The signs will be in the university colors, purple with white letters.

In other action, council passed an ordinance to purchase materials for the maintenance and repair of city streets, and heard the second reading on a measure to accept a new gas contract for Bexley.

A noted actor and reader will also appear at Capital University the week of Mar. 24 to 31. Arnold Moss will present "The Seven Ages of Man" at 8 p.m. Friday, Mar. 26 in Mees Hall, and read from the great works of literature.

Dr. Samuel Sharp, executive director Youngstown Council of Churches and one of the seven United States Protestant observers at the 1964 Vatican Council, will give a public address Wednesday, Mar. 24, 8 p.m. in the Toledo Room of Bexley Hall.

Dr. Eric Cox, expert in the fields of juvenile delinquency and urban blight, will give a public talk at 8 p.m. Monday, Mar. 29 in Troutman Hall.

Dr. Ethel Alpenfels, professor of anthropology at New York University, and Outstanding Professor of the Year award winner from the National Conference of Christians and Jews, will speak Wednesday, Mar. 31, 8 p.m. at Troutman Hall.

Baseball Registration Scheduled

Now is the time, with spring nearly here and summer just around a couple of corners, for all Whitehall boys, ages eight through 16, to register for baseball.

Last summer, 600 boys, comprising 40 baseball teams, participated in league play and other league activities, sponsored by the Whitehall Boys Baseball Association.

All boys are invited to register, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, Mar. 13, or from 6 to 10 p.m. Thursday, Mar. 18, at the recreation department, in the basement of city hall, 390 S. Yearling-rd.

Everyone registering on these dates is guaranteed a place on a team.

Boys who will be eight years old and not over 16 on or before July 31 are eligible to register. Each boy must be accompanied by a parent or guardian who will sign the WBBA application. A $3 fee, which includes cost of insurance, must be paid at time of registration.

Boys who did not play last year must furnish proof of birth date, as a birth certificate, hospital certificate or baptismal record, or a photostat copy of one of these.

WBBA teaches and trains boys in baseball, with emphasis on sportsmanship and fair play.

Nearly 100 Whitehall men, interested in helping boys, offer their time and services, free of charge, to act as officers, coaches, assistants and umpires.

Approximately $4000 was spent in 1964 to supply youngsters with uniforms and baseball equipment. Most of these dollars are obtained from the sale of WBBA memberships.

Joel Poetker Heads Bexley Recreation

The appointment of Joel Poetker, 270 N. Cassingham-av, as new recreation director for the city, was approved by Bexley Council Tuesday night.

Poetker, a history teacher at Bexley High, will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of William Bernlohr. Bernlohr will remain until June, to serve as assistant director and advisor.

A basketball, football and baseball player during his college days, Poetker studied two years at Ohio Wesleyan and two years at Muskingum, and received his master's degree from Miami University.

He is married and the father of two daughters, Susan, a second grade student at Maryland Elementary, and Ann, four.

East Five Advances To Finals; South Opponent

East's Tigers, state AA cage champions two seasons ago, advanced one step closer to a '65 encore Tuesday night with a 78-67 semi-finals win over London.

The Bengals will face South Saturday at 7 p.m. in a District finals game at the Coliseum—the winner advancing to regional competition against the winner of the Athens District.

BEXLEY CONCERT SLATED FRIDAY

Bexley Senior High School Concert Band will present its spring concert Friday, Mar. 12, 8 p.m., in the high school auditorium. Cassingham-av, just north of Fair-av.

Admission is free, and the community is invited.

Concert will be conducted by James L. Hartline, and the program will include classical works by Beethoven, Mozart and Scarlatti, as well as arrangements of David Rose, Leroy Anderson and David Bennet.

Featured soloist will be bassoonist Jessie Mordoff, playing the "Bassoonata."

Also featured will be a brass quintet, whose members are Randy Hardgrove, Wendell Warman, David Skeen, George Beverly and Ron Grove; trumpet trio, with Tom Crist, Randy Hardgrove and Michael Warman, and a trombone quartet, with George Byerly, Greg Margulis, Tom Shafer and Bill Zing.

The entire flute section will also be featured.

School Holds 'Shops

Working hours from 8:30 to 3:30, five days a week, nine months out of the year may sound like a snap—but just ask any teacher.

A look at the long hours of preparation that go into each and every lesson, and the number of "free evenings" devoted to formulating programs to improve and upgrade instructional methods soon dispel such illusions.

The continuing effort of Whitehall Schools' teachers and administrators to improve the study program through critical evaluation of each subject, is expressed in their annual, two-day workshop, held last Thursday and Friday at the high school.

And the spirit of self-improvement is contagious.

Whitehall High's Student Council traditionally uses the two school vacation days to host a leadership workshop, and invites surrounding school systems to send its student leaders.

This year's teachers workshop was marked by innovations. The usual guest speakers were replaced by Whitehall faculty members, and elementary and secondary grade workshops were combined in single sessions.

By examining the thread of instruction of a given subject, from kindergarten through 12th grade, the teachers expect to detect weaknesses as well as strength in the system.

"In each study area," Mrs. Jeanne McElwee, workshop chairman explained, "a single topic was traced. In science, weather was chosen, and displays trace the subject from its simple introduction in kindergarten through the more complex, 12th grade presentation."

Sessions were held on departmental levels representing language arts, social studies, mathematics, general sciences, music and health and physical education, and the various arts.

The workshop is sponsored by the Curriculum Advisory Council, and principals serve as consultants.

State Senate Has City Tax Reform Bill

Reynoldsburg Mayor George W. Twyford has negotiated a big hurdle in his fight for city income tax reform legislation. A law calling for a tax-sharing plan was introduced Monday night in the State Senate.

Twyford has been racing the legislative clock, hoping for introduction of a bill in the current session of the state legislature. The senate proposal (SB 169) was introduced by Senators Ed Garrigan (R. Summit) and Ray T. Miller, Jr. (D. Cuyahoga).

The measure calls for a 25 percent rebate of tax revenues collected from all non-residents of the taxing district. The rebate would go to the resident community of the taxpayer.

Twyford stressed that the benefiting communities need not have an income tax in effect to receive the rebate, and that there would be no need to set up any local offices for collection or administrative functions.

SIX SYSTEMS MAY 'GO-IT-ALONE'

Hopes For Vocational District Revived With Latest Proposal

Hopes for a county-wide Vocational School District fell through when less than half of the 14 school boards involved in the proposal failed to back it.

However, six school districts in the southeast and eastern section of the county are making an attempt to "go-it-alone." These are Madison Local, Canal Winchester, Jefferson Local, Plain Township, Whitehall and Reynoldsburg.

Representatives of these districts will meet Wednesday, Mar. 17, with Thomas Quick, county superintendent, to review the new proposal and either commit themselves to it or reject it.

Single Center Viewed

The current plan differs from the original only in that one rather than two centers are under consideration.

With the six school districts relatively close geographically, one center can serve the entire area, according to Quick.

The tax duplicate of the regrouped district is $190 million while that of the county-wide proposal was approximately $500 million.

The reduced duplicate, Quick explained, is adequate to support the curriculum as originally planned at the same tax levy of approximately one and a half mills.

These courses fall into four general areas, those of agriculture, business education, distributive education and trade and industry.

No Duplication

In each field, Quick emphasized, the classes would not duplicate those already offered in the individual schools, but would supplement the vocational programs already offered.

A preliminary survey indicates that about 40 percent of the students who will be enrolled at the senior high level by 1967 are potential vocational students. (Such training is primarily attractive to the young man or woman who has no college plans.)

If the reaction to the scheduled meeting is favorable, Quick will take the proposal to the State Board of Education in April.

If it wins approval at that level, the plan will be returned to the local boards for final okay.

November Ballot Eyed

Immediate action on the part of these boards, Quick said, will be necessary if the issue is to appear on the November ballot. However, completion of the facility is not envisioned before the fall of 1967.

State funds are available to bear half the operating costs and through application to the federal government, the district can be relieved of as much as 50 percent of the $2,000,000 estimated required for land acquisition and construction and equipment costs.

ON COMMITTEE

David G. Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Armstrong, 4354 E. Fulton, served as publicity chairman for the 1965 homecoming at Evangel College. The annual homecoming was held Feb. 19 and 20.

Easter Seals are a symbol of hope and new life for crippled children.

SIX SYSTEMS MAY 'GO-IT-ALONE'

Hopes For Vocational District Revived With Latest Proposal

Hopes for a county-wide Vocational School District fell through when less than half of the 14 school boards involved in the proposal failed to back it.

However, six school districts in the southeast and eastern section of the county are making an attempt to "go-it-alone." These are Madison Local, Canal Winchester, Jefferson Local, Plain Township, Whitehall and Reynoldsburg.

Representatives of these districts will meet Wednesday, Mar. 17, with Thomas Quick, county superintendent, to review the new proposal and either commit themselves to it or reject it.

Single Center Viewed

The current plan differs from the original only in that one rather than two centers are under consideration.

With the six school districts relatively close geographically, one center can serve the entire area, according to Quick.

The tax duplicate of the regrouped district is $190 million while that of the county-wide proposal was approximately $500 million.

The reduced duplicate, Quick explained, is adequate to support the curriculum as originally planned at the same tax levy of approximately one and a half mills.

These courses fall into four general areas, those of agriculture, business education, distributive education and trades and industry.

No Duplication

In each field, Quick emphasized, the classes would not duplicate those already offered in the individual schools, but would supplement the vocational programs already offered.

A preliminary survey indicates that about 40 percent of the students who will be enrolled at the senior high level by 1967 are potential vocational students. (Such training is primarily attractive to the young man or woman who has no college plans.)

If the reaction to the scheduled meeting is favorable, Quick will take the proposal to the State Board of Education in April.

If it wins approval at that level, the plan will be returned to the local boards for final okay.

November Ballot Eyed

Immediate action on the part of these boards, Quick said, will be necessary if the issue is to appear on the November ballot. However, completion of the facility is not envisioned before the fall of 1967.

State funds are available to bear half the operating costs and through application to the federal government, the district can be relieved of as much as 50 percent of the $2,000,000 estimated required for land acquisition and construction and equipment costs.

ON COMMITTEE

David G. Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Armstrong, 4354 E. Fulton, served as publicity chairman for the 1965 homecoming at Evangel College. The annual homecoming was held Feb. 19 and 20.

Easter Seals are a symbol of hope and new life for crippled children.

Mayor, Council, Director Welcomed At Senior City

The growing Lutheran Senior City located at 977 Parkview-rd, has taken on a couple of new looks. The first is the recently organized mayor and city council and the second is the new director of resident life and activity, Miss Rosemarie Lattimer.

Miss Lattimer, a graduate of the college of education, Ohio State University, accepted this position the first of this year afer having served as program director and director of Fiendship House of Columbus for four years.

Eagles' Home, 1167 Parsons-

Miss Lattimer met an old friend when she began her new work at the "city." Dr. William Inglis, now a resident there was one of the founders of Friendship House when it opened in 1909 and while there had the first "Well Baby Clinic" in Columbus.

For 11 years Miss Lattimer was a group worker with the Godman Guild. She also served as camp director of Mary Orton, and was field director of Near North Side Neighborhood Council, which was one of the first community organizations in Columbus, with the specific goal of making the neighborhood a better place to live, work, play and own property.

She was active in helping to educate the public as to the meaning of urban renewal which finally resulted in the passage of the bond issue. While connected with Friendship House Miss Lattimer inaugurated its camping program, serving about 200 youngsters each summer, as well as opening an extension program at Riverside Project, and one at Beck Street School.

One of the activities Miss Lattimer will help with is the dedication of the "city" designated for Sunday, June 13, by the board of trustees.

Lutheran Senior City is open to persons of any denomination. Age 62 is the minimum age. Being a city, this facility is built on the neighborhood plan, but with all neighborhoods connected by heated corridors. As new residents come and fill one neighborhood, other neighborhoods are opened up. The total capacity of Lutheran Senior City, when filled as 285 residents.

During this year's tour, Yeshiva College debaters will visit the West Coast, as well as the deep South, the Mid-West, and Middle Atlantic area and New England.

COLOR COLOR COLOR
If you have not yet had the courage (or should I say wisdom) to investigate the advantages of hair coloring, perhaps it will help to tell you a little about the three categories.
THERE ARE RINSES
No doubt you have already experimented with them and found they didn't help very much. Rinses merely give degrees of coating to the outside of the hair shaft. Some are more effective than others but there is danger of ugly color build-up on porous areas.
Color Shampoos or semi-permanent coloring. These superimpose color onto and to a certain extent into the hair shaft. They do not lift the base shade. By the addition of color they make the hair look brighter.
Tints or permanent hair colors enter into the hair shaft with two actions. First of all they lighten the base shade, and secondly they add the color selected. But this is not so simple as it seems. Only a trained Cosmetologist is qualified to perform this service for you.
The secret of Charm
The secret of many a girl's charm is that she is literally easy to talk to. She is a good listener and makes it fun for others to talk to her. Her own talk is usually of an impersonal nature and that draws others in and encourages them to share their feelings and experiences.
Skin Discolorations
Birthmarks, red marks, and eye shadows can often be masked by one of the heavy covering cosmetics especially designed to hide these discolorations. Another less serious but quite common problem is the yellow or brownish shadow around the mouth and nose area often caused by too much suntanning. Gradually this disappears when the face is no longer exposed to so much sun, but use of a bleaching face cream or lemon juice will help. In the future keep this area shielded by a hat, or sun cream, or adhesive-taped patches. Using a lighter foundation on the discolored area will help produce a more even coloring

Broadmoor Beauty Salon Announces New Location

The Broadmoor Beauty Salon, located at 20 S. Wey-ant-av since 1958, has moved into a new shop at 50 S. Maplewood-av, according to a recent announcement by Betty Eads, owner and operator of the award-winning salon.

On display at the new shop, which is done in complimentary tones of light pink through hot pink, are many of the 57 state and national awards captured by the Broadmoor in the highly competitive field of cosmetology.

Most of her operators, says Betty Eads, were trained at leading hair schools in New York, Chicago, Toronto and Detroit, and several have represented Ohio in community leadership.

One, Wanda Shaeffer, will represent Ohio in hair-styling next July at the St. Louis show, an honor won in local and state competition last November at a show held at the Columbus Plaza.

Wanda is Betty's sister, one of seven, all engaged in cosmetology. Five are teachers in the field.

Three Area Quintets Survive 'AA' Tests

HIGH-FLYIN' HAWK — Hartley Dave Thomas (right) grimmaces as he struggles for this rebound Friday night with Reynoldsburg's Doug Weber. Action came during Hawks' 74-57 AA District tourney win over the Raiders at the Coliseum.

Bill Courtney's revamped Eastmoor quintet ran wild over Hamilton Township, 91-64, and ruptured Worthington's "Cinderella" image 64-49 last weekend to give the Warriors a three-game win string in "AA" District cage action at the Coliseum.

The Warriors, now 13-6 overall, face Central Ohio League champ Newark (19-1) tonight at the Coliseum (7 p.m.) along with 6'4 ace Roger Markle (22.9) and Jack Downing (18.2).

THE HAMILTON win was spearheaded by a 53 percent shooting night (39 of 74), 31 Ranger turnovers, a blistering E-M fastbreak and double-digit efforts from Steve Howell (23), Doug Cromer (18), sparkler Jerry Groves (17), Ron Bollie (12) and Gary Cochran's 10.

Howell slapped in a missed Cromer shot midway in the third period of the Worthington contest and E-M took a 30-29 lead the Warriors never surrounded as they hit 24 of 55 floor attempts and outboarded the Cards 28-19.

Howell hustled in 17 of his 24 tallies in the last half (13 in the fourth quarter) to give him 73 for all tourney games. Cochran and Bollie banged in 14 each to go along with nine by Groves.

BEXLEY NICKED favored Whetstone, 60-49, and bowed out of "AA" action on Saturday as South logged a 61-37 triumph.

Robin Wells wheeled in 29 big tallies and the Lions never gave up a 10-point lead in the Whetstone win as Bill Salt added 11 and Mac Albin 10.

The Blue Lions (9-11 overall) trailed by only nine (28-19) after 16 minutes against South but when 6'7 Dave Johnston fouled out with 6:44 left in the third period Bexley wasted 12 by Albin and 10 by captain Salt.

GENE MILLARD'S crew hit 35 percent from the floor and nine of 18 charities but were outboarded 27-18 and turned the ball over 23 times against a press.

East (13-5) clubbed Brookhaven, 84-59, as All-City John Lewis lipped 32, Vance Carr and Gil Mathews 11 each and Luther Curry 11. East held a 72-40 board edge.

Hartley (17-3) tests Linden (16-2) tonight at the Coliseum (8:30) after trimming Reynoldsburg, 74-57, behind a late 10-point string by slick Frank Tafoya in the [illegible] quarter.

THE RAIDERS edged within four (54-50) with 4:18 left but Hartley's big bankboard edge (64-39) told the difference in the end, along with Reynoldsburg's 14 turnovers.

Tafoya's 22, Tom Schlager's 18 and 15 by Dave Thomas sparked the Hawk offensive that produced 29 fielders.

SALT SHAKER—Just when South's Marion Iverson (center) thought he had a clear path to the basket along came Bexley's Bill Salt (33) to disengage Iverson from the ball the Lions' Max Albin is batting away at left. (Tourney photos by Wittenmeier and O'Harra)

Shadywood Sets Signup

Shadywood Park Boosters Association will register boys for their 1965 baseball program at the Walnut Ridge High School, Mar. 17 (6 p.m.-9 p.m.) and Mar. 20 (10 a.m.-5 pm.).

All boys, ages eight to 14 years, who attend any of the following schools in Southeast Columbus, are eligible: Woodcrest, Walnut Ridge, Willis Park, Leawood, Shady Lane, Pinecrest and St. Phillips.

A PARENT must accompany each boy for registration. The registration fee is $5, which includes for each boy the purchase of a baseball cap and an insurance policy. This sum is more than matched with funds raised by the Boosters, who provide complete uniforms, catching and umpiring equipment, baseballs, bats and diamond maintenance.

The 1965 season represents the seventh year of Booster operation, and will be carried out on diamonds constructed on land east of Walnut Ridge High School. In 1964, 35 teams, representing 602 boys separated into four different age brackets, participated. The 1964 season opens in mid-April and closes in early August.

The Shadywood Park Boosters Association is a voluntary, non-profit organization with the sole purpose of providing summer baseball for boys in Southeast Columbus. Officers include Raymond Salyer, commissioner; Carl Chambers, treasurer; Samuel Meites, secretary; Donald Jones, maintenance, and William Share, equipment. In addition to these men, members of the board of trustees are Richard Caner, William Quinn, George Stoner, Joseph Scott, John Schrieber, James Hill, and William Capehart.

Stallions Won't Be 'Broken'; State Mat Competition Opens

DeSales climaxed an amazing two-year climb to the top Saturday at Franklin Heights by edging past an aspiring Worthington squad and nailing down the Karl-rd school's first-ever District title.

Rated as co-favorites with the runnerup Cardinals, the Stallions managed only one District champ (Mike DeAscentis at 165) but parlayed that win with two seconds, two thirds and one fourth place finish.

HARD-CHARGING Worthington got one first (Paul Mitchell at 127) and three seconds but found themselves shut out in the consolation round, dropping a 46-40 point spread to DeSales.

The battle for the top between the Stallions and Cards was expected as were high finishes for East (35) and Franklin Heights (29).

Not so "expected," however, were strong placements for Eastmoor (30) and Walnut Ridge (25).

BOTH THE Warriors (Pete Johnson, 138 and Mike Sullivan, 145) and the Scotties (Steve Roberts, 133 and Dave Walter, HWT) made good use of their only entries — taking two finals wins apiece.

Other finishes included: Brookhaven (21), Whitehall (18), Pleasant View (17), Arlington (13), Whetstone (13), Circleville (11), Groveport (6), West (6), Hartley (5), Ready (5), Jonathan Alder (4), Grandview, Westerville and Grove City, three each.

The good caliber of the final four wrestlers in each weight class was clearly indicated by the fact that all finals matches were decided by decisions — as were all but two of the consolation scrapes.

THE TOP FOUR wrestlers in each weight class are as follows: 103 — Gary Rapp, Brookhaven; Ralph Cox, East; Vic Vance, Franklin Heights; Sam Graham, Whetstone.

112 — Dick Grambo, F-H; Steve Arnold, DeSales; Roy Leonard, Eastmoor, Chuck Driesbach, Pleasant View.

120 — Steve Beery, Whitehall; Brad Brubacher, B-H; Rick Erbe, P-V; Gary O'Keefe, Grandview.

127 — Paul Mitchell, Worthington; Jake Holloway, East; Bill Paxton, Ready; John Jordan, Groveport.

133 — Steve Roberts, Walnut Ridge; Alan Mitchell, Wo.; Mike Mahoney, DeS.; John Holley, West.

138 — Pete Johnson, E-M; Dave Kauder, DeS.; Wes Seymour, Wh.; Darrell Young, Jonathan Alder.

145 — Mike Sullivan, E-M; Rod Fisher, Wo.; Paul Burkey, Hartley; Wayne Hiles, DeS.

154 — Mike Saunders, Arlington; Gary Rispress, East; Dick Claprood, DeS.; Benny King, West.

175 — Mike Long, F-H; Frank Lowery, Wo.; J. D. Wilson, Whets.; Bill Owen, Westerville.

HWT.—Dave Walter, W-R; Jim Sturkey, Circleville; Roland Martin, East; John Cooley, Grove City.

THE FIRST two wrestlers in each weight class now advance to state competition, scheduled Friday and Saturday at OSU's St. John Arena.

Prelims Friday (some 88 matches) get under way at 1 p.m. and action resumes again at 7. Consolations are set for 1 p.m. Saturday with finals kicking off at 8 p.m.

Admission Friday is 50 cents (students) and $1 (adults). Everybody pays $1 for Saturday night's finals.

ONE OF THE biggest jobs this weekend falls to Arlington's 145-pounder Mike Saunders. Mike, a District winner, is following in graduated brother Tom's footsteps this season. Tom won the state title last year at 154.

Whitehall-Yearling High School

RAM-blings

By SARAH WINGO

The Whitehall Yearling Student Council sponsored its fifth annual leadership workshop Mar. 4 and 5. It was originally one of the first of its kind in the nation.

Earl Reum, activities director of Denver, Col., public schools and a nationally recognized coordinator, was the consultant.

Representatives of many schools in this area attended in addition to all Whitehall-Yearling Council members and other persons recommended as leaders by their teachers—a total of 125 students.

Sessions began Thursday at 8 a.m. Mr. Reum discussed such things as leadership techniques, group dynamics, parliamentary procedures, problem-solving and communications — in general assemblies.

In addition to lectures, students operated five Student Councils which were presented with hypothetical situations common to some schools.

Student counselors, under the direction of Mrs. Luella E. Compton, advisor to Whitehall-Yearlings Student Council, were previously trained in summer workshops sponsored by the Ohio Association of Student Councils. Counselors were Cheryl Welsch, Paul Fjelsted, Lynn Ford, Bill Barnhill and Sarah Wingo.

Activities were climaxed Friday evening with a banquet, where students presented brief plays depicting situations they had to deal with. Student judges were Dave Hurst, Jim Arbuckle and Rick Foltz.

Officers of Whitehall's Student Council are Ernie Peters, president; Rick Foltz, vice-president; Rhonda Hopkins, secretary; Dave Hurst, treasurer, and Teri Hiatt, chaplain.

In the city-wide basketball tournament, the Junior boys beat Thompson, 28-25. The scoring was balanced with Donald Johnson being high (seven points). Another tournament game was scheduled Monday, Mar. 8, against Pilgrim Recreation Center.

DENNY HAVER, photographer-sportsman, carries a hefty pair of Ontario moose antlers taken during the filming of "Ontario Safari," latest Wally Taber Safari Show slated for Veterans Memorial Hall Thursday, Mar. 18. Making it a double-header, Haver also will narrate his hi-adventure epic, "Canoe Country," under auspices of the Allied Conservation Clubs of Franklin County. Show time is 8 p.m.

COMING MAR. 18

Safari Show Features Top Hunting, Fishing

Columbus and Central Ohio residents will have the opportunity to hobnob with a real-life Alaskan sourdough Mar. 18, 8 p.m. when photographer-sportsman Denny Haver moves into Veterans Memorial with the Wally Tabor Safari Show.

The Allied Conservation Clubs of Franklin County will sponsor the Safari wildlife show that brings high adventure with rod, rifle and camera from far away places and puts it within the reach of all.

Haver's camera captured the Ojibwa Indian on his trap line, hand-running for bear, moose and deer; treking with woodsmen and mushing after a dog sled in "Ontario Safari."

A second color-packed film, "Canoe Country," is dramatically narrated by Haver as an Ojibwa Indian guides a band of sportsmen through 400 miles of virgin forest via canoe. These sportsmen explore shorelines never fished by a white man, camp in country yet to see civilization and journey through water that harbors brook trout bigger than your arm and pike larger than your leg.

Bucky Walters, show chairman, who resides at 2723 Eakin-rd, has endorsed this captivating film along with W. R. Dailey, 397 S. Harris-av, of the Hilltop Sportsmen Club. Other sportsmen endorsing the show are Walter Thurman, 1091 Ann-st, sponsoring club executive of the Snakehunters Club of North America; Emil Johannges of 448 Kossuth, president of Plank's Fishing Club and Wade King, 784 Shenoon-av, club executive of the Southeast Conservation Club.

Spectator To Honor Top Area Wrestlers Mar. 25

Once again this year, the Spectator will honor an All-Star Wrestling Team — the members of whom will be announced in the Mar. 25 edition of the Spectator.

The All-Star team will be composed of top high school wrestlers in some 28 schools in and around Franklin County.

THE '65 team will be more representative than last year's team since it will consider 12 more schools — the result of the Spectator's increased coverage of the Central Ohio area.

Another addition to the '65 squad will be the announcement of a wrestling "Coach of the Year" as nominated by fellow mat mentors.

The All-Star squad will be broken down into first and second team and honorable mentions. First and second teams will include 11 berths each or one for each weight category.

THE TEAM, based strictly on alloted nominations by coaches, will be formulated by a point system.

Points will be awarded thusly: District champion — 10 pts., District runnerup — five pts., third place — three pts., fourth place — two pts., League champion — two pts., one pt. for each seasonal win.

Five extra points will be added to the total of any wrestler who makes advancement in state competition this weekend.

BOTH FIRST and second team selections, besides having their pictures in the Spectator, will receive certificates from the Spectator as mementos of their '65 wrestling achievement.

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER

For Sale . . .

Harold Cooper's proposal that the city purchase Jet Stadium has been sidetracked — at the Jet GM's request.

Cooper feels that City Council has enough problems to solve and has suggested that it might be best to postpone the appointment of a commitee to study the city purchase of the Stadium until after the end of the season.

COOPER FLATLY denied, however, a report that we got from one city official that the Jet boss suggested waiting one year.

Wittenmeier

The Jets are in trouble and people who worry about the future of baseball here are justified in their fears. "We're just not in the financial position to make any major changes this year," Cooper said last week.

"I just hope we can get through this year. I'll be holding my breath every time we turn on the lights this summer."

COOPER ALSO noted that a section of the grandstand will have to be torn out this summer because of its deterioration. Things like that happen over a 33-year period.

By way of comparison, Syracuse paid $8000 in rental last season while the Jets were handing out $72,000 for the same bills.

"The baseball team uses this stadium maybe 64 nights a year, I just feel the facilities could be utilized more than that," Cooper said.

"I'M NOT asking the city to buy a 'pig in the poke.' I'd just like them to forget the politics and consider it on a sound financial basis."

Cooper's job isn't getting any easier. Jet Book Ticket sales have declined steadily since 1955, dipping nearly $55,000 in the last nine seasons.

Raising admission prices (25 cents general admission and 15 cents reserved) should help some in making up the $35,000 brought in by two religious crusades last year.

COOPER'S ON the right track in desiring home-owned players. This is one big way to build up (and keep) a winner. Attendance jumped up some 55,000 in '61 when Columbus won the IL pennant but since has dipped below the '60 figure.

The best gimmick in the world can't beat a winner at the gate. Even Charley Finley will tell you that.

Incidentally, Cooper is still searching for a left-handed hitting first baseman to move h. for a departed Bob Burda. The Jet GM will wait "to see what we got in spring training" before he goes any further with plans to add two more starting pitchers.

• • •

A FOOTNOTE to our column last week: a recent poll taken by a national school magazine indicates that the majority of school administrators believe high school athletics are getting too much emphasis.

They also look with disfavor on organized athletic competition for elementary school children. Fifty-six percent said "too much" emphasis in high school; 62 percent were against organized competition (little leagues) for elementary kids. (The latter represents 12 percent more 'against' since a 1959 survey.

One Ohio administrator polled believes the Buckeye State has, for the most part, placed the correct emphasis on high school athletics.

He added, however, that "there are some exceptional basketball programs in the northern half of the state and a few in the southern half which seem like tails that wag the dog."

• • •

WE USUALLY leave most of the high school forecasting to "Fearless" but we look for South and Newark to be packing bags for regional dates when the AA District Tourney finishes up Saturday night at the Coliseum.

• • •

AND THEN there was the small college basketball power who dropped the cage game after compiling a 264-16 record over a 10-year span.

Seems the school retired a jersey each time a player broke a scoring record or gained All-American status. This year they ran out of numbers.

'Fearless' Predictions

"Fearless" standing through 15 weeks of cage action is 336 right, 107 wrong. Here's the schedule lineup for eight games heading into District Tourney weekend:

'AA' Games

Linden over Hartley
Newark over Eastmoor
South over East
Urbana over Piqua

'A' Games

Licking Valley over Pleasant
Big Walnut over Aquinas
Jonathan Alder over Lancaster Fenwick
Mt. Gilead over Logan Elm.

WALLACE J. BUYA, national board member of Camp Fire Girls, shows the lifesaving award to Jo An Williams that he will officially present to her at the group's annual birthday party, sponsored by Lazarus, this Saturday at Veterans Memorial. Jo An's father, Mr. Edgar Williams, looks on with more than passing interest as his was the life that was saved.

CHAPLAIN TO SPEAK

Chaplain Ralph Fishburn, captain in the United States Army, who just returned from a year's tour of duty in Viet Nam, will be the principal speaker at the Tuesday, Mar. 16, 6:30 p.m. dinner meeting of Pilot Club of Columbus, at Pick-Fort Hayes Hotel.

Local Camp Fire Girl To Get Lifesaving Award March 13

Quick thinking in the face of danger has earned a national Camp Fire Girls' lifesaving award for Jo An Williams, seventh grader at Medina School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Williams, 939 Fairglade-ln.

Jo An will receive the award at the annual Camp Fire Birthday parties Saturday, Mar. 13, sponsored by Lazarus, in Veterans Memorial. It will be presented by Wallace J. Buya, national board member of Camp Fire Girls, Inc.

Jo An is credited with saving the life of her father while the family was vacationing in Canada last summer.

Preparing to close their camp for the season, the pair canoed about 40 feet to the middle of the lake to remove a foot valve.

When Mr. Williams reached out to disconnect the valve, the canoe tipped and both were thrown into the water. A recent illness caused Mr. Williams to become temporarily paralyzed. When Jo An realized her father was unable to swim, she grabbed a life-cushion, gave it to him and pushed him to shore, where Mrs. Williams helped them to safety.

Mrs. Williams is guardian of the Ta Wan Ka' Junior Hi Camp Fire group, of which Jo An is a member.

By KEN MACK McCREARY

For Passage . . .

"Get your programs! You can't tell the lawmakers from the lobbyists, without a program!"

This cry might well be heard in the ancient halls of the Ohio Statehouse these days as the 106th Ohio General Assembly trudges through what may never be remembered as one of the most productive sessions, but certainly will rate high on the 'most hectic' list.

AMONG THE over 1000 measures confronting the legislators before the end of the session will be many controversial ones — including several which will affect those of us in Spectatorland and across the state who enjoy the outdoors.

Ken McCreary

One bill which may cause some heated hearings slipped quietly into the hopper of the House last week — H. B. 383, introduced by Representative Tom Pottenger of Hamilton County, would take the mourning dove off the song bird list and allow Ohio hunters to utilize it as a game bird, under restrictions such as those imposed on quail (hunting only on state-owned or controlled lands).

Almost all sportsmen, including this writer, are in favor of the proposal, the Ohio Division of Wildlife, while not actively campaigning for the measure, is known to favor it.

OPPOSITION to the "dove bill" is expected to come from garden clubs, women's organizations, and associated groups.

Right now, House Bill 383 is assigned to committee, with hearings expected in about two weeks.

Another measure which is generating much discussion is Senate Bill 2, which would permit hunting of migratory waterfoul, including ducks, on all days and times permitted by the federal government; ie., permit Sunday hunting of ducks.

I PERSONALLY stand firmly against any Sunday hunting, even though proponents claim it would allow Ohio duck hunters to take advantage of several days now lost under federal law.

Still another proposed law which may stir up considerable controversy is House Joint Resolution 13, to establish state-wide Daylight Savings Time from the last Sunday of April until the last Sunday of September.

While every Ohioan has an individual situation, I firmly believe that most of us who enjoy the outdoors would welcome an extra hour of daylight at the end of spring and summer days.

INCIDENTALLY, this measure is in direct opposition to House Bill 53, which would make Eastern Standard Time mandatory for all political subdivisions.

Perhaps the most widely discussed conservation-concerned legislation before the Legislature deals with more strict regulation of strip mining, and the reclamation of Ohio lands after the coal is removed.

While we don't have any mines in the Heart of Ohio, the lands effected well might be a part of our recreational future.

SENATE BILL 1, a strong restrictive bill, is now undergoing committee hearing. Another somewhat milder bill, which is expected to gain Rhodes administration support, has just been introduced by Representative Ralph Fisher of Wooster.

Fisher says his proposal is aimed at "better planning by the miner, prior to strip-mining, and development of the last cut for water supply, recreation, or other beneficial use." The Fisher Bill seems to stand the best chance of becoming law.

These are some of the more notable and "worth-watching" measures which deal with outdoor recreation and conservation, now before your state lawmakers.

CERTAINLY, there will be more as the season progresses, and we'll keep you advised about the "what" and "why" affecting the outdoors as the stately old Statehouse continues to tremble with one of the most closely watched legislative sessions in history.

ELDERCARE
...better care than Medicare

Here's why the Herlong-Curtis Eldercare Bill, HR 3727, is the best answer to the health care needs of people over 65

MORE BENEFITS FOR THE ELDERLY

Eldercare would provide a wide range of hospital and medical services for the elderly—much more than Medicare.

	ELDERCARE	MEDICARE
Physicians' Care	YES	NO
Surgical Costs	YES	NO
Drugs — In and out of Hospital	YES	NO
Hospital & Nursing Home Charges	YES	YES

LESS COST TO THE TAXPAYERS

Eldercare offers more care for the elderly who need help, but would cost less because it does not provide benefits for the wealthy and well-to-do. Eldercare would not require a new payroll tax. It would be financed by federal-state funds through a program that already exists.

By contrast, the Medicare tax plan would increase payroll taxes to provide benefits for everyone over 65, the wealthy included. Furthermore, the Medicare tax would hit hardest those least able to pay. The $5,600-a-year worker would pay as much tax as the $56,000 executive.

Your doctors, who care for the elderly, support Eldercare because it also assures free choice of physician and hospital . . . provides for protection through Blue Cross, Blue Shield and health insurance policies . . . and lets people over 65 qualify for benefits before illness strikes — without a welfare type investigation.

Kiwanis Wins Service Awards For Programs

Kiwanis International has won a Freedom Foundation Distinguished Service Award for its "1964 Americanism program," it was announced this week by Ernest E. Emswiler, president of the Eastern Columbus Kiwanis Club.

Kiwanis also shared (with Chicago radio station WGN) a George Washington Honor Medal from the Freedom Foundation for "The Constitution Series, from Inquiry," a weekly radio program which is jointly sponsored by Kiwanis and WGN.

Key Club International, the Kiwanis-sponsored high school service organization for boys, also was named recipient of the George Washington Honor Medal for its "1964 citizenship program."

Kiwanis' college service organization — Circle K International — also won a similiar medal for a similiar program in '64.

Is 16 Too Young To Drive?

Teenagers approaching that golden age of 16 are sweating out a current Ohio Legislature bill which proposes raising the minimum driving age in the state to 18.

Statistics bear out the fact that drivers under 21 are involved in more traffic accidents than any other age group. Insurance rates for the "under 21" club reflect that statistic.

Most of us yell, "Look at that nutty kid" every time we see a teenage speedster whiz around a corner or screech off in a drag race.

But whether that youngster is in the 16 to 18 age category is hard to say. Whether two years will change a youngster's driving habits is highly questionable.

On the other hand, it obviously isn't going to impair any abilities to learn to drive if a 16-year-old must wait two more years to get his license.

And parents who are convinced that their children aren't ready to accept the responsibility of driving at 16 have no obligation to OK a permit for the youngster.

The youngsters boast of driver education courses now offered at most schools. They ask how less qualified they are than those of us who obtained a driver's license before it was necessary to take a test.

A person's age cannot be a true barometer to measure his driving ability or habits. Good safety habits and being responsible behind the wheel should dictate who should drive a motor vehicle.

Unfortunately, the Ohio Legislature cannot pass a law to regulate safety. That's the lonely responsibility of each driver—whether he be 16 or 60.

Community Applauds The Girl Scouts

Girl Scout Week (March 7-13) marks the 53rd anniversary of the organization, and the entire month of March will be devoted to depicting Scouting's aims, hopes and achievements.

The success of Girl Scouting is attested to by the fact that membership in the 10-county Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council has reached nearly 20,000 girls from seven through 17 years of age. About 6,000 adult volunteers assist in promoting the Girl Scout laws of loyalty, honesty, courtesy, friendship, cheerfulness, kindness and thrift.

Never has the nation or the world been more in need of spreading the basic ideas and ideals of Scouting's devotion to God, country and fellow man.

An Editor's Outlook . . .

Fame: A Mixture Of Caution, Boldness

EASTBOUND near Miles City, Mont.—I have just come down from the dome car where I have been watching the blue water boiling beneath the heaving ice of the Yellowstone River and the winter sunshine glinting off the deep snow covering the first-bench wheat fields.

A few minutes ago, just east of Forsyth, the beautiful train roared over a small creek. My map tells me it is the Rosebud. And it puts me in mind of the Civil War and three Union generals—all named George—from whom, perhaps, a lesson can be drawn.

Jones

George Armstrong Custer had a passion for glory. Only 22 at the outbreak of the war, he hurried from West Point to Virginia and began a hell-for-leather career as a cavalry officer. He served under many men less brave than he. He chafed at restraint. He exceeded orders. But gradually the word got around. Custer was a lance-point, a thunderbolt.

At Gettysburg Custer made the Michigan cavalry famous. They promoted him to brevet brigadier general at 24. Sheridan gave him his head in the Wilderness and Shenandoah campaigns. At Cedar Creek and Five Forks he was superb. He led the last cavalry charge at Appomattox. And then it was over.

Peace found a frustrated Custer busted back to lieutenant colonel in the regular army. Garrison life galled him. So it was with joy that he received orders from General Hancock to round up the Cheyennes in western Oklahoma in 1868. The Battle of the Washita was an outrage. The Seventh Cavalry butchered old men and rode down the squealing squaws. Even in that day when killing Indians was regarded as not much worse than killing buffalo, the eastern newspapers raised questions. Custer licked his wounded pride.

Eight years of inaction followed. Then came a new big chance. Ordered out as an advance force to scout hostile Sioux in Montana, he rode joyously up the Tongue on June 23, 1876, crossed to the valley of the Rosebud, and the next day on a ridge overlooking the Little Big Horn he took on Sitting Bull and about 5,000 Indians. Custer won glory at last, as he and his 264 men died.

The second George — George Brinton McClellan—made none of Custer's mistakes. He was a brilliant organizer. He took raw hordes of skylarking volunteers and sullen draftees and he drilled them into an army.

He went ever prepared for disaster. His withdrawal from the outskirts of Richmond and back down the Peninsula after the awful Seven Days is still taught in tactics classes. His troops idolized him. He could do everything — except win battles.

McClellan always accepted the gloomiest rumor about the strength of the enemy. He was so afraid of defeat that he never committed his full force. At Antietam, even with the enormous advantage of holding in his hand Lee's whole battle plan, found wrapped around three cigars, he hesitated. Outnumbering Lee by two-to-one he left two corps in reserve, and the battle was close to a draw. After that, Lincoln finally fired him.

The third George was George Henry Thomas, a southern West Pointer who stayed with the Union army. His Virginia family turned his picture to the wall and never spoke his name. His promotions were slow and grudgingly-given because Northern politicians distrusted his loyalty. But he had to rise. He was just about the best general the Union had.

He could be as methodical as McClellan, as fast as Custer. He saved the center at Stone's River and was "the Rock of Chickamauga." At Nashville Thomas waited for the ice-covered countryside to clear while Grant, in far-off Virginia, bombarded him with telegraphic demands for immediate action and even ordered his replacement. But when "Old Pap" moved at last the army of Hood vanished in two days. Nashville has been described as the best planned and executed battle of the war.

Now, it might be said that every man lives a struggle in which the Custer and the McClellan inside him jaw and argue from the moment he stands in his playpen to the hour of his death. Man is torn between the desire to do and the fear of doing. He wants glory. He fears defeat.

You'll never get rich putting your money out at four percent in a savings account. You won't lose your money either. You'll never become president of the firm by being mousy and agreeable and trying not to attract attention. But you won't get caught up in power struggles and the chances of being fired are lessened.

Your defensive George McClellan nature will preserve much of your resources in the face of disaster. But only by your aggressive George Custer nature will you ever win at anything more than penny ante.

The ideal man is the Thomas man. He is the man who will spare no effort to get ready and will not move until he is. Then he can roar back from his own Nashvilles, shouting, as George Thomas did:

"Dammit to hell, I told you we could lick 'em!"

All Children Deserve Equal Protection

I'm about to sound off with my personal opinion on the so-called "Fair Bus Bill," and for the first time in my life I wish my name were Smith, Jones or Brown.

But my name is Ryan — and that alone undoubtedly will make my opinion "suspect" to about half the readership. (Yes, I'm a Roman Catholic father of children who attend a Catholic school.) And I am solidly in favor of a law to provide bus transportation for children in private and parochial state-accredited schools to the same extent that such service is now provided for public school children.

Ryan

To me, it is a simple matter of justice and equality under the law. I accept the ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court that such service is NOT unconstitutional and that it is a welfare benefit to the child rather than direct aid to a school. In view of the Supreme Court stand, I reject the argument of those who charge violation of the church-state separation concept.

I agree with the bus bill opponents who say that "busing" is a means of bringing children together in a consolidated school, and therefore is a necessary part of education. I also agree with the bus bill supporters who stress that "busing" is a safety and welfare service. The simple truth is that either of these reasons for "busing", standing alone, would be sufficient cause to establish and maintain such a service.

Now it is no secret that the chief opponent of the bus bill is an organization known as Protestants and Other Americans United for the Separation of Church and State. But there is something about their stand which puzzles me.

I will grant that POAU is consistent in its battle against anything and everything it considers to be aid to church-related schools. POAU leaders oppose aid to the "Protestant" five percent of the total of all parochial schools just as vehemently as they do "aid" to the "Catholic" 95 percent. But POAU seems not to care about a very DIRECT and substantial government aid to religion — tax exemption for church property and "non-profit" religion-oriented organizations.

Of course, the big majority of churches in the nation ARE Protestant, and POAU DOES enjoy a tax-exempt status as a religion-oriented organization. When, I wonder, will POAU renounce such support from ALL taxpayers, that it may more faithfully live within the tradition it advocates for others?

I am most sadly at a loss to explain the reasoning of the area Protestant ministers who have used this same argument from their pulpits, while at the same time accepting the various tax exemptions. How can anyone expect me to attribute sincerity to those who would draw a tight "separation" line when the safety and welfare of children is even a minor consideration, yet loosen the same rule for purely financial profit?

But my most "righteous" anger is reserved for the gutless politicians (in the governor's office and the legislature) who seem bent on maneuvering for a "permissive" bus bill. This would put the question squarely with local boards of education and keep the whole bitter mess boiling at each local level.

If a uniform bill is eventually considered, I will not withhold my vote from any local legislator who votes "no." At least he will be meeting his duty. But if a "local option" bill is the one acted upon, I will most assuredly work against the re-election of any local lawmaker who votes for such a measure.

This, to me is the difference between a "Fair Bus Bill" and a "Bus Bill." Half a loaf, in this case, is not better than none.

Frosting on the Cake

BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

Many great scholars of note are walking encyclopedias on history and the rest of the academic realm, but they are so woefully lacking in any genuine working knowledge of human nature.

Many of them are so "high nose" in their attitude toward mundane facts that it is pitiful and cuts down considerably the overall influence that they exert toward "things as they are."

Psychologists who have a trunk full of diplomas lack, unfortunately, a basic medical education, therefore have blind spots in their analysis of why people behave as they do.

If many wholly respectabe and sincere lifelong students of the history of man and the evolution of all social orders and political systems, had medical training and the astute knowledge about human behavior that every dedicated general practitioner learns by exposure to life in the raw, they would be far better balanced.

On the other hand, too many physicians have no specific training in the basics of psychology. They, therefore, miss many opportunities to enhance their general worth to the confused and bewildered who are not really ill in a pathological sense, but fail sadly to cope with "the everlasting lash of circumstance."

Suffering Induces Change

As we move through the season observed and named by the Church — the Lenten Season — we begin to contemplate again the meaning of the drama surrounding the last days of Jesus.

Rev. Lantis

That swift sequence of events was filled with the whole range of human emotions, from glorious jubilation to pitiful suffering.

The drama is climaxed not in the gloom of merciless defeat, but in the joy of God's triumph over suffering and death.

It was through suffering that God achieved victory through Jesus the Christ.

No one would choose to suffer. We do everything we possibly can to avoid suffering. We watch our diets and our driving; we obey the law and take our medicine. We shout and scream when someone infringes upon our "rights." But even so, suffering comes upon many of us.

Sometimes it is the result of our own way of living; sometimes it falls upon us as the other side of joy—as in the death of loved ones. Sometimes it is just our unexplainable lot.

Suffering can mean victory or defeat depending not upon its size, but upon how we react to it. For instance, sickness has broken the spirit of many whose bodies have recovered. But then it has also brought victory to many others whose bodies have never recovered health. The discovery of the joy of life and the practice of patient endurance have often come upon the sick bed — this is victory through suffering!

There is another kind of suffering, too; one to which Christians have often given themselves voluntarily. That is the suffering that finds those who boldly give themselves to the righteous but unpopular cause. That is the suffering that meets the Christian who dares live by his creed in a world which has its own creeds. But God has for centuries worked through such suffering to make His Spirit and His ways known to us.

We can never be the same, for good or for ill, after serious suffering. The world will never be the same as it was before His suffering.

Rev. Paul A. Lantis

Letters to the Editor on issues of public interest are welcome. They should be written or typed legibly on one side of the paper only and limited to 300 words. Always sign your name and address as some guarantee as the letter may be checked if necessary. The writer's name will not be printed if so requested.

On One Hand . . .

To the Editor:

Certainly an editorial is opinion, and so the case with Mr. J. L. Jones' comment on moral decay. Advocates of censorship, however, deserves more elaborate explanation than opinion allows. This brings me to my point.

Why do "thousands" deplore pornography? What exactly would be the dangers of a "peep show at Yankee Stadium?" What exactly will be the effect of "Candy" upon our children? No one will say exactly what the effects will be, but "thousands" are certain that they will be unmentionably evil and immoral.

In the face of this certainty that pornography yields morally maimed citizens, I must ask, "how does one know this?" I am unaware of any scientific evidence in support of the hypothesis. Moreover, the evidence supplied by proponents of censorship is usually anecdotal in nature, a "common sense" ability to discriminate corruption and purity. Such a flimsy basis for such a far-reaching policy as censorship is inconceivable.

I suggest that those proposing censorship of pornography either load their guns with more potent powder than emotional opinion or quit the field.

P. Thomas Harker

. . . And On The Other

To the Editor:

I would like to commend you for including in the Feb. 25 editorial of The Spectator the editorial by Jenkin L. Jones entitled "This 'Candy' Causes Moral Decay."

It is heartening to find that others besides those in religious leadership are becoming disturbed at the literary filth that is being imposed upon the public, in the name of worthwhile literature, these days.

I sincerely hope we may look forward to other such editorials in an attempt to awaken our parental public to the destructive decay — books and magazines that are becoming increasingly evident on our newsstands everywhere.

Blames AMA For Medicare

To the Editor:

When one considers the various proposals and actions of the American Medical Association, which we must assume speaks for the hospitals of the nation, we are fully convinced that it is they and not the federal government who are forcing Medicare on those of us over 60.

We who contribute to insurance hospital plans that advertise that it is the hospitals' OWN PLAN of insurance, will note with real concern the ever-rising cost of these policies. In this we find the strongest argument for federal Medicare and it's a real incentive to encourage congress to pass it.

A recent Sunday paper carried an account of the proposals now being proposed by the government, by the AMA, and by various sponsors of other such bills. We were amused to note that several of them carried no "need clause," no income restrictions, no real age limit, and no total wealth limitation.

Now for a comparison of this and the treatment that our government now gives our war veterans when they apply for veterans' benefits:

Here is a class of citizens who in many cases fought in wars that made possible the present give-away-governmental rackets that subsidize certain sections of our own and foreign nations, but who are penalized for their efforts by power-mad and penny-pinching national administrations.

The war veteran or his dependent is forced to live on what the government experts have declared poverty incomes. When they apply for veterans benefits they must prove that they are in actual need, are over 65, are disabled, do not have a living income, etc.

Compare that condition with the present give-away-plans for others. Tell me, why are veterans relegated to poverty?

Medicare is tied to a fund (Social Security) that simply does not exist, except on paper, and no one knows how much has been paid in to it, or out of it. No public accounting of it has ever been given the suckers who pay in to it on blind faith alone, with no assurance that when they do reach retirement age there will be anything left for them.

Goldwater was more than right, Social Security needs a real overhaul.

I was very happy to see your Junior Achievement editorial of Feb. 18. I was fortunate enough to win a national Junior Achievement scholarship two years ago and it's helping to finance some of my education here at Miami University.

I'm glad such a progressive paper as yours realizes the value of the Columbus program and is willing to tell others about the excellent job they're doing. Keep up the good work!

I greatly benefited from the Junior Achievement program in Columbus and I hope many more will also. As the Honorable John Davis Lodge said, "Junior Achievement symbolizes our future. If we don't prepare for the future . . . we won't have one."

TELLING A SAD STORY of the ordeals of plastic surgery, Bill Nordin, right, of Franklin Heights Hi-Y failed to convince the seated jury in traffic court last Saturday that he was entitled to damages. It was a moment of victory for Dan Weber, second from left, and his attorneys, Steve Willis and David Mielke, all of Brookhaven Hi-Y. However, Bill's legal eagles, Lynne Bradford, far left, and Sue Freda, wasted no time making an appeal and the arguments will be heard before a Model Supreme Court in Columbus, Apr. 23-25, with jurors selected from Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs in Akron, Columbus, Dayton and Marion. In the right-hand picture Navena Van Gundy of the Groveport Tri-Hi-Club, is accepting legal papers from Judge Alan Schwartzwalder, who presided. Navena served as clerk of courts for the mock trials held each of the past two weeks. She is running for clerk of the Youth in Government legislature and hopes to strengthen her campaign with the record of this experience. Although the official jury from Mifflin Tri-Hi-Y and North Hi-Y found for the defendant, a second jury, returning an unofficial verdict, found for the plaintiff to the tune of $5,000. Judge Schwartzwalder did not find this diverse opinion odd, pointing out that in the actual case the Supreme Court remanded the directed verdict of the lower court back to jury.

Jury Gets Rowe Fish Off The Hook--Maybe

Rowe Fish's legal difficulties aren't over yet.

But he came through with flying colors when he appeared in traffic court Saturday morning with Judge Alan Schwartzwalder presiding.

In spite of the fact that he was his only witness and faced a barrage of testimony from witnesses representing Jack Blott, the jury found for the defendant.

However, an appeal has been filed and before he and his mother can be assured Rowe's latest joyride was not a financial disaster, the case will be heard before the Supreme Court of Ohio.

Rowe's troubles began fairly innocently when Mrs. Fish turned over the family car keys to her 15-year-old son so he could pull it into the driveway for a Saturday morning wax job.

But after Mrs. Fish left the house, the car and keys proved too great a temptation, and Rowe invited a friend, Jack Blott, for a little ride.

The non-licensed driver soon lost control of the car and Jack was seriously injured.

The case hinged upon the "guest statute" of Ohio which allows a rider in an automobile to collect damages only if willful or wanton misconduct is proved.

But this trial ended with a new twist.

When the verdict was in, Judge Schwartzwalder had nothing but the highest of praise for the plaintiff, defendant, attorneys, witnesses and jury.

The three-hour trial had been a part of the Model Judicial Program, sponsored by the YMCA of Columbus and Franklin County.

The facts brought out were those of an actual litigation which, after traveling to the Supreme Court, is back in the lower courts.

But those participating were Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y members of local high schools.

For three months the defendant and his attorneys from Brookhaven prepared their case under the coaching of C. Howard Johnson, county prosecutor, while the plaintiff, his counsel and witnesses built their attack under the supervision of Ralph Talbot, local practicing attorney.

The entry of Ohio Hi-Y's and Tri-Hi-Y's into the judicial field this year is an expansion of the YMCA's Youth In Government program, which began in 1952.

Every spring since, youth delegates have served in a mock legislature in the state chambers, preparing bills for the approval or veto of the youth governor.

Ohio pioneered in this legislative citizenship education program, which is now imitated in 44 states, and is following only Missouri, which added the judicial training project last year.

The Honorable C. William O'Neill, Ohio Supreme Court Justice, is state Youth in Government chairman. For Franklin County Robert Newlon, Columbus attorney, is chairman and lay coordinator and Dick Wilson, executive secretary of Columbus Town and Country Branch YMCA, is staff coordinator.

BRIEFING ON CANCER

WILLIAM KAHN, 2746 Brentwood-rd (left), John D. Herbert, 2528 Lytham-rd, and Paul Werth, 2070 Greenvale-dr, are interested spectators as two surgeons at University Hospital explain a machine which is used during some cancer operations. Describing the function of the device are Dr. Robert Westerheide, 124 King-av, and Dr. William G. Pace, III, 275 Stanberry-av. Dr. Pace is inventor of the perfusion machine which makes it possible for surgeons to operate on some patients who would probably not be able to undergo surgery without it. Occasion was a series of talks and demonstrations on cancer research and treatment given to Columbus businessmen who will lead the cancer crusade later this month. The program was arranged by Dr. Robert M. Zollinger, chief of surgery at University Hospital.

'Hello, How's Everybody? I Would Like A Friend . . .'

What would you do if you hadn't slept for upteen hours and had 415 letters that needed answering?

Take two aspirin and forget to set the alarm?

Maybe you and I would, but not Stelios Stelson.

For every one of Stelson's letters is a plea for friendship . . . and Stelson has no time for rest when there are friends to be made.

"Philippines" is the postmark and "What is America like?" is the question.

It all began last October when Stelson wrote the Philippine ambassador in Washington, D. C., and described his program that he began 11 years ago in other countries.

His program? Winning friends for America via books, paintings and letters. In those 11 years, he has mailed thousands of text books to foreign students and has set up art exchanges between local schools and those abroad.

The Philippine ambassador in turn introduced Stelson's program to his people . . . thus the reason for the overloaded mailbox.

Excerpts from a typical letter follow.

"Hello,

"How's everybody there? I do hope you are all fine. I would like to have a new friend from a far country . . . the United States. I am Mila Abigan. I am 10 years old. We are staying in the city of Manila. There are plenty of people here. The weather is fine now, but sometimes typhoon visit us . . ."

Mila is now learning about the United States and Bonnie Swengr of Zoar, O., is learning about the Philip-

Stelson made the connection.

And he would like to make a few more, about 414 more. American teachers and students are especially in demand, although any interested person is invited to write Stelson at 45 Franklin Park West, Columbus, 43205, O. Each inquiry should contain a stamped, self-addresed envelope.

In order to further promote his program, Stelson has spoken before the West Jefferson Kiwanis, Eastern Sertoma, the Luther League at Canal Winchester, Cambridge Club in Bexley and many other organizations.

How about writing for that pen pal?

Stelson needs the sleep.

PROTECT YOUR FAMILY AGAINST POISONING

AVOID ACCIDENTS

Many common household products are dangerous, especially if accidentally swallowed.

These include certain bleaches, cleaners, furniture polishes, kerosene and other fuels, paints, paint thinners and removers, and the like.

Federal law* requires labels on such products to give you the following information:

- What's in the product that makes it harmful —necessary information for the doctor in case of injury.
- How it can harm—"flammable," "vapor harmful," "poison," etc.
- Special words to flag the hazard, "DANGER," "WARNING," "CAUTION"—and the skull and crossbones symbol if highly toxic.
- What to do to avoid harm, and also first aid instructions, if indicated, in case of accident.
- The statement "KEEP OUT OF THE REACH OF CHILDREN."

ANGELA WILNOW will put her "braves" through an Indian act as her contribution to Aladdin Temple's 15th annual Shrine Circus in Ohio Fairgrounds Coliseum, Columbus, Apr. 1 through 10. The collie dogs are part of the "tribe" which uses tepees, drums and a covered wagon in the unusual act.

Shrine Circus Opens April 1

When springtime arrives, the Shrine Circus can't be far behind.

The fifteenth annual spectacular — a 19-performance, 24-act event — will open Apr. 1 in the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

It will play two or three times daily thereafter through Apr. 10, except Sunday.

Director Richard E. Goudy said the virtually "all new" show is the best since the 12,800 member Columbus-headquartered Aladdin Temple started sponsoring the event back in 1951.

It offers wild animal, dog and pony, acrobatic stunts and feats of skill and daring, plus internationally known trapeze artists.

Pat Kelly, son of the late "king of clowns" Emmit Kelly, will be here along with Columbus' own Al Ross and a dozen other practitioners of buffonery.

In one event, 10 performers will swing from trapezes in all three rings and throughout the sawdust arena.

The 100-piece Aladdin band will lead the grand entry each evening and at Saturday afternoon matinees, playing a concert prior to each show. Local homecoming queens and their courts will be honor guests at the 11 performances.

Special prices will prevail at the remaining eight matinees. Show times are scheduled for 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. each day except Saturday when performances will be given at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.

COFFEE BREAK

Born Leaders Don't Stew Over Cookies

By ADELINE DALEY

I just took a test which asked the question: "Are You a Born Leader?" At first I thought it was a propaganda leaflet from the Girl Scout Council or some civic group, but it turned out to be the type that corporations use to rate executive abilities.

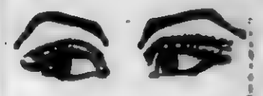
I'm not going to reveal my score, but if General Motors —or the PTA—is looking for a new president, they're going to have to search elsewhere.

My main failing seems to be my inability to make quick decisions, a capability one apparently needs to head a big company, run for Congress, or reach one of the higher callings of life — says a panelist on a TV quiz show.

Honestly, can you imagine Dorothy Kilgallen spending 20 minutes lingering before the cookie section in the supermarket, as I do, trying to decide between Iced Raisins and Macaroons?

I'll bet Clare Boothe Luce doesn't waste her time wavering between large curd or small curd cottage cheese; or crunch-style or creamy peanut butter. I'm a nervous wreck by the time I have to make a choice among the dozens of types of bread—from Pumpernickel to Sandwich White to Swedish Rye.

I keep changing my mind about furniture decor and as a result we have a hodgepodge of Early American, Danish Modern, Late Yugoslavian and Period Icelandic. I can never make up my mind about which dish pattern I like best, but fortunately the kids break the dishes at about the same pace as I keep switching.



These high-powered, resolute executive types probably have no difficulty in hiring or firing personnel, but I can't scratch out names from our telephone directory when I try to bring it up to date. I went into such a trauma this year about what sort of Christmas Cards to select that we didn't send any.

My indecisiveness reaches its height in a restaurant, a fact to which my husband would attest. It's just as well I don't have to decide to buy or sell Anaconda Copper or American Tel and Tel stock because I have to be prompted to make a decision on Chicken Kiev, Veal Scallopini or Tenderloin Tips — before the cook leaves for the night.

Invariably, I wish I had ordered what my husband did. And even after I make an even trade with him, tell me, why does the dinner being served to the couple at the next table always look more appetizing than mine? Am I a born follower?

Here's Good Advice For All Ham Lovers!

Does sitting down to a Swift's Premium Ham dinner Easter Sunday sound like a delicious thought? The thought is even more delicious when the ham is free.

Next week's Spectator will tell you how you might serve your family a ham dinner on Easter simply by depositing coupons at many of your favorite local busi-

It's That Time

Spring is just a short distance down the road. I know. The wild ducks have started dropping in on our pond to tell us they are going ahead to Canada, and again invite us up this summer.

Out in the garden the jonquils keep sticking their heads up as though they are in a race with the crocus to see which one gets the pleasure of delighting us first.

Underneath their winter bed of straw the strawberries are beginning to extend their arms and stretch themselves into wakefulness.

The big squirrel that lives in our oak tree has a more than usual bounce as he sits up and waves his bushy tail as we go down the driveway.

Locally we can be thankful for a not too hard winter but even so we can be thankful for winter with all its beauty and even more for the fact that now comes spring.

Firefighters Honor Harrison

An appreciative and thoroughly surprised firefighter, Don Harrison of the Whitehall Fire Department, was the recipient of the first annual life-saving award presented by the Franklin County Firefighters Association, at its Monday night meeting.

His skilful action in rescuing a little girl entangled in the under-structure of an auto, result of a freak accident last August, and his prompt mouth-to-mouth resuscitation was credited with saving the life of three-year-old Denise Strait.

The award, named for Fire Chief Louis Sanford, of Sharon Township Fire Department who will supply the plaques, will be given annually to a firefighter "for outstanding action in the saving of life."

Denise, her parents, older sister and brothers were also present Monday night, and Denise, completely recovered from her injuries, added a gift of her own — a silver Saint Florian medal, patron saint of firefighters.

Harrison has also been proposed to received a national lifesaving award for his action last August.

The Whitehall emergency squad, answering the call last August, arrived to find a car had rolled backward down a driveway, and Denise was caught in the underframe.

Neighbors' efforts to release her by jacking up the car were increasing the pressure on her badly twisted neck and head.

Harrison, from under the car, directed squadmen and neighbors to lift the auto while he released her. And, since her injured neck made artificial resuscitation impossible, used mouth-to-mouth technique for long minutes on the way to hospital, until her breathing resumed.

Denise suffered a fractured skull, internal injuries and a collapsed lung.

Whitehall Fire Chief Arthur Reddy, in crediting Harrison with saving her life said, "Many times we think we possibly saved a life, other times we think we probably did—but this time it was sure. Harrison did save this little girl's life."

Dimson Dwellers Irked By Trucks

Stormy protests by Dimson-dr residents over the mud and street damage caused by heavy trucks using Dimson for access to the Fairlane Apartments construction site launched a busy Whitehall Council session Tuesday night that also saw:

- Overriding of Mayor William Holzhause's vetoes of the recent "salaries" and "auditor" ordinances by unanimous vote.
- Approval of plans to drain the north portion of the city park.
- And approval of a request for rezoning Valerio Heights to permit construction of two to four-family

A meeting was also arranged with the finance committee and the mayor for Saturday morning, to analyze figures of the city's financial status and determine whether or not Collingwood street improvements can be completed this summer, at the same time the relief sewer is installed.

Since the only access to the site of the huge Fairlane Apartments project, now under construction north of Main, from Country Club Village east, is from Dimson-dr East, heavy trucks and cement mixers must use the route.

The street, never intended for such heavy traffic, is damaged, residents say, curbs are broken, and trucks also park along the street.

Residents of Dimson-dr North and Dimson-dr South also complain, for trucks must turn from Country Club-rd on one of those streets to travel to Dimson-dr E, from where they can reach the construction site.

Service Director Joseph Shannon said that weather has prevented the developers from cutting their access roads from E. Main-st and Fairway-blvd, but that this would be done in from four to six weeks.

He added that Irving Schottenstein, a partner of Fairlane Apartments, had agreed to be financially responsible for damage to the street and curbs, and had deposited $500 with the city against any repairs that might be needed.

Council Tuesday night passed an ordinance limiting parking to the east side of Dimson-dr East, and Safety Director Darrell Todd promised to instruct police to enforce speed limits on the street.

Council unanimously overrode Mayor Holzhause's vetoes of two ordinances, passed Feb. 16 and vetoed Feb. 24.

One made the position of city auditor a full time position, incorporated the duties of tax commissioner in his job, and abolished the post of deputy auditor.

The second ordinance raised the salaries of city officials. The mayor's annual pay was upped to $10,500, the city solicitor's will be $12,500; city auditor, $10,000, and the city treasurer, $2400. Councilmen's salary remains at $1200.

A resolution to drain the north portion of Orton L. Davis Memorial Park, passed by council, will pave the way for development of the recreation area.

A storm sewer will be installed to drain the area and, when Etna-rd is extended easterly, storm sewers and other utilities will be available.

A rezoning ordinance for Velerio Heights, located on the north side of Doney-st between Robinwood and Maplewood-avs, will permit construction of two to four-family buildings in the area.

Planning and Zoning Commission had previously approved the project.

Whitehall 'Riot' Case Is Decided

Douglas Oliver, 22, 807 S Yearling-rd, appeared in Columbus Municipal Court Tuesday, on charges arising out of the Jan. 8 near-riot at the Stop Forty Restaurant parking lot.

Oliver was charged with interfering with a police officer, resisting arrest and two counts of assault and battery. Municipal Court Judge Fred L. Donnally found him guilty of all charges and imposed a penalty of $25 and court costs on each charge and a three-day term in the Columbus Workhouse.

In all, six Whitehall residents were charged as a result of the incident. Two cases remain to be heard in Columbus Municipal Court.

School Buses Topic Of Public Forum

"School Buses For All" will be the topic of discussion for the session of the Jewish Center Public Affairs Forum to be held Wednesday, Mar. 24, 8:30 p.m. in the Adult Lounge.

An examination of the use of public funds for private transit will be the focus of the session. Questions are: Should private school pupils be furnished the same transportation as public school pupils? Is bus service an integral part of the cost of education?

Dr. G. Weir Hartman, executive director Columbus Area Council of Churches; Donald J. Kegelmeyer, chairman, Greater Columbus District, Citizens for Educational Freedom, and another legislative panel expert will make an analysis of the effects of the school bus question on the doctrine of the Separation of Church and State.

Burt Schildhouse, chairman, indicated as much information as possible will be presented by the panel, in order that individuals attending will be able to make their own choices about solutions to the questions.

East Broad School Marks 50th Year

Whitehall's city government, as compared to government in the area of 50 years ago, will be the program subject Thursday night, Mar. 18, for East Broad Street School's PTA session, starting at 8.

The program is part of the golden anniversary of subjects being discussed during the current school year, the 50th since the first school was built on the E. Broad-st site across from Town and Country Shopping Center.

Mayor William Holzhause has been invited to explain the functions of the Whitehall government.

In the event that a conflict in engagements prevents the mayor's appearance, Service Director Joseph Shannon will be the principal speaker.

Bexley Guild Meets Mar. 25

Bill Arter, vice-president, creative director, Byer and Bowman Advertising Agency, will address the Bexley Area Arts Guild Thursday, Mar. 25, 8 p.m.

His topic will be "Watercolor Painting Outdoors."

An every-member show will be held by the guild at Jeffrey Mansion, Apr. 25 to May 1.

New guild officers, elected last month are, Fred Dutcher, president; James Merkle, vice-president; Mrs. David B. Westwater, secretary; and Mrs. J. Roth Crabbe, treasurer.

Prints On Exhibit At Scottwood Community

The ancient art of printmaking requires many skills. An exhibit by masters of this art is on display at Scottwood Community Church, 3330 Scottwood-rd and features work by 11 American and European print-makers.

On loan from the Schumacher Gallery of Capital University, the show includes a lithograph of Georges Rouault which depicts Christ's descent from the cross. This is one of several works donated to the Gallery by Bexley resident, Prof. David Owens.

William E. Griffiths, church pastor, invites the entire community to view the exhibit.

Following is a list of the artists represented and titles of their work:

Georges Rouault, lithograph, "Misere Series," 19th Century French; Francisco, Goya, etching, "Horrors of War," 19th Century Spanish; Marc Chagal, lithograph, 20th Century French; Maurice de Vlaminck, "Crepuscule," lithograph, 20th Century French; Alexander Calder, lithograph, 20th Century American.

Poelo, lithograph, "Head Study," 20th Century French; Y. N. Whaley, woodcut, Contemporary 20th Century American; Joseph Hirsch, lithograph, "Soft and Lows," 20th Century American; P. Lapoujade, etching, "Emeute" Contemporay 20th Century French; Louis Bastin, etching, "Blue Boy," 20th Century Swedish, and Walter Williams, Serigraph, "Sunflowers," 20th Century American.

PACKERS STRIKE

Ohio Packing Co., rear of 3245 E. Fifth-av, was the scene of a walkout of 125 members of the Meat Cutters Local 346, Sunday afternoon. The union rejected a company offer on a new contract. Hospital insurance and wages reportedly were under dispute.

Special Zoning Appeals To Be Heard Mar. 26

Two East area appeals for zoning variances will be up for public hearing at 2 p.m. Friday, Mar. 26 in Room 200, 67 N. Front-st.

S. I. Paris Applicating Co., 1595 W. Fifth-av, has asked for variance of side yard regulations to build a garage on property at 3905 Astor-av, owned by Delbert Poole.

Carl Hergersell, 906 S. Nelson-rd, wants a permit to expand a welding shop at that address.

Cindy Seaman Receives Award For Saving Child

Cindy Seaman, 11, of 4555 Ellery-dr, received an "AAA distinguished service award" Wednesday for saving a classmate from possible serious injury under the wheels of a truck.

C. L. Dumaree, assistant superintendent of Columbus schools, made the presentation on behalf of the Columbus Automobile Club, of which he is a member of the board of trustees.

Ceremonies were held at 10 a.m. in an assembly of Leawood Elementary School, 1677 S. Hamilton-rd, where Cindy is a sergeant in the School Safety Patrol.

The incident for which Cindy received the award occurred Mar. 3 as school was being dismissed. Details as reported by Miss Faith Yoakum, School Safety Patrol Supervisor, to Patrolman Steve McDonald of the Columbus Police Department were:

Cindy was on duty with the patrol when she saw Richard McIntosh, eight, playing on a wire fence. As Richard suddenly left the fence and started to run into Hamilton-rd at Dundee, the young Safety Patrol officer ran after the lad and stopped him, with a truck less than 50 feet away.

Other witnesses to the incident confirming Cindy's prompt action were Kim Wilson, Linda Lowther and Leslie Oravec, patrol members.

Will Address Students

RON TRIMS THEN DISTRICT CHAMP WARRIORS WHOOP IT UP!

IT WASN'T too long after the final buzzer sounded Saturday night at the Coliseum that Eastmoor guard Ron Bolin (left) took his handy scissors to the nets that served E-M well in a triple-overtime 73-71 win over Linden. The victory earned the Warriors a ticket to Friday's Columbus Regional play. Shortly later, a well-drenched Bill Courtney (center, white shirt) joined his jubilant cagers for this wild locker room celebration (picture at right). Jerry "Boom-Boom" Groves, whose two free throws wrapped it up for E-M, rightly clutches the District trophy in center foreground. (Staff photos by Jack Wittenmeier. Bids Deadline For Sherwood School Set Columbus School Board Tuesday set an Apr. 29 deadline for receiving bids for the new Sherwood Junior High.

The school will be built this summer at the northern edge of Shady Lane Elementary School site, just north of Livingston-av.

The school will relieve Walnut - Ridge Junior - Senior High, as well as house the expected increase in student population in the rapidly developing area.

Spotlight On Youth As Federal Money Starts To Flow

As the City of Columbus sat biding its time (none too patiently) for the go-ahead on its application for federal funds with which to establish the Neighborhood Youth Corps, the scent of other federal monies was strong in the air.

Two weeks ago a Youth Opportunity Center was set up at the Ohio Employment Service; later in the week it was announced that Franklin County would receive over $2 million to help educate children of low income families, and on Sunday the "Head Start" project was kicked-off by Sargent Shriver.

The Center, one of 105 which will eventually network the country, is designed to provide help for the unemployed and unskilled youth between 16 and 21 years of age.

According to Frank Avren, public relations director for OES, the job will be one of testing, training and placement.

Although a staff of 35 is authorized for the local Center, it is now operating at only about one-third strength, and most of the personnel have been drawn from the regular employe staff.

First In Nation

Avren stated that this type of program is nothing new to Ohio, emphasizing it is the only state in the nation that already has two training schools in operation.

He was referring to the Southern Ohio Training Camp in Jackson and the Mahoney Valley Vocational Training School at Youngstown.

"We already offer over 30 different courses," he stated, rattling off welding, automobile mechanics, typing and shorthand, nurses aid training and a class for chefs as a few.

The Youth Opportunity Centers, particularly designed to prepare the disadvantaged for a place in society, are under the supervision of the Department of Labor, but will be closely connected with other local programs set up under the Economic Opportunity Act.

One Of Six Counties

Franklin County is one of the six Ohio counties designated to receive educational assistance through bills now in Congress.

It was declared eligible for such help when it was shown that there are 9,227 children in the county between ages 5 to 17 (public school age) from homes with an income of less than $2,000 annually.

As now under consideration the legislation provides that with more than three percent of its enrollment members of such families, would be eligible to receive a sum equal to one-half the average cost of educating a pupil in Ohio public schools for each such child in the district.

The monies must be used for programs and projects (including construction of necessary school facilities — and gyms for intramural games are not considered necessary) which meet the special needs of districts having a high concentration of children from low-income homes.

Among these needs are pilot projects for supplementary educational programs, enrichment programs, guidance and counseling, remedial instruction, development of dual-enrollment programs, specialized instruction in scientific subjects and foreign languages and provision of audio-visual aids for both the class room student and home-study courses.

The "Head-Start" program, one more weapon designed for the war on poverty, but tailored for the pre-school tot literally has a head-start in Columbus.

At the first of the year, under the auspices of the Urban League, a pilot program was begun in Columbus.

According to Chester Jones of the League, the initial acceptance of the "demonstration" program for four-year-olds indicates the desirability of similar programs.

However, he foresees that a much larger agency, such as City or County Boards of Education, will take over the extensive program made possible through the Economic Opportunity Act.

It is anticipated that the experience of the pilot school will be useful to formulate a plan upon which to base an application for U.S. assistance.

As other EOA projects, "Head Start" will be 90 percent federally supported with 10 percent matching funds raised by the benefitting communities.

'FLIGHTY' IS THE WORD FOR THE HARRISONS

They Won't Keep Their Feet On The Ground

ONLY A BLIZZARD on Jan. 15 kept Becky Harrison from soloing on her 16th birthday. But she kept the date a week later and now holds her student license. After another 15 hours of instruction from Harry Jordan, the manager of the South Columbus Airport (pictured with her at left) she will be "checked-out" for the regular pilot license which will remove the restriction imposed upon students —that of no passengers allowed. In the right hand picture her father, Virgil Harrison of Canal Winchester, congratulates Mrs. Nellie Rasor of Brookline after she was crowned Queen of the Ohio Flying Farmers at the Columbus Plaza recently. Harrison is a member of the board of directors of the air-minded group, while Becky is secretary of the Teens, the sons and daughters who share the interests of their parents.

One might expect Becky Harrison to go around with her head in the clouds.

After all, she's just a teenager.

But it's a little rattling to realize that her father, Virgil, veteran farmer and acknowledged conservative of the Canal Winchester School Board, also is up in the air a lot of the time.

One must face it — the Harrisons are plainly a "flighty" family.

A few weeks ago Harrison stood at the South Columbus Airport, and watched Becky take off in the family Aeronca Chief, circle the field and land with the aplomb of an old pro.

Maybe she didn't set her "tail" down as neatly as her Dad might have wished, but he was still pretty proud.

Becky was just a few days past her 16th birthday and was soloing after less than 11 hours' instruction.

He well remembered that back in 1948 when the "fly bug" bit him, his instructor felt it judicious to remain at his side until Harrison had had the benefit of 18 hours' training.

The Canal Winchester sophomore explained her avid interest in flying by saying, "I just grew up flying—it seems it's always been a part of my life."

And she wa..n't exaggerating.

As a very little girl she was accustomed to a place on her mother's lap as Mr. and Mrs. Harrison took off in their light, two-place single engine craft.

To the Harrisons, good weather and a weekend mean but one thing — the wild blue yonder.

Their longest trips are usually the monthly "fly-ins" of the Flying Farmers of Ohio, who convene at a distant point to picnic, talk shop and meet friends, old and new.

To hear Becky speak casually of the interests of a friend in South Dakota, and of another in Canada makes it apparent that memberships in the teen organization of the International Flying Farmers includes an opportunity to shed provincialism not accorded to the ordinary teenager living on an Ohio farm.

Currently, Becky is reluctant to predict whether her flying will remain an avocation or become a vocation.

However, she is quick to pont out that commercial aviation is one more field in which the fairer sex has been successful.

Plainly spell-bound by the tale of round-the-world flight by Mrs. Jerrie Mock when she spoke before the Flying Farmers state convention Saturday night, Becky looked a little as if she, too, may have a dream.

Mr. Harrison, you'd best watch your little girl.

After she met Mrs. Mock, you may never be able to keep her down on the farm.

Lenten Casserole Blends Cheddar Cheese And Rice

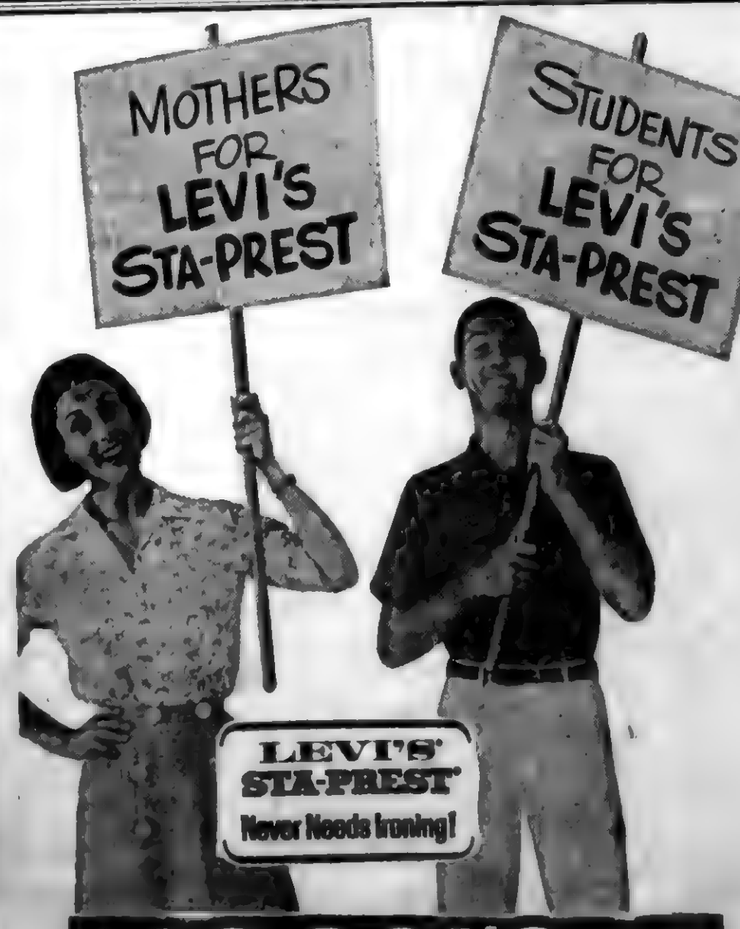
This menu is an example of how the foods we eat work together. The protein in rice is made even more useful in the body when accompanied by the protein in milk. Because foods do work together to supply nutrients, it is essential for good nutrition to eat the recommended daily number of servings from each of the four food groups.

The daily recommended amounts are: two or more servings of meat, four or more servings of fruits and vegetables, four or more servings of breads and cereals, three or more glasses of milk for children, four or more glasses for teen-agers, and two or more glasses for adults

CHEESE-RICE CASSEROLE

- 2 cups coarsely chopped Bermuda onion
- 1½ cups sliced celery
- 1 cup uncoo'ced rice
- ⅛ cup butter (⅛ stick)
- 1 one-pound can tomatoes
- 1 three-ounce can sliced mushrooms, undrained
- 2 cups water
- 2 chicken or vegetable bouillon cubes
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese (⅛ pound)

Sauté onion, celery and rice in butter until rice is lightly browned, stirring occasionally. Add remaining ingredients, except cheese. Bring to a boil. Arrange alternate layers of rice mixture and 1½ cups cheese in a two-quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 30 minutes or until rice is tender. Sprinkle with remaining cheese and return to oven to melt cheese. Makes six servings.



Sometimes the simplest combination of ingredients makes the most delicious eating as in this easy sandwich. Spread enriched hamburger buns with pasteurized processed cream cheese spread with pimiento and olives. Top the cheese with lettuce and crumbled cooked bacon and thinly sliced tomato.

JEFF HOCKMAN TALKING TO HIMSELF THESE DAYS

Youth Appointed Grass-Roots Ambassador

Jeff Hockman goes around mumbling to himself these days.

And much of his jabber has a strange ring.

No, the bright young man from Canal Winchester who is a OSU senior hasn't flipped his lid.

It's just that he's deep in a "do-it-himself" program to get on speaking terms with the French language.

His time is limited, and he knows it.

The first of April, Hockman leaves mid-Ohio to live in France for eight months as a International Farm Youth Exchange student.

He is one of 85 students from the United States chosen to represent his country abroad in a program setup by the 4-H organizations.

'Grass-Roots' Project

He explained, "It's an effort to seek understanding of other nationalities at a grass-roots level."

Jeff became interested in becoming an IFYE (pronounced 'Iffy") after his college roommate went to Argentina under the program last year.

He made application with the state agency and was granted an interview which resulted in his appointment.

The good news came in February, and since then it has been a hectic schedule.

Between submitting to shots guaranteed to protect him from everything but the Folies Bergere, Jeff has undergone an intensive briefing program at Ohio State.

He has attended lectures on U.S. foreign policy, geography, history and farm policy and cooperatives. He has prepared himself to answer questions on his country's part in United Nations and brought up to date on the Common Market and NATO. (Another week of briefing is scheduled in Washington before he sails.)

Jeff Hockman

Ready For 'Shock'

"And I've been groomed for the cultural shock," Hockman added, explaining that the change of pace in itself is a rude awakening to many travelers. (Hustle and bustle are just not a part of the Frenchman's life.)

He admits that a challenge will be presented when he is asked to justify the racial problems of today to Frenchmen who are known to be color-blind. He also foresees a problem created by the differences between President Johnson and President DeGaulle.

However, Hockman, who is a history major, believes that the past can be used to explain the present, and that historically the U.S. position in such matters can be explained. "I'll have to hit the 'why's,'" he stressed.

"The one thing I must do is to remain open-minded," he said thoughtfully, "and never forget my country will be judged by what I do and say."

He will spend a month each with seven rural families and one month in an urban community.

"An effort is made to place us with families of a wide economic range," he added.

Kennedy Chains For Dads

Jeff, who hopes to enter law school after his return, is going armed with "bread and butter" gifts. His fiancee, whom he describes as "most understanding," has made aprons for the mothers of the homes he will visit, and he has purchased Kennedy key chains for the fathers.

He has promised to send back to The Spectator his impressions of France and its people as he finds them. These reports will be printed in this paper.

Hockman is looking for the best from his hosts, and undoubtedly will find it.

"Other exchange students have repeatedly told me that they protest our policies, not our people," he said, explaining his optimism.

This is a good time to take a careful look at your houseplants. Remove any leaves showing disease or insect damage. Avoid overwatering and overfeeding plants during these dull months. As the days get longer and new growth becomes apparent, a little plant food is in order.

As soon as your Amaryllis begins to sprout, you can transfer it to a 65-to-75-degree room in good light. For the first week or so, keep it out of direct sunlight. Water sparingly at first. Then when the flower stalk and leaves begin to really develop, give it plenty. After the flowers fade, cut the stalk near the base and continue to grow the plants in a warm spot in a sunny window.

PERMIT SUSPENDED

The carry-out license issued to Frances Nebbioso, dba Mama Nebb's, 59 Mill-st, Gahanna, has been suspended for seven days by the Ohio Board of Liquor Control. The penalty is effective at noon, Wednesday, Mar. 17 and will end noon, Wednesday, Mar. 24.

Aquinas Loss Marked End Of Long Era

An era of basketball wonder for ancient Aquinas High last week when Sunbury Big Walnut squeezed out a 64-61 class 'A' District semi-final victory in one overtime at the Coliseum.

Big Walnut's pint-sized guards, Darrell Wilson and Bill Owen, sealed the Terriers' fate in the overtime by scoring seven of the Eagles' nine points.

THE TERRIERS,' closing out with an 8-12 finale, outgoaled the Eagles 24-21 (43 percent from the floor) but hit only half of 26 free throw opportunities for the big difference.

All-City southpaw Jim Duckworth's 17 led Aquinas while Pat Noles had 11 and Jack Radich 10 for the history-making Terrier quintet, coached by red-topped Lou Mott. Aquinas High will close its doors at the end of the cerrent '64-'65 school term.

Hosfeld Realtors Open New Office

Children Help Children With Variety Show

Twenty Bexley elementary school children recently proved that giving a helping hand to someone less fortunate is not always limited to adults.

Last Sunday, Mar. 14, they planned, produced and performed in a variety show for crippled children. All proceeds went to the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children for their current Easter Seal campaign.

The show was the brainchild of Tommy and Jefferey Harriman, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn K. Harriman, 2492 Seneca Park-pl. They had a combo and wanted to do a show for crippled children.

Then neighborhood children, ages three to 13, liked the idea and contributed acts of their own. A variety show was born.

As interest grew, two shows were scheduled, both at the Seneca Park-pl address. Admission charged was 10 cents for children and 20 cents for adults. Total receipts were turned over to W. J. Treece, executive director of the society.

'Void In Law' Adds Cost To Stolen Items

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

How much is Felix Peterson's tape recorder worth?

To Peterson, it represents many hours of hard work on his job as janitor in a downtown motor motel.

To a suspected thief, object of a local police hunt, it was worth about $25 at a local pawnbroker's office.

To Detective Sgt. Bruno it represented, first, routine investigation. Then, many hours of his own time while off duty in an effort to help Peterson recover his property.

The suspect, according to Peterson, once resided with him on the Hilltop. He returned, Peterson told The Spectator, to take 21 items that belonged to Peterson, including the tape recorder.

Peterson becomes nearly incoherent with rage when he relates details of the grand theft.

Besides the tape recorder, he lost the following items: tapes, microphone, alarm clock, sweeper-polisher, cigarette lighter, shoes, table cover, fisherman's knife, ashtrays, watchband, radio, two electric razors, electric iron, towels, a ring, razor cord, three Christmas candles, bus tickets and money.

Peterson discovered some of the items in a local pawnbroker's office. The tape recorder was there.

The pawnbroker says Peterson was lucky the recorder hadn't been sold.

Peterson says he had to pay $37 to redeem his own property.

Sgt. Bruno says Peterson, by proving ownership, could have recovered his property through a replevin action.

A prominent lawyer confirms this. There is a catch, however, which may be one reason Peterson is aroused by the whole situation.

Usual costs in a replevin action, the attorney said, might add up to: filing fee, $12; appraisal fee, $6; attorney fee, $25 (minimum). Often this is more than the article is worth.

In addition, to take possession of the disputed property prior to a court decision, it is necessary to post a bond in the amount of twice the value of the property.

Peterson, who speaks broken English, bitterly maintains that a situation such as this "defeats the Constitution and its guarantee of safety and security in our homes and our property."

Potentially, what happened to Peterson, victim of a thief, could happen to anyone in Franklin County, according to several attorneys queried by The Spectator.

They also pointed out that Peterson is a victim of geography.

In many cities throughout the country, Peterson might have found relief in a Small Claims Court. In Philadelphia, for instance, total cost to Peterson for recovery of his property would have been a filing fee of about $2.50.

Mayor George W. Twyford of Reynoldsburg is pushing for establishment of a Small Claims Court here. State Senator Richard B. Metcalf attempted the same thing several years ago.

Mayor Twyford is optimistic. He says Peterson, like many other Franklin County residents, is a victim of a "void in our legal system in Franklin County."

Peterson agrees, vehemently. Others are opposed. And that evokes a question:

"How much is Felix Peterson's, or anyone's, tape recorder worth?"

COURT HOUSE CENTER WANTS YOUR NUMBER

Tucked away in a remote basement room of the County Court House is a mass of new machinery.

Under the guardianship of James Spadafore, these machines collect and [illegible] facts with the efficiency of a harvester attacking a field of corn.

And if you are one of the 15,000 students attending Madison Local, Reynoldsburg, Hilliard or Jefferson-Lincoln schools, you may as well face the facts.

These machines have your number.

Last fall, the data-processing center was established by the Franklin County Board of Education, and since then it's been out with the old and in with the new.

New Look For Reports

Gone are the old-fashioned report cards and in their place is a slip of paper from an accounting machine.

Gone are the hours spent by teachers in compiling tedious statistical reports. With a flick of the switch, the same material is recorded.

And gone to the county coffers from the local school districts is $1 a year for each child in the system.

However, the consensus seems to be that it is a buck well spent.

For example, in one of the aforementioned schools, six-week attendance reports were formerly the responsibility of two secretaries.

Under the old system, the first task took both women two weeks to complete. Now, one secrtary is through the job in six hours.

It's Watching You

Statistics are so easy to compile through the new system that some teachers and students may even feel that "Uncle's eye" is upon them.

In a matter of minutes, the machines can provide guidance counselors with the names of all students who have received failing or incomplete grades. Administrators can and do call for lists that pinpoint the teacher with a penchant for flunking a high percentage of students or one who hands out A's like handbills.

And next year, with the aid of leased time from the computers of the Ohio Board of Education, a chore that can occupy a secretary or two for the entire summer vacation can be cleaned up in a matter of hours.

This is a complicated procedure of setting up schedules for each high school student.

Another list that can be furnished by the machines is that of honor rolls. However, according to Spadafore, the Center provides only the information that the schools demand. To date, there is too much variance in what each school considers honor roll grades to allow them to be prepared economically through automation.

Extra Day Forecast

One little trick the machines have mastered may not thrill all students.

At the end of the year, a workshop is usually provided to allow teachers to bring permanent records up to date. With the wonders of data processing available, small gum labels are spit out, with all pertinent information printed on them.

As it will take relatively little time to adhere these labels to the records (they don't even have to be licked) Tom Quick forecasts one more classroom day for teachers AND students.

Oh well, kids, you might have expected it. No machine is perfect.

TRAINING AIDS TINY TOT

ANN PULSE flashes a pixie smile as she shows her occupational therapist she can put the sailor in the right place (with just a little help). Ann, three-year-old daughter of Mrs. Gerald Pulse, 299 S. Ashburton-rd, is cerebral palsied, and is learning to perform basic arm and hand motions through the use of a manipulative toy. She is one of 70 children who attend the Treatment Center of The Franklin County Society for Crippled Children—supported by Easter Seals. The occupational therapist is Mrs. Robert Goddard of Worthington.

Are Readied 'Glove Plans

The annual Golden Gloves boxing tournament will be held in the East High School auditorium Mar. 22, 25, 29, and Apr. 1, with the entry deadline set for Mar. 20 at 10 a.m.

Entry blanks for the tourney can be obtained by calling BR. 4-9312 and physical examinations will take place Saturday, Mar. 20, for entries in the open and novice divisions.

Boxers who have reached their 26th birthday will not be able to compete while candidates who are 21 must enter the open division. Advance tickets can be obtained at Samuel Jewelers, 16 E. Town-st.

Crusader Basketball Squad Feted Players, Reminisced

Capital University's basketball squad honored its leading point maker, its leading rebounder and its leading free throw shooter last week and Senior Co-Captain Dave Veenendaal was named Most Valuable Player.

Hilliard's Jim DeBerry, who was able to play in but three games until a knee injury struck him down, was named captain-elect for the the 1965-66 season.

VEENENDAAL tossed in more points than the next two Capital scorers combined. His 459 total was but three short of Bob Bernlohr's 462 season record set 10 years ago. The Harper Woods, Mich., product set three new season standards and tied a game record.

His 177 field goals eclipsed Bernlohr's record of 175. His point per game average of 22.95 topped Bernlohr's school mark of 22. Veen was high game scorer 16 times (in 21 contests), a total that downed Mike Outcalt's record of 15 games in 1956-57. In addition, his 15 (of 17) free throw attempts in the finale against Marietta tied a record he now shares with three others.

Veenendaal also owned individual highs in every category of the year: points scored, 38 against Muskingum; field goals scored, 16 against Muskingum; free throws scored, 15 against Marietta; free throws attempted, 17 against Marietta; rebounds, 18, twice, against Ohio Northern and Oberlin.

HIS 80.2 percent FT average (on 105 of 131) was tops among regulars. He also hauled down the most rebounds, 223, for the best average per game, 11.2, and was leading rebounder in 13 games.

In addition to the "Most Improved" laurels, Joe Beseeker was the team's top floor shooting leader, canning 51.1 percent of his shots (92 of 180) and of a total of 850 game minutes, he played the most—740 of them. He also set a game record, against Ohio Northern, when he connected on 12 of 13 field goal attempts.

Drewes, Cap's steady sixth man, also took a FT trophy. His 79.7 percent foul shooting (59 of 74) was but half a percent behind Veenendaal.

In site of a below 500 record (10 wins, 11 losses), the Crusaders as a team set two new records: game field goal shooting (59 percent of 36 of 61 attempts against Wilmington) and in season field goal shooting, 42.8 percent (versus 41 percent in the 1956-57 season).

This edition of the Reaganeers proved to be the second highest scoring combine in Capital history with 1638 points and 78 points per game average was the fourth highest.

DAVE MUMAU, Sandusky's contribution, ended his playing days with a new career free throw standard of 79 percent for future Cap players to shoot at. Mumau, who already owns the school season record of FT excellence, scored a total of 634 points in three years.

John Beach, senior co-captain from Warren, ascended to the top of the "800 Club" with a four year output of 896 points. Only five other players have ever scored more.

Coach Duane Pelkey's JV squad named Columbus South product Paul Hunt as its most valuable member. The JV free throw award went to Mike McGrath, formerly of Columbus Aquinas.

Point-Stingy Coshocton Next Warrior Barrier

By LARRY O'HARRA

Eastmoor's rugged and revamped Warriors picked themselves up by the bootstraps at the end of the regular cage campaign and haven't let up since, copping a Central District "AA" co-championship slot along with South last week via a thrilling 73-71 triple-overtime victory over speedy Linden in the tourney finale.

Jerry "Go-Go" Groves dazzled a packed house with his ball-handling wizardry all tourney long but he reallly captured their hearts by sinking two clutch-ridden foul shots with seven seconds remaining in the third overtime session for the clinching points that gave E-M its first-ever District title share and a 15-6 season slate.

THE WARRIORS looked like champs in regulation time after the shifty Groves potted two charities with 1:15 left, giving E-M a cozy 67-63 cushion, but Linden rallied right back and knotted the count at 69-all on Terry Guice's 27-footer.

Gary Cochran's last-second tip-in stab went in but was ruled out by the officials, who felt the E-M forward didn't have possession for a required shot, thus sending the game into overtime.

Linden held the ball in the overtime sessions, seeking only the good percentage shots, but it was the spunky Groves who settled all hash with his two fouls in the third session and a key rebound 14 seconds later.

Steve Howell's 25 markers helped him to a new District scoring record of 132 points in five outings, eclipsing the old record of 113 held by Grove City's Mike Gregg (six games) last winter.

HOWELL also had 17 important caroms while Doug Cramer grabbed 15. Gary Cochran contributed 14 markers and some gratifying defense to accent 14 tallies by steady Ron Bollie and 12 more by the sparkling Groves.

Turning to Friday's 7 p.m. contest with twice-thwarted Coshocton (21-2), Eastmoor boss Bill Courtney is wary. "Getting back to reality is the biggest problem right now," commented the soft-spoken redhead, a veteran of seven years at the Weyant-av school.

"Coshocton is very strong defensively, and they're well-coached — they run a patterned offense and they use an effective man-to-man press all over the court," he added.

COURTNEY saw the Redskins scalp Steubenville earlier in the season behind the 43-point scoring of 6' All-Ohio candidate John Dunlop, currently averaging 23-5 each outing.

Drawing the unenviable job of guarding the Redskin ace is quick-handed Gary Cochran of the Warriors. "Coshocton likes to hold onto the ball for the percentage shot and they slow down the game's tempo," adds the E-M chief, who also compared the Redskin personnel to that of Linden's scrappy crew. "We'll have to form our offensive patterns before we reach mid-court since their press starts when the ball hits the bottom of their net."

The Redskin offense features good-shooting forwards, a 6'5 single postman, and guards capable of hitting from outside. Heading that cast is Dunlop, equally adept at guard or forward for the Cardinal Conference kings.

SIX-FOOT Ed Neiss (10.6), 5'8 Jerry Stenner (six ppg.), 3'2 Andy Rucker (10.0) and 6'5 Lee Johnson (7.0) round out the starting lineup for Coshocton while 6' 210-pound footballer Ken Kempf and 6'2 Tom Hamilton are the top subs.

Courtney will counter with All-City selections Steve Howell (21.0) and 5'7 Jerry Groves (16.5), Cochran (12.0), Ron Bollie (11.0) and steadfast southpaw Doug Cromer (11.0), the club's second-leading rebounder to date.

Courtney finds no comparison in this season's club and his '61-'62 quintet that copped a City co-championship with Linden after a 16-1 regular season.

"THEY'RE TWO different ball clubs altogether," mused Red. "This year's club is a tournament outfit while the '61-'62 squad was a seasonal club. I've been working with most of these boys for three seasons now and I know their potential. If we come back down to earth this week and play heads-up defense tomorrow night, we'll be right in there," concluded the Warrior mentor.

'RED' ROOTS 'EM ALL THE WAY HOME

REBOUND!

JERRY - C'MERE

TIGHTEN IT UP!

OVERTIME

THIS STARTED IT—Eastmoor's Jerry (Boom-Boom) Groves was a pretty popular fellow when the final gun sounded Saturday and the Warriors had packed away the AA District championship. Above, Groves is tackled by teammate Ron Bollie who was quickly joined by E-M teammates and some 30 to 40 fans, all of whom piled atop the 5'7" cager. Jerry eventually made it to the top of the jubilant E-M shoulders which carted him back to the trophy presentations.

ALL MINE—Eastmoor's Ron Bollie put on everything but the bow as he wrapped up this rebound Saturday night as the Warriors eked past Linden, 73-71, in overtime to win the AA District title.

Entry blanks for the tourney can be obtained by calling BR. 4-9312 and physical examinations will take place Saturday, Mar. 20, for entries in the open and novice divisions.

Boxers who have reached their 26th birthday will not be able to compete while candidates who are 21 must enter the open division. Advance tickets can be obtained at Samuel Jewelers, 16 E. Town-st.

Barack Boxers 'Glove Threats

Barack Recreation Center will be represented in the upcoming Columbus Golden Gloves at East High School Auditorium, 1500 E. Broad-st.

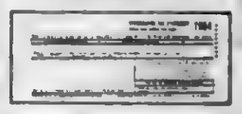
Barack will enter the tournament with 10 novice division and two open division boxers. Barack will host Thompson Center tonight in preparation for the Golden Gloves, scheduled to start Mar. 22 and will continue on the 25th, 29th and Apr. 1.

Coach Lee Williams made this comment regarding his team's chances to win the championship, "Our team is in better condition than any team around this area, and we should have a good chance in the novice division." Our two open division welterweights could be champ and runner-up because both have good skills, hard punches and are in real good condition."

Dere Named Co-Captain, Cap's 'MVW'

Four area wrestlers were among the nine varsity mat letter winners at Capital University's awards presentations last week.

Varsity Crusader letters went to Aziz Dere (Franklin Heights), Tim Hansley (Walnut Ridge), Larry Moore (West) and Dave Morris (Eastmoor).



Dere, whose high school coach, Don Woodland, now is head wrestling tutor at Cap, was selected as the Crusaders' "most valuable wrestler" and was named a '65-'66 co-captain by his teammates.

Grove City's John Bedell received a J-V wrestling letter at the ceremonies.

Ten Commandments for Newspaper Readers

Read your newspaper every week. Make it a habit.

Don't be headline happy. Heads are just the menu; you have to eat the food to get a complete meal.

Don't be page-one happy; your news may be inside.

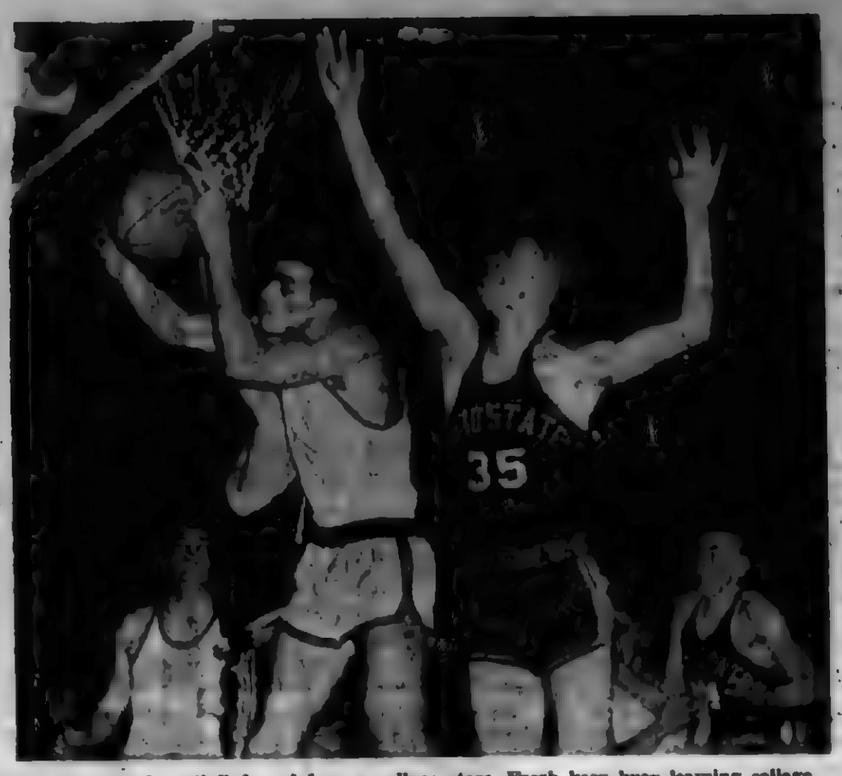
Don't be one-subject happy. Sticking only to sports, comics, or crime news is picking up pennies and leaving dollars.

Be a fact-seeker. Get the facts from our news columns. Then read the comment of columnists and editorial writers. You may find you're the better thinker.

Read with both eyes. Note qualifying words and also "Who says so." Don't take a charge for a conviction, rumor for fact, or plans for accomplishments.

Don't be a reading coward. Don't be afraid to read opinion at complete variance from your own.

Get out of your reading rut. Read at least one thing in each issue completely apart from your normal interest. It'll give you a mental jog.



Do your shopping at home. You'll find the best buys in the advertising columns of your Hartley Suburban Newspaper.

Relax and enjoy the fun. There's a lighter side of life and your newspaper covers it. Join in!

EX-WEST HIGH CAGER Terry Elliott is going through a transition this winter at OSU — a transition which every high school cager who hopes to progress up the athletic line must endure. At left, Terry waits patiently during an ankle taping, prior to taking the floor for a role in the freshman game which precedes each Buckeye home cage game in the Arena. Waiting on the bench is perhaps one of the biggest transitions for the high school starter to make. Many high school stars must be satisfied with being out of the limelight, often a way of life during fours years of high school. In the game, Terry (35) battles for a rebound against an independent team, composed of former college stars. Frosh keep busy learning college brand of basketball, hoping for advancement to the varsity next year.

Frosh Cager Learns Defense, Humility Count On OSU Court

Craig M. Weaver

Get up at 6 a.m., classes and study from 8 until 3, basketball practice from 3:30 to 6 p.m., study until 10, then off to bed.

This is the busy but typical schedule of Terry Elliott, a member of the freshman basketball team at OSU.

Terry, 18, a math major in the College of Education, is 6'8" tall. Playing center on the freshman squad takes a lot of his time but he still finds time to study adequately for his 17 hours of academic classes.

Terry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Elliott, 704 S. Ogden-av. He graduated from Columbus' West High in 1964 where he played high school ball.

Dick Reasbeck, a graduate student and former basketball player at OSU who is assisting Freshman Coach Frank Truitt, said of Elliott, "He is improving but needs more confidence and aggressiveness."

This is true of most freshmen who are a little bewildered upon first playing college ball.

College basketball is a completely different world to these incoming freshmen. Coach Frank Truitt, who has been a mentor in both types of schools, stated that there are many differences in the brands of basketball played in the two schools.

"Defenses are different. High schoolers are used to playing against a zone and they like to play offense better than the colorless defense," Truitt stated.

"But in college, games are won through defense. Freshmen have to learn to play without the ball, to keep their opponent busy, to time cuts, etc. They have to learn to shoot quicker. They don't know our man-for-man and pressure defenses."

Although the competition is great in both high school and college, there is more pressure on the individual player in college. College basketballers have to be more aggressive and there is more contact allowed in their games.

More time is spent on practicing defense within "the halls of ivy." At Ohio State, offense for the freshmen hasn't as yet been stressed this season.

The frosh team is composed of boys who have been individual stars on their high school teams. They're used to being in the spotlight and consequently sometimes find it hard to take the lack of attention given freshmen.

Truitt said of this situation, "Maturity is a problem. These boys are not used to taking a back seat. If they have the humility and can survive the first year mentally and physically — this is the sign of a man."

Lanky Elliott believes that a good varsity squad can be made from this year's frosh team.

Terry Elliott has his sights on the varsity and is working hard to get there. And so are 12 of his fellow freshman ball bouncers at Ohio State.

Area Wrestlers 'Shut Out' In State Title Bid

Fate turned the other way 23 times over the weekend as area wrestling hopefuls were blanked in bids to garner individual or team state mat honors.

Only area grappler to finish in the top four in his weight division was Worthington's 175 - pounder Frank Lowery who was pinned in the final consolation round.

NORTH CANTON replaced Toledo St. Francis as state mat champs, outdistancing runnerup Maple Heights, 32-27. St. Francis finished fourth.

Worthington topped local teams with eight points (22nd place) while East picked up four points and DeSales garnered three.

All told Worthington's Lowery picked up three wins. Teammate Paul Mitchell (127) and East's Jake Holloway (127) got two wins each while East's Ralph Cox (103) and Mike DeAscentis managed single wins.

LAST YEAR area entries got one state championship (Arlington's Tom Saunders) and two thirds (East's Roger Young and Arlington's Mike Stanley).

Q. What did the boy penicillin culture say to the girl penicillin culture?

IN THE WINGS—Walnut Ridge coach Rick Cermelj limbers up his 133-lb. entry Steve Roberts while giving last minute instructions Friday at the state wrestling meet at OSU.

BITE-SIZE DECISION—Not content with the job two hands are doing for him, Parma Valley's Tom Cahal (on top) apparently is set on restraining Eastmoor's Mike Sullivan with a good set of teeth Friday in state wrestling competition at St. John Arena. Cahal gained a 4-0 decision, later nabbed a consolation victory.

TEEN A

Once again the Teen A League outcome hinged on the outcome of the Heart of Ohio vs. Epsilons game. When the final hour sounded Monday night, the fighting men from Epsilons had pulled off the upset of the year as they handed Heart their first set back of the second round by a score of 36-33.

IN THE other two games, Pops Dworkin had to struggle to overcome an aggressive offense of the Independents as they won in the final second 46-44, while Pegasus beat Capital, 46-41.

The playoff for the first round between Heart and Epsilons will take place Tuesday evening. If Epsilons win then they will be crowned champs and will meet an All-Star team Sunday, Mar. 21. If Heart wins, the championship playoff will be held Sunday, Mar. 21.

Upper Arlington, Marinello Cop Indoor Track Laurels

Arlington's mercurial cindermen chalked up three of the six new records established Saturday afternoon in the 10th annual Central District Indoor Track Meet in French Field House but slender Brookhaven senior Ralph Marinello totaled 16½ points to capture individual scoring honors.

The Golden Bears set new marks in the 880 (1:34.0) and mile relays (3:32.1) and in the pole vault where standout Carl Watkins sprang 13'5½".

MARINELLO set another mark in the broad jump with an impressive 22'7½" leap while Circleville's smooth Jim Wood claimed a new 70-yard high hurdle standard (8.6) and Walnut Ridge senior Rick Mettle toured the half-mile in a record 1:59.8.

West distance star Chuck Starkey (two-mile), Whitehall's big Mike Boyer (shot put), South's springy-legged "Smoke" Wilson (high jump) and Walnut Ridge's Ken Schwartz (mile) also turned in impressive victories at the meet.

The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

A Thing of Beauty

Seldom does a newcomer to my office leave without an expression of admiration for the beauty of an old upright desk sitting in one corner. It is indeed a thing of beauty . . . thereby it becomes a joy forever.

As I sit here admiring it I am reminded of the similarity of the path taken by this old desk and that of many people.

Originally it belonged to the editor of the old Madison County Democrat some 80 years ago. I made its acquaintance when I became owner of the Madison Press in London just four years ago.

At that time it was pushed aside in an upstairs room of the old building, a room then used for just an accumulation of junk. At one time the editor had his office there and it was just a matter of the easy thing to do to leave it alone and let it accumulate dust.

I remember it was like a case of love at first sight. When I first saw it I was impressed by its beauty and knew that it had many interesting stories to tell if we could but learn how to communicate.

But, as we humans are prone to do, we put things off and while I visited with the old desk many times and placed my hands on it as though to say, "Well done, my friend" . . . I did nothing more.

Then this past summer we decided to remodel the top side of the building, which meant that the junk must be cleared out. Our staff proceeded to do just that and when I arrived at the plant one day I found my newly acquired friend in two sections at the back door waiting for the junk man to arrive.

Now I feel close and warm about our friendship because I have given it something. I rescued it from almost certain disaster, had it delivered to my office only to find it was too tall to fit.

I sought a home for my friend where it would be welcome and as a result Clyde Fisher took over and, with admiration and kindness applied to sandpaper and varnish, restored it to its original lustre and beauty.

I thought I had discharged my duty to my friend and knew it would now be contributing to the happiness of another.

But my friend came back . . . On Christmas eve I walked into my office to find a new warmth and beauty with a large red ribbon around it. My gift had become a gift to the giver.

Today, and often as I sit and admire it, and in a language that only the two of us understand I'm sure we are both reminded that old friends and true friends should never be forgotten.

And too, we are reminded that, be it an old desk or an old person, a thing of beauty deserves to be preserved!

Too Short To Headline: Secy. of State Ted Brown in a recent news-letter tells of an undelivered letter being returned with the notation; "Deceased. Address unknown" . . . Rev. A. J. Bexley Council Approves Gas Contract

HIGH SCHOOL ARTISTS WILL DISPLAY TALENTS

ARTS INTERNATIONAL at 3863 E. Broad-st will turn its gallery over to a weekend exhibit for art students of East Columbus Area high schools, Saturday and Sunday, Mar. 27 and 28. Among the works shown will be these two oils by young artists Byron Yaple, 15, of 896 S. Cassingham-rd, a sophomore at Bexley High School, and Joyce Devine, 17, Bexley senior and daughter of Congressman Samuel L. Devine. Arts International, which displays the works of prominent local and national artists, plans to make the school exhibit an annual event. "The renaissance in art now sweeping the country will most certainly engulf Columbus," Arts International said. "In order to sustain this vital interest it will be necessary for these young people to develop their talents and for the Columbus citizenry to recognize and appreciate these talents. It is in recognition and support of this cultural effort that Arts International contributes its gallery as a showcase and invites the public to participate in this effort."

A new gas contract for Bexley was passed Tuesday night by the city council which had, when the agreement was first proposed, expressed reluctance at accepting a rate that was slightly higher than Columbus paid.

A salary ordinance for the new city recreation director was also passed, and council members had a sympathetic ear for the request by Bexley Civic Improvement Association to use the city's addressing plates for mailing.

The contract's rate of .0083 of a cent per 1000 cubic feet of gas over Columbus' charge was explained by Columbia Gas of Ohio's representative as due to various factors, including cost of fuel at the time the contract was drawn up, and Columbus' greater expansion potential which would permit many more taps on each gas line.

The one dissenting voter Tuesday for approving the contract was Councilman David Sahawan, who protested that, however small the increase, Bexley had established a precedent four years ago when the city insisted on and got the same rate as Columbus.

Bill Birch, president of Bexley Civic Improvement Association, appeared before council to request the use of the water department's addressograph plates to mail information to citizens on Bexley Swimming Pool.

He explained the group had used commercial mailing services and found it inadequate in reaching every resident with membership applications and an informative letter.

Birch asked that the BCIA be given the same courtesy offered to Bexley Celebrations Association, which uses the city plates for its mailing.

Council, agreeing that both groups were nonprofit, open to all Bexley citizens and designed to benefit the city, and that the pool had been a great asset to Bexley, supported the request.

Informed by Howard Park, city solicitor, that they could not pass a resolution in a matter that was administrative, council members approved a resolution asking the mayor to permit the use of the plates.

Mayor William Schneider had previously refused the request, on the grounds that the procedure would take time, and therefore be an expense.

Birch was told by council that any expense incurred would have to be assumed by BCIA, and that text of the letter accompanying the membership blanks would have to be approved by the mayor.

WHITEHALL BANDS IN SUNDAY CONCERT

Here's Your Chance To Win A Free Ham!

If you're a housewife who's wondering what to serve your family for that special Easter Sunday dinner, The Spectator has a suggestion — why not let a local merchant give you a free ham?

Not just any ham, mind you — but a delicious pre-cooked, boneless Swift's Premium Ham.

You can be a winner of one of the free hams simply by filling out the coupons you find inside this paper and depositing them in Ham Contest boxes at the stores of the sponsoring merchants whose names appear on the coupons.

Coupons, which will appear in The Spectator this week and in the Apr. 1 and Apr. 8 editions, may be deposited anytime until 5 p.m. Saturday, Apr. 10.

Drawings will be held at each store Monday, Apr. 12, and winners will be notified immediately thereafter. Entrants need not be present at the drawing to win. Names of all winners will appear in the Apr. 15 edition of The Spectator.

Anyone over 16 years of age is eligible to enter the contest. Only one ham may be won per family. The contest is not open to employes of participating merchants or this newspaper or its carriers.

Remember — every participating merchant will have a ham winner. Wise entrants will use every coupon to increase their chances of winning one of the Swift's Premium Hostess Hams.

Merchants participating in the contest in the Eastern Spectator area are: Goodyear Service, Marshall's Cardland, Aero Lanes, North Bexley Foods, Kacy Jones Norge, Custom Cleaners, Lynn Drugs, Kroger, Sears, Allegheny Super Duper, Hamilton Road Super Duper, James Road Super Duper, T&C Big D, Shinner Meats, Lex Mayers, Baskin-Robbins, Stop 'N Go Market, Parklane IGA, Cooper Pharmacy, Rosatti's Market, Bottler's Outlet East, Sagraves, Country Club Beauty, Gahanna Furniture, Broadmoor Laundry.

Apartments In Whitehall To Be Built

Construction will start soon on a new apartment development in Whitehall, on E. Main-st just east of Whitehall Discount Center.

Four 48-unit buildings, each two stories high will be built on the site, for a total of 192 units. Plans have been submitted with an application for building permits, according to Joseph Shannon, service director.

Rezoning for these, and other apartments planned for the city, was approved before the present administration took office.

Officials who took office in 1964 have kept their campaign promise of no more rezonings that would permit apartment construction.

Legislation passed at the last council meeting concerning the Valerio Heights development, on the north side of Doney-st between Robinwood and Maplewood-av, does not permit building of multi-family dwellings in the development.

Construction of only one twin single is permitted, on a lot adjoining existing twin singles. All other homes will be single family dwellings.

Hiatt Protests Inclusion On Mayor's List

Campaign promotions listing a slate of Republican candidates seeking nomination in Whitehall's May Primary has drawn protests from Linn L. Hiatt, who says his name was included without the knowledge or consent.

Hiatt, a Republican candidate for councilman-at-large nomination, emphatically denied pledging his support to the GOP candidates listed on books of matches widely distributed through the city.

The matches promote the candidacy of Mayor William Holzhause, Francis Shaeffer, Alvin H. Hallis, Jr., Joseph W. Shannon, George W. Synder, and Linn Hiatt.

The promotion is sponsored by the Whitehall Republican Committee, with Al Hallis, Sr., as chairman.

Hiatt said that he attended a meeting called by the mayor several weeks ago, and at that time Mayor Holzhause offered his support to Hiatt's candidacy. "I said I appreciated it," Hiatt said, "but could not reciprocate."

In a letter to the mayor dated Mar. 22, Hiatt expressed his disapproval of the inclusion of his name in the list, and added:

"Long before the campaign began, I pledged my support to Walter B. Moling, Ray Shipley, Ted Harmony and John Bishop."

Mayor Holzhause could not be reached Tuesday for comment.

The preventive medication was dispensed by Whitehall school nurses, Mrs. Rosemary Ford and Mrs. Elizabeth Hauss, and Board of Health nurses. Howard Reynolds, assistant health commissioner, was in charge of the project, and Whitehall firefighters assisted. Little Dahl Patillo, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Patillo of 156 Eachtree-rd, is reported in "good" condition at Children's Hospital. The infection, meningococal meningitis, is the first case reported this year.

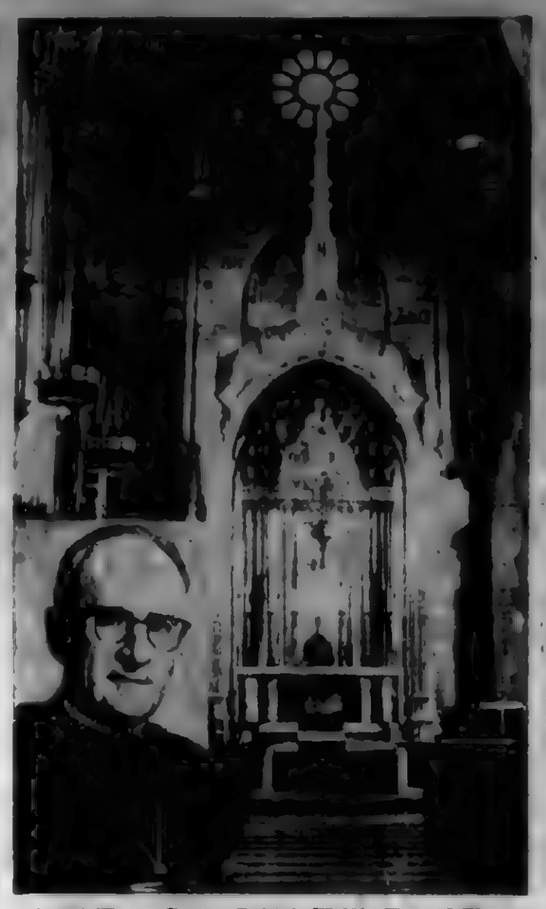
Stephenson, who recently won second prize for his bronze sculpture in the Columbus Art League's sculpture and drawing showing, holds a teaching assistantship in the art department at Ohio State University while working toward his master's degree.

In addition, he conducts classes in drawing and painting at the Jewish Center.



Mrs. Fischer has studied art at OSU as well as in New York, Switzerland and Canada where, in 1958, she won "The Canada Council Fellowship for Painting."

At present she teaches art at OSU.

The bandit, white and about 23, aimed a small chrome plated revolver at the theater cashier, Miss Diane Sauerbrey, 21, of 300 Linwood-av, and said, "Don't look at me. Don't do anything. Just give me all the money you got."

Reynoldsburg Book Exhibit Open To All Area Readers

In the first exhibit of its kind, 174 outstanding new Science library books for children in grades kindergarten through six will be on display in French Run Elementary School, 1200 Epworth-av, Reynoldsburg. The exhibit will be open during the hours of 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, Apr. 5-9.

Administrative Assistant of Schools, Harold F. Benner said 42 leading publishers will display their best new titles, fiction and non-fiction, in this comprehensive and thoroughly organized collection. Teachers, librarians, and other professional individuals, interested parents and readers of all ages, will find a complete representation of the new science learning and teaching books that merit their attention. The books are separated in primary (grades kindergarten to three) and intermediate (grades four to six) sections. There are 24 main science categories, divided in turn into some 75 sub-categories.

Free to professional people attending the exhibit is a two-color catalogue, which lists, describes, and indexes every book in the collection, and which may be retained as a permanent reference. All books are numbered in the catalogue (as on their covers), and are annotated under appropriate main subject categories. A Complete Subject and Cross-Reference Index, along with Author and Title Indexes, provides quick access to any single title or to books in any specific curriculum area. A numbered checklist makes it easy to mark the books of one's interest for future reference. Names and addresses of the 42 participating publishers are also provided.

The exhibit is supplied by Books on Exhibit, a promotional firm which does not take orders, and which provides its services to school systems and libraries throughout the county.

Gallery Players To Serve Up 'Milk and Honey' In May

Gallery Players of the Jewish Center will present its spring production of "Milk and Honey," Saturday evening, May 15, at 8:40, directed by Harold Eisenstein.

Title of the musical would seem to have been inevitable, since its setting is modern Israel, the land promised to the ancient Israelites (8th verse, 3rd chapter, Exodus) to be flowing with milk and honey.

Actually it was not applied to the show until the production was about to begin rehearsals for its recent New York run.

All during the period of preparation, the show was entitled the Jewish greeting "Shalom," meaning "twice as much as hello," and the title of one of the show's most rousing numbers.

But at the last moment, song writer Jerry Herman of "Hello Dolly" fame, worked up an additional number called "Milk and Honey," which became such a hit that it was seriously proposed as a national anthem for Israel just as "Oklahoma" became that state's official song.

The song sounded so good that the director and the producer entitled the show Milk and Honey.

The musical became one of the great hits of the early 60's, and one of the great hits in American theater history since it well exceeded the 500 mark of continuous Broadway performances that mark a major hit.

Bexley Marks 'Week Of Social Concerns'

The appearance of three experts of the social sciences on Capital's campus this week prompted the university's Board of Public Affairs to ask Bexley to proclaim a "Week Of Social Concerns," Mar. 24 to 31.

The proclamation was the first of its kind Mayor William Schneider had signed in his 30 years as mayor of Bexley.

Dr. Ethel Alpenfels, professor of anthropology at New York University and winner of the Outstanding Professor of the Year award from the National Conference of Catholics and Jews, will speak Monday, Mar. 29, 8 p.m. in Troutman Hall.

The public is invited.

Dr. Eric Cox, expert in the fields of juvenile delinquency and urban blight, will give a public talk at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Mar. 31 at Troutman Hall.

Dr. Samuel Sharp, executive director of Youngstown Council of Churches and one of seven United States Protestant observers at the 1964 Vatican Council, spoke Mar. 24 at Bexley Hall.

Also appearing this week is Arnold Moss, actor and reader, who will present "The Seven Ages Of Man" and read from great works of literature Friday, Mar. 26, 8 p.m. in Mees Hall.

FOR THE FIRST TIME, Mayor William Schneider signed a proclamation designating a "week" of special observance. "Week Of Social Concerns" in Bexley, Mar. 24 to 31, was declared by the mayor, and witnessed by Gordon Lewis, chairman of Capital University's Board of Public Affairs.

Council Hears Hangar Lease Recommendation

City Council on Mar. 17 heard the unanimous recommendation of the city Airport Commission that Executive Jet Airways, an all-jet charter service primarily for corporations, be allowed to lease North American Hanger No. 1 at Port Columbus.

Vying for the two-year lease had been Jost Flying Service, 3680 Refugee-rd which primarily services propeller-driven aircraft for corporations and individuals.

Terms of the lease also call for a five-year option on the hangar. Price of the lease is $1275 a month, minus a small amount paid by North American. Both firms were willing to pay the price, according to Francis Bolton, airport manager.

Bolton said the city would have liked to accommodate both firms, but felt Executive's needs were more pressing. Told by the commission to obtain cost figures on additional city hangars to accommodate more firms, Bolton said he would try to present these at the next meeting, Apr. 21.

In addition, the commission recommended that the East Side Car Club be allowed to continue holding classes in the Transportation Building of the airport. The club trains high school youths to be auto mechanics and is sponsored by Columbus auto dealers.

THE BRICK FENCE extends north on Dimson-dr E. to Dimson-dr N. The development, extending east to Fairway-blvd, will contain 388 luxury type apartments. All buildings facing Fairway-blvd will be single family units, and a swimming pool will be included in the development. Irving Schottenstein, a partner in the developing company, has pledged financial responsibility for any damage done to Dimson-dr and to the curbs, caused by the heavy cement mixers and truck traffic, and has deposited $500 with the city. The brick fence, separating Fairlane Apartments from Country Club Estates, will also be planted with ivy and shrubbery.

AT THE CURVE, where Dimson-dr S. becomes Dimson-dr E. first unit of the huge Fairlane Apartments development is visible, rising behind the brick fence constructed to separate the subdivision from Country Club Estates. Residents of Dimson-dr appeared before Whitehall Council at its last session, protesting the mud and street damage caused by trucks using Dimson for access into the construction site. Until access roads are cut into the development from Fairway-blvd and from Main-st, Dimson-dr is the only route into the site. Legislation was passed limiting truck parking to the east side only, and residents were assured that, in from four to six weeks, the other roads would be built and the nuisance would be eliminated.

FROM THE SAINT ROSE OF LIMA CONVENT DOMINICANETTES ENTER JUNGLES OF POVERTY

DOMINICANETTES GET 'KICKS' BY SERVICE TO SICK AND POOR

Teenagers are beset by a thousand pressing matters.

There's hair to be rolled-up, tomorrow's exam and next week's dance.

They learn mighty young today that time is valuable.

But there is a group of young women in Columbus who spend this time as if it grew on trees—not selfishly but on the sick who can't help themselves.

They are Dominicanettes, the girls of high school age and older who serve with the Sisters of the Sick Poor living at the Saint Rose of Lima Convent.

The sisters of this order are the saintly women whose lives are spent fulfilling the work started by an Irish immigrant girl, not much older than a Dominicanette.

In 1876 the young woman who is now known as Mother Mary Walsh heard a little girl crying on a New York street. She accompanied the child to her home where her mother, with a new-born infant dead at her side, lay. The home was without food, medicine or fuel.

At that moment the life of the Irish lass who as a child had climbed into the trees "to direct the choir of birds" was changed

And because of the order she founded, the lives of hundreds of thousands have been made a little more bearable.

From the sisters, the chronically ill have found the courage to face each day, the sick have been nursed to health and their children mothered during their incapacity; the lonely have been cheered; the larders of the hungry replenished; the chronically ill have been given the courage to meet each day and the dying, the faith to meet their Lord.

Came Here in 1912

In 1912 at the request of Bishop James Hartley, Mother Mary came to Columbus and started a house of Sick Poor Sisters in a building he gave to them at 165 E. Lincoln-st.

One year later they won the hearts of their new community with their tireless work to relieve the miseries accompanying the 1913 flood.

The sisters worked through the years with the material assistance of the Saint Vincent De Paul Society and later the Elizabethan Guild and the Friends of the Sick Poor.

But when Bishop Clarence Issenmann came to Columbus five years ago he brought with him a deep appreciation of the work of the Dominicanettes attached to the Cincinnati convent of the order and the local group was formed.

Today the young women travel from all parts of the city to help the sisters in a myriad of ways.

Given Special Training

After an indoctrination period when the girls answer doorbells and the ever-ringing phone (the sisters go whenever called), do clerical work and pack boxes of clothing and groceries, they are given a Red Cross course in home nursing and are ready to don the blue and white striped uniform worn by aides accompanying the sisters into the homes.

There they do what is needed to be done. One girl may find herself with broom and dust cloth in hand, while another is feeding a baby and a third bathing a feverish mother.

And there are lighter moments too.

The Dominicanettes give parties for the children of the patients, go caroling and make birthday cakes for those who otherwise might be forgotten.

The sisters have been described as missionaries, not in the jungles of the wild, but in the jungles of urban poverty.

The girls who go with them on their way have in heart the same verse that is engraved on the soul of each Sister of the Sick-Poor—

"As long as you did it to one of these, My least brethren, you did it to Me."

MOUNTAINS OF clothing are collected by the Dominican Sisters, for distribution to their needy sick families. To the left is Maureen Evans of the St. Leo parish, admiring the shirt being packed by Jane Fate, Immaculate Conception.

BUSY WITH the clerical work that besieges any well-run organization are three Dominicanettes who regularly devote their Saturdays to such tasks. In the foreground is Susan Hardy of the St. Ladislas parish while Eileen Canty operates the mimeograph machine and Rose Kelly files. Both are from Immaculate Conception.

CLIMBING THE Matterhorn may be the goal of some, but others, handicapped as this patient, looks only to a walker which will enable her to do a bit more for herself. In the meantime she looks for the aid she needs twice a day from a Dominicanette. This photo, as well as the one of the bed-patient was taken in Cincinnati to avoid possible embarrassment in local homes.

AS TEENAGERS, DOMINICANETTES cannot know the love, the heartaches, the joy and tears shared by a couple during 50 years of living together. But when Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ewing, 2165 Wilnis-av, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, the girls understood it was "party time."

NURSING MAY BE MORE glamorous, but in the homes of the sick, washing dishes is an equally important service, and something that Mary Beyer of St. Leo and Ann Sauer, Immaculate Conception, attack cheerfully.

ONLY TILL one has been sick, alone and destitute can he truly know the comfort brought by one whose hands are gentle, patience unlimited, and affection genuine.

SCHOOL PATROL MEMBER HONORED

CINDY SEAMAN, 11, of 4555 Ellery-dr, Safety Patrol sergeant at Leawood Elementary, received an "AAA distinguished service award" Mar. 17 at a school assembly. She was credited with saving a classmate from possible serious injury under the wheels of a truck Mar. 3, when eight-year-old Richard McIntosh darted into Hamilton-rd at Dundee. Cindy ran after him and stopped him, with a truck less than 50 feet away. From left are patrolman Steve McDonald, Cindy Seaman, Mrs. Kathleen Trueblood, Leawood principal, and Brooks Julian, treasurer Columbus Auto Club, who made the presentation.

Airport's Parking Deck Estimate Set

A preliminary engineering estimate Saturday set the cost of a 1000-car parking deck above the present Port Columbus lot at $2.3 million.

Over 40,000 more cars are expected to use the present lot this year than last year.

J. E. Greiner Co., airport engineers, set the cost figure for construction of the parking deck, which would include an overhead pedestrian bridge from the lot to the terminal, the enlarging of a terminal balcony for pedestrians and a widening of the driveway in front of the terminal.

Airport Supt Jack Bolton said he is not certain how soon the structure could be built. He theorized it could be financed by revenues from parking, which brought in $195,200 last year.

U. S. farmers spent nearly $40 billion in 1963 for business outlays and home consumption.

Student Vies For TB Tour Award

Linda Crandall, 1439 Devonhurst-dr, Walnut Ridge High School, represented her school, Walnut Ridge High School, in the Tuberculosis Society's science report writing contest in a research tour of Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital, Saturday, Mar. 20. Theme of the annual educational program, open to the two outstanding science students from each area high school, is "TB-RD — Today's Challenge in Medical Research."

Tour participants saw the works of Doctors Philip C. Pratt, Roy L. Donnerberg, and Joseph F. Tomashefski, all involved in research at the TB Hospital in the Ohio State campus. Following the tour, Dr. Robert J. Atwell, moderated a question and answer period. The tour provides students with first-hand information on the problems of diagnosing and treating all respiratory diseases.

Participants in the project will write reports based on information obtained on the tour, outside reading and be presented orally before school science or health classes.

Reports are submitted to the society for judging. Deadline for entries is Apr. 23.

The TB-RD science report-writing contest is a joint project of the Tuberculosis Society of Columbus and Franklin County and WBNS Radio.

Students placing among the top 10 award winners will take part in a half-hour panel program on WBNS Radio.

SOUND THE TRUMPETS . . .

Courage Is A Crippled Child Is Theme For '65 Campaign

Everyone loves a parade . . . whether it's the color and excitement of a circus parade, or the spirit and precision of a military band.

There will be a parade in Bexley, Whitehall and the east area of Columbus this month of a different sort — a march to help crippled people. It will take place during the last weekend of March, the 27th through the 31st.

Directing the 1965 Easter Seal Parade for the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children will be Dr. Jimmy Hull, prominent local orthodontist who is also the honorary Easter Seal chairman. He will direct 8,000 volunteer paraders during the parade. These volunteers will deliver sheets of 1965 Easter Seals to homes of residents and accept contributions to help finance services to crippled children and adults.

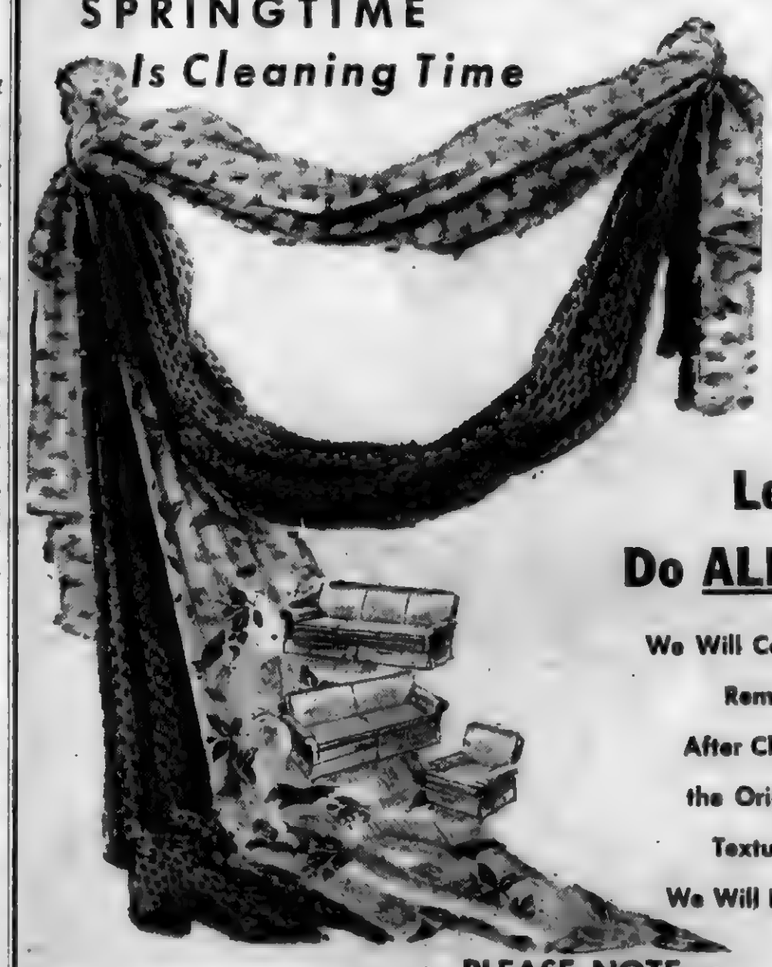
LOVE POTIONS!
The search for a more satisfying sex life has been going on ever since Eve found her first gray hair. Some love philters were frankly based on magic, but strangely enough, many of them contained highly nutritious foods such as eggs, snails, fish and liver, all of which are full of vitamin and minerals. Here is one love potion 2000 years old. (Good luck!)

"Mix thoroughly a quantity of wild honey, ginger, vinegar, wild garlic, shallots, cinnamon, nutmeg, wild seeds, pepper and all heat-producing spices." (Sorry, the proportions weren't given.)

"SITTIN' SHOES" ARE FOR "SITTIN"
I have some friends who tell me of their grandmothers who had such "prettifyin but not wearable" shoes for those occasions when they were sure they would not have to walk any farther than from the carriage to the chair. Today I see women of all ages, sizes, and weights, staggering along the street in just such impossible shoes. If they could only be made aware of how totally their awkward movement destroys their appearance.

TRANQUILIZING BATH FOR DEEP SLEEP
Bernard Baruch used to follow a bath ritual which he guaranteed would quiet jangled nerves and encourage restful sleep. He constantly recommended it to his friends:



Fill the tub with water between 100 and 102 degrees, — only a few degrees above the body temperature. The tub should be full enough so that you can lie immersed in it fully, up to the chin. Put a rolled towel or plastic pillow behind your head and rest in the water for at least 10 minutes (longer if you have the time). This bath should relax and sooth all the nerve-endings in your skin and in your muscles. After the first few minutes your breathing should become slow and deep. When you step out and pat yourself dry you should be ready for a night of tranquil sleep.

Wit 'N' Wisdom

BY JACK WITTENMEIER

HATS OFF . . .

Today The Spectator is tipping its athletic hat to 52 high school boys who, for some reason, must fight for every bit of recognition and very fan they can get.

These 52 are the top school boy wrestlers in the Franklin County area as selected by area mat coaches.

Wittenmeier

AS FAR AS we can see these boys work harder to earn their varsity letter than athletes in just about every other high school sport.

The training is rigid and any sport which makes maintenance of a prescribed weight a must is no easy task (as most of us calorie counters know).

The real tragedy actually has little to do with newspaper recognition but concerns fans or rather lack of fans) in the stands.

WE ATTENDED four of five local league meets this past season. Attendance was poor at each one, considering the potential number of fans per school.

The televising of professional wrestling probably is as guilty as any other one factor for putting the damper on high school wrestling.

It's unfortunate that parents refuse to let their sons compete on the high school level — unfortunate, because, if they would attend one match they would see that this kind of wrestling is about as different from pro-style as day vs. night.

A RUNNING competition with basketball doesn't help much in promoting high school wrestling. The hardwood is more deeply implanted than the mat.

Perhaps the best aspect of wrestling is its range of competition. Weight and height does not exclude a boy who wants to earn a varsity letter. The 100-pounder is just as valuable as a teammate who doubles that poundage.

Sadly enough, the wrestling coach cannot be just a coach. He must be a super salesman too. But gains are being made, slowly but surely.

OUR HATS are off to you, fellows! Keep up the good work. Maybe you can't always see it — but you're "pinning" down more prestige every season.

SHORT TAKE — It was a pleasure to read that the most successful "stopper" to a race riot at a Cleveland high school last week was a cordon of athletes.

We like to think the rioters were impressed with something more than just pure brawn. It might have had something to do with a little thing called respect.

SAW SOUTH'S 'BEST'

E-M's Tourney Play 'Gratfying' — Courtney

"I would have liked to have won that second one."

That was Eastmoor cage coach Bill Courtney commenting on his Warriors' demise in the AA Regional hardwood tourney last weekend and if first prizes were being handed out for understatement, the E-M redhead would have won hands down.

THE WARRIORS, who started fast during the regular season, fell flat near the end only to emerge as the state's Regional "cinderella", joined the long list of those outside looking in after City mate South knocked them out in Saturday's regional finale, 78-65.

A brilliant 78-74 overtime win (the Warriors' second in tourney play) over Coshocton the night before was small solace to a team that had come so far only to be quelled three wins from the top.

"Saturday night against South we didn't play the kind of ball game we had been playing all through the tourney," Courtney commented Tuesday.

"SOME OF our boys just don't seem to be able to recover physically in a 24-hour period. We never have had a good Saturday night game when it followed one the night before."

"We saw South play its best game of the season. We still did a better job than we did down there (South). (Eastmoor lost 83-64 the final night of the regular season). Of course, we hit 27 per cent at South and over 40 percent at the Coliseum."

Commenting on the tourney performance of center Steve Howell (whose 35 and 29 point performances over the weekend only bettered a tourney scoring mark he set the week before), Courtney said, "Steve always has done his best job at the end of the season.

"IT SEEMS like it takes him some time to get that football out of his system. Then he was slowed down by a knee injury during the early part of the season."

Summing up his Warriors' completed season, Courtney concluded, "I was disappointed with our season's end collapse but the way these boys reversed themselves in the tournament was extremely gratifying to say the least.

"I was real happy with our tournament play."

RED'S FEELINGS about his "cinderella" tourney team are still being echoed all around the East Side.

Scarlet-Gray Go Slated At Scioto

A record-breaking entry of 99 three-year-old trotters and pacers were nominated for the second annual Scarlet and Gray Cup race to be held at Scioto Downs on Aug. 27 and 28. The entry of 53 pacers and 46 trotters surpassed last year's list of 38 nominees in the Scarlet and Gray Cup.

Named in honor of former athletic greats from Ohio State University, the Scarlet and Gray Cup races are sponsored by MARA, the Mid-American Racing Association which holds a 44-night race meeting at Scioto Downs from July 26 through Sept. 14.

THE EARLY pre-race favorite in the pacing division of the Scarlet and Gray for an added money purse of $4,000 is none other than Scarlet Wave, a handsome chestnut son of Shadow Wave, owned by the Kildare Stable of Oxon Hill, Md.

Trained and driven by Clarence Martin, Scarlet Wave breezed to a two-year-old record of 2:00 2/5 while winning the Horseman's Futurity at Indianapolis, Ind. For the year, the speedy sidewheeler showed an overall record of 13 wins in 26 starts with two seconds, and four thirds, with earnings of $32,707.

Custom Car Show Opens Tomorrow At Youth Center

The eighth annual Custom Car Show, sponsored by the Trotters Hot Rod Club, will motor into the Youth Center at the Fairgrounds this weekend, competing for prizes and trophies worth over $2,000.

Dates for the International Car Club of America-sanctioned show are Mar. 26 (5 p.m. till midnight), Mar. 27 (10 a.m. till midnight) and Mar. 28 (11 a.m. till 8 p.m.)

THE SHOW will feature new cars never seen before in Columbus plus several outstanding prize-winners from past shows. Hand-built scale models and a custom-built slot racing championship will be of special interest to hobbyists.

A new feature at this year's show will be a contest for high school aged boys. Working against a time clock, contestants will search for and correct mechanical difficulties.

Films of the world's greatest races in Boonesville, Indianapolis, Daytona and the National Drags — plus safety films — will be shown continuously.

FEATURE CAR of the show will be the "Surf Woody," built for the California coastal areas with both hot rodding and surfing in mind.

Although built primarily for display, the Surf Woody is functional in every way for street use. Built by George Barris, the car uses a Ford Cobra engine with two Paxton super-chargers mounted on a Mickey Thompson ram-thrust manifold and finned air-cooled valve covers.

Besides electrical steering, a one-unit accelerator-brake and four built-in hydraulic jacks, the Surf Woody contains a ten-gallon beer keg which has been converted into a chrome-plated fuel tank.

TICKETS WILL be on sale at the Youth Center. Children under 12 will be admitted free. Special arrangements have been made for Big Brother Association Day (Mar. 27).

'Fearless' Goes 'Bye-Bye'

The "Fearless Predictor" has escaped once more!

The outspoken culprit who boldly forecast football and basketball outcomes for The Spectator during '64-'65 seasons was last seen burrowing his way under Canal Winchester on his way to the safe and sunny South.

Before departure, "Fearless" released the following statistics: football forecasting — 158 right, 38 wrong (.806); basketball bookkeeping — 342 right, 109 wrong (.758). Total right 500, total wrong 147. Total percentage .773.

In case anyone's interested — "Fearless" plans to be back next fall.

'Y' Gymnasts In Sweep; Take Ohio-W.Va. Title

The Boys' Branch (Intermediates) of the Central YMCA joined with the Men's team Saturday to complete a sweep of the Ohio-West Virginia YMCA Gymnastics championships at OSU.

The double win, coupled with victories by prep (11 and under) and junior (14 and under) teams two weeks ago, granted the Columbus branch its first-ever full title.

THE GYMNASTIC meet attracted some 20 competitors (including three full teams) which represent the best in the two-state area.

The local entry amassed 113 points to easily capture the team title. No other team could gather more than 15 points.

Bruce Trott, 1715 Whittier-st, won the coveted "all around" laurels by taking four firsts (high bar, parallel bar, side horses and all-around). The South High gymnast also garnered three seconds.

CENTRAL'S Steve Howard, 176 W. Park-st, took all-around runnerup, nabbing firsts in tumbling and floor exercise and adding four seconds.

Jim Lewis, 1943 N. Fourth-st, completed the local 1-2-3 sweep by placing third all-around, aided by a first-place tie in the vaulting competition.

Olympic or all-around events included floor exercise, high and parallel bars, still "Fun-Tastic Jamboree carrings, side horse and long horse vault. Extra events included mat tumbling and trampoline.

A FIRST by Harry Bodourian and a second by Gary Hutchinson paced the Men's team to its team title.

In the recent prep and junior division competition, Vaughn Howard took junior all-around honors while Bernard Pickett copped prep honors. Keith Howard placed second.

Vaughn and Keith are Steve Howard's younger brothers.

Powell Slo-Pitch Loop Seeks More Members

The Powell Slo-Pitch Baseball Sportsmen League is looking for more teams. Now in eight-team alignment, the loop would like to expand.

Any team interested in joining the league should have its representative contact either Dave Headlee (1-881-5635 in Delaware) or Herb Jones (TU. 9-8432) any evening after 6.

League play would get underway about mid-May.

Feyh Accepts OU Scholarship

Walnut Ridge's Dave Feyh, a three-sport varsity athlete, will be attending Ohio University next fall after accepting a baseball scholarship at the Athens, O. school.

Feyh, who will be earning his third varsity letter as a regular Scottie catcher this season, made the All-City diamond team last season as a junior.

According to his coach, Moe Cordle, Dave has the "best throwing arm and is the best receiver in the city. Dave has good receiving sense and, along with West's Steve Prater, is the best catcher in the District."

Cordle's opinion is backed up with authority since he is a "bird dog" (scout) for the major league Boston Red Sox.

Feyh also holds varsity awards in both football and basketball at Walnut Ridge.

HE SCORES TOO!—Perhaps the most vital cog in Eastmoor's advancement in the District and Regional tourney play this season was the Warriors' strapping center Steve Howell. Above, Howell (54) secures an E-M rebound between South defenders Mel Thompson (41) and Joe Hayes (33) Saturday evening. Steve, who broke Mike Gregg's tourney scoring mark (113 points) last week, make the mark more secure by dropping in 35 and 29 markers in the weekend games, for a tourney total of 186.

FACULTY TEAM SELECTED OWN 'PICK HITS'

Hitting Progress, Best Outfield Buoy Ram Mentor's Optimism

Whitehall baseball coach Ted Georgeff isn't one to beat around the bush.

The Ram skipper thinks his '65 team has a good shot at the Central Buckeye League diamond title and he isn't afraid to admit it.

"I FEEL we'll be right in there battling Arlington for the title," Georgeff said. "Our hitting has come along exceptionally well and this year I've got the strongest outfield I've ever had at Whitehall.

"Right now, the biggest problem we've got is the infield."

That's one problem that's easily understandable. Missing from that '64 team which placed second behind Arlington (19-6 record) are two infielders—shortstop Jay Ketzmier and catcher Bobby Sherman.

JAY, WHO is currently with the SF Giants in Arizona spring training, hit a lofty .444 last season for the Rams (.406 BA for four years) besides doing a major portion of Whitehall pitching.

Sherman, the hustler on the Ram squad last season, will not only be missed defensively but also for a .306 BA.

But Georgeff does have nine returning lettermen to help soothe the loss of Ketzmier and Sherman.

PACING THE mound staff will be seniors John McQuaid and Dan Arnold. McQuaid, a speedster on the base paths and owner of a .293 BA last season, has a good curve ball.

Backing up the first two is Mike Fleming, a junior letterman who also plays outfield and is the leading Ram return hitter with a '64 average of .330.

Georgeff is taking long looks at three more pitchers: senior John Turkle, a transfer from Portsmouth; senior Steve Schafer, who is also a hustling outfielder ("first lefty I ever had) and junior Jim Dildine ("hitting the ball too well to only let him pitch").

THE RAM boss actually has plenty of infielders. The problem involves who to play where and what combination works best.

Among returning lettermen, Georgeff has senior Mitch Joseph (ss), junior Harvey Eader (3b), senior Reb Hiatt (.308 last season), junior Tom Barton and senior Gary Younkin (catcher).

If the Whitehall skipper can't find a workable combination there, he has non-lettermen waiting anxiously in the wings, such as juniors Larry Marcum (1b), Jim Bishop (catcher), Tom Kleinline and Stan Robinson (3b).

THAT STRONG outfield Georgeff refers to can be comprised of senior Lowell Shoaf (Ram co-captain with McQuaid), Fleming, junior Mike Fasone or non-working pitchers such as Schafer or Dildine.

"Arlington's the team we'll have to beat if we expect to win the title," Georgeff said. (Whitehall plays Arlington at home the final game of the season).

"We got beat by them (Arlington) last year because we not only out-hit them, we outerrored them."

WHITEHALL'S 1965 diamond schedule is as follows:

Apr. 2 — Linden
Apr. 5 — at Eastmoor
Apr. 6 — at Grove City
Apr. 9 — at Worthington*
Apr. 15 — Newark
Apr. 20 — Gahanna
Apr. 22 — at Newark

Seven Vets, Young Pitchers Carry W-R Diamond Hopes

Seven returning lettermen plus some talented young pitchers make up the combination Walnut Ridge diamond skipper Moe Cordle hopes will offset several departed power swingers this spring.

The Scotties, who closed out at 8-8 last season, will be missing the batting punch of Jim Pyles (All City, second team, .412 BA, five HRs), Dennis Day (.300 BA, three HR's), Dan Wolff (.290) and Ron Dawson.

COUPLE THAT with the fact that Day and Jim Grosshart (also graduated) were front-line pitchers and you can see what kind of job Cordle has fashioned for himself in a tough City League this season.

"Honestly I don't know if we'll move the ball this season," Cordle says. We have adequate depth but we lost a lot of power. Although the pitching looks pretty good, we don't have anyone who's outstanding."

Cordle has only one seasoned moundsman in junior southpaw Chuck Crook, who was credited with two shutouts last season.

STILL UNTESTED but promising is soph lefty Joel Goldhammer, a control specialist who pitched W-R's Junior High team to a title last spring.

Cordle will be pinning much of his pitching hopes on big (6'1", 210 lb.) righthander Ron Remy, whom Cordle rates his "number one pitcher" if the season started tomorrow. "He's a real hard thrower and he's got a pretty fair curve."

Junior Dennis Anderson, a tall righthanded sidearmer whom Cordle sees in the bull pen, completes W-R's mound staff.

CORDLE couldn't ask for a better receiver to handle his young pitchers than senior All-City catcher Dave Feyh, who returns behind the plate.

The Scottie mentor has vets at every infield spot but one with senior Dave Walter returning to first, Mike Lower back at second and versatile Rick Houchen available at shortstop.

Houchen, however, will probably fill in Cordle's outfield, making room for soph Lou Robbins at shortstop.

That vacant hot corner spot is currently up for grabs with junior Jim Kinser or senior Jeff Routsh (transfer from France) most likely to gain the nod.

ACCOMPANYING Houchen to the W-R outfield will be lettermen Bill Masch, a senior, and Jay Hill, a junior.

"Our hitting must come from our outfielders, catcher Feyh and first baseman Walter or we won't beat anyone this season" is the way Cordle sized up the Scotties' chances for City flag contention.

Looking over the City League, Cordle envisions West as the most likely pennant winner, with South and Brookhaven very much in the running and North a "darkhorse."

THE SCOTTIES will open up a 16-game (eight home, eight away) diamond schedule Apr. 2 at home with Hartley.

Opportunity often roams around disguised as hard work.

Under Buckeye Skies

By KEN MACK McCREARY

Cast Off . . .

It looks like thousands of of Spectatorland anglers who fish Hoover Reservoir, the big Columbus water-supply lake east of Westerville, may have same new action in store for them.

Ever since last spring I had been hearing some scattered reports of perch being taken from Hoover, but in all my hours of fishing the lake neither myself nor my fishing companions had ever taken one.

THEN, WHEN my good fishing friend Gordon Kuster noted in his column in a downtown daily newspaper last week that perch were being caught already this spring, the reports took on a lot more credence.

Kuster's story noted that a bait dealer on the reservoir has told of perch catches, saying that the fish had been dumped into the reservoir several years ago by individuals. The bait man estimated the numbers of the perch up into the millions.

Well, don't get your hopes too high — you may catch perch from Hoover waters during the coming angling season but you won't "slaughter" them.

TO GET more background on the new species (for Hoover) we checked with several people. These included Mike Checchio—veteran supervisor of the reservoir and one of my most ardent fishing companions.

Mike said he too had heard the reports but had never seen or caught any. Several gung-ho Hoover fishermen said the same thing, noting that what were believed to be perch might be small sauger or "hammer-handle" walleyes.

Finally, we talked with one of the leading fish experts in Ohio, John Z. Pelton, Fish Management Supervisor for the state Division of Wildlife. Pelton confirmed that indeed there are some perch in Hoover, introduced by private citizens.

HE NOTED that strictly speaking it's illegal to introduce a new fish in this manner, but after it's done, prosecution is extremely difficult. In Pelton's opinion the perch haven't been in the lake very long, and their numbers would fall far short of the million mark.

What about the 'future? Well, Pelton says that's pretty hard to forecast, especially with an extremely prolific but unpredictable critter like the perch involved.

Conceivably the perch could enter into the "scheme" without throwing the lake out of balance, thus providing some mighty fine fishing (and eating), while furnishing the walleye population with a good food.

COULD THE perch become too prolific, crowd out the walleyes, bass, and other species and thus create huge problems? Mr. Pelton says: "I don't think so, but it could happen."

He continued: "Hoover Reservoir doesn't have a great deal of real 'perch-habitat' water. In addition, perch and walleyes go well together, as long as the perch doesn't undergo a population explosion."

That's where the trouble could be — perch could multiply so fast and furiously that it would literally "take over" the lake.

If this ever happened, then Hoover, according to the fish expert, could be in really serious fishing trouble, since it would be impossible to drain the huge lake and start over, and equally impossible to poison the over-populated perch; since the reservoir serves as the Capital City's main water supply.

SO, IT APPEARS we'll just have to cross our fingers, wait for the future and hope that Mr. Perch fits into the scheme of things in the popular lake, to provide some fine angling for us, but not at the expense of the tasty walleye and other game species.

Speaking of the walleye, Pelton says that the Division of Wildlife is continuing its fish management techniques at Hoover Reservoir, with the aim of making it THE top walleye fishing spot in the state.

"Right now, it rates as one of the top five walleye lakes in Ohio and improving all the time. Again this year, the lake will be heavily stocked with walleye fry, at least one million and perhaps as many as two million, depending on the output at state hatcheries.

MEANWHILE, veteran Hoover Dam anglers, including this reporter, are looking forward to the "best yet" walleye fishing season on the lake. With the water level remaining high and relatively steady over the past year, walleye fishing is expected to be well above average.

What about those perch . . . ? Well, it doesn't look like we'll be catching long stringers full of them, but you can rest assured — I won't be throwing them back or tossing them away — I'm going to do my small part to make sure they don't take over my favorite central Ohio fishing hole.

The perch I catch will be on their way to a sizzling frypan.

Plans Begun For Soap Box Derby

"Soap Box Derby Workshop" begins on TV-4 Saturday, Mar. 27, 2:45 p.m. with part of a two-part color film of last year's National Soap Box Derby Champinship. Hoss Cartwright (Dan Blocker) narrates the big race.

East's Schoolfield Eyes State Hurdle Marks

Kenneth Schoolfield has some outstanding accomplishments in track going into his final season of competition in track at East High School.

The 5-9, 170 pound senior was an all-city footballer this past season and his main aim now is to be a state champion in either the high or low hurdles this spring. During his sophomore year Kent finished second in city meet high hurdles and third in the low hurdles, qualifying for the state meet after a fine showing in the district. He advanced to the state semi-finals. As a junior, he won both the high and low hurdles in the city meet.

Kent's first sub-15 seconds timing in the H.H. came in the Ohio Relays last year when he upset the favorite, Dayton Dunbar's Craig Wallace, with a time of 14.9 sec. His fine leg on the 440 yard relay team later enabled East to nose out a first.

Coach Lee Williams recalls last year in the Dayton Relays Schoolfield's greatest effort ever resulted in a third place finish of the H.H. in which he was officially clocked at a time of 14.5 seconds. In the state low hurdle competition last spring he finished with a strong fourth place. This made him be the first runner to place or score in the state from East High since 1958.

Through his fine effort in the state meet, he was invited to compete in the first Ohio Classic Meet at Mansfield, where he finished second in the 180 low hurdles and nearly won. He turned in a time of 19.1 seconds to set a new school record.

Schoolfield maintained about a C average academically and plans to attend college, but at the present time is undecided as to which one.

Kent is a natural flanking back in football and hopes to play this position at the school of his choice. He caught 15 touchdown passes in football last season.

Yes, Gus and John Kept That Date With 'The Intrepid!'

THIS IS THE WAY the Navy's "Intrepid," giant sea-seasoned aircraft carrier, appeared while awaiting two of its most distinguished guests — Astronauts Virgil (Gus) Grissom and John W. Young. The 45-foot sign of welcome was painted by Navy Journalist John Auble Jr., who has had lots of practice concocting headlines for The Spectator. Until called to active duty 20 months ago, Auble was editor of the Eastern Review. The Intrepid was the primary recovery ship for the astronauts after they successfully orbited the earth Mar. 23 in the first steerable spacecraft. They landed in the ocean about 700 miles downrange from Cape Kennedy. A helicopter from the "Intrepid," similar to those pictured at the left, hoisted Grissom and Young from their bobbing capsule Tuesday afternoon and transported them to the carrier some 50 miles away. The astronauts were to be returned in the Intrepid to Cape Kennedy for de-briefing. On Friday they go to the White House to be commended by President Johnson. (Official U.S. Navy photographs.)

Teens Launch Tutoring Program For Culturally Deprived Children

Little seeds sprout . . . intellectual development, some times, when the soil has been made fertile.

And, a selected group of community teenagers, pledged to the goal of "helping children who need help most," are embarked on a unique person-to-person enrichment program for culturally deprived youngsters.

These teenage tutors meet with their students once a week at First English Lutheran Church in an experimental effort to sow seeds of knowledge for first, second and third graders, develop their intellectual curiosity and good study skills.

Sponsored by the Jewish Center Youth Movement and the Young Folks Temple League of Temple Israel, the program is open to any junior or senior high school student.

The tutors need not be teachers or remedial reading specialists, but must be able to comunicate with a child.

The children, although of above average potential, frequently do not do well in school because of limitations of their environment.

A child who does not respond positively to a classroom situation will often respond to individual attention. And, after establishing a personal relationship with the youngster, the tutor can proceed to help in academic work.

A continuing program of training and supervision for the teenage tutors is held, with the next training session scheduled Sunday, Mar. 28, 7:30 p.m. at the Jewish Center.

Mrs. Phillip Bradley is coordinating the program for the center, and Miss Myra Jean Gurevitz, CYM chairman, is responsible for the recruitment of tutors.

The first group of teenagers began tutoring two months ago, and includes Linnie Robinson, Butch Mentzer, Steve Schecter, Mike Silverman, Leslie Center, Sherry Peselnick, Dave Hazen, Judy Schacter and Lois Schacter.

Another 20 teens have applied and been accepted, and will begin Apr. 1.

More information is available by calling Barrie Segall, BE. 1-2731.

MAYFLOWER MOTORISTS HAVE BEEN RIDING ON AIR!

TWO AND A HALF FEET of absolutely nothing was revealed when the damaged section of Mayflower-blvd was removed by city workmen. A water line is visible, lower right, and another utility line on the left. Drivers of the 15-ton transit buses, as well as motorists and truck drivers who regularly use the route, were astounded to find they had been literally "riding on air." And Whitehall officials, grateful that the weakness had been found in time to avert a possible tragedy, quickly repaired the damage. The section of street was replaced last week, after the hole was filled with concrete and expanded metal.

DEEP CRACKS IN THE STREET and a sinking curb in front of 4085 Mayflower-blvd were the clues to trouble, and a measuring stick inserted in the crack revealed the "depth" of the problem — a two and a half-foot hole beneath the paving. Investigating officials were startled to find that the broken sections of pavement had wedged tightly to form the only support for the street's heavy traffic. Street Superintendent Harry Worley and Bill Robey of the city engineer's office eye the two and a half-foot mark on the measuring stick displayed by Mayor William Heinhaus.

Franklin Heights, Eastmoor and Walnut Ridge shared domination of the second annual Spectator All-Star Wrestling Squad announced this week.

All three teams placed wrestlers in two berths each with the Falcons and Warriors adding another selection to the second team.

DISTRICT champion DeSales gained recognition for five grapplers, taking single first and second team berths plus three honorable mentions.

Worthington and East placed four boys apiece.

Lone repeater on the first team was Whitehall's top-notch 120-pounder Steve Beery. Franklin Height's Mike Long moved up from a second team berth while teammate Dick Grambo and Eastmoor's Pete Johnson made the big jump all the way from honorable mention to first team.

EASTMOOR'S Roy Leonard was a repeater to the second team while Hartley's Paul Burkey moved from honorable mention to second team.

Worthington's Paul Mitchell (127), one of three unbeaten wrestlers on the first team, was named honorary team captain, garnering the highest point total — the factor which determined the All-Star squad.

The other two unbeatens, besides Mitchell, were Brookhaven's Gary Rapp (103) and Walnut Ridge's Steve Roberts (133).

THE FIRST team's combined won-loss record was 206-12-1 for the '64-'65 season. Totaled second team mark was 207-21-1.

The first 22 contained 12 seniors, eight juniors and two sophomores — both of the latter on the first team.

A total of 28 coaches were contacted for nominations to the squad which represents Franklin County and surrounding areas where the Spectator circulates.

THE SQUAD was determined by coaches' nominations and guided by a rigid point system which allowed: ten points for a District win; five points for District runner-up; three points for third and two points for fourth.

Five additional points were granted for advancement in state competition, two more points for a league meet win and one additional point for each win (both dual and tourney) gained during the '64-'65 season.

The top 22 wrestlers will receive certificates from the Spectator which read, "For outstanding wrestling achievement during the past season . . . has been selected to The Spectator All-Star Wrestling Squad (berth and season)."

THE CERTIFICATES will be mailed to the 22 wrestlers in care of their respective wrestling coaches.

BOB McMAHAN — JIM HEROLD

Mat Coaches Honor McMahan, Herold

In keeping with the selection of an All-Star Wrestling Squad, The Spectator inaugurates this year its first "Coach of the Year" award.

Area wrestling coaches, who nominated their choice for mat mentor of the year, bestowed the honor on Worthington's Bob McMahan.

Coaches were asked to consider not only won-loss records in making their selection but also efforts of a fellow coach to promote and encourage high school wrestling.

McMahan guided his Cardinal grapplers to the Central Buckeye mat crown this past season and saw his charges finish second only to DeSales in District competition.

Other area wrestling coaches who received votes in the "Coach of the year" polling were: Brookhaven's Gary Allen, East's Jim Porter, Franklin Heights' Bob Twiss, Bexley's Ben Tenwalde and Pleasant View's Bob Mowery.

Along with the "Coach of the Year" certificate which will go to McMahan, The Spectator is also awarding a certificate for "outstanding contribution to high school wrestling" to Jim Herold of DeSales.

Instrumental in the Stallions' rise from nowhere to the District title in two seasons, Herold received many plaudits from area wrestling coaches.

Class 'AA' Cage Finals Will Be Aired On TV-4

The Ohio High School Class "AA" Basketball Tournament semi-final second game will be televised live from St. John Arena Friday, Mar. 26, at 9:30 p.m. and the State Championship will be televised Saturday, Mar. 27, at 8 p.m. on TV 4.

Jimmy Crum and Ken Coleman will do the commentary as Ohio's best vie for top honors.

How Do Ohio's GAS Rates Compare?

Overall, in the United States, Natural Gas Rates for Homes are 26% HIGHER than in Ohio

Natural gas rates in Ohio, for heating homes, are among the lowest in the nation.*

Look at how much higher the rates are in these other nearby states: Indiana, 21% higher; Illinois, 35% higher; Michigan, 24% higher; Wisconsin, 50% higher; Iowa, 19% higher, and Minnesota, 38% higher.

And Ohio's residential rates are virtually the same as those in Texas, by far the nation's largest producer of natural gas.

WHY?

The key is underground storage. During summer, natural gas produced in the southwest is piped to Ohio and pumped into huge underground storage reservoirs developed by your gas company. In winter the gas is withdrawn from storage as needed to help heat homes.

Because of underground storage, natural gas is available for home-heating to hundreds of thousands of Ohio families who want year-around comfort and convenience — at economical cost.

Bill Would Upgrade Police

Virtually all Ohio police officers undergo some form of training before they assume their responsibilities of keeping the peace and protecting life, limb and property of the public. And most of the training programs range from adequate to rigid in quality.

Yet many of our suburban and rural communities are unable to assume the expense of setting up training facilities and securing skilled police training instructors. In these scattered areas training is woefully inadequate.

But a solution to this problem presents itself in the form of House Bill 363, introduced a few days ago in the Ohio General Assembly. The proposed law sets a minimum standard of 120 hours of basic training for all potential police officers — with the state to assume the actual training expenses.

The training plan calls for the use of existing training facilities and certification of qualified instructors. The communities taking advantage of the training programs would pay all costs incidental to training. It is estimated that total cost to the state for the program — at least initially — will be $50,000 annually.

A reasonable minimum requirement for police training is long overdue, and this corrective measure should be looked upon favorably by all local communities. The proposed law has the backing of every major law enforcement agency in the state. It deserves the backing of the general public and swift ratification by the legislature.

Must We Encourage Garbage-Pickers?

To the Editor:

During the depression years in Chicago I frequently witnessed a shocking and unbelievable sight — swarms of human beings competing in the rat-infested alleys of the "Loop" for first crack at the contents of the restaurant garbage cans.

At that time, I thought it was a case of last resort or starvation. I was astounded to see this revolting practice continued into the prosperous war and post-war years. I concluded that neither economic depression nor prosperity was a factor, but that this was a simple case of where the quality standards of those involved were being met.

I believe something like this occurs when men and women, young and old, gather around the drug store garbage racks — the evil of which Jenkin Lloyd Jones often writes. Apparently their moral and literary quality standards are being met and they are reacting to the extent of 15,000,000 purchases of pornographic articles per month — making the mass mess a multi-billion-dollar infection.

Law enforcement authorities have often cited the relationship between the ever-increasing sex-crime rate and the pornographic sales volume; and note that child molesters, muggers, sex deviates and rapists are generally found to own much of such trash.

Apparently these people derive from this material motivation for their foul deeds, as did Lee Harvey Oswald from his extreme left-wing publications.

All Catholics reaffirm annually their pledge "to avoid indecent films and literature and the establishments which feature them . . ." This of course applies to all areas of pornography and the implementation of this pledge is, in my opinion, the only permanent remedy to the problem. Pornography dealers, with their sewer like minds, have only one sensitive spot in their anatomy — their pocket books.

I visited all drug stores in my community and located a pharmacy where not a single pornographic magazine could be found. In fact no magazines were available. When the owner refused to accept the trash, all orders for legitimate periodicals and magazines were ignored.

I have, in the past two years referred many families to this business place, the proprietor of which is of such moral fiber that youth betterment is of greater importance than the dollar bill.

I recommend this solution of the drug store garbage rack problem to all concerned.

Chalk Up One For Jones

To the Editor:

The strength and logic of Mr. Jones' editorials as well as your whole editorial page makes me feel lucky I got my name on your mailing list.

Hugh R. Miller

P.S. I don't believe, however that it is Mr. Jones who does his rough drafts in crayon as was recently suggested by one letter writer but rather the back fence "playboys" who have somehow slithered into the business of writing, publishing and distributing literature.

Defends Social Security

To the Editor:

Mr. R. M. Hartman, writing in the Mar. 11 Spectator, was so anxious to get across his criticism of the treatment of veterans that he attacked the Social Security program with statements which are without foundation.

The funds from Social Security are regularly reported, the funds are in trust and are to be used only for the purposes for which they have been paid. Mr. Hartman, or anyone who contributes to Social Security can find out how much they have paid in by merely writing to the Social Security office in Baltimore, Md., in order to find out what he has in his account.

Over 90 percent of the people in this country are covered by the Social Security program; the checks are distributed on time to the recipients. The greatest joy to the aging, the widows, the disabled, and others who receive the Social Security benefits is that they receive them automatically, and anywhere they may live in the United States.

Mr. Hartman also gives the impression that Social Security is a "give away" program. Nothing could be further from the truth. Employed people pay into the Social Security funds during their earning years, and they draw benefits from these earnings when they need it most — during the years of limited or no employment.

Having worked for many years with aging people as well as with widows and children who have been dependent upon Social Security checks for their major or sole source of income, I know what it means for these people not to have to become dependent upon poor relief funds. They are people who walk and live in dignity because they receive money which they are entitled to; they are beholden to no one.

Contrary to Mr. Hartman's comment that Social Security funds do not exist, they exist as the strongest and best program for the welfare of great sections of people in this country — the almost 20,000,000 aging, the widows, and others who will testify to its solvency and effectiveness.

May I point out that I have no association whatsoever with the Social Security office or the federal government.

Dr. Samuel D. Stellman

Cheers For Inspectors

To the Editor:

A friend wanted to build a new home, but she complained about the permit — the nosey inspectors. So I reminded her how nice it is to know the inspectors make our homes safe. We should be happy when the gentleman calls on you to check for workmanship, quality and safety.

To the home owner, the renter, the buyer, the builder, the contracting agent — this inspection applies to all trades.

I am very sure industry wants quality employes to do the work that will stand close inspection.

To all the inspectors of Columbus and Franklin County: Keep up your outstanding work and keep Columbus safe!

Against 'Jack' In Pulpits

Let me say in capital letters I believe life proves in every area there is a God.

I certainly have no criterion to prove I am following Him but I daily ask Him for guidance because I think to know God is most necessary to abundant living.

If there is a God who functions in the lives of men and He is spiritual, why do churches so constantly seek the material? Big buildings, fancy robes, gold cups, crowns, and worst of all authority and tax money for bus fare. They seek money through gambling, begging, demanding of individuals, and they tell business men that church members will not patronize them if they don't pay the church (You might call it protection money.) How much more materialistic can they get?

Let's keep our children together in public schools so we will not have a divided America. Look at Europe. Let's not repeat her error.

It is hard to see the difference between people who say they believe in God and the ones who say they do not.

We talk about atheistic, materialistic, Communism. How about materialistic Christianism?

Let's make our spiritual light so outshine material glitter that the atheist sees the way. Let's all pray that we find a way to do this.

The 1965 Easter Seal campaign of the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children will include an Easter Seal Parade from Mar. 27 through 31. The door-to-door campaign will be conducted by more than 8,000 volunteer workers.

During 1964, some 721 Franklin County crippled children and adults were benefited by 17,700 separate services — all made possible through the generosity of those who contributed to the last Easter Seal drive. This year's goal is $100,000, and 82 percent of all funds collected will remain at the local level. The remainder helps underwrite national research.

Most of us are acquainted with the truth of this year's Easter Seal motto, "Courage is a Crippled Child." It is little enough to ask that we underwrite such courage by contributing to the Easter Seal campaign.

...And One To Glow On

Birthday Week (Mar. 21 to 27) marks the 55th anniversary of Camp Fire Girls, the oldest national nonsectarian youth organization for all girls in America.

The group boasts 600,000 membership, nationwide, and is open to all girls from seven years of age through high school regardless of race, national origin or economic background.

The educational - recreational programs of Camp Fire Girls are well known in this area, and we are happy to join with others in extending our congratulations and best wishes for continued success.

Frosting on the Cake

BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

President Johnson's Great Society vision is already in serious trouble. The power struggle for prominence and privilege in the "inner chambers" is showing and more and more people are showing outright skepticism about many parts of the grandiose "blueprint."

Medicare is not going to be any pushover in the present Congress, despite the boasting of a few months ago about a great mandate to make everything over.

People everywhere are carrying hospital and accident insurance in companies that are sound as wheat in the bin. They are aware of exactly what they are paying for.

Medicare for everyone over 65 years of age sounded like manna from heaven at the outset. Then came rebuttals and people started to find out for themselves what Medicare didn't guarantee in its present form.

Socialized medicine is already dying on the vine in enlightened Britain. Doctors who worked and slaved for years to gain professional educations, now see that this whole Socialistic mess is just one more "pie in the sky" political racket.

Old and infirm and destitute citizens who have nothing left except their meager expectancy, are entitled to every consideration by any affluent social order and honest political system. But, the professional politicians, mostly devoid of genuine dedication to the "common good," certainly must see the fiscal obstacles ahead.

The AMA, guilty of its share of stupidities, is at last awake to every threat facing it. Now the battle so joined is going to "clear the air." One thing is for sure —the insurance companies are burning the midnight oil to find a rational center-of-the-road program that preserves the private practice of medicine. Socialism is not the way, but honest analysis of every aspect of this problem is possible and gaining public support.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Uncle Sam Pays Price Of Popularity

How did Uncle Sam become the Wicked Uncle?

How did a nation that has poured out 120 billion dollars for the defense, rebuilding and development of other nations become identified in the minds of millions as an exploiter and a meddler?

How did this country, which of all the great powers since history began, most consistently turned its back on opportunities to enlarge its wealth and territories by force, become damned as an arrogant bully?

Jones

How did the United States get painted as an imperialist when it conquered Mexico and walked away, conquered the Philippines and walked away, conquered Cuba and walked away, and conquered Japan and walked away?

The most comforting answer to these distressing questions is that we are not generally hated, that we are still pretty popular. It is argued that the Communists have mastered the technique of making a small mob look like a rising of national indignation, that, after all, it only takes a handful of demonstrators to burn the U.S.I.S. and smash the windows in the American embassy.

There is some truth to this. America is admired in many ways, and a lot of foreigners are sore at us chiefly because our immigration laws won't let them come over and join the picnic.

Another comforting argument is that no great power in history was ever really popular. The Hittites and Nubians cussed the Egyptians. The Dacians and Gauls cussed the Romans. Everybody cussed the British.

There's truth in that, too. Power and wealth beget jealousy, and what men can't knock down they nibble at.

But it would take a high degree of optimism, indeed, to imagine that America's image has not fallen sadly in the past five years and particularly in the past 12 months.

The more we have risked in rushing about the world trying to put out brushfire wars, the more the onlookers have criticized our operation of the pumps and our handling of the hose.

Like Br'er Rabbit battling the tar-baby, every time we try to hit a lick for justice we seem to get more gummed up.

Our flag is torn down, our embassies invaded, our diplomats kicked out. And when our ambassadors go to the palaces to protest they often have to interview the assistant gatekeepers. What have we done that's wrong?

Well, perhaps our biggest problem springs from the fact that we have become enmeshed in our own propaganda. Woodrow Wilson stated that the self-determination of peoples would be American policy. So every time a band of rebels in any colony has squawked we've thrown our weight on their side.

We have labored under the fond delusion that any European colony must be a sort of Colonial America, filled with high indignation about the abused rights of man, stuffed with latter-day Washingtons, Franklins and Jeffersons, and ready to be born as a "freedom-loving nation."

Enough of these have been born now, thanks largely to our pressure, to indicate that not much is gained for the natives when a system of order imposed by colonial overlords is replaced by chaos or raw oppression under home-grown tyrants.

Secondly, we overestimated the altruism of some of our European friends. Britain has withdrawn to semi-isolation. No help has come from West Germany. The U.N. "police action" in Korea was left up to Uncle Sam. France, having failed to hold Indo-China, lost all interest in the area until we became fouled up in trying to save it. And now De Gaulle is pressing for negotiations in an effort to regain France's commercial advantages in Southeast Asia.

Thirdly, we suffered from the naive idea that race prejudice is exclusively a white man's vice. That is not so. In much of the world the white man is hated for no better reason than the whiteness of his skin. If there is no virtue (and there isn't) in trying to prevent an Alabamian from voting because his skin is black, neither is there virtue in baring fangs at an American whose skin happens to be neither black, brown nor yellow. But this is going on from Kyoto to Cape Town, and the Red Chinese are making it pay.

There was nothing wrong with our long-range vision. It was certain that the old colonial system would have to be modified and eventually eliminated. We were correct in suffering the agony of Korea, even if we booted the victory. We are dead right in our fear that if we pull out of Vietnam now the Red Chinese will soon control all Southeast Asia and they will no more run it for the benefit of the natives than did Japs during the brief "Greater East Asia Co-Prosperity Sphere."

But we were dead wrong in our timing at breaking up the old empires. We remain dead wrong in our persistent and wistful hope that the European powers will act in anything but narrow self-interest, and that from these new states we can command much gratitude or understanding of our aims.

That's why we are now a Wicked Uncle.

WHAT MY RELIGION MEANS TO ME

(Ed. Note: During Lent this column is guest-written by laymen as part of a project sponsored by the West Side Kiwanis Club.)

Several years ago my daughter, then a child of five, was out with her father who was making pastoral calls on some of his congregation in Oberlin. It was in the fall of the year and flocks of birds flying together, were beginning their pilgrimage south. As Marilyn looked up and saw a group of them she exclaimed, "Daddy, what do the birds hang on to when they fly?"

Mrs. Whiteman

I ask myself the question, "What do some people hang on to in times of discouragement, death, illness and varied pressures that people meet from day to day?"

In my own personal life I have found that any service that I might have rendered as a minister's wife, as a mother and teacher, has been my reliance upon the basic religious training I received as a child. This helped me to form my character and mold my thinking.

Certain religious practices through the years have strengthened me in my faith. One would be prayer.

Prayer is the link between God and man. It gives power and guidance for my daily living. It gives purpose to my life when I keep in close touch with Him. I have found that the times I have been discouraged, have been the times I have been looking at myself and away from God.

The practice of love is another step that is meaningful to me.

Through my life I have had so many evidences of God's love for me — the gift of Jesus, His protection over us, His natural blessings I have enjoyed, and the many wonderful people I have met through the years who have loved and served Him, too. When I have shared my love with those whom I meet day by day, I find God so much closer to me.

My religious life then has called me to serve Him joyously in many capacities — as a minister's wife, a mother and as a teacher.

Senior Citizens Center

Between 40 and 50 members of the Senior Citizens Recreation Center have become interested in folk dancing. The group meets each Wednesday evening from 6 to 7 in the center's auditorium at 275 McDowell-st. Mrs. Ardath Lynch, recreation leader, is the staff coordinator for the group, and in March center members Mr. and Mrs. William Calvo have been demonstrating and teaching an American folk dance, the one-step stomp. For future sessions, reels, polkas and mixers will be taught, as well as dances of foreign countries. Various people will assist Mrs. Lynch.

On Wednesday, Mar. 31, no folk dance class will be held because the Center has scheduled an old-fashioned dance hoe-down which will feature a special square dance caller, and dancing will include two-step, waltzes, squares, polkas, mixers, rye waltz, Virginia reel and novelty dances.

The center's dining room will carry out the theme with special table dressings and refreshments. The dance will be from 7 to 9:30 p.m. and will be open to members and their guests.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

The Price Tag On Meat Explained

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Grapefruit, Valencia juice oranges, bananas, apples.

Vegetables—Carrots, green and dry onions, salad greens, cabbage, all-purpose potatoes.

Meat, Poultry — Large Grade A eggs, chicken, beef "specials", smoked picnics, pork sausage.

Other — Frozen fish fillets, cheese, canned: pink salmon, light meat tuna, Bartlett pears.

Do you sometimes wonder how the retailer arrives at the price tags you find and the various cuts of meat? This may be particularly confusing if you have just read the livestock market report. But here are same things the retailer must consider:

Mrs. Franks

First the cost of the meat to him. Retailers usually purchase meat by the side. The price he pays will depend upon the grade — such as U.S. Prime, U. S. Choice, or U.S. Good and the age and weight of the animal. If a retailer buys a 300-pound side of beef at 38 cent per pound, his total cost is $114.

To the wholesale cost he must add a margin for operating costs such as labor for cutting and wrapping; cutting loss, advertising, plus the long list of general overhead expenses—and, he likes to come out with a little profit.

If a 20 percent mark-up is required, the total value of 300 pounds of meat becomes $136.00 or 42 cents per pound.

Then there's the waste involved. Of the 300-pound side of beef only about 75 percent is saleable meat; the remainder is fat and bone. Now the retailer's cost jumps to 61 cents a pound.

Rising consumer incomes and preferences for steaks, choice roasts and boneless cuts makes pricing difficult and challenging in order to sell all his meat. He must move the less desirable cuts, too, and must price them to meet the competition across the street.

It seems that consumers are getting used to key prices that competition has established for such standard cuts as round steak, chuck roast and ground beef. So the retailer must keep "in line" with these prices if he wants to maintain his share of the market.

When specialmg items, stores tend to special only one type cut per carcass in order to clean up the total carcass and thus provide a balanced merchandising program. Retailers tend to adjust prices downward through the use of specials which reduce prices 10 to 15 percent during periods of high prices and low supply and 15 to 30 percent during low prices and high supply. To the consumer specials may be very important. On average retail price of beef is lowered three to four cents, but if the shopper takes advantage of the best specials he can save 10 to 12 cents a pound.

Bill Would Upgrade Police

Virtually all Ohio police officers undergo some form of training before they assume their responsibilities of keeping the peace and protecting life, limb and property of the public. And most of the training programs range from adequate to rigid in quality.

Yet many of our suburban and rural communities are unable to assume the expense of setting up training facilities and securing skilled police training instructors. In these scattered areas training is woefully inadequate.

But a solution to this problem presents itself in the form of House Bill 363, introduced a few days ago in the Ohio General Assembly. The proposed law sets a minimum standard of 120 hours of basic training for all potential police officers — with the state to assume the actual training expenses.

The training plan calls for the use of existing training facilities and certification of qualified instructors. The communities taking advantage of the training programs would pay all costs incidental to training. It is estimated that total cost to the state for the program — at least initially — will be $50,000 annually.

A reasonable minimum requirement for police training is long overdue, and this corrective measure should be looked upon favorably by all local communities. The proposed law has the backing of every major law enforcement agency in the state. It deserves the backing of the general public and swift ratification by the legislature.

Must We Encourage Garbage-Pickers?

To the Editor:

During the depression years in Chicago I frequently witnessed a shocking and unbelievable sight — swarms of human beings competing in the rat-infested alleys of the "Loop" for first crack at the contents of the restaurant garbage cans.

At that time, I thought it was a case of last resort or starvation. I was astounded to see this revolting practice continued into the prosperous war and post-war years. I concluded that neither economic depression nor prosperity was a factor, but that this was a simple case of where the quality standards of those involved were being met.

I believe something like this occurs when men and women, young and old, gather around the drug store garbage racks — the evil of which Jenkin Lloyd Jones often writes. Apparently their moral and literary quality standards are being met and they are reacting to the extent of 15,000,000 purchases of pornographic articles per month — making the mass mess a multi-billion-dollar infection.

Law enforcement authorities have often cited the relationship between the ever-increasing sex-crime rate and the pornographic sales volume; and note that child molesters, muggers, sex deviates and rapists are generally found to own much of such trash.

Apparently these people derive from this material motivation for their foul deeds, as did Lee Harvey Oswald from his extreme left-wing publications.

All Catholics reaffirm annually their pledge "to avoid indecent films and literature and the establishments which feature them . . ." This of course applies to all areas of pornography and the implementation of this pledge is, in my opinion, the only permanent remedy to the problem. Pornography dealers, with their sewer like minds, have only one sensitive spot in their anatomy — their pocket books.

I visited all drug stores in my community and located a pharmacy where not a single pornographic magazine could be found. In fact no magazines were available. When the owner refused to accept the trash, all orders for legitimate periodicals and magazines were ignored.

I have, in the past two years referred many families to this business place, the proprietor of which is of such moral fiber that youth betterment is of greater importance than the dollar bill.

I recommend this solution of the drug store garbage rack problem to all concerned.

Chalk Up One For Jones

To the Editor:

The strength and logic of Mr. Jones' editorials as well as your whole editorial page makes me feel lucky I got my name on your mailing list.

Hugh R. Miller

P.S. I don't believe, however that it is Mr. Jones who does his rough drafts in crayon as was recently suggested by one letter writer but rather the back fence "playboys" who have somehow slithered into the business of writing, publishing and distributing literature.

Defends Social Security

To the Editor:

Mr. R. M. Hartman, writing in the Mar. 11 Spectator, was so anxious to get across his criticism of the treatment of veterans that he attacked the Social Security program with statements which are without foundation.

The funds from Social Security are regularly reported, the funds are in trust and are to be used only for the purposes for which they have been paid. Mr. Hartman, or anyone who contributes to Social Security can find out how much they have paid in by merely writing to the Social Security office in Baltimore, Md., in order to find out what he has in his account.

Over 90 percent of the people in this country are covered by the Social Security program; the checks are distributed on time to the recipients. The greatest joy to the aging, the widows, the disabled, and others who receive the Social Security benefits is that they receive them automatically, and anywhere they may live in the United States.

Mr. Hartman also gives the impression that Social Security is a "give away" program. Nothing could be further from the truth. Employed people pay into the Social Security funds during their earning years, and they draw benefits from these earnings when they need it most — during the years of limited or no employment.

Having worked for many years with aging people as well as with widows and children who have been dependent upon Social Security checks for their major or sole source of income, I know what it means for these people not to have to become dependent upon poor relief funds. They are people who walk and live in dignity because they receive money which they are entitled to; they are beholden to no one.

Contrary to Mr. Hartman's comment that Social Security funds do not exist, they exist as the strongest and best program for the welfare of great sections of people in this country — the almost 20,000,000 aging, the widows, and others who will testify to its solvency and effectiveness.

May I point out that I have no association whatsoever with the Social Security office or the federal government.

Cheers For Inspectors

To the Editor:

A friend wanted to build a new home, but she complained about the permit — the nosey inspectors. So I reminded her how nice it is to know the inspectors make our homes safe. We should be happy when the gentleman calls on you to check for workmanship, quality and safety.

To the home owner, the renter, the buyer, the builder, the contracting agent — this inspection applies to all trades.

I am very sure industry wants quality employes to do the work that will stand close inspection.

To all the inspectors of Columbus and Franklin County: Keep up your outstanding work and keep Columbus safe!

Against 'Jack' In Pulpits

Let me say in capital letters I believe life proves in every area there is a God.

I certainly have no criterion to prove I am following Him but I daily ask Him for guidance because I think to know God is most necessary to abundant living.

If there is a God who functions in the lives of men and He is spiritual, why do churches so constantly seek the material? Big buildings, fancy robes, gold cups, crowns, and worst of all authority and tax money for bus fare. They seek money through gambling, begging, demanding of individuals, and they tell business men that church members will not patronize them if they don't pay the church (You might call it protection money.) How much more materialistic can they get?

Let's keep our children together in public schools so we will not have a divided America. Look at Europe. Let's not repeat her error.

It is hard to see the difference between people who say they believe in God and the ones who say they do not.

We talk about atheistic, materialistic, Communism. How about materialistic Christianism?

Let's make our spiritual light so outshine material glitter that the atheist sees the way. Let's all pray that we find a way to do this.

JINGLE —

JANGLE — The Central Figure of the Christian era was a reformer, not a revolutionist; an instructor, not an insurrectionist. He went to His death on a charge of heresy, not for a civil offense. He advocated strict compliance with civil laws. The night of His arrest, leading to His crucifixion, He did an act of kindness to an officer of the law.

Can persons dedicated to "see His banners go" act "in defiance of a court order and a plea from the President?"

Two wrongs do not make a right.

JUNGLE — A vodka-toasted one-worlder left a party and staggered to a lamp post on the sidewalk. Making the third round, fumbling frantically at the post, he sobbed: Lost! Lost in an impenetrable forest!"

Messrs. Webster and Roget include involvement, entanglement, perplexity and complexity in their definitions of a jungle.

To the children of Israel at one period of their 40 years of wandering in the wilderness, it was pointed out that they had gone around the same mountain several times.

Off hand, can you think of anyone goin' 'round the same mountain, lost in an impenetrable forest?

Offer A Helping Hand

The 1965 Easter Seal campaign of the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children will include an Easter Seal Parade from Mar. 27 through 31. The door-to-door campaign will be conducted by more than 8,000 volunteer workers.

During 1964, some 721 Franklin County crippled children and adults were benefited by 17,700 separate services — all made possible through the generosity of those who contributed to the last Easter Seal drive. This year's goal is $100,000, and 82 percent of all funds collected will remain at the local level. The remainder helps underwrite national research.

Most of us are acquainted with the truth of this year's Easter Seal motto, "Courage is a Crippled Child." It is little enough to ask that we underwrite such courage by contributing to the Easter Seal campaign.

...And One To Glow On

Birthday Week (Mar. 21 to 27) marks the 55th anniversary of Camp Fire Girls, the oldest national non-sectarian youth organization for all girls in America.

The educational - recreational programs of Camp Fire Girls are well known in this area, and we are happy to join with others in extending our congratulations and best wishes for continued success.

Frosting on the Cake

BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

President Johnson's Great Society vision is already in serious trouble. The power struggle for prominence and privilege in the "inner chambers" is showing and more and more people are showing outright skepticism about many parts of the grandiose "blueprint."

Medicare is not going to be any pushover in the present Congress, despite the boasting of a few months ago about a great mandate to make everything over.

People everywhere are carrying hospital and accident insurance in companies that are sound as wheat in the bin. They are aware of exactly what they are paying for.

Medicare for everyone over 65 years of age sounded like manna from heaven at the outset. Then came rebuttals and people started to find out for themselves what Medicare didn't guarantee in its present form.

Socialized medicine is already dying on the vine in enlightened Britain. Doctors who worked and slaved for years to gain professional educations, now see that this whole Socialistic mess is just one more "pie in the sky" political racket.

Old and infirm and destitute citizens who have nothing left except their meager expectancy, are entitled to every consideration by any affluent social order and honest political system. But, the professional politicians, mostly devoid of genuine dedication to the "common good," certainly must see the fiscal obstacles ahead.

The AMA, guilty of its share of stupidities, is at last awake to every threat facing it. Now the battle so joined is going to "clear the air." One thing is for sure —the insurance companies are burning the midnight oil to find a rational center-of-the-road program that preserves the private practice of medicine. Socialism is not the way, but honest analysis of every aspect of this problem is possible and gaining public support.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Uncle Sam Pays Price Of Popularity

How did Uncle Sam become the Wicked Uncle?

How did a nation that has poured out 120 billion dollars for the defense, rebuilding and development of other nations become identified in the minds of millions as an exploiter and a meddler?

How did this country, which of all the great powers since history began, most consistently turned its back on opportunities to enlarge its wealth and territories by force, become damned as an arrogant bully?

Jones

How did the United States get painted as an imperialist when it conquered Mexico and walked away, conquered the Philippines and walked away, conquered Cuba and walked away, and conquered Japan and walked away?

The most comforting answer to these distressing questions is that we are not generally hated, that we are still pretty popular. It is argued that the Communists have mastered the technique of making a small mob look like a rising of national indignation, that, after all, it only takes a handful of demonstrators to burn the U.S.I.S. and smash the windows in the American embassy.

There is some truth to this. America is admired in many ways, and a lot of foreigners are sore at us chiefly because our immigration laws won't let them come over and join the picnic.

Another comforting argument is that no great power in history was ever really popular. The Hittites and Nubians cussed the Egyptians. The Dacians and Gauls cussed the Romans. Everybody cussed the British.

There's truth in that, too. Power and wealth beget jealousy, and what men can't knock down they nibble at.

But it would take a high degree of optimism, indeed, to imagine that America's image has not fallen sadly in the past five years and particularly in the past 12 months.

The more we have risked in rushing about the world trying to put out brushfire wars, the more the onlookers have criticized our operation of the pumps and our handling of the hose.

Like Br'er Rabbit battling the tar-baby, every time we try to hit a lick for justice we seem to get more gummed up.

Our flag is torn down, our embassies invaded, our diplomats kicked out. And when our ambassadors go to the palaces to protest they often have to interview the assistant gatekeepers. What have we done that's wrong?

Well, perhaps our biggest problem springs from the fact that we have become enmeshed in our own propaganda. Woodrow Wilson stated that the self-determination of peoples would be American policy. So every time a band of rebels in any colony has squawked we've thrown our weight on their side.

We have labored under the fond delusion that any European colony must be a sort of Colonial America, filled with high indignation about the abused rights of man, stuffed with latter-day Washingtons, Franklins and Jeffersons, and ready to be born as a "freedom-loving nation."

Enough of these have been born now, thanks largely to our pressure, to indicate that not much is gained for the natives when a system of order imposed by colonial overlords is replaced by chaos or raw oppression under home-grown tyrants.

Secondly, we overestimated the altruism of some of our European friends. Britain has withdrawn to semi-isolation. No help has come from West Germany. The U.N. "police action" in Korea was left up to Uncle Sam. France, having failed to hold Indo-China, lost all interest in the area until we became fouled up in trying to save it. And now De Gaulle is pressing for negotiations in an effort to regain France's commercial advantages in Southeast Asia.

Thirdly, we suffered from the naive idea that race prejudice is exclusively a white man's vice. That is not so. In much of the world the white man is hated for no better reason than the whiteness of his skin. If there is no virtue (and there isn't) in trying to prevent an Alabamian from voting because his skin is black, neither is there virtue in baring fangs at an American whose skin happens to be neither black, brown nor yellow. But this is going on from Kyoto to Cape Town, and the Red Chinese are making it pay.

There was nothing wrong with our long-range vision. It was certain that the old colonial system would have to be modified and eventually eliminated. We were correct in suffering the agony of Korea, even if we booted the victory. We are dead right in our fear that if we pull out of Vietnam now the Red Chinese will soon control all Southeast Asia and they will no more run it for the benefit of the natives than did Japs during the brief "Greater East Asia Co-Prosperity Sphere."

But we were dead wrong in our timing at breaking up the old empires. We remain dead wrong in our persistent and wistful hope that the European powers will act in anything but narrow self-interest, and that from these new states we can command much gratitude or understanding of our aims.

That's why we are now a Wicked Uncle.

Guest Pulpit . .

WHAT MY RELIGION MEANS TO ME

(Ed. Note: During Lent this column is guest-written by laymen as part of a project sponsored by the West Side Kiwanis Club.)

Several years ago my daughter, then a child of five, was out with her father who was making pastoral calls on some of his congregation in Oberlin. It was in the fall of the year and flocks of birds flying together, were beginning their pilgrimage south. As Marilyn looked up and saw a group of them she exclaimed, "Daddy, what do the birds hang on to when they fly?"

Mrs. Whiteman

I ask myself the question, "What do some people hang on to in times of discouragement, death, illness and varied pressures that people meet from day to day?"

In my own personal life I have found that any service that I might have rendered as a minister's wife, as a mother and teacher, has been my reliance upon the basic religious training I received as a child. This helped me to form my character and mold my thinking.

Certain religious practices through the years have strengthened me in my faith. One would be prayer.

Prayer is the link between God and man. It gives power and guidance for my daily living. It gives purpose to my life when I keep in close touch with Him. I have found that the times I have been discouraged, have been the times I have been looking at myself and away from God.

The practice of love is another step that is meaningful to me.

Through my life I have had so many evidences of God's love for me — the gift of Jesus, His protection over us, His natural blessings I have enjoyed, and the many wonderful people I have met through the years who have loved and served Him, too. When I have shared my love with those whom I meet day by day, I find God so much closer to me.

My religious life then has called me to serve Him joyously in many capacities — as a minister's wife, a mother and as a teacher.

Senior Citizens Center

Between 40 and 50 members of the Senior Citizens Recreation Center have become interested in folk dancing. The group meets each Wednesday evening from 6 to 7 in the center's auditorium at 275 McDowell-st. Mrs. Ardath Lynch, recreation leader, is the staff coordinator for the group, and in March center members Mr. and Mrs. William Calvo have been demonstrating and teaching an American folk dance, the one-step stomp. For future sessions, reels, polkas and mixers will be taught, as well as dances of foreign countries. Various people will assist Mrs. Lynch.

On Wednesday, Mar. 31, no folk dance class will be held because the Center has scheduled an old-fashioned dance hoe-down which will feature a special square dance caller, and dancing will include two-step, waltzes, squares, polkas, mixers, rye waltz, Virginia reel and novelty dances.

The center's dining room will carry out the theme with special table dressings and refreshments. The dance will be from 7 to 9:30 p.m. and will be open to members and their guests.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

The Price Tag On Meat Explained

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Grapefruit, Valencia juice oranges, bananas, apples.

Vegetables—Carrots, green and dry onions, salad greens, cabbage, all-purpose potatoes.

Meat, Poultry — Large Grade A eggs, chicken, beef "specials", smoked picnics, pork sausage.

Other — Frozen fish fillets, cheese, canned: pink salmon, light meat tuna, Bartlett pears.

Do you sometimes wonder how the retailer arrives at the price tags you find and the various cuts of meat? This may be particularly confusing if you have just read the livestock market report. But here are same things the retailer must consider:

Mrs. Franks

First the cost of the meat to him. Retailers usually purchase meat by the side. The price he pays will depend upon the grade — such as U.S. Prime, U. S. Choice, or U.S. Good and the age and weight of the animal. If a retailer buys a 300-pound side of beef at 38 cent per pound, his total cost is $114.

To the wholesale cost he must add a margin for operating costs such as labor for cutting and wrapping; cutting loss, advertising, plus the long list of general overhead expenses—and, he likes to come out with a little profit.

If a 20 percent mark-up is required, the total value of 300 pounds of meat becomes $136.00 or 42 cents per pound.

Then there's the waste involved. Of the 300-pound side of beef only about 75 percent is saleable meat; the remainder is fat and bone. Now the retailer's cost jumps to 61 cents a pound.

Rising consumer incomes and preferences for steaks, choice roasts and boneless cuts makes pricing difficult and challenging in order to sell all his meat. He must move the less desirable cuts, too, and must price them to meet the competition across the street.

It seems that consumers are getting used to key prices that competition has established for such standard cuts as round steak, chuck roast and ground beef. So the retailer must keep "in line" with these prices if he wants to maintain his share of the market.

When specialmg items, stores tend to special only one type cut per carcass in order to clean up the total carcass and thus provide a balanced merchandising program. Retailers tend to adjust prices downward through the use of specials which reduce prices 10 to 15 percent during periods of high prices and low supply and 15 to 30 percent during low prices and high supply. To the consumer specials may be very important. On average retail price of beef is lowered three to four cents, but if the shopper takes advantage of the best specials he can save 10 to 12 cents a pound.

Hilliard Girl Receives First County FHA Scholarship

Karen Keene

Karen Keene has been notified by the State Department that she has been selected as the recipient of the 1965 FHA Scholarship. Karen is the first student from Franklin County who has received this award.

Karen, in her fourth year of home economics at Hilliard High School, has for two consecutive years been awarded the trophy for the outstanding student in home economics. During her high school years, she has served as president of the local FHA chapter, secretary of the county organization and chairman of numerous committees. She is serving as chapter consultant and president of the Franklin County FHA Association.

A four-year member of FHA, Karen received her State Homemaker Degree during her junior year. Completing her sophomore year, she represented her chapter by planning and presenting a demonstration at the State Fair. Last year she was appointed to the Junior State Fair Board, representing Vocational Home Economics students of Ohio. This year she will serve as senior member of the board.

Karen has been a participating member in State FHA Leadership Camp, regional meetings, three state conventions and the 1964 National Convention held in Chicago. Serving as chairman of a state-wide committee, she planned and conducted a survey on school drop-outs.

Karen plans to enter Ohio State University to major in home economics. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Keene, 353 Winterringerst, Hilliard.

COFFEE BREAK

Please Get Me To The Bank On Time

By ADELINE DALEY

Thanks to the electronic miracle of the IBM machines now installed in the bank to which we belong, if I'm delayed by a couple of red lights en route down to make a deposit on a Monday morning, I can figure that at least three checks of mine will bounce. That's because they will have arrived at the bank 18 seconds before my deposit.

I understand that even more speedy and efficient methods are being planned. Eventually (I can hardly wait) you will be able to write a check anywhere within a 200-mile radius of the bank and the amount will be deducted from your account inside of 15 minutes.

Or, as so often in my case, stamped with "Refer to Maker" within that same designated time. And I'm afraid that on one of my wild chases to the bank, they will be stamping me with "Refer to THY Maker."

The pity is that often, due to my hasty arithmetic, I'm unaware that I'm overdrawn by, say, $1.79; nevertheless, the impersonal IBM machine tosses my check into the same category with those of professional bad-check artists. What hurts the most is that the bank will also charge $2 for NOT cashing the check, making me now $3.79 overdrawn.

Should another check arrive and be sent back unleashed, I will be even more in arrears, and so on. Tell me, if there is no money in our account to honor these checks, how come the bank keeps taking its dibs?

Fortunately, there ARE times when I operate on a balance of about $10 which keeps us solvent. But it's a wonder that my picture isn't decorating the post office art gallery with my number and alias, straight from the files of "True Detective" magazine—"Paper-Hanger Addie," who works out of grocery stores, posing as a housewife who wants to cash a check for $30 to buy food for her hungry kids.

What I'm looking for is an old fashioned, non-automated bank. One with nice, slow bookkeepers,—except, that is, when they're crediting deposits to your account.

If not that, perhaps we could open an account with a banking institution which deals only in Roman numerals. I would hope that $XXV.III would take longer to compute, provided that nothing was lost in the translation.

I'm also considering doing business with the First National Bank of Tibet (if there is one) where checks have to be brought in by pack horse. But how could I win, if the deposit slips had to be transported the same way?

EDUCATION CONFERENCE IS SATURDAY

"Education — The News — And You" is the theme of the 14th annual In-Service Education Conference to be held Saturday, Mar. 27 in Mershon Auditorium, Ohio State campus, beginning at 8:45 a.m.

He will speak at the 10:45 a.m. session on "I Saw Today's Headline World." A question and answer period will follow.

All Franklin County educators are welcome.

Awards in the 1965 "Ability Counts" writing contest were presented to the winners last Thursday at the mayor's office by Richard Sensenbrenner.

First place winner Maury Topolosky, hospitalized earlier in the week, was unable to attend the ceremonies. His father, Harry, accepted the award.

Development Committee Asks Sewer Rate Hike

Allan W. Lundstrum, chairman of the board of the Development Committee for Greater Columbus, made public this week two policy statements concerning, respectively, a city-wide sewer program and an overall program of water management.

Lundstrum explained that the water management committee of the Development Committee has examined the proposed construction program of the Division of Sewers and Drainage and has studied the report of the consultant. Having determined that completion of the Southerly Treatment Plant and the trunk sewer system is of sufficient urgency to warrant immediate and continuing action by the city, the committee has recommended an immediate increase of at least 35 percent in gross revenue to the Division of Sewers and Drainage to finance construction of the needed facilities. Such an increase should continue in effect until such time as cost studies can provide adequate information to indicate any needed adjustment, the report said. The statement of the committee points out that, to the average household, the increase would amount to slightly more than one cent per day.

The second statement enumerates a seven-point policy relative to water management in the Greater Columbus area. Key points in the policy statement propose that a single public agency should operate one sewerage and sewage treatment system and one water treatment and distribution system for the metropolitan area. In support of the statement of policy, the committee report enumerates an action program designed to accomplish the stated objectives.

Lundstrum indicated that the statements are the culmination of several months of intensive study, and are indicative of the willingness of the members of the organization to assist in the resolutions of common problems.

The Wonderful World Of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We have no problem — now. But we sure used to have one with Bitsy, our Poodle. All of her life she was a nervous wreck. Then we moved here from Mississippi. To make it possible, our vet gave Bitsy some tranquilizers to take along the way. She behaved like an angel.

It was such an improvement I have been keeping her on them ever since. I wonder why more people don't give their pets tranquilizers. They really work.—M.F.

Dear M.F.: No drug should be used for an extended period of time, unless under a doctor's supervision. Tranquilizers may be very helpful, when properly used. But they may also be dangerous. Liver disease is a definite contraindication. Recently it has been learned that tranquilizers may cause addiction.

As with any drug of this type, sudden withdrawal of the drug may cause severe, even fatal symptoms. It would be best to discuss Bitsy's case with a local veterinarian and plan to follow his advice on tranquilizers from here on.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I know all of our neighbors couldn't be seeing things too. We all agree that a blue parakeet without his proper tail plumage has been visiting our bird feeders, usually in the company of the ubiquitous sparrows, which he shoulders to one side when he wants seed. We first noticed him last September.

Each time we have a bad storm or a cold spell we think we've seen the last of Blue Pete. Apparently, he has endured all those hardships and is back on the seed circuit again. How can a pet tropical bird survive such wicked weather? He has avoided all attempts to recapture. Is there any hope he can survive a winter in the Great Outdoors?—T.R.

DEAR T.R.: If Blue Pete is still living, his chances of making it through the winter seem assured. However, he still has a long row to hoe between here and the good old summertime. He is making it because parakeets are tough little birds who will stand an amazing amount of punishment before giving up the ghost.

B.P. was free long enough to become hardened and acclimated so he at least had a fighting chance. With adequate food, reasonable shelter, and a little luck in avoiding enemies, this plucky little parakeet may survive as many seasons outside as he would inside, especially if he were kept by someone unfamiliar with the requirements of his species.

• • •

DEAR DR. MILLER: Can a cat get leukemia? If so, could it be passed on to a kitten? Thanks for any information?—J.D.

DEAR J.D.: Yes, on both counts. Feline leukemia can be passed from one cat to another, though close contact would not necessarily mean transmission of the disease. Feline leukemia (in common with other leukemias) is apparently caused by a virus.

• • •

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have a white mouse colony that started out small but now is much too big. I sold a lot of mice and have given some away. Still, I have too many mice. I keep them in the basement which is quite warm. Dad wants them moved out to the garage. It's cold but not freezing. Dad thinks they might be less romantic out there because it is colder. How will this work out do you think?—T.Y.

DEAR T.Y.: For the sake of this existing population, the change should be gradual. Once acclimated, the mice can safely handle the lower temperature. Your father's idea of fronting friendships has merit. At the colder temperature, young female mice will be much older before they start to breed. And the older females won't get around to romance—and its consequences—as frequently.

• • •

DEAR DR. MILLER: I am an animal lover and active in the Humane Society. For the life of me I cannot understand why individuals insist on the friendship of a cat and bird and then spank the cat when he makes a move toward his natural prey. Anyway — I wish you would say a word against punishing cats for doing what they are prone to do instinctively.—G.S.

COMMENT: As indicated in previous columns, friendships between those feathered and those feline are precarious and difficult to justify.

• • •

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Honor Court Tonight

Boy Scout Troop 297 will hold a Court of Honor at 7 p.m., Thursday, Mar. 25, at the Eagles Home, 771 N. High-st. Scouts, parents and friends are cordially invited. A movie and refreshments will follow the ceremonies.

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

A GOOD WORD ABOUT GOODWILL

Recently Virgie E. Rogers, public relations director of Goodwill Industries, expressed appreciation through The Spectator for the recognition given by nearly 200 churches in Central Ohio.

On the front cover of our church's bulletin appeared a picture of Adolph Walter's sculpture, the original of which hangs in the chapel of the Indianapolis branch of Goodwill Industries. A church, the Cross, and a factory are in the background behind a man standing with tools, a crutch, and a Bible. A woman in a wheelchair is sewing. "The handicapped man and woman work and worship before the Cross and find faith, hope, and courage through love of God."

This time in man's history may be the "age of gray and murderous creeds" and of man's stupid, apocolyptic wars. Yet, all over the earth, and particularly in this good and great land, people in thousands of group efforts are doing truly great and wonderful things to create and preserve, while others seek to destroy.

Of all the good organizations, no one has the competence or right to say which is best. But, fairly, we think, we say that no group is doing more good than Goodwill Industries. Founded in Boston in 1902 by the Rev. Edgar J. Helms, there are branches now in 150 cities here and 20 more abroad, helping over 60,000 handicapped people "to become useful . . . not dependent upon alms . . . but to lift up their heads . . . with faith . . ."

Evaluation, training, employment — these are the things Goodwill is doing for the handicapped people

It says here . . .

Help the handicapped to help themselves
Support Goodwill Industries.

COLUMBUS GAINS NEW INDUSTRY

A NEW 38,000 square foot office-warehouse, similar to the above building, is scheduled for completion in July on the south side of Lincoln Village's Industrial Mile-rd, about midway between Sullivant-av and Georgesville-rd. To be built and owned by the J. L. Williams and Co., Inc., of Dallas, Tex., the new distribution center will be occupied by the Thermoid Division of the H. K. Do It Yourself'ers Warned

"WARNING: Installation of a TV picture tube is dangerous," cautions the Associated Radio and Television Service Dealers of Columbus, commenting on some recent ads which carry the statement "simple installation."

They point out that a 23-inch picture tube is under a vacuum of more than 4,000 pounds and breakage can cause an implosion no less severe than an explosion of that force with consequent flying glass.

A recent radio program, they said, advised a listener to put her old TV tube in a garbage can and break it with an object, an act which could cause serious injury.

If you have a picture tube to dispose of, the association advises, call your TV technician, or call the Associated Radio and Television Service (AM. 2-8712), which will pick up the tube without cost.

Go Fly a Kite

If someone ever tells you, "Go fly a kite," well — do just that! Go fly a kite!

Even if someone isn't mad enough at you to tell you, "Go fly a kite," well do it anyway.

This is traditionally kite-flying time. The winds are generally high and so will be your spirit when you get a good healthy slug of fresh air in your lungs after running across an open field as your kite soars heavenward.

Other benefits include: You are looking up and not down, you face the fact of the invisible at work and your imagination may even take you into outer space if you are willing to just pretend a little.

Go fly a kite!

Rude Awakening!

Did we really get an income tax cut this last year?

This is the question an increasingly large number of people are asking. They have come face to face with the fact that they are getting much smaller refunds than in years past or are finding they owe additional tax.

Income tax people are reporting many individuals are delaying their filing and many will hold up payment as long as possible. Generally the income tax is an even more unpopular subject right now.

Maybe the whole thing is a blessing in disguise. Old Uncle's easy pay plan has taken the sting out of tax paying because people never saw the money. Maybe a little sting may cause more people to become slightly concerned with what happens to tax money.

BEXLEY CITIZENS OUTLINE CITY RECREATION PROGRAM

A STEERING COMMITTEE, representative of many civic, social, church and school organizations in Bexley, has launched plans for the development of a long-range, comprehensive recreational program for the city. Included in the 14-member committee are, from left, C. W. Jones, Bexley High School principal; Mrs. David Altmaier, Mrs. Robert B. Greene, Mrs. Chris Powell and Dave Carruthers.

A complete program of recreation, designed to add new and needed dimension to Bexley living by providing varied, leisure-time activities, is in the making.

And everyone in the city will have a hand in shaping the program by making known his interests and wishes.

A questionnaire will be sent to every Bexley resident, asking information about home and family recreation, as well as personal comments about hoped-for recreational opportunities.

A searching, self-study of recreation in Bexley has been launched by the city recreation board with the approval of Bexley City Council, as the first step in developing a long-range plan for the pursuit of leisure time by residents.

An inventory of the current situation is expected to be finished by May 1, questionnaires mailed by the last of May, and the study completed by mid-June.

The idea, first proposed by the city's joint PTA Council, was presented to the Recreation Board for development, and a steering committee was formed, composed of representatives of nearly every organization in Bexley.

Any church, school, civic or social group in the city, wishing to aid in conducting the study and creating a recreation program, may contact Mrs. Richard McGuire, recreation board secretary, at Jeffrey Mansion, CL. 8-5755, noon to 5 p.m., weekdays.

Sub-committees are now being appointed to make an inventory of information relating to population and city characteristics, places to go, and facilities and programs currently available.

Harry Feldman, director of recreation planning, United Community Council, is consultant.

The needs of adults as well as children, the handicapped and golden age group will be included in the study.

The steering committee, appointed as representative of many interested groups of citizens, includes Mrs. David Altmaier, Doyt Bell, William Birch, Mrs. Charles Bright, Dave Carruthers, Mrs. Robert Greene, Robert Harbold, Sam Ingwerson, C. W. Jones, Dr. John Lewis, Mrs. Chris Powell, Harold Regan, Mayer Rosenfeld and Mrs. O. R. Woodyard, Jr.

'Bus Bill' Supporters Present Petitions; Demand Speed-Up Of Legislative Action

Sponsors and backers of mandatory "Fair Bus Bill" proposals in the Ohio General Assembly have challenged Governor James A. Rhodes and legislative leadership to speed up procedure on the measures. The proposed legislation would extend existing public school bus transportation to all state accredited schools.

In a series of Wednesday afternoon maneuvers, the bus bill supporters:

• Delivered to the governor's office petitions containing the names of more than 400,000 Ohioans who have endorsed the busing bills backed by Ohio Citizens for Educational Freedom (CEF).

• Held a news conference in the Senate Taxation Committee hearing room.

• Hinted broadly that lack of action by Governor Rhodes would result in a news media advertising campaign or "open letters" to Rhodes.

During the news conference, Paul Mecklenborg, Cincinnati, Ohio president of CEF, termed the gathering of the 400,000 signatures "a massive campaign to show evidence of grass roots support" for the mandatory bus bills. (The petitions were received by John McElroy administrative assistant to Rhodes. The governor was in Dayton for a groundbreaking ceremony.)

"Political maneuvering should end when fairness to children is concerned," Mecklenborg said, as he urged Rhodes to "lend the leadership and force of his office to urge passage . . . of an equal and uniform" bus bill.

Mecklenborg said the issue now rests "squarely at the feet of Governor Rhodes."

Several legislators who have co-sponsored or supported mandatory busing measures complained of the slow scheduling of public hearings on the issue, and demanded that a bill be released for a floor vote in the House of Representatives.

"The governor says he supports our bill in principle. It is now time for him to take the same type of outspoken stand that he is taking for the four issues to be voted on in May."

All four committemen have indicated that no endorsements of any candidates have been made, nor would they be made. The committee gave as reason for its neurality, a qualified group of candidates who have filed, and their intention to vigorously support the primary winners.

The Parks Board serves as an advisory group to the City Recreation Commission. James Toomey is chairman of council's recreation committee.

Auction Houses Termed Illegal In Whitehall

Whitehall City Solicitor Paul Haytcher, asked for an opinion on the legality of auction houses in the city, has ruled that they are not permitted under city ordinances.

The request to change zoning of property at 3942 E. Main-st to permit an auction house was made by Gary Geiger.

Haytcher said that since he could find no provisions for auction rooms either in the local commercial or general commercial district, or under special permit, the request, in his opinion, was illegal and should be denied.

He will report his opinion to council at the next session.

SHOT PUT STRONGEST

Whitehall Cindermen Short In Depth Dept.

If anyone is able to break up the old Arlington-Worthington hold on the Central Buckeye League's track throne this spring, it should be Pat McMillen's Whitehall thins.

Elbowing the Bears and Cards out of the CBL title picture is no small order since both showed well at the recent Indoor Track Meet at OSU—the Bears copping the team title.

BUT McMILLEN does have 11 returning veterans this season and counts only shot putter Bill Landis and hurdler Mike Smith among key losses.

Despite the loss of Landis, Whitehall figures to be strongest in Bill's forte—the shot put — where lettermen Mike Boyer, Rick Callicoat and Dave Mowrer return.

Boyer, a senior, won the event at the Indoor Meet and Mike was tossing against most of the District's best.

WEAKEST event should be the high jump where no vet is available. "We should be just about average in everything else," McMillen said.

Whitehall's remaining track lettermen are pretty well scattered through other cinder events.

McMillen does have senior Earl Hunter and soph Gary Hunter back for the sprints, senior Bill Barnhill, junior Rick Foltz and soph Count Fuller returning to the hurdles and seniors Ed Young and Ardon Scholes ready to go in the distance department.

RETUEN SOPH Steve Beery to the pole vault slot and that spends all of Whitehall's available veteran talent.

McMillen does have some top notch prospects eager to fill in the open spots on the Ram oval. McMillen lists junior Larry Anderson (sprints), John Bankes (high jump) and Tom Barnhill and Steve Upperman (two mile run, distance) in that capacity.

Also ready to go are five top sophomores—Bob Dalton (discus), Darrell Hicks (distance), Jerry Sickles (distance), Ray Adams (high jump) and Randy Nichols (hurdles).

McMILLEN IS also high on a pair of frosh prospects in Gary Turner (distance) and Lloyd Williams. (quarter-mile).

Epsilojn 5s Take Wins Epsilon 5s

TEEN 'A'

After a low scoring first half in which Epsilons and Heart of Ohio were tied 16-16, the powerful Epsilons' attack went to work and outscored 4-0 to gain a 53-40 victory over the defending "teen A" champions.

Ed Weston was the high point man with 17 points. Steve Brownstein once again led H-O with 16 points.

TEEN B

Clutch foul shooting by Mark Rinkov led the Epsilon B team to a hard fought 57-55 victory over the B All Stars. Rinkov hit five fouls in the last period including the final two points which broke a 55-55 tie.

Rinkov and Steve Gutter led the Epsilons with 14 and 12 respectively. High scoring honors went to Bob Zieve of the Stars with 16. Jeff Wohlstein added 14.

Rebuilding Theme For Lion Thins

Lion track coach Russ Owen reports he faces his biggest-ever rebuilding job this spring at Bexley.

That forecast could be taken lightly except for the fact that Russ has been tutoring cindermen for 15 years at Bexley.

HARDEST spots to fill will be those vacated by three Lion thins who departed with Bexley cinder marks in their pockets.

Gone are Rick Harbold (13 ft. in pole vault and 9.9 in 100, both school marks), Tom Leukart (153 ft. discus toss is school record) and Rick Davis (holds mark in high jump, 5'10½").

The Lion thins will be strongest in the distance events where five of six returning lettermen hang their hats.

RETURNEES include senior co-captains Ed Schiederer and Dan Vogel (both quarter-milers), junior miler Fred Graham (best time is 4:44), Paul Davis (junior quarter-miler) and A. J. Myers (soph half-miler).

Only other returning vet is senior high jumper Mac Albin.

Top prospects who Owen hopes will help the Lions shoot for Bexley's fine 9-2 '64 mark (fifth in CBL) are junior Pat Leach (discus), soph Wendell Warman (pole vault) and frosh Colby Crall and Bill Barnes (dashes).

REFLECTION ON A STATE TOURNEY

THE PRESSURES and uncertainty of the final few minutes of Saturday's "AA" cage tourney finale filled the air at St. John Arena as Columbus South battled for its first-ever state title. Spectator photographer Jack Wittenmeier captured the tension as expressed by Bulldog cheerleaders (from left) Delores Surber, Karen Nothstine and Judy Osborn. Distress turned quickly to joy as South won state title moments later with a 54-53 verdict over Cincinnati St. Xavier

Eleven Veterans Spark Warrior Track Hopes

Paced by a lineup of 11 returning lettermen, Eastmoor track coach Vince Cahill looks for an improvement on his Warriors' 5-2 dual-triangular mark of last season.

"For the first time we have a number of competitors who have the potential to be state champs," Cahill says.

KEY RETURNEES this spring at E-M are two-year letter winners Ron Eiland (hurdles, high jump) and pole vaulter Rick Lewis.

Cahill also looks for top performances from lettermen: seniors Les Burke (hurdles), Gary Knaul (miler), George Ross (pole vault) and Leonard Willis (half-miler); juniors Mike Abbott (hurdles), Wayne Mixon (sprints), Doug Rodibaugh (hurdles) and John Mooney and Norwood Thomas (both quarter-milers).

The Warrior thins should also be strengthened by the addition of 10 cindermen up from E-M's reserve team. Most promising are: Ted Coe, Tom Findley, Charles Perkins and Ference Relle (distance men), Gary Buzzelli (hj), Jim Rutledge (hurdles), sprinter Chuck Todd and weight men Steve Gutridge, Steve LeFebvre and Chris Lambrecth.

NEWCOMERS WHICH Cahill envisions as possible point producers for Eastmoor are: juniors Dave Marburger, Steve Pursell, Wyman Hawkins and Jerry Speakman and sophs Dwight Cartier, Joe Grodner, Gary Lewis, Joel Voneida, Bob Bainter, Tom DeMolet and Kermit Hawkins.

Here is the '65 Eastmoor track schedule:

Gahanna Nine Plans Finish To Grove City's Mid-8 Reign

Gahanna baseball fans are circling Apr. 10 on their calenders with good cause this spring.

That's the opening Mid-Eight date for coach Bill Day's Lions and the opponent is none other than defending loop champ — Grove City.

A SINGLE doubleheader—much less the opener — does not a season make but whoever comes out with the clover in this set might take a conservative early fitting on the Mid-Eight crown.

The '65 forecast might look like a rerun of '64 to most since both the Lions and the 'Hounds are in line again in that role of "most likely to succeed."

Gahanna finished 18-6 last season or one step behind Champ G-C.

DAY HAS 10 returning vets this spring, nine of which are seasoned seniors. Only departees are catcher Terry Belli ("hardest hitter I had," long ball artist) and shortstop Gary Starrett.

On the plus side, Day is solid everywhere else with seven of nine starters back. Returning at first is Mike MacGuire whose .314 average topped all but one Lion hitter last spring.

Rod Johnson and Bob Trauten are back at second and third respectively and the outfield is good as gold with regulars Steve Geiger, West Poth and Jack Shoemaker stationed in the Lion gardens.

AND GAHANNA will not be hurting much in pitching department with starters Mike Hensley (10-2) and Gary Hardin (9-4) back. Hensley, a senior, sticked .302 last spring while Hardin, a junior, hit at a .317 clip.

Completing the mound staff are juniors Dave Belli and Mike Jones and relief artist Tony Banfield, a transfer from Marion-Franklin.

Belli and Hensley, both southpaws, provide Day with a well-balanced pitching staff.

DAY IS hopeful that senior Steve Holskey can take over for Belli at the catcher spot, leaving only shortstop unsettled. That slot will be filled by either Mike Shaffer or soph Steve Schneider.

Two more additions to the '65 club are infielder Bob Mack, moving over from the track team, and outfielder Jeff Roby, ineligible last season.

Day again sees Grove City as his Lions' number one roadblock to a Mid-Eight crown with Hilliard and Westerville improved this spring.

"BUT WE'RE strong all over this spring," Day commented. "We'll have a real tough ball club."

Mettle, Schwartz Keys To W-R Track Hopes

With two of the city's top distance men back in his stables this spring, Walnut Ridge cinder mentor Harry McKnight is looking for "a better team and a better record" this season.

The Scottie thins placed fifth in the City Meet last spring and added a sixth in the District to a 4-5 dual meet record.

TWO TOP losses from the '64 team are miler Larry Schwartz and half-miler, 440 man Ken Evans. This pair—plus returnees Ken Schwartz and Rick Mettle—scored a record-breaking win for W-R last spring at the Hilltop Relays in the two-mile relay.

McKnight will form his core around the returning half of that foursome — co-captain Mettle and the younger Schwartz. Both boys won their events in the recent Indoor Track Meet (Rick, the half-mile and Kenny, the mile).

McKnight is also encouraged by the return of the additional letter winners who include co-captain Chuck Corbett (pole vault), Reg Haymond (discus), Derrick Barber (440, dashes), Paul Karpik (high jump, hurdles), Ed Radcliffe (relays) and Steve Roberts (pole vault).

"OUR STRENGTH will come in the events from quarter-mile on up," McKnight said. "We'll be doing a lot of shifting around in the middle distances, probably changing personnel for each meet."

The Scottie skipper will be looking for stellar performances from five top prospects which include: senior Bob Crocoetti (half-mile), juniors Jim Wallar (440-880) and Ed Chin (hurdles, dash) and sophs Mike Feyh (880) and Steve Norris (weights).

As far as the City League lineup goes, McKnight sees Brookhaven as the top contender for loop honors with West, Eastmoor and Central right behind.

Boy Scout News

By CARL JAPIKSE

Four Whitehall boys have been awarded the Webelos rank — the highest badge in the Cub Scouts — by Pack 424, sponsored by the East Main Street Elementary School PTA.

Duane Bailey, Bill Pratt, and Stephen McLoughlin were presented the award by Cubmaster Guy O. Forrest at the pack's Mar. 23 meeting. Scoutmaster Keith Denter of Troop 367, sponsored by Eastview Methodist Church, welcomed the three Cub Scouts into Boy Scouts.

Tom Scott was awarded his Webelos badge at the Boy Scout meeting of Troop 367, Mar. 29. All four of the Cubs were invited to attend to observe Scouting in action.

Highlight of the ceremony was the presentation of a hunting arrow to each boy. The arrows were marked with the various awards that each boy had earned while in Cubbing, including the appropriate markings for the newly-earned Webelos rank. The presentation is a custom of Pack 424.

Bailey, 11, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Bailey, 1008 Karl-st. He attends the East Main Street Elementary School.

Pratt, 10, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Pratt, 244 Parklawn-blvd. He too attends East Main Street School.

McLoughlin, 11, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George McLoughlin, of 1002 Elaine-rd. He attends St. Phillips School.

Scott, 11, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Scott, 4162 Wright-av. He attends the East Main School.

Ted Schenz, assistant scoutmaster in the pack, worked with the four boys the past six months in training them for graduation from Cubbing and induction into Scouting.

A plaque was presented by the pack at the same meeting to the W. T. Grant Store of Great Eastern Shopping Center in appreciation of the use of one of their windows for displays during Boy Scout Week for the past five years.

This past February, the pack's display of various projects made by the Cub Scouts in den meetings won first place in the Scout Week window display contest held by the Hetuck District.

Pat Quinn, assistant manager at Grant's accepted the award on behalf of the store.

The first real union of major Protestant bodies (the three largest groups of Methodists) came about only 25 years ago.

Who it it who won't welcome April this year? Along with better weather, food shoppers can look forward to an attractive list of plentiful foods.

Mrs. Franks

Eggs, broiler - fryers cabbage, carrots, onions dry peas, prunes, canned pears and pink salmon and honey are expected in such sbundance that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has placed them on its plentiful list for April

With April the Easter month, there's no need to tell you what to do .with eggs Dye them,. hide them, eat them. Cooperative hens will provide plenty of eggs and at the lowest price for many ap Easter.

There's also a good selection of hams waiting in storage that you can expect to be very attractively priced the week before Easter. And you won't be disappointed if you want a lamb roast for the special day, lamb supplies this year — but there is a relation in less for the entire year than a year ago.

The April meat counter will be well supplied with beef and pork and retail prices will not be much different than during March, although as this is written, live prices for both cattle and hogs have increased slightly. Much of the meat coming to market will be high qua ing and bro

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our goldfish aquarium is close to the window to get enough sunlight. Just recently, a big neon sign was put up so it flashes right into the window at night. It changes color frequently. It makes the fish look very pretty but I wonder if this bothers them? I think it might because they act tired lately. Please don't advise me to move the aquarium away from the window. —G.F.

DEAR G.F.: If your fish are not actually ill from some other cause, it is just possible the neon lights are slowing them down slightly. They wouldn't object to the change in colors so much, as to the flashing light itself.

If they have no place to hide where they can rest in peace, your goldfish are bound to become baggy-eyed eventually. There is nothing wrong with admiring the changing scene for a while in the evening.

However, when you go to bed, better pull down the shade or draw the curtains so the poor fish can get some "shuteye," too.

City Income Tax Reform Bill Has 1971 Final Deadline Date

The proposed city income tax reform measure being considered by the Ohio Senate would allow Columbus more than five years to adhere to the 25 percent sharing formula, according to testimony presented Tuesday to the Senate Taxation Committee.

Akron (Summit County) Senator Ed Garrigan told the committee the bill would require that the sharing formula be in full effect throughout the state by 1971. By that deadline, all communities imposing an income tax would be required to rebate 25 percent of the amount collected from a non-resident to the taxpayer's residence community.

The bill stipulates that the sharing formula would be in effect for taxing districts renewing or instituting an income tax subsequent to passage of the proposed law change. But where no such action takes place, the 1971 effective date applies.

Columbus would be entitled to the full grace period for meeting the proposed obligation because the local ordinance is permanent.

Co-sponsor of the local income tax reform law is Senator Ray T. Miller, Jr., (Cuyahoga County), who was one of several proponents who testified at the Tuesday hearing. Miller said he helped author the bill despite the fact that Cleveland is seeking approval of an income tax for the first time at the May primary election. (Cleveland voters are being asked to approve a tax of three-quarters of one percent.)

Garrigan told committee members state law governing local income tax legislation was enacted in 1957 "for the purpose of providing some uniformity in local income tax enactments.

"But," Garrigan continued, "due to the lack of experience in Ohio prior to this time, they (legislators) failed to recognize the future importance of tax sharing inequity that exists in Ohio today."

"Ties Hands Of Suburbs"

Garrigan said existing legislation has "tied the hands of our suburban communities to produce the revenues necessary to meet their facility and service obligations." He told the committee that the problem is further compounded by the fact that now our risk capital in industrial development and growth is going into the suburban areas, rather than the central city. Therefore, the demands upon the suburban governments for basic services are greater than on the central city."

Others testifying in favor of the law change included Cuyahoga Falls Mayor David Saunders, Arnold Patton, Hilliard, and Chester Hummell, executive secretary of the Ohio State Association of Township Trustees and Clerks.

Twyford To Testify

The meeting was attended by several Reynoldsburg representatives. Mayor George W. Twyford will return to the second hearing, scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, Apr. 6, at which time he will testify in favor of the measure.

The bill, introduced by Senators Garrigan and Miller, was requested by Twyford, who has been fighting for local income tax reform legislation for more than a year. Twyford hopes to gain support for the measure from the Franklin County Mayors Council when that body meets to consider the tax problem at the regular meeting on Wednesday, Apr. 7. A Mayors Council committee has been studying the problem.

Out To 'Launch' . . .

Do you have your license tags yet? No, we're not talking about auto license plates—if you haven't got those on the car yet, you're in trouble — we mean your boat and outboard motor license tags.

The new "dayglow orange" - on - white tags are now on sale at almost 300 Secretary agencies across the state, including many right here in Spectatorland.

WITH THE arrival of April and the promise of some badly-belated spring-type weather, the urge to get afloat will be hitting you soon, so it's probably a good idea to be ready with your 1965 licenses.

Once again this year outboard licenses will set you back $1.25, with a quarter of the fee going to the issuing agent. Boat tags are also at last year's prices, varying from $1 for a rowboat up to $10 for an inboard-powered craft of 100 or more horsepower.

One important point — when you go to buy your licenses, you must show the registration from last year.

HERE'S A complete list of agencies in our area where boat and motor licenses are currently on sale.

FRANKLIN COUNTY

Rockenbaugh, 3096 W. Broad-st; E. Clyde Tobin, 2511 Cleveland-av.

FAIRFIELD COUNTY

MADISON COUNTY

London Jaycee License Bureau, 100½ S. Main, London.

PICKAWAY COUNTY

Parks and Recreation Division Office, Hargus Creek Lake.

ONCE AGAIN this year, boating is booming across Ohio and during the next few months more Buckeye residents than ever before will be afloat in more craft.

Last year, according to the Ohio Division of Watercraft, there were 150,415 boats and 143,959 outboard motors registered in the state. Of this total, Franklin county ranked a close second in the number of boats and motors, right behind Cuyahoga County.

Considering that the county on the lake is the one surrounding Cleveland, a major lakeport, we can be justly proud of the popularity of boating in Franklin County.

LAST YEAR we totalled all told 11,980 boats and 11,771 outboards registered in the Capital County. Ironically, the number of outboard motors dropped almost 300 from 1963.

Watercraft division officials attribute such a drop largely to a "switch" from power boating to the quietness of sailboating.

And that's the story on boating and boat-licenses — as my old uncle used to say "Enough of this talk, let's go out to launch'."

Closing date for entries is Monday, Apr. 5, and no entries will be accepted after that time.

This tournament will be conducted under AJBC rules and all trophies will be donated by the Greater Columbus Area Junior Bowling Association.

IN LAST year's tournament there were a total of 271 teams entered in all divisions, an increase from the previous year of 166. This year's interest in the young bowlers indicates that this total will be surpassed in 1965.

The general time schedule for Bantams is 1 and 3 p.m. shifts on Saturday, Apr. 17, with 10 a.m., 12 noon and 2 p.m. shifts on Monday, Apr. 19.

The general time schedule for Juniors and Seniors is 12:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. shifts on Saturday, Apr. 17 and 9:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. shifts, Monday, Apr. 19.

When shopping for lawn seed be sure you are buying lawn seed, not grass seed! Select a mixture high in Kentucky bluegrass. The addition of creeping red fescue to fill out the mixture is satisfactory.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Here's April Food Forecast

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

Who it it who won't welcome April this year? Along with better weather, food shoppers can look forward to an attractive list of plentiful foods.

Mrs. Franks

Eggs, broiler-fryers cabbage, carrots, onions dry peas, prunes, canned pears and pink salmon and honey are expected in such abundance that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has placed them on its plentiful list for April

With April the Easter month, there's no need to tell you what to do with eggs Dye them, hide them, eat them. Cooperative hens will provide plenty of eggs and at the lowest price for many ap Easter.

There's also a good selection of hams waiting in storage that you can expect to be very attractively priced the week before Easter. And you won't be disappointed if you want a lamb roast for the special day, lamb supplies this year — but there is a relation in less for the entire year than a year ago.

The April meat counter will be well supplied with beef and pork and retail prices will not be much different than during March, although as this is written, live prices for both cattle and hogs have increased slightly. Much of the beef coming to market will be high quality — the roasting and broiling varieties.

Add prunes to your fruit list this month Production is estimated at 170,000 tons. And industry sources predict an even higher output. Valencia juice oranges will peak in April; California Navels and grapefruit will be in good supply; and there will be more lemons and fresh pineapple.

Strawberry time is on the way in spite of the weather setbacks during February. Florida production is estimated to be 18 percent above last year. Other states and Mexico will ship strawberries this month, with heavy supplies coming in May. You can expect prices to ease as shipments increase.

Fresh vegetables, partly responsible for bigger food bills during the winter months, are on the increase and prices are beginning to move downward. Florida and western growers say they are definitely back in business and will be sending us more pole beans, sweet corn, egg plant, squash and tomatoes. Local greenhouse tomatoes will start this month and, maybe, asparagus — if we have enough sunshine. Items to keep on your list are carrots, cabbage, potatoes, and greens for both cooking and for salads.

Just before Easter, the honey industry will sponsor a "Honey for Breakfast" promotion. So sweeten up your morning meals with honey — on grapefruit, cereal and waffles. There's 5.8 percent more U.S. honey to sell this year than usual.

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — oranges, grapefruit, bananas, winter pears.

Vegetables — carrots, broccoli, cabbage, salad greens, new and dry onions, all-purpose potatoes.

Meat, Poultry—eggs, broiler-fryers, beef and pork "specials."

Other—frozen fish, cheese, prunes, canned: pears and pink salmon.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS
By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our goldfish aquarium is close to the window to get enough sunlight. Just recently, a big neon sign was put up so it flashes right into the window at night. It changes color frequently. It makes the fish look very pretty but I wonder if this bothers them? I think it might because they act tired lately. Please don't advise me to move the aquarium away from the window. —G.F.

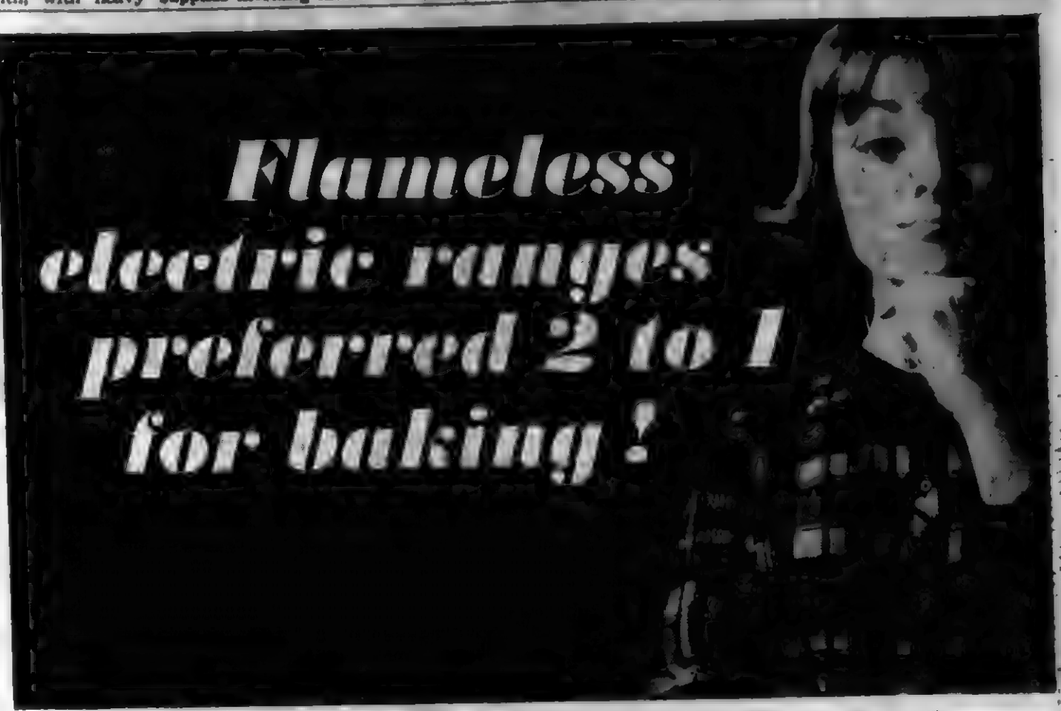
DEAR G.F.: If your fish are not actually ill from some other cause, it is just possible the neon lights are slowing them down slightly. They wouldn't object to the change in colors so much, as to the flashing light itself.

If they have no place to hide where they can rest in peace, your goldfish are bound to become baggy-eyed eventually. There is nothing wrong with admiring the changing scene for a while in the evening.

However, when you go to bed, better pull down the shade or draw the curtains so the poor fish can get some "shuteye," too.

* * *

DEAR DR. MILLER: Paul (parrot) goes on biting binges. These spells last from 12 to 18 hours and occur every day or so. I think this bird should have some raw meat in addition to what he can tear off me. My wife (she's funny) says it would make him mean. She also thinks it could upset him.



I wouldn't want THAT to happen! Still, I feel my chances for survival might be improved if I could offer Paul some non-human flesh. I'm not looking for anything to improve his health, necessarily, but if meat would cause him severe injury then my wife would veto the idea. —B.G.

DEAR B.G.: Whether YOU would benefit from adding meat to Paul's diet is questionable. However many parrots do benefit from small amounts of raw meat, and Paul has already proved he can handle it. As noted, Paul likes his meat fresh, so remove what isn't consumed in a short time. (Parrots, unlike vultures, do become sick on meat that is overaged.)

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, in care of this newspaper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Never On Sunday . . . !

If there was ever a legislative measure calling for sober reflection it is the attempt by three Ohio lawmakers to legalize the sale of liquor on Sunday. Stupid, senseless and asinine are the three most descriptive words to cover the money-grabbing plan.

The "pitch" from the three Cuyahoga County senators introducing the proposed law (Senate Bill 96) is that the state — particularly Cuyahoga and Hamilton counties — would enhance its ability to attract conventions. Malarkey! (We can't help wondering if they plan a campaign built around the theme: "Booze Is Not A Dirty Word In Ohio.")

Here is what the measure would allow:

Most places where alcoholic beverage is sold for on-premises consumption would be permitted to operate on a special $500 permit from 1 p.m. until midnight each Sunday. (It is now legal, by state law, for them to operate after midnight Sunday until 1 a.m. or 2:30 a.m. Monday — depending on the type of license.)

Backers of the legislation include the Cleveland and Cincinnati convention bureaus and the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce. (The Columbus Convention Bureau apparently will remain neutral.) The proponents cite the prospects of more money-making conventions and the minimizing of Sunday bootlegging.

It's a rotten proposition from start to finish. Because some irresponsible elements in Cleveland and Cincinnati are willing to do anything in search of a buck, the remainder of the state is left to suffer the consequences. The sponsors of this would have us join the Sunday bootleggers, rather than stamp them out. And they would add additional liquor law enforcement headaches in the face of poor records of enforcement at their own local levels.

Ohio Health Department officials estimate there are now 240,000 alcoholics in our state. And this is an admittedly conservative estimate! The legislature has approved funds for nothing more than a meager program in alcoholism prevention. But the Liquor Committee of the Senate voted 4 to 1 to approve the Sunday liquor bill for a vote in the Upper Chamber.

There is a liquor permit fund bill in the House of Representatives that proves, if nothing else, that there is a wide range in degree of quality among our legislators. The House bill, co-authored by Franklin County Representative Keith McNamara, proposes something constructive.

The McNamara bill would direct that one percent of all liquor permit fees be returned to health departments throughout the state to finance a program of alcoholism research, rehabilitation and education. And there is no gimmick for Sunday sales or other means of making intoxicating beverages more accessible than they already are.

It seems to us that only an insensitive legislator could vote for the Sunday liquor sale bill, or against the McNamara proposal. And we are firmly convinced that any legislator who votes for making Sunday just another day to "booze it up" should not be returned to his seat.

County Board Of Elections Acted Wisely

The Franklin County Board of Elections is to be commended on its decision to accept voter registration through April 23. It will be interesting to note how many citizens show their appreciation for the "grace" period.

Election officials normally close registration on the 41st day before Election Day. But there is a section of Ohio law which says that voter registration for special elections must be permitted until the 11th day before such election. The four Ohio Constitutional Amendments to be voted upon May 4 constitute a special election. But May 4 is also Primary Election Day.

Because the same date applies for both the special and primary balloting, it could have allowed registration until Apr. 23 in those areas where there is no primary election. The Board of Elections wisely chose to make the later date apply for all citizens.

The board's action was a progressive step toward encouraging citizens to meet their privilege, right and obligation to vote.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Will The 'Beat' Beget 'The Beaten?'

I have been visiting a couple of our great northern universities and in one of them I spent half an hour sitting around the kookie corner looking at and listening to the beats and the Zens.

The kookie corner usually occupies part of the large basement snack bars in the student union buildings where coffee is cheap and talk is priceless. For laboratory examples of sophomoric sophistry and contrived eccentricity you can't beat it.

Jones

It is a place where aversion to soap has somehow been confused with profundity. Here is where the beards gather, and the girls in blue jeans and boots carrying guitars. Sheep dog hair-dos and Neanderthal haircuts are a dime a gross. But saddest of all is the uniform — the uniform of the slob.

In their effort to express defiance and rebellion and to exalt their own individuality and egos these young people have fallen into rigid patterns.

The pressure to dress down can be more tyrannical to the personality than the pressure to dress up. For, in the latter case one presents a brave, clean and, if possible, attractive face to the world, while in the former dirt and disorder become tribal fetishes.

The kookie corner abounds with talk — high flown, furious, cynical or bitter, according to the mood of the moment. No one has much experience, and not many are really very good students, but cork-weight ideas feathered by polysyllabic words are batted back and forth like airy badminton birds, and everyone imagines he is enunciating great truths.

It might be argued that these efforts to be deep are preferable to the banal chatter about boys, girls, cars and parties, characteristic for most fraternity and sorority bull-sessions. But the kooks all seem to want to talk at once. It's a hard way to examine a solid premise and proceed to a logical conclusion.

At the round table next to me I tuned in on a Niagara of conversation between one musk ox, two male airedales, two nanny goats and a chittering chimpanzee about the evils of American militarists and our "imperialist posture" in Viet Nam. They were sympathizing with themselves over the possibility of being caught inside a fireball, and a proposed protest march was under discussion.

The musk ox laughed bitterly and shook his shaggy head.

"It's a world I never made," he said.

Now, there, of course, was truth.

For all the frightening implications of a technology that can now destroy continents (which the musk ox and his friends had nothing to do with) there are several other things they had nothing to do with, either.

One was the building of the great university — the product of millions of man-hours behind the plow, in the snow-drifted lumber camps, in the foundries and offices. It was built because citizens, most of whom had never seen the inside of a college classroom, were prepared to contribute an enormous value of cheese, wheat, automobiles and pulp, which they might otherwise have put in their own pockets, to the higher education of their children, including the musk ox.

There have been other dividends from the world he never made. One is life. If persons now long dead had not dissected plague victims, experimented with dangerous pox pustules and permitted themselves to be bitten by anopheles mosquitoes, three of the six places at that round table would be vacant.

The musk ox and his friends may plan a protest march in safety because men long forgotten chose to die at barricades. The fact that the denial of this right in far-off Selma, Ala., gains the top headlines indicates the measure of the victory. The musk ox may go to the university library and read books sneering at representative democracy and advocating the dictatorship of the proletariat because men risked death for freedom of speech in the world he never made.

Ah, yes. The musk ox is against militarism and war. On this campus the week after the Military Ball there is the Anti-Military Ball. The beats and the members of "ad hoc" committees for this and that are out in force.

When I was in college I was sure that wars were made by shadowy "merchants of death," promoting their huge munitions industries from castles in Switzerland. Weapons made wars. Disarmament, even if only we disarmed, was the answer.

So I laughed at my friend, Andy, who was in R.O.T.C., wasting his time in the afternoons parading around with that ridiculous Springfield on his shoulder.

When the roof fell in at Pearl Harbor Andy and a thin khaki line were over on Bataan. Andy never got back. But he bought a little time while the rest of us could build some ships, go through crash training, and get over to restore the situation.

"World I never made." There is euphoria in self-pity, comfort in blaming the older generation, smugness in unbarbered rebellion that is not much else.

I wonder what the sons and daughters of the musk ox, the airedales, the nanny goats and the chimp will say about the world their parents made.

April Fool

Frosting on the Cake

BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

The overwhelming defeat of Senator Goldwater is now seen in its proper perspective. Right from the beginning of his drive for the Republican nomination for president, his conservative philosophy was honestly and sincerely presented. His pre-convention organization was both hard-working and zealous and the drive did pay off at San Francisco.

Two insufferable psychological fumbles were already in the mass-mind however, and despite their eminence, they did not prevent his gaining the nomination. The worst one was scaring the country to death in the ambiguous Social Security statement way back in the New Hampshire primary. Every oldster got an immediate "shock-treatment" from that, and from then on nothing anyone said or wrote after the convention made the slightest impression. Fear had taken possession of millions of people's minds.

The other inexcusable error was the Senator's "extremism in pursuit of freedom is no vice." The mass-mind again was scared stiff with the incomprehensible injection of the atomic bomb hazard into his campaign.

A final stop-order on any chances that Goldwater might have had early in his drive for the nomination was the move-in and take-over of the whole show by a motley gang of amateurs who grabbed a temporary moment of importance and made it impossible for any old time professional to get within a stone's throw.

WHAT RELIGION MEANS TO ME

(Ed. Note — During Lent this column is guest-written by laymen as part of a project sponsored by the West Side Kiwanis Club.)

Lent is a time when church people take time to re-evaluate their attitudes toward God. If this is done in sincerity, good is accomplished; but if not, it is just another abomination in the sight of God. "The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart." (PS. 51:17)

Gaspp

Religion is any system of faith and worship. Religion to me is acknowledging Jesus Christ as the Lord of my life. This does not mean special observance of Christmas or Easter or even 40 days of Lent. It means living every day in such a way as to please Him. As the Apostle Paul said, "For me to live is Christ."

Christmas to many people means a time to exchange gifts, to be just a little more generous, or perhaps just a good business season. To me it means that God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. Easter to many people means only new clothes and a release from the restrictions of Lent, freedom to return to the pleasures of the world. To me it means that God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. (Romans 5:8).

If we accept His love and become His disciples, we are willing to follow Him and keep His commandments. Jesus said we show our love for Him by loving one another. He also said that anyone who says he loves God but hates his brother is a liar. Therefore, in the words of Paul, we must be willing to give our bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable unto God, which is our reasonable service. (Romans 12:1)

And what does the Lord require of us, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with our God? (Micah 6:8) There is only one way we can know God's will and that is to study His word so that it becomes the rule of our lives. Paul tells us that all scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works. (II Timothy 3:16)

Jesus said He was in the beginning with God when the world was made. If we put our trust in Him, we can say with the Apostle Paul, "I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, not principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord." (Romans 8:38)

In this world of fear and deception, of turmoil and strife, it is wonderful to know that we have a God who cares and is aware of our every need. He has promised to hear and deliver us in the time of trouble. What a blessed assurance it is to know that Jesus is ours and to have His promise that He is with us always, even to the end of the world.

Adults Set The Stage

To the Editor:

The recent wild party kick receiving so much publicity will reap its harvest. However, while we are in the process as a society of condemning the involved persons we are no less guilty since we have set the stage for the play.

The newspaper dailies will have the most moral sounding editorials, but turn the pages and you find the entertainment section full of near-naked and lustful advertisements.

Television and its commercials, radio soap operas, newspapers, magazines ad infinitum have for years promoted sex in any form able to entice the public. Employers, more often than not, look at the shape of the female assistant before finding out if she has other attributes.

We turn our backs on establishments that set the harem atmosphere and pour booze until the wee hours of the morn.

We spend billions of dollars annually to smell, look and feel sexy, but when our offspring starts to act this way we are put abash.

We are producing and directing the play but now that the actors are performing we are embarrassed at the show.

Challenges Haircut Prices

To the Editor:

This is in answer to the letter by James T. Milhoan (Spectator Mar. 18) who tried to justify the ever-rising price of haircuts. I judge by his signature that Mr. Milhoan is a barbers' union official and is proud of his part in maintaining high prices.

But it doesn't always follow that a union barber shop can raise prices and get away with it simply because of the union affiliation. Here's what happened in our part of town: A new barber shop started up near an old established shop. In spite of the new shop's price of $1 for a haircut, it didn't do much business. The old shop continued to charge $1.50 and the customers remained loyal.

Then the new shop was picketed by the union. The owner of the old shop, having a number of customers who were union men, feared the same thing would happen to him. He joined the union and promptly raised his haircut price to $2. Now you can walk into his shop any time and get instant service — no waiting — also, no business.

The new shop, having resisted the union pressure, still charges but $1 and is doing a terrific business.

Moral: Don't ride a good horse to death.

Spurn Trip To The Moon

To the Editor:

Why spend billions to defeat the law of the all-powerful Creator? Why does man fail to recognize the law that God appointed; the earth He created for man's home. Gen. 1:28. Isa. 45:18.

Why the sun and the moon? What was God's purpose? His own answer is to give light upon the earth.

Why not spend our billions in righteousness, for the good of earth's inhabitants?

Need Voluntary Censorship

To the Editor:

I did not read your article by Jenkin Lloyd Jones on the topic of censorship several weeks ago, but I am concerned with the amount of indecent books and magazines on every newsstand in this city.

I don't know about you other women who still have decent values and the right definition of the word, lady, but these books full of abnormal sex stories disgust me. They humiliate me no end. I like to think that most families still are happy ones. To the people who buy this trash — shame — you aren't thinking beyond the end of your noses!

I ran across an article which I would like to share. It reads: Please help me!

I am a woman — I am your wife, your sweetheart, your mother, your daughter, your sister . . . your friend.

I need your help! I was created to give the world gentleness, understanding, serenity, beauty, and — love.

I am finding it increasingly difficult to fulfill my purpose.

Many people in advertising, motion pictures and television have ignored my inner qualities and have repeatedly used me ONLY as a symbol of SEX. This humiliates me; it destroys my dignity; it prevents me from being what you want me to be: an example of beauty, inspiration and love — for my children, my husband, my God and my country.

I need your help to restore me to my true position to allow me to fulfill the purpose for which I was created. I know you'll find a way.

I am not a believer in censorship — I believe that trash should be rejected voluntarily by the public. I believe the people of Columbus will wake up and do just this — but I think they must start stinking before they will smell themselves.

I do not believe the subject of sex should be so hidden almost to the point of being too ashamed to seek medical assistance when needed, as was so often the case some years back — but I do believe that sex can be discussed so freely among people to the point that it becomes cheap. This can and probably will leave our young people with a lack of modesty. How can we adults expect our young people to be decent when we, as parents, aren't setting an example?

Freedom from censorship, like all freedoms, should impose responsibility. If the irresponsibility of some entertainment goes much further, I believe our legislators will feel obligated to try to legislate morality. Civilized people have in varying degree qualities of decency, good taste, tolerance, courtesy and dignity. For goodness sakes, let's be decent.

Huntington Teenagers To Be Horizon Guests

On Friday, Apr. 2, 36 teenage Horizon Club girls from Huntington, W. Va., will arrive in Columbus to spend the weekend as personal guests of the Horizon clubs of the Columbus and Franklin County Council of Camp Fire Girls.

The Horizon clubs are Camp Fire Girl groups for girls in the ninth through 12th grades of school. Columbus council boasts a membership of 450 girls in Franklin County. During the fall of 1962, the Columbus council was invited to the Huntington Councils' sesqui-centennial and was treated to a weekend of activity in West Virginia. The Columbus council, eager to return the invitation, arranged to host a similar weekend this spring.

A whirlwind of activity has been planned for the girls, beginning with a tour of the city Saturday morning. Then, at 11 a.m. the girls will assemble with their hostesses at the Camp Fire office and journey down to the Columbus resident camp, Wyandot, and spend the afternoon exploring the countryside. While at camp, each girl will plant a small evergreen as a remembrance of the occasion.

After returning to Columbus, the girls will be treated to a catered dinner Saturday evening and then polish off the day's activities with a hotenanny in the Camp Fire office.

Following a good night's rest (?), the girls will accompany their hosts to church on Sunday morning and then climax the weekend activities with a farewell luncheon, before boarding their buses for the trip home.

Hey Bulldogs! South Needs You

After winning the State "AA" Basketball Championship Saturday night, we doubt that South High Alumni will have any trouble planning their reunion. However, a plea from Ruth M. Jacks, president of the group, came to the attention of the Spectator this week.

South graduates are much in demand to spend a few hours planning the May 28 reunion. The Alumni is in danger of folding unless some old "Bulldogs" come to the rescue. Interested Rebels are invited to call Ruth Jacks, HI. 4-2778 (evenings), Norma Jacks, HI. 3-5291, or Katherine Weis, HI. 4-1651. Or better still, attend the next meeting Apr. 20, 7:30 p.m., in room 112, at the school.

Why Doesn't Someone Write Kids' Guidebook?

BY ADELINE DALEY

Have you ever noticed that all of the books on child-parent relationships are one-sided, in that nobody worries about the "inner tensions" and "emotional problems" of parents? And whose nerves are more frazzled by 5 p.m., I ask you?

I want to see just one book jacket blurb which advertises "A handy guide which explains to children behavior patterns at various adult age levels," or, "A reference manual no child under ten should be without!" Some of the chapters would include:

Eating Behavior: Adults usually enjoy a quiet atmosphere at meal-time. They also do not like to see broccoli shoved under plates in order that the individual can qualify for dessert.

Sleeping Habits: Studies have shown that most parents like to sleep later than 6 a.m. Sunday mornings. Mothers become especially disturbed by children who shake them awake and demand, "You promised you'd fix waffles this morning."

Anger: Prevention of: Although usually sweet, lovable and charming, parents can be provoked into staging temper tantrums or being informed that a new car coat, costing $19.95, has been lost; on hearing television and radio sets continually turned on louder than World War II; and on observing how kids in ten minutes can convert a newly cleaned living room into something which resembles the aftermath of Hurricane Hannah.

Comparisons: Nothing is more harmful to the ego of a mother or father than when they are compared unfavorably with others of their kind and hear, "Joey's parents are much nicer than you."

And then a list of his possessions is read off which seems to include: a jetspeed bicycle trimmed in real rubies, his own color TV set and a private telephone.

Sensitivities: Parents occasionally want privacy, especially when either of them is taking a bath. If it is necessary to speak to a parent at that time, it is wise to request friends to remain in the hall.

Inferiority Complexes: (age level over 35): At this stage parents do not appreciate such remarks as, "did the Indians give you much trouble when you were crossing the plains?" Nor do they like having another adult described as being about "Mom's age," only to discover that said party looks old enough to be Grandma Moses' twin sister.

Conclusion: Should a child fail to bring up his or her parents properly, they can always consult with an expert in the field and inquire plaintively, "just where did I go wrong?"

Adventists Plan Minor Changes In Illumidrama

When the World's Fair opens for its second season on Apr. 21 in Flushing Meadows, the Seventh-day Adventist Illumidrama presentation in the Protestant and Orthodox Center will be portrayed with only minor changes, according to word from the church's headquarters in Washington, D.C.

The exhibit depicts the second coming of Christ with a 10 by 20-foot oil painting, moving light, sound effects, and a narration of Scriptures describing Christ's second coming.

The major change in Illumidrama will be the discontinuance of a weekly drawing for a 10-volume set of Bible stories. The book display will be replaced by a Bible text illustrated in three dimension. Guests at the exhibit will receive a full-color reproduction of the backdrop painting by Artist Howard Sanden.

Religion is expected to continue as a major interest at the World's Fair, as it was last year when one out of every two visitors to the fair took in at least one of the eight religious pavilions on the fairgrounds.

Alpha Rho To Hear National President

The Alpha Rho Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha Social Fraternity will hold its annual Founders Day banquet on Apr. 3, 6:30 p.m. at the Oceanic Suite of the Columbus Plaza Hotel.

The local chapter was chartered on Mar. 29, 1912 at Ohio State University and has initiated over 800 members.

Charles L. Freeman, graduate of Washington University at St. Louis with AB degree in 1928 and AM degree in 1935 and the National fraternity president, will be the featured speaker.

ASSIGNMENT TELEVISION

By Terrence O'Flaherty

The big question faced by young people since time began is: "What am I going to be when I grow up?" Recently I met with a young woman who solved that problem a long time ago.

Her name is Patty Duke. She considers herself fortunate because since the age of eight she has known she wanted to become an actress.

Five years later, after rigorous training, she won the choice role of the young Helen Keller in "The Miracle Worker" on Broadway and was given the honor that all performers dream of receiving — her name above the title of the show. She was awarded an Oscar for the film role and became the most highly praised actress for her age in theater history.

Today, at 18, Miss Duke has a television series of her own, and this time her name IS the title, "The Patty Duke Show" — TV's highest compliment. After such big-time honors in the theater, to do a TV show must indeed seem to be what Sheilah Graham calls "the small time."

Actually, it's not bad at all. What other small girl has been allowed to grow through that awkward period when she's too old for toys and too young for boys with an audience of 15 million, plus a piece of the profits? Even little Margaret O'Brien was whisked out of sight during THAT time.

Miss Duke is pleasant and polite and exoresses herself intelligently. She is nice looking, but plain and her mouse-colored hair, which has been lightened slightly for the TV cameras, is arranged without much style or imagination. But she has something which is more important than beauty — she has talent.

Certainly her personal life to date seems to have been secondary to her career. She lived her early life on New York's East Side. At the age of eight she came to the attention of an acting coach named John Ross and his wife.

"I'll never forget that first meeting," she said. "I couldn't see how they saw any possibilities in me. I was just a wide-eyed, skinny kid with a do-it-yourself haircut and the dreadful handicap of the desedem-and-doze New York accent. During those early years Mr. Ross worked with me for hours every day. They were the only ones who believed I could act."

She had the advantage of growing up during a time when television was a paradise for actors. There were at least a dozen big dramatic series with a new play every week. Her first role was on "Armstrong Circle Theater."

And during the next few years she appeared in 50 live television dramas. When the opening came for a young actress to play the powerful part of the deaf mute in "Miracle Worker," she was ready.

Ross, who looks more like a fight manager than an acting coach, is her constant adviser and companion. Miss Duke lives with the Rosses and has for some time. It is said that her father has not seen her for years, and she is estranged from her mother. The Rosses have been her inspiriation and her shelter.

Miss Duke has never seen herself on television. "Mr. Ross says that children do not profit from watching their own performances," she said. I reminded her that she is no longer a child "I still don't watch myself," she added.

"The Patty Duke Show" is one of the most difficult to film because she plays two roles — Patty and Cathy. This means that each scene which has both girls in it must be shot twice — once with Patty talking to Cathy's stand-in and again with Cathy reacting to Patty's stand-in.

He has since appeared throughout the United States performing with such groups as the New York Philharmonic, Cleveland, Los Angeles and Quebec Symphony Orchestras. In 1962 he won the nationwide biennial Michaels Award in Chicago.

TODAY'S REPORT

By ABE MELLINKOFF

President Johnson is fighting a two-front war, thank you. South of the Potomac, he has Alabama, and a long way west of it, he has Vietnam. The only connection between the two is that a few people think he sent the Marines to the wrong front.

It's too early to say exactly how and when he will end either war. But the nicest thing about any conflict is that eventually it ends in negotiation. Both of these will.

In the meantime, however, the President is losing no political points. He has the Republicans in Congress on his side in getting Negroes their right to vote and South Vietnamese their right to live. The two-party system may never again be the same.

Alcoholic Rehabilitation Bill Gets First Hearing

Members of the Liquor Control Committee of the Ohio House of Representatives were admonished Wednesday night to support a bill designed to improve the state's program of alcoholic rehabilitation, public education and research.

The program would be financed by one percent of all liquor permit fees now returned to the local areas from where they are collected. The measure was introduced by Keith McNamara, Franklin County state representative.

McNamara said there are 250,000 alcoholics in Ohio — not the social drinkers, but those who have and create serious social problems.

"Data reveals," McNamara testified, "that alcoholics frequently are young and have a future ahead of them with excellent prospects" which are lost to alcoholism. The historic approach, he said, has been one of "ignoring, confining, or otherwise confining the alcoholic."

He declared that past concepts of alcoholism were "rooted in ignorance of the problem, its causes and effects." The legislator said these effects on the individual and his community cannot be measured; that one alcoholic can ruin a family, and that alcoholism is a factor in one of every four persons admitted to state hospitals.

McNamara cited the worth of a treatment program under the direction of the existing alcoholism unit within the state's Department of Health. He said his measure would furnish about $100,000 each year for it.

Citing an urgent need for attacking the problem locally — "where the alcoholic can be contacted and rehabilitated" — McNamara said that only 11 community projects are in operation when there should be at least 15 more.

McNamara's bill has the backing of the Ohio Department of Liquor Control, the Ohio Department of Health, and many organizations and individuals.

Arrested for reckless driving, a slightly confused young woman was hailed before the magistrate.

"What do you have to say in your defense?" he demanded.

"Well, Your Honor, I washed my car an hour ago and I can't do a thing with it."

Klan Denies Giving Cards To Merchants

A report that National Knights of the Ku Klux Klan recently distributed a quantity of cards, bearing their emblem and an inscription to Hilltop merchants on Sullivant-av, has been emphatically denied by Flynn Harvey, Ohio Grand Dragon of the organization.

Flynn, of 418 Josephine-av, said that a few of the cards, printed with the words, "You have just been patronized by the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan," were passed out last summer.

He insisted that the practice was not continued.

Flynn also denied any knowledge of a merchant who reportedly received anonymous phone calls after refusing to serve the patron who gave him a card.

Harold Slyh, executive secretary, Hilltop Business Association, said that he had received no reports of local merchants receiving the cards.

Cyclists Will Make Annual Trip To Portsmouth Apr. 17

The historical ties which have linked Portsmouth and Columbus for nearly 150 years will be emphasized when members of the Columbus Cycling Club make their annual 200-mile trip to the Ohio River city and back over the Easter weekend.

The cyclers will carry special greetings from Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner and his wife, Mildred, to Mayor George Wear and his wife, Esther, plus a souvenir cigarette lighter to be presented to Mayor Wear.

This is the third year for the bike trip to Portsmouth by the club. The route of travel extends 100 miles down U.S. Rt. 23 to Portsmouth and actually crosses the Ohio River bridge to Ashland, Ky. The routes up the Scioto and present-day U.S. 23 were often the water and overland routes of early settlers heading north from West Virginia and Kentucky into Ohio.

The expected 35 cyclers are to stay overnight at the Ashland YMCA and return the following day. Mayor Sensenbrenner will meet the riders at 7 a.m. Saturday, Apr. 17, on the High-st side of the Statehouse.

IN COUNTY EXTENSION PROGRAM . . .

4-H Club Work Receives First Priority

The Franklin County Extension Advisory Committee has decided that the county 4-H youth program will be given top priority in this county.

In an effort to reach more urban youth the 4-H project programs are being adapted to new situations in which young people find themselves. "4-H members now can carry a wide variety of projects in agriculture, home economics, citizenship and personal development," said Thomas J. McNutt, county extension agent. "They apply the latest scientific findings to learn why as well as the how of what they do. Developing character and good citizenship are long range goals."

Five or more members and an approved advisor may organize a 4-H Club. Young people interested in joining a club should contact the local 4-H club advisor, or call the County Extension Office, 221-6411, Extension 454 for advice.

Something For Adults, Too

Other major areas of extension program emphasis are:

1. Agricultural production, management and natural resource development
2. Marketing and utilization of agricultural products
3. Home economics — family living
4. Community and public affairs

"Within these general areas the Franklin County Extension service, as an integral part of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics of Ohio State University, has resources available to all people of Franklin County," said McNutt.

"Extension educational work in agriculture and marketing, includes assistance to producers, suppliers, processors, agricultural credit and finance agencies, wholesalers, retailers and consumers of agricultural products. Priorities in home economics — family living will concentrate on educational assistance to young homemakers, low income families, the working homemaker (out-of-the-home employment) and youth.

The Franklin County Extension program is developed according to the needs and interest of people as learned by councils and committees working with the agents. The county advisory committee is made up of representatives from farm organizations, agricultural industry phases, homemaker groups, youth groups and community and public affair groups.

Officers of the advisory committee are chairman — Owen Van Schoyck, Davidson-rd, Hilliard; vice-chairman, Glenn Lackey, Cemetery-rd, Canal Winchester; secretary, Mrs. Roy B. McCauley, 7265 Linworth-rd, Linworth.

The county extension program is directed by three agents, all faculty members of Ohio State University. Mrs. Bertha Everhart works with the home economics phase; Mrs. Estelle Franks is responsible for the program of marketing and utilization of agriculture products; and McNutt, who is chairman of the team, handles the agriculture phase and coordinates the youth program.

Their signs of optimism and "V" for Victory indicate their belief that public awareness of this health problem will help stamp it out. Downtown Jaycees have arranged for the display to be seen at other key urban locations.

Goodloe Warns Hidden VD Menaces Citizens

A substantial number of Columbus residents may be walking around today totally unaware that they have either syphilis or gonorrhea.

That is the opinion of Dr. Ollie M. Goodloe, city health commissioner.

"Veneral disease is on the rapid rise once more in Columbus. Unfortunately, many of our teenagers and young adults are not aware of the many signs and terrible harm caused by untreated syphilis or gonorrhea", he commented.

Dr. Goodloe urges all citizens to fight these dread diseases by at least receiving basic information about them.

"I am very grateful for the assistance extended by the Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce in this respect. The group is currently waging a strong VD awareness campaign throughout the city. I urge all civic and fraternal organizations to schedule this professionally conducted program now," stated Dr. Goodloe.

Citizens may arrange for Jaycee speakers by calling the Division of Health Education, CA. 8-3561, extension 48.

According to Dr. Jerry Weiner, a Jaycee director of this health project, "everyone in Columbus must know the facts about syphilis and gonorrhea, which is draining our national economy by over $55 million each year. Most alarming here, as elsewhere, is the fact that teenagers represent the largest portion of infected cases.

BEXLEY NOW AT FINANCIAL CROSSROADS: GROW OR DECLINE

Apartments Viewed As 'Lifeline' To Maturing Community

By BETTY DAFT

Many-storied apartments in Bexley?

It could be that the tall, luxury apartment buildings, opposed for years as being incompatible to the residential quality of Bexley, will actually be the means of preserving the high standards of the community.

Although regarded as one of the wealthier suburbs, Bexley is facing a financial dilemma induced by a shrinking tax duplicate that could, if not compensated, lead to an inevitable decline.

Many of the city's older properties have passed the peak of valuation and have begun to decline at a rate that will demand an additional $11 million on the tax duplicate in about the next eight years to provide funds for the operation of the city and its schools.

About $27 million in new real estate would have to be added over the next eight years to increase the tax duplicate by the [illegible] amount.

Alternative to adding real estate values to the city is the undesirable prospect of raising taxes to a total millage somewhere in the 40's.

Schools, dependent upon real estate taxes for 80 percent of their operating expenses, would require an increase of from 22.7 mills to 36.7 mills in about eight years to maintain their present quality of education.

COUNCIL LOOKING UPWARD

Bexley Council members, city and school officials, searching for a way to add the necessary new real estate values soberly and with great care are looking upward—to soaring, luxury apartments as the only realistic way to grow.

Business, a large factory, major recreational venture for public profit, or commercial ventures seem out of character in Bexley; undesirable to citizens who live in the city because of its residential quality.

The city is landlocked, extension is impossible; the community is saturated, the only vacant tract of any size is on E. Broad-st between Merkle and Gould-rd.

Bexley is particularly attractive for apartment development, has easily accessible transportation, and apartments would increase the tax duplicate without adding many more children to educate in the city schools.

Council a year ago took the first courageous step toward reaching a solution that would preserve the quality of Bexley, when it approved rezoning of the Broad-Merkle tract, and land on E. Parkview-av at the southwest corner of Bryden to permit the construction of apartments.

Apartments on Parkview are now under construction and their developer, Burley Showe, will ask council approval at its next session for another adjoining apartment building.

These, however, as well as double apartments and singles recently constructed on Sheridan, Ferndale and Mayfield-avs, are relatively low in tax duplicate value, and just about offset the reduction of value in older prop-

Hundreds of people learn every day that it's smart business to advertise in the Spectator Want Ad section. Folks depend on our classifieds to rent rooms, find jobs, return lost articles, make announcements and bring in a flow of extra cash by quickly finding buyers for articles they no longer use. Whatever your problem the easy, inexpensive answer is to Dial BR. 4-1155 and ask for an Ad Taker.

The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

So They Are Now "So-Called Civic Assns."

This past week we received a publicity release over the names of the six Republican councilmen and mailed in an envelope from the city clerk's office.

The release was emphatic in stating these councilmen are not for a sewer rate increase.

But it further points out that they don't go along with the recommendations of the "so-called civic associations" such as the Development Committee for Greater Columbus and the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce.

Could it be that these councilmen are getting some recommendations from sources that do not come under the heading of civic associations?

Government Costs Go Only One Way

A recent news story revealed that a customer in a midwestern city was looking over some of his old bills and found his 1907 electric bill for $7.00 for 14 kilowatts. The bill was mailed on a penny post card.

Today postage rates have been raised 500 percent but the same electricity costs about 4 percent of the 1907 cost!

We Get Letters

Elsewhere in our Spectator this week are excerpts from letters received recently from numerous readers. We especially liked the one from Mrs. C. G. Lawrence, 179 W. North Broadway:

"Your paper is controversial and fearless — that's why we nicknamed it 'The Tiger Rag.'

"We don't always agree with you, but like to keep up with all sides of the issues."

A SINK? CERTAINLY! And an electric water heater, party-size coffee urn, books, toys, household appliances, compressor, furniture, dishes, ad infinitum. Whitehall firefighters have already collected an impressive array of items for their first annual spring auction, scheduled Saturday, May 15, behind the firehouse, 390 S. Yearling-rd. Firefighter Tom Reddy is chairman of the event, sponsored by the Whitehall Firefighters' Association.

Whitehall Firefighters Solicit Items For First Annual Auction

Clearing out the clutter around your house this spring? Like to dispose of those "white elephants" that collect dust and take up room, and serve no good purpose?

Call the firemen.

They'll pick up the items, sell them at auction, and then return the proceeds to Whitehall through their annual community projects.

The first annual auction sponsored by Whitehall Firemen's Association is slated Saturday, May 15, just in time, when clothing, books, dishes, and furnishings are sorted for discard; when garages and basements are cleared of unwanted tools, implements and toys.

A professional auctioneer, W. J. Blaine, will preside at the sale, to be conducted behind the firehouse at 390 S. Yearling-rd. In the event of rain, the sale will be held in the garage or in the fire station.

Anyone with useable, saleable items to donate may drop them at the firehouse, or call 231-3073 for pick up service.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to help the firefighters in their continuing program of community service—the annual Christmas party for 1000 youngsters and their parents, purchase of uniforms for volunteer firemen, entering a rescue team in international competition, maintaining a fund for needy families, and maintaining the city's two familiar antique fire engines.

East Side Dems Set Grass Roots Campaign Plans

GLADS, the Democratic Club of the 28th Ward on the far East Side, is mapping plans for a grass roots precinct compaign for its party's three candidates to Columbus City Council.

Framework for a door-to-door and telephone drive were described at a recent meeting by John Bowers, 19th Ward committeeman, and Mrs. Dorothy Holden, who supervised block activity during the last year's presidential campaign. Bowers is booster of precinct organization.

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner also attended the meeting in the Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan Building, Hamilton-rd and E. Livingston-av. He mixed "spizzeringtum" and cracker-barrel philosophy in a 45-minute speech, then stayed for refreshments.

President John Shrack reported he will meet in the next few weeks with 28th Ward Committeeman Richard Ramey to firm up plans to cover the ward's 40 precincts. GLADS, formed officially in February, has 55 residents pledged as members. There were 40 at the meeting.

Democrats in the ward are invited to hear the three candidates, M. D. Portman, Don Woodland and James Buumann, at the next meeting, Thursday, Apr. 22, at 8 p.m., same meeting place.

Rabbi Prepares Sermon

"Making the Most of Matzos" will be the title of the sermon to be given by Rabbi Stephen A. Arnold at the 8 p.m. service Friday, Apr. 9, at Temple Israel, 5419 E. Broad-st. This sermon will be given in anticipation of the Pasover Season during which Jewish people eat "matzos" or unleavened bread.

Public Hearings Held, Political Flame Fanned

Whitehall Council chambers were packed Tuesday night for a real "barn-burner" session, sparked by remarks from residents during three public hearings, and finally blazing with councilmen's comments smacking of politics.

Final tally showed more legislation was tabled than acted upon, including the measures on which public hearings were held.

Council did approve hiring an architect to prepare plans and a cost estimate for a proposed new city recreation center.

Deferred until Apr. 20 were legislation that would permit the construction of a nursing home on Bernhard-rd north of Main-st, allow a new Chrysler agency to be built on Hamilton-rd at Etna-rd, and place indoor motion picture theaters in the special permit classification.

Also tabled for study were ordinances that would establish a city purchasing department, and another that would place the city's purchase of gasoline on a bid basis.

In regards to the gasoline ordinance, an angered Ray Shipley reported that he had been "threatened" by Al Hallis, Sr., from whom Whitehall is currently purchasing the fuel.

"He said," Shipley reported, "that if I didn't back off (from introducing the gas ordinance) he would ask embarrassing questions about me and my family.

"As long as I sit in this seat," Shipley affirmed, "nobody can tell me how I can vote on anything . . . I will not be intimidated."

Hallis was identified by Shipley as campaign manager for Mayor William Holzhause, Treasurer Francis Shaeffer and Service Director Joseph Shannon, all of whom are seeking GOP nominations.

Al Hallis, Jr., is opposing Shipley for councilman nomination in the GOP Primary.

A recent $184,000 law suit brought against the city and its officials claiming Whitehall's sewer-tapping fee was illegally high, prompted a statement from Councilman James Toomey.

Toomey questioned James Maxwell, candidate for city solicitor, and listed as a defendant along with Your Host, operator of Howard Johnson Motel; Yearling Circle Apartments and others, on how he proposed to handle a suit filed against the city.

"If this is illegal now," Toomey continued, "was it not illegal when he formerly held that position?" (Maxwell was city solicitor when the sewer tap fee was in effect). "He took no action to correct it," Toomey said, "but allowed the city to . . . collect fees he now calls illegal."

Maxwell commented later that the court decision ruling the fees were illegally excessive came after his term of office.

Maxwell claims the court decision ruled that a city cannot charge more for a sewer tap than the actual cost of inspection, and fixed a fee of $8.19 per tap as reasonable. Whitehall charges $50 per living unit for sewer tap.

Attorney in the case is Charles Lemert, Democratic candidate for city solicitor in Reynoldsburg and Maxwell's law partner.

Toomey also questioned how the suit would affect projects in the city's development program. "Must we abandon all projects until it is settled?"

Approval of rezoning that would permit construction of the Chrysler auto agency was deferred until next council meeting in order to reword the ordinance with exact legal description of the site.

Earlier snags regarding landscaping of the tract, permission to operate a used car lot in addition to the new car salesroom, and an entrance along the commercial strip on Etna-rd were removed by agreement.

Delay on the motion picture house measure was to allow time to find a new location for the project. Objections have been voiced to present site, adjoining Holy Spirit Church on Broad-st at Yearling-rd.

'Head Start' Program Proposed By Schools

Columbus School Board heard at its Tuesday meeting, of the school system's application to sponsor Project Head Start, a pre-kindergarten program for children of limited opportunity, starting this summer.

A project of the Office of Economic Opportunity, Head Start, is financed 90 per cent by federal funds and is designed to help deprived children to "learn to succeed rather than to fail."

Authorized by the program committee of the local Community Action Agency to proceed with application for the program, Columbus Schools would set up about 15 centers in elementary schools in areas designated for low income, high unemployment and pupil retardation.

Fifteen children would be enrolled in each center, due to open June 21 and continue for eight weeks, 9 to 11 a.m.

The staff will tentatively include an elementary principal, 15 teachers and 15 lay helpers, and in addition, five social workers and five case aides to work with the children's parents.

The program, planned to deal with the whole child, will include health services as well as educational and social service.

Medical examinations will test vision, hearing and speech, look for signs of TB, anemia and diseases. Weaknesses and strengths in a child's intellectual, social and emotional development will also be noted.

A follow-up program will provide needed drugs, glasses and treatment.

Students will be those eligible to enter kindergarten next fall, and the instructional procedure would emphasize "learning to learn," giving the youngsters a "head start" on school.

City Schools Purchase Aquinas

The purchase of Aquinas High School-College was approved by the Columbus School Board Tuesday to house the Columbus Area Technician School, which has outgrown its present facilities in Central High School and at the Trade and Industry Center.

The technician school will occupy one of the two Aquinas buildings by September, 1965.

Both projects are planned for completion by the opening of school next fall.

Purchase price of $185,000 for Aquinas, 557 Mt. Vernon-av, was termed a bargain by school superintendent Dr. Harold Elbling.

The need for more classroom and laboratory space for the technician school's growing enrollment prompted the purchase. The Aquinas building will house the school until a permanent location is established.

Maybury Holds Dedication

Do you know what you can buy for $303,897.96?

A lot of things, including a small-to-middling-sized yacht, a Rembrandt original or an olympic-sized swimming pool.

But when parents and friends of the students of Maybury Elementary School turned out for dedication Wednesday, Apr. 7, they saw what the Columbus Board of Education can do with this tidy sum.

It has bought land and built and equipped 13 classrooms, a kindergarten unit, a multi-purpose room, library, kitchenette, health room, teachers' lounge and office area to form Maybury, which can comfortably house almost 500 children.

The contract for the new facility was awarded to Wagenbrenner Construction Co. in October of 1963 and the building was ready for occupancy when school opened last fall.

Donald E. Calhoun, of the Columbus Board of Education, made the dedication speech after Dr. Harold Elbling, superintendent, formally presented the building.

Welcome was given by Principal Don Klech.

Students participating in the program were the safety patrol captains who gave the Pledge of Allegiance and members of the fifth and sixth grade chorus, directed by Joe Armentrout and Miss Janet Teachnor.

Mrs. Arthur Copp, local PTA president assisted Kelch in presenting the honored guests, including board members, city school officials and officers of the Columbus and Central District PTA.

Rev. Charles Schleman, pastor of the Grace Lutheran Church, and Rev. George Myers of the Pine Hills Baptist Church have been invited to Church gave the invocation and benediction, respectively.

Refreshments were served and the building was open for visitation following the formal dedication program.

erties.

In the last few years more than 42 double apartments built on Sheridan-av, and the 40 doubles and 72 singles on Ferndale and Mayfield-avs, practically exhausted the city's empty land.

The trend toward stabilizing future property values in Bexley could depend, according to Dr. E. D. Jarvis, superintendent of the city's schools, on the type and size of apartment council finally approves for the Broad-Merkle tract.

"At stake," Dr. Jarvis observed, in evaluating action needed to determine Bexley's future, "is the prestige of the community, the stability of the individual homeowner's investment, and the future of the educational institutions."

Dr. Jarvis continued, "The inevitable result of neglect or apathy in the face of this situation is deterioration in services, resulting in further deterioration in tax duplicates, and the inevitable decay which comes from such a downward spiraling economic effect.

"The time during which this trend can be offset is rapidly running out. We believe that unless some actions are originated within the next year or two it will become too late to offset this downward trend."

And Council agrees—neglect or apathy in facing the situation would be fatal to their city's future prosperity. Tall apartments could preserve Bexley's traditions of a quality residential community.

Members are also aware that the action they take might very well determine the course other cities might follow. Bexley is the first maturing suburb in the Columbus area to reach and pass its valuation peak.

PEOPLE ARE TALKING ABOUT . . . .

The new, magic permanent waving lotions that give as much or as little curl as you want, and no harsh split ends . . . . The new 'must' in eye makeup — false eyelashes. A conservative woman may prefer wearing just a half-lash at the outer edge of the eye . . . . the new protein fluids that erase lines and hold back the years for a few important hours every day . . . . the new hairstyles fashioned for comfort as well as for glamor . . . the specialty of our salon — the easy, correct, and wonderfully feminine look American women want.

MARVELOUS — LOOKING OR BEAUTIFUL?

Today they say the first may be better, but it's no tragedy to be beautiful, of course. The thing to strive for in one's total grooming is the power to hold attention. Hair coloring is important to help accomplish this for you. You will lose the admiring attention of your chosen audience if your hair is lack-lustre and nondescript, or if it is an ugly unbecoming color. The selection of a color for your hair that will attract and hold admiring attention is probably one of the most important jobs of the professional beautician. She will tell you, if you will let her, that hair worn too dark accents fatigue and age lines, and that blond hair must be just the right shade of blond if it is to be chic instead of cheap. Few women can be objective enough about themselves to safely choose their own color. We specialize. May we help you make your selection?

FACES ARE AS INDIVIDUAL AS THUMBPRINTS

Scarcely a day passes without our hearing about some remarkable new skin cream. We have come to the conclusion that, aside from being a fine product, a cream is good or not good if it causes a woman to believe in caring for her skin. Are you a believer?

The great debate on what to do with chrysanthemums this winter is raging again. One school of thought is to leave them alone with the tops standing to catch winter snows. But what if there is no snow? OSU horticulturists feel that the plants either should be dug up and heeled into cold frames or left in the garden and mulched. The first is the safest. Most gardeners provide a heavy mulch and take their chances. The mulch should be delayed until the ground begins to freeze. Two to four inches of straw, ground corncobs, leaves or similar material is good.

Farm production expenses have increased about three percent annually over the last decade, OSU extension economists state.

Joint Vocational Center, Plans Okayed

FIVE DISTRICTS TO GO IT ALONE

Once upon a time in Franklin County there were fourteen school districts.

Each district had a school board.

They put their heads together and decided joint vocational centers were needed to expand the usefulness of the high school program offered to students not college bound.

Thomas Quick, county superintendent, took them at their word and burned the midnight oil preparing a comprehensive proposal to be presented to the State Board of Education.

But there's many a slip between the cup and the lip and when the local boards were asked to give the plan the go ahead, the ranks began to falter.

When the dust cleared there were only six districts left.

Quick abandoned the plan for more than one vocational center and the boards met again last week.

This time, with the exception of New Albany, they stood firm.

Canal Winchester, Jefferson, Madison, Whitehall and Reynoldsburg are going to try it alone.

The proposal is now backed by a tax duplicate pared to a third of its original size which stands at approximately $178,000,000.

This presents no great problem, according to Quick, as the potential enrollment has been cut by two-thirds.

The district, however, is still far from a reality.

Quick will take the proposal to the State Board of Education Apr. 12. If it gets the green light at that level, the local school boards must once again give it their stamp of approval.

At that step, the time comes to appoint a governing board for the joint district. This board will, by law, consist of three members of the Franklin County School Board and two from the Whitehall Board of Education. (This is in ratio to the students involved.)

It will make the final decisions as to when the issue will be placed on the ballot for voter approval (November is the earliest possible date), where the facility will be located and what curriculum planning shall be.

Present planning incorporates the general areas of agriculture, business education, distributive education and trades and industry. Concentration of subjects would be in the latter field which includes automobile mechanics, electronics, radio and television, cosmetology, etc.

Quick estimates the cost of the proposed center at about $2,000,000 with federal funds available for half of this amount.

This would require passage of a 20-year bond issue at four-tenths of a mill. Operating expenses are expected to require an additional one and one-quarter mill levy.

Quick emphasized that although the joint district would not be under the direct control of the local boards, representatives from each district would be appointed to serve, with him, in an advisory capacity.

Gen. McNamara Addresses Defense Supply Association

Responsibilities of America's citizens, industry and military to be alert to changes in the modern world, and to adjust accordingly was the subject of the talk Gen. A. T. McNamara addressed to the Columbus Chapter, Defense Supply Association, at its last meeting.

Gen. McNamara, executive vice-president of the association, was formerly director, Defense Supply Agency. He commended the agency for its enviable record of saving money by controlling purchases.

Present and former officers of the Armed Services, Organized Reserves, National Guard, industrialists, business men and persons interested in the Department of Defense comprise the association.

The group, non-profit and non-partisan, cooperates with the Department of Defense.

Officers of the Columbus chapter include Glen Millikan, Jaeger Machine Co., president; Benjamin G. Goodall, Ross Willoughby Co.; Lt. Commander Jack C. Bolander, SC, USN; Edward J. Stahurski, Data Systems Office, DCSC, and Helen Burkhart, office of Planning and Management, DCSC.

Gen. McNamara, named first director of the Defense Supply Agency in 1961, retired last June.

He is currently working with Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense. Although their last names are the same, the two are not related.

TODAY'S REPORT

By ABE MELLINKOFF

Our statesmen in Congress are never too busy to do a little favor for us voters. The other day, the House of Representatives saved us $27,000 by not giving the nine justices of the Supreme Court a pay raise.

I suppose the judges will somehow struggle through on the $39,500 they now get and will get enough to eat to be strong enough to write decisions the Congressmen don't like. But if it comes to starvation, I hope the judges won't give in. We'll send them Care packages.

In the meantime, before the Representatives feel to righteous about saving the 27 grand, I wonder how they found the money to pay themselves a raise of $1,205,000.

If ever you discover there is not quite enough bacon to serve everyone his breakfast quota, try this: cook the bacon until crisp, then crumble and stir into the dry ingredients which are called for in a basic biscuit or muffin recipe. Mix and bake as directed, then serve with butter or margarine.

East Columbus

East Columbus Girl Scout Troops 522, led by Mrs. Herschel Cartier, and 502, led by Mrs. Luvenia Clark, participated in the tree planting project at Camp Ken Jockety Mar. 27.

Troop 522 was honored to have three of its members selected to serve as usherettes for the Lazarus Birthday Party Mar. 20. Members of 522 recently went to winter troop camping at Camp Davella near Chillicothe. Adults attending were Mrs. Cartier and Mrs. James Turner, East Columbus Neighborhood Chairman. Theodore Turner and Freddie Williams were in charge of transportation.

By 1970 one out of every two children in the largest city school systems will be a culturally disadvantaged child, according to the Office of Economic Opportunity.

APR 1965

Social Science Fair Is Today

The fifth annual Linmoor Junior High School Social Science Fair will be held at the school on Apr. 8. The theme for this year's fair is "Building America."

Judging is from 2 to 4 p.m., and showing of projects and announcement of winners at 7:30 p.m.

Judges are Miss Helen D. Chapman, retired teacher; William Collins, Ohio historian and author; Jean Emmons, cadet principal, Columbus Public Schools; Paul Mattox, civil service; Jesse Nelson, guidance, Hilltonia Junior High School; Judge Alan B. Schwarzwalder; Ross Shoemaker, retired engineer, Westerville Historical Society, and John Young, city attorney.

THERE IS LITTLE MYSTERY in the record growth of pre-planned communities like Port Charlotte (above). Located on Florida's sunny southwest coast, Port Charlotte is as pretty as a page in a picture book. Roomy homes with modern conveniences, setting like jewels in the subtropical green of lush lawns and picturesque trees and shrubbery, Florida's famous sunshine, and air washed by the Gulf of Mexico that feels fresh and clean in your lungs, these things all beckon alluringly. Besides, there is every activity to suit every taste and inclination. Water and land sports, games, arts and crafts, social activities, educational pursuits and community affairs occupy a minor or a major part, as preferred, of everyone's life. It is a place for quiet retirement or a new era of living. The residents here represent nearly every state, and many old acquaintances are renewed as each year's new group of citizens move into their new homes here. To many of them it is a dream come true. Here, too, they will find all the conveniences of "back home." Schools, churches, parks, recreation centers, shopping centers, the works. .. ..

Old Friends Enjoy 'Fun In The Sun'

By C. CARLTON HARTLEY

The sun doesn't rise in the South but a great number of people who are "traveling toward the sunrise" find themselves heading toward Florida.

A few years ago it was my privilege to make a close inspection of the large development areas of Florida and acquaint myself with many residents of these new "pre-planned" cities. At that time I was a bit skeptical about all the activity in building and lot selling. The sunshine was bright, but I wondered if the sand would serve as a lasting foundation.

A few weeks ago I retraced my steps and even visited with some old friends I had met before. This time, I came away a "believer" because I had witnessed real happiness in these new and attractive communities.

On each trip I had the pleasure of talking with Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Williams, who now live at 450 Laramore-av N.E., in Port Charlotte. They formerly lived at 2955 Maizerd, here in Columbus. Mr. Williams was a staff member of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

Mrs. Williams is an old newspaper woman and just can't get the printer's ink out of her blood. For many years now she has been the Port Charlotte correspondent for the Ft. Myers News Press.

Both of these fine "youngsters," now retired for many years, live by a rule that has brought them great happiness. They share with others, and have taken on a special job at Port Charlotte — that of making newcomers happy in their new surroundings. Sometimes this isn't possible to do, says Mrs. Williams, "and then I just conclude that if they can't be happy here they could never be happy back home."

Then there were the Robert Roederers, now living at 167 E. Prima Vista at Port St. Lucie. They were formerly Hilltoppers, living at 452 Belvidere-av. Mr. Roederer was associated with the Union Fork & Hoe Co., here, for 49 years.

It was a special treat to visit with this fine couple since we had many common acquaintances back home and I have known their son, Don, for so many years.

Of course, their stock went even higher with me when they told of receiving The Spectator each Saturday morning like a weekly letter from home.

"Love it!" was their expression in unison when I queried them about Port St. Lucie. Since I was a guest at the Port St. Lucie Country Club I could well agree with their feelings.

They don't lack for activities and Mr. Roederer is secretary of the Senior Citizens Bowling League, consisting of 80 players who roll each Tuesday and Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kennedy live at 225 Beeney-rd, Port Charlotte. Two years ago they lived at 1706 E. Broad-st, in Columbus. They became interested in Florida and bought their present nice waterfront property through the local Marvin C. Yerke Agency and have settled down to contentment and fun in the sun.

Day by day a community such as Port Charlotte takes on new citizens as the result of friends from the North visiting their old friends now in the South.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy are, in effect, a two-person chamber of commerce. In the past year they have had 42 visitors from back home. One of the latest was Mrs. William J. Perrin of Townley Court.

Leads Developers

Largest and perhaps most progressive of the Florida developers is General Development Corp., now headed by Charles Kellstadt, until recently president of Sears, Roebuck and Co.

Largest of their properties is the one at Port Charlotte, where there are more than 13,000 residents, 6,000 homes and 100 places of business.

But this is merely the beginning. Port Charlotte's master plan calls for 250,000 homesites, 50 schools, 46 churches, 88 parks, seven recreation centers, shopping centers galore, 2,900 miles of paved streets and 180 miles of waterways.

One of the reasons for the growth of such communities is that subtropical living is available at a reasonable price. Especially designed, attractive Florida homes are available in a range of $10,450 to $29,900. Lots run from $1,495 to $1,695 and up.

We visited the Port Malabar development and here the home price is considerably higher, but so is the quality. Highly-paid scientists and engineers working in the area of Cape Kennedy are finding comfort and relaxation in a fine new residential area there.

Down at Port St. Lucie are moderately-priced as well as more expensive homes, adjacent to a fine country club and two large golf courses. If you are a fisherman you have a choice of fresh water in the St. Lucie River or you can go down stream and hit the salt waters of the ocean.

Earlier retirement of so many business men and workers in all fields makes the future one of fun in the sun for those who are heading south to Florida as they "travel toward the sunrise."

Local representative of the General Development Corp. is the Marvin C. Yerke Co., with offices at 232 S. High-st. Marvin Yerke lives at 540 Village-dr. His son, Bob, lives at 2990 Avalon-rd, and sales manager Ralph Trachsel lives at 5203 Trabue-rd.

EVEN A VISITOR cannot drop in at Port St. Lucie, another General Development Corporation pre-planned city on the Atlantic side of Florida, without encountering old friends. As this writer (left) chatted with Mr. and Mrs. Roederer, he found it difficult to hide a twinge of envy of his old Columbus friends. Not so much at that healthy golden tan which they wear so well, but at their completely relaxed and happy way of living. No one can listen long to their story of fun in the sun, nor observe their ready, flashing smiles, without realizing that here are two, among thousands of people, who have found and are enjoying the important "happy chapter" of their lives.

Newly planted trees should be "staked" to prevent them from swaying in the wind and falling over. Kits are available at most garden supply centers and nurseries.

Safety Check Parade To Kick Off Program

Hard-working citizens, civic leaders and police officials have joined hands in preparation for the parade that kicks off this years Vehicle Safety Check program.

Jim Steer, Reynoldsburg safety director, will be marshal for the parade that will form at 1:30 p.m. May 8, between Washington and Jefferson-sts off E. Broad-st.

Floats, vehicles, bands and marching sections will highlight the importance of vehicle safety checks. Four honorary queens, Miss MAPS, Miss Highway Safety, Miss Safety Check and Miss Franklin County will be chosen for the parade.

Safety check lanes will open officially on May 17 and continue through May 29. Suburban communities are expected to operate their check lanes in some areas through June. Lockbourne AFB will open its lane on Apr. 17, while auto dealers and service stations will begin on May 1 and continue through June.

Communities and organizations which have not submitted plans are advised to contact Jim Steer, Reynoldsburg Division of Safety.

Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week Observance Set

Kiwanians on both sides of the border are spearheading the 42nd annual observance of Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week, Apr. 25-May 1, according to presidents of local Kiwanis clubs.

April 28, which falls within Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week, is the 148th anniversary of the signing of the Rush-Bagot Agreement which demilitarized the 3000-mile border between Canada and the United States.

MEETING CANCELLED

The April meeting of The Forum of north Columbus business and professional men has been cancelled due to the fact the regular meeting date, the third Friday of the month, falls on Good Friday. The next meeting is scheduled for noon Friday, May 21, at Perkins Pancake House, 4264 N. High-st.

All Candidates On May Ballot Listed In Bulletin

Mrs. Thomas Ludlum, president League of Women Voters, has announced the May, 1965, Voters Information Bulletin is available to the public. The non-partisan bulletin contains explanations of all state and local issues, and information furnished by each candidate whose name will appear on the May 4 ballot in Franklin County.

This edition of the Voters Information Bulletin has a brand new look, appearing as a pocket-size booklet, rather than the tabloid size newspaper used in the past.

Single copies are available free of charge at the public libraries, or may be obtained by mail from the office of the League of Women Voters, 65 S. Fourth-st, in return for a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Businesses and other groups may obtain larger quantities at print cost by writing or calling Mrs. Vern Reynolds, 1499 Lincoln-rd, 486-3258.

Krieger, chairman of Fire Prevention Bureau of Chamber of Commerce, and Chief E. J. Brophy. A civic committee under the chairmanship of Robert E. How Do Men Like Ham? Just Ask Harry Gormley

Not only did Harry Gromley of 3060 Sunset-dr send in his ham coupon to The Spectator, he also sent along his special way of preparing a ham dish.

Harry says "this is a savory and satisfying meat entree, high in food value and rich in protein." Using one banana and one thin slice ham for each portion, you too can whip up an exotic dish for ham with economy.

HAM BANANA ROLLS WITH CHEESE SAUCE

Cheese Sauce

1½ tablespoons butter
2½ tablespoons flour
¾ cup hot milk
6 oz. (1½ cups) grated sharp cheddar cheese.

Melt butter or margarine and blend in flour. Add hot milk slowly. Add grated sharp cheese. Stir over low heat until sauce is smooth and thick.

Ham Banana Rolls

4 (1 oz.) slices (thinly sliced) cold smoked ham that has been cooked.
*4 bananas
Prepared mustard as desired

McNamara Bill To Get Floor Vote

Legislation aimed at bolstering the state's work in the field of alcoholism by about $100,000 annually sailed through the Liquor Control Committee of the House of Representatives on its first hearing, Mar. 31.

Introduced by Franklin County Representative Keith McNamara, the bill would set aside one percent of liquor permit revenues for alcoholism treatment, public education and research. Support for the measure was voiced by the Ohio Department of Health, the Ohio Department of Liquor Control and the Columbus Area Council of Alcoholism.

McNamara

There was no opposition voiced during the committee, and the bill was unanimously voted out of committee to the rules committee of the House of Represenatives to be scheduled for a floor vote. It is expected that the measure will be brought to the floor during the week of Apr. 19.

McNamara's proposal would direct that the Alcoholism Unit within the Ohio Department of Health distribute the one perecent from local liquor permit fees back to the local levels, to be used by local health departments. If the bill passes in the House of Representatives and the Ohio Senate, many local alcoholism programs now stalled for lack of financing will be instituted.

McNamara said a prime purpose of his measure was to attack problems of alcoholism "locally — where the alcoholic can be most easily contacted and helped."

In the entire city of Moscow there are but nine automobile service garages.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Carrots - - 'Colorful Vitamin A'

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — bananas, grapefruit (white), oranges, prunes.

Vegetables — carrots, salad greens, cabbage, all-purpose potatoes, celery.

Meat and Poultry — eggs (Grade A large), broiler-fryers, beef "specials," pork loin and shoulder roasts, ground meats, fresh smelts.

A carrot a day is a pleasant and colorful way to get your vitamin A.

Mrs. Franks

Perhaps the Greeks were the true discoverers of the value of carrots in the diet. Around the first century Greek physicians wrote about their value as a tonic!

These gold nuggets are one of the best vegetable buys in the market just now—April is a peak marketing month. Winter production this year is somewhat below last winter's bumper crop, but still above market needs. A late Texas crop and an extra large California crop are resulting in heavy shipments for April.

The deep orange color is not an indication of sweetness and flavor. Carrot color is affected by the location of the growing areas, the variety and other environmental factors. However, the bright orange ones are probably richest in vitamin A.

Carrots can easily be labeled a "convenience food." Good quality, well-scrubbed carrots actually need not be pared or scraped. Wash them, brushing well. Chill and eat them raw if you want the very last unit of vitamin A; or cook them until they are just tender but still crisp. Use no more water than needed to prevent sticking.

PRODUCE ON THE WAY

Fresh vegetable supplies are on the increase and prices are beginning to move downward.

Asparagus, a real indication of spring, heads lower in price as peak shipments arrive from California; local supplies will take over in May. And look for more reasonable prices soon on celery, cucumbers, peppers, sweet corn, eggplant and vineripe tomatoes.

Ohio greenhouse tomato harvest has started in a light way and will increase rapidly if we get more sunshine, but peak harvest months are May and June.

Strawberries, pineapples and rhubarb will be seen more in the coming weeks. But don't expect any abundance of strawberries for awhile. Strawberries, so far, in Florida have received more than one set-back from the weather. California started shipping this week but weather has been a problem there also. And, in both states the growers face real problems in getting experienced pickers because of the termination of Public Law 78.

Consider School Levy A Solid Investment

There are no less than 118,000 good reasons why the 3.9-mill Columbus school tax levy should be passed on May 4. That is the number of children who will be in Columbus public schools by 1968.

When all the arguments are heard, these basic facts will remain unchanged:

1. The administration of our public schools is in sound, capable hands. The public is getting the truth about accomplishments, shortcomings and hopes for the future. There is a healthy spirit of understanding between the board of education and the public school administration. And both of these units maintain an "open door" policy towards the general public.

2. For many years now, there has been a sound working partnership between the taxpaying (bill-paying) public and those responsible for the education of our children. The voters have rewarded past sound management of our public schools by underwriting the needed bond issues and tax levies.

3. Those responsible for setting school building and operating budgets have been scrupulously conscientious in asking only for sufficient funding to meet absolute needs. They have done so despite evidence of public support that might tempt less dedicated leaders to pump harder than necessary at the public tax well.

Once again our school leaders have told us what must be done and what it will cost. They have listed the three prime reasons why additional expenditures for education are required.

Enrollment growth: By 1968, the present total student population of 102,000 will become 118,000. And, as pointed out in a booklet released by Citizens for the School Levy: "You can't educate 118,000 children on the same budget as 102,000."

Neighborhood Seminar Improvements: More than 4,000 citizens participated in Neighborhood Seminars on School Program and Finance conducted in May, 1963. From the 1,737 recommendations made at these seminars, school administrators have devised specific educational programs, including: New programs in vocational and occupational education and expansion of programs dealing with slow learners, adult education, enrichment teacher program, counseling, psychological, health and speech therapy services and clerical services.

Teacher Salaries: How long have we heard of the problem of the underpaid teacher? How many times have we heard of raises for teachers? It is not hard to imagine that most people feel that teacher salary problems have been substantially solved over the past few years. Here is some statistical information that should illuminate the subject:

The average annual salary for a carpenter in Columbus is $8,444. The average for a man on a bread route is $7,020, and a policeman or fireman with 3.5 years' experience earns $6,420. A teacher with a master's degree starts at a $5,000 annual salary. Top salary for these teachers — attained at the end of 12 years — is $7,800.

The average annual salary for a Columbus family is $6,200, and $9,700 if the head of the family is a college graduate. The average annual salary for Columbus school teacher is $6,050.

Columbus taxpayers are the least burdened in total real estate taxes of the seven major cities in Ohio. The 32.50 mill Columbus total is 3.30 mills less than the existing total in Toledo — the next lowest — and 13.10 mills lower than the real estate taxes paid by Clevelanders.

The 3.9 mill Columbus school levy should be supported as a responsibility of citizenship, and because we can make no wiser investment than in our youth.

Frosting on the Cake

BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

If ever there was a time for thoughtful citizens to keep their emotions under control it is now.

The undeclared war in Southeast Asia is still almost a mystery to the general mass-mind here in the U.S.A. General opinion is growing that every device and subterfuge is being indulged in. The growing practice of so-called managed news is most disturbing. The real Americans are not softies if they just know what is going on.

The tragic "colorline" situation is getting worse, and no one seems able to rationalize it. Every violence and vulgarity seems evident on both sides and that is no way to solve so threatening a problem. All of the "seven deadly sins" seem to be in the ascendancy.

Willful and apparently deliberate provocative utterances are flooding the news every day and such behavior but serves to "fan the flame."

Governor Wallace persists in his adamant position, repeatedly stated for "home consumption."

The Rev. Martin Luther King, who is a "lord of language" in his own right, is also an emotional genius in mob-psychology and the impression is growing that he is now "over-selling" his message.

So, what can be helpful? One—have all the "big shots" on both sides hold their tongue, until some vestige of sanity can be heard by the people. Two—stop the marches and police brutality on both sides. Three—give the proposed new laws a chance to jell and see what actually happens as individuals of both races seek to see common decency grow.

The alternative is eventual mob-violence; and God forbid that. That is something this country can't afford, ever again.

Let's Think This Over

Columbus leadership — both civic and political — has a real "tiger by the tail" in the current controversy over how and when to meet sewer service demands.

There is general agreement that the city must find more revenue to establish a balanced program of sewer line construction. Completion of the $26 million Southerly Sewage Treatment Plant and an additional $20 million in sewer projects hang in the balance. So does the city's growth potential.

The big questions deal with "when?" and "how?"

The six Republican council members recently released a joint statement pushing a financing program via voted bonds. This, they say, would allow a capital improvement program without new or additional taxes. Their plan would ignore recommendations of the consultant firm they hired to suggest the best method of financing. (The consultant called for sewer rate increases designed to raise sewer revenues by 35 percent.)

The Sensenbrenner administration was not in office when the consultant was retained, yet favors the consultant's approach as the best financing method. They say it would permit an orderly five-year capital improvements program. The administration says the council bonding plan anticipates the use of city tax funds already pledged to other necessary capital improvements. These are the programs approved by Columbus voters last November.

The Development Committee for Greater Columbus and the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce have added their support to the consultant's recommendation for a sewer rate increase. It is said that the average homeowner would pay one cent more per day under the rate increase proposal.

Before we close the door on a rate increase, let's give the situation several days of closest scrutiny.

Fly Kites Sensibly

Kite-flying season is in full bloom, and it's extra-fun time for those who abide by a few simple rules of safety. But it can be a deadly serious adventure for those who are not safety-conscious.

The Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. recently issued a reminder of the standard precautions for kite-flying. Basically they are these: Avoid use of string with any metallic substance; pick an open spot, away from trees and power lines, and confine kite flying to dry weather days.

And, if in spite of precautions, your kite becomes tangled in power lines, let an Electric Co. crew do the dislodging. They will answer all such calls and prevent needless risk of life.

An Editor's Outlook . . .

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

If You're Not Good In The Arts, Be Terrible

Once upon a time there were three Cherry sisters in Marion, Iowa. They wanted to go to the Chicago World's Fair of 1893, but they lacked rail fare. So they rented Green's Opera House in nearby Cedar Rapids and put on a sketch with songs called "The Gypsy's Warning."

Addie and Effie wore drum major costumes and sang "My Daddy and Mama Were Irish." Jessie gave out with her own composition, "For Fair Columbia." Then the sisters appeared in Prince Albert coats, wearing mustaches, and sang "The Traveling Man." The audience grew restive.

Jones

There followed a number of comic pieces, climaxed by a religious number, "Clinging to the Cross." The curtain went down on a near riot. When the newspaper review appeared the next day the sisters sued for libel. That night there was a packed house. Then the girls went to Chicago, first class.

For years thereafter the Cherry Sisters were famous. They toured the big time, always performing behind a net to catch the vegetables. They sued the critics. They made angry speeches to the turbulent crowds. In 1908, in a furious letter to Variety, the sisters wrote:

> "Although we have the best act in vaudeville and are the best drawing cards on the stage, we have no swelled heads. We have had more knocking since we went into the theatrical business than any other act and we have come to the conclusion that it is because we are not of the character of these unprincipled editors and managers who have done the knocking and slandering."

The Cherry Sisters retired prosperous, leaving behind them a major American mystery: Did they know they were terrible or did they really think they were good? Until they died, they never cracked a smile.

But Addie, Effie and Jessie illustrated a great truism in the arts. If you can't be good, be terrible. Honest mediocrity will get you nowhere.

The singer who sings 20 true notes and two sour ones is laughed from the stage. But if he sings 22 sour ones he's likely to be hailed as a genius. The smaller the talent the bigger the gimmick. A weak voice needs snapping fingers and a writhing body. A baritone bray draws squeals if it emanates from beneath a mop haircut.

Today's grandmothers flipped when young Rudy Vallee put a megaphone to his lips and crooned "Vagabond Lover." He needed the megaphone just as modern singers need the mike. "Whispering Jack" Smith — remember? — whispered because he couldn't sing. Helen Kane parlayed a squeaky little voice into a fortune by interlarding the lyrics with "Boop, boop, a-doops." The gimmick is no new invention.

How do you become a famous poet if you lack either the talent or the patience to master those exacting disciplines which raised poetry to a high art form? It's simple. You write gibberish.

If you merely wrote poor poetry in the Eddie Guest manner your un-talent would be discovered immediately. But if you are smart enough to write utter nonsense your votaries will build a temple to you.

Gertrude Stein, after years of producing poetry that read about as well backward as forward, did what the Cherry Sisters never did. She smiled. She confessed that her celebrated play, "Four Saints in Three Acts," meant absolutely nothing. This was a terrible gaffe, for it left no less a person than Thornton Wilder stuck with an ecstatic review in which he raved over Miss Stein's subtleties and depth of feeling.

The avant garde literati never forgave Gertrude for her outburst of honesty. It came too close to pulling down the house of cards. For the poetry poseurs are tireless in trying to sell the doctrine that incomprehensibility is the same as genius, and that rhyme, meter and clarity of thought are obsolete.

Several years ago two puckish Australian soldiers picked unrelated sentences out of the army first-aid booklet, strung them together as a "poem," and won the critics' prize in a poetry contest in Melbourne. The Australian intelligensia haven't forgiven these humorists, either.

The other evening in a conservatory of music in an eastern city I stopped in the corridor to listen to a student running through a Chopin mazurka. Midway in the piece there was a difficult arpeggio and each time there was trouble. The instructor's baton would tap the piano. The music would stop and after a conference the piece would start again, only to run aground once more.

Here was devotion and labor and maybe one chance in 10,000 of becoming a successful concert pianist.

What the student should have been doing, of course, was practicing fatuous smiles in the light of blazing candelabra a la Liberace, or perfecting the gags and pratfalls that transformed Victor Borge from a competent journeyman into an international celebrity.

This is the age of the bizarre. Millions hunger, not for quality, but for caricature. Maybe the Cherry Sisters knew it all the time.

'THE GRIST'

Ground Out by Dusty Miller

CORA — By advice and consent of the party of the first part of the domestic relations department, I see her often, happily. She is petite, pretty and personable. She observed her "sweet 16" birthday anniversary 80 years ago. A blessing to God's world, she has lived and loved and laughed.

* * *

OLA — The Apostle Paul, the world's greatest salesman, said proudly: "I was brought up at the feet of Gamaliel." An oldish man is forgiven for boasting: "I had classes in Princeton to Woodrow Wilson."

Dusty

Bowing to applause, the skilled pianist smiles: "I had lessons to Ola." Fortunate youngsters are still crowding her classes to gain her magic touch.

She was a sweet girl graduate from high school the same year that Congressman Clarence J. Brown entered it as a freshman.

MARY — Three turn-off knobs constitute my yearly TV maintenance cost. I count the year not totally lost in which I hear one good speech. The nausea of the political campaign's diatribes and inanities was relieved by one good speech — Ronald Reagan's.

I can pass up all I might hear this year, as I have erased all I have heard so far, having heard one perfect talk. Wholesome, winsome Mary made it.

The tears in her eyes go so beautifully with the smile on her lips, whose words are acceptable in His sight.

* * *

LOUANNA — She teaches Greenfield's retarded pupils. She mothers the motherless, and patiently guides the unfortunates from broken homes, and victims of circumstances.

Knowing every mile of the routes from her home near Marshall, I asked which one she drives, guessing she would say: "Oh, I usually go by the mill." (At the foot of Rocky Fork Lake.)

"But," she smiled, "one morning I went through Carmel, the sunrise was so pretty!"

WHAT RELIGION MEANS TO ME

(Ed. Note: During Lent this column is guest-written by laymen as part of a project sponsored by the West Side Kiwanis Club.)

If one's religion means anything to him, it should motivate his conduct toward the good life.

Most of the world religions do this; that is, they define or furnish a means of defining the difference between good and evil, between that which is positive for living and that which is negative, between that which is acceptable for society and that which is repugnant.

Kinney

The problem, of course, is to apply the principles of one's religion, so that it motivates him to better conduct than otherwise he would have been capable of achieving.

Being a Christian means to me that I should seek, in my daily living, to find a way of life that fosters and is consistent with the principles announced by Jesus Christ. His was the philosophy of suffering with evil (turning the other check), of overcoming evil with good (walking the additional mile), of concern for the welfare of others (giving your cloak also), and of living by the Golden Rule (doing for others as you would have them do to you).

The Christian in his daily living should endeavor to test his conduct in these fires of Christian principle, and, if he does, he should find answers that are stimulating and satisfying, not only to him, but also to those about him.

In doing so, he becomes to those around him a light which is not hidden under a bushel, but which is set upon a stand for all the world to see —an influence for good in the community, and a teacher of the Way, the Truth, and the Life, as his Christian background dictates.

He realizes that the only credit he can get from life, that really counts, is what he does for other people. Not only in how he serves others in his job or profession, but also how he fills his own niche of "extra-curricular" public service, enthusiastically and willingly, without anticipation of reward; and this in full measure, over and beyond the call of duty.

He finds that in the process of Christian living, he comes closer to emulating the life of Him whom Christians revere as the Perfect One, and that he feels more and more a Living Presence which guides him in his work, his service, and his understanding of life. Such that not only is he better able to deal with life's problems himself, but also he is able to transmit to others a confidence and an awareness which calms and sustains them in times of success as well as in times of adversity.

He is not troubled with fears, because he knows that one who is faithfull is not fear-full. He is not bothered with the unexplainable, because the unexplainable is always with us. He does not get upset with the so-called "conflict" of science, because he believes in the advancement of knowledge and the pursuit of cause.

He is willing to face the unknown, because he is equipped to meet it. Even thoughts of death do not alarm him, because he has made the most of his life! And he believes in the Great Promise that distinguishes him as a Christian — that there is a Life of the Spirit which survives the grave and lives forever.

Seeks 'Neutering' Law

To the Editor:

Of the 84 million puppies and kittens born yearly, over 30 million do not have permanent homes. These animals are left to exist in any way they can until they ultimately die of starvation, exposure, accident, or worse. All owners of dogs and cats, we are sure, would want to help eliminate excessive animals. If owners of female mixed breeds would have their pets spayed, this problem eventually would come to an end. Spaying will not make the animal sluggish, fat, etc. These conditions arise from a lack of proper exercise, or from improper feeding.

The people who do not particularly care about dogs or cats certainly would be in favor of spaying animals in order to reduce the number of roving dogs which frighten people walking on our sidewalks, etc. For those who feel their religion would not look favorably on this practice, I might add that the Catholic Church also approves such action. There is a leaflet "God's Animals," available from The National Catholic Society For Animal Welfare, 1346 Connecticut-av N.W., Washington, D.C.

I suppose there will always be a certain amount of experimenting, etc. with animals, but with fewer animals there would not be so many available for such torture.

There are some areas in our United States where before a female dog or cat (mixed breed) is released from a dog pound, it must be spayed. If we could have such a regulation here in Columbus, it would help to some extent. The other need is for some type of law in our city or state which would require persons harboring a mixed breed female dog to have it spayed, or else pay a higher fee to own unspayed females. The Humane Society of the United States has a suggested ordinance in this regard. A copy of it has been sent to Safety Director Frederick J. Simon and also to Mayor King in Hilliard at his request.

H. T. Hall, here in Columbus, is quite interested in this problem, and I understand he is going to try to interest one of our representatives in the ordinance. If Ohio could lead the way in this, it would surely be a great step forward.

Calls Liquor Bill 'Foolish'

To the Editor:

Congratulations on your editorial "Never On Sunday," printed in the Apr. 1 edition of your paper. The reasoning and logic was clearly stated and showed a definite stand being taken by The Spectator.

Timed perfectly was a feature on page one of your paper advising the public that the already overcrowded State Hospital is now going to "pilot" a ward for alcoholics. In other words the legislators' feelings appear to be — drink all you want whenever you want and don't worry, because the State will take care of you if anything happens, anyhow.

The proponents of Senate Bill 96 should read the two articles in your paper. We could only hope they would be ashamed enough to withdraw this foolish type of legislation proposed, and spend their time and our money in a more constructive manner.

Why Not Put On Our Best?

To the Editor:

In answering Mrs. Emma B. Johnston's letter of Mar. 25 (Materialism in Churches), there are several questions I would like to ask:

Why do people buy homes with chandeliers or expensive paintings?

Why on birthday anniversaries and other special occasions would anyone purchase a gift?

Why do women wear pretty clothes and fix their hair?

Why are beautiful hymns written, beautiful flowers placed on altars, and ministers in clean suits and shined shoes in their pulpits on Sunday?

(All too often people see only too much of what they want to see.)

The great Lord who adorned His earth with trees, colorful birds, blue skies and tall purple mountains should not, must not and will not be given any less in return.

Who are we to say the Lord shall be worshipped in an old shack by people in dirty work clothes when they can afford to do more?

I do not say the poor's worship is any less meaningful nor are their voices any softer in the ears of God. I do say if we can dress our homes and ourselves in grandeur have we the right to give our Maker any less?

You say our material life should not outshine our spiritual light but just the opposite so we may show the atheist the way. Tell me Mrs. Johnston, have you purchased your materialistic Easter bonnet yet?

I say, show the non-believer we love God enough to make His home as nice as ours. Dress His altar first before we dress our so-called sacred bodies.

Mrs. James O. McGrory

Desk Story Stirs Interest

To the Editor:

I read with interest "A Thing of Beauty," in "The Spectator Says:" (Mar 25) . . .

I was born in Madison County 73 years ago. At one time my parents lived on a farm three miles south of London.

I well recall the Madison County Democrat, It and the Breeders Gazette, a farm journal, were the only news that we received . . .

Thanks for a nice story in a good paper, "The Spectator."

To the Editor:

The Spectator is very welcome in our home. The first thing I look for is "The Spectator Says" by C. C. Hartley.

It is like getting something from home . . . .

The story of the desk brought me much pleasure. I have many antiques and old things are so often worth saving.

EARLY OPENING OF FREEWAY BRIDGE TO EASE TRAFFIC PROBLEMS

TRAFFIC PROBLEMS LOOMING on the East Side while Livingston-av in the Alum Creek-dr area is torn up for East Freeway construction, will be lightened after May 15, when the Freeway bridge over Livingston-av is expected to be completed. Abutments for the bridge, already in place, are visible at left. The almost steady flow of trucks, operating on a 20-hour per day schedule, will be routed across the bridge when it is opened. The four lanes at the Alum Creek-dr intersection will be narrowed to two during construction, and trucks crossing the busy traffic artery cause a serious back-up of traffic. The permanent through-lane for westbound traffic at the intersection is also closed.

He was also a member of Franklinton Society Children of American Revolution, Bexley DeMolay, and the American Radio Relay League (K8MTI). He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Holliday Ruggles; one sister, Ruth, at home; grandmother, Mrs. W. C. McCaskill of Karns County, Tex., and an uncle, Dr. W. C. McCaskill of Dallas.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My wife was disappointed when I didn't give her a dog last Christmas, and she has been letting me know about it since. I have never liked dogs since I was a boy and the people next door always had mean dogs.

I've seen many dogs since then that had very unreliable dispositions. I just can hardly bring myself to get my wife a dog but now it looks like I will have to. Do you think this is fair? —R.T.

DEAR R.T.: No, it isn't fair —to the dog. Why should anyone expect dogs to be more reliable than the humans who keep them? It would certainly seem logical that the paragon of perfection — homo sapiens —with all his alleged thinking faculties could provide a model for other animals to follow.

Yet if a random sampling of 100 humans were placed alongside 100 canines, one would probably find only slight differences between the two groups in regard to desirable temperament.

In unreliable behavior or just plain cussedness, there would be little to choose between them. If one can tolerate human foibles, allowances can certainly be made for the animal most responsive to the human and his environment.

* * *

DEAR DR. MILLER: I planted some catnip indoors recently and now have a nice crop. The trouble is my cat hardly pays any attention to it. I am hurt because he loves old "store-bought" catnip. How come? —R.R.

DEAR R.R.: Your catnip simply hasn't had time enough to come up to expectations. Old (mature) catnip leaves are considerably more aromatic, and enticing, than the leaves of young plants.

* * *

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm an inexperienced dog owner. Our (my) dog, Loverboy, is a beautiful white Poodle with three champions in his strain. He is now one and a half years old. We're having a sickening problem of his beautiful black nose turning pink. We would like suggestions, if any, to bring back his beautiful black nose. —D.J.

DEAR D.J.: In the winter time, unwanted pink noses are most commonly due to a change in metabolism. This change results in the removal of melanin (a black pigment) from this area. Supplemental iron may sometimes help restore the proboscis to its original ebony finish. (Mineral supplements of any kind should be prescribed by the doctor. Overdoses of iron, for example, can be toxic.)

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Sensenbrenner Sets 'Pan-American Day'

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner has designated Apr. 14 as "Pan-American Day in Columbus" and urged observance of a 10-day period as a time to take note of our "long standing friendship with Latin and South American nations."

Pan-American Day was first celebrated in 1930 and was set aside to symbolize the unity, friendship and solidarity which chracterizes the American Republics in the achievement of their common destiny.

The Goods You Discard Supports The S. A. "Service to Man" Program
The men's Social Service Center of the Salvation Army is supported entirely from money it receives from the re-sale of goods and materials donated to it by thoughtful citizens; it depends wholly on your contribution of reclaimable discards for its existence—when you have something to discard, please call the Salvation Army representative in your neighborhood —

The S. A. Rehabilitation Center Is A Community Enterprise
It provides mental, moral, physical, social and spiritual improvement to the unfortunate. Veterans, alcoholics, parolees and others, find their way back to a useful life through the efforts and guidance offered by the Center. Every man thus redeemed, becomes an asset to the community from which he came. The Center needs and deserves your support.

"Your Support is the Key to Success for This Worthwhile Cause."
You can do so much, by giving so little—your discarded clothing, household goods and appliances, and other reclaimable items provides the means to assure the continued success of this very important Salvation Army activity. Your contribution will be sincerely appreciated.

A PLAN THAT FAILED

April 9, 1965 will be the 100th anniversary of Lee's surrender to Grant at Appomattox, marking the virtual end of the Civil War. Meanwhile, some may remember that the year 1864 saw the collapse of one of the most unique organizations, perhaps the only one of its kind in American history.

The Knights of the Golden Circle was a semi-military secret order founded in the Midwest in 1861. Its purpose was to bring the Civil War to an end and to invite the Southern states back into "the Union as it was."

Despite much said to the contrary at the time, it is not certain, so far as this observer can determine, that the Knights were disloyal, at least in their own opinion. Nor is it clear how they expected to accomplish their purpose by peaceful means. Events gave sad proof that the Southern states could not be brought back into the Union without military conflict costly to all hands.

Some of the Golden Circle's secrets were exposed in 1863. It was renamed the Order of American Knights. In 1864 it was the Sons of Liberty.

Membership was estimated at 250,000 to 300,000 at the peak of the order's popularity. It covered Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kentucky and Pennsylvania, Fernando Wood of New York once headed the fraternity while the controversial, reputed "Copperhead" Clement Vallandingham of Ohio was his second in command.

The order collapsed in 1864 when three of its leaders were sentenced to death for treason. The Supreme Court released them two years later.

It says here . . . .
There are many little known, picturesque vignettes of our history.

WMNI FEATURE

On Saturday, Apr. 10, WMNI will present a nine-hour feature sponsored by the World Literature Crusade. The "Radio Missionary Convention" will be heard from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., narrated by Dr. Oswald J. Smith, founder of the People's Church in Toronto, Canada. America's favorite gospel singers will be heard, along with such famous spiritualists at Billy Graham, Jack McAlister, Dr. Wilbur Smith, Wes Steelberg, Dr. C. Townsend and Dr. Frank Laubach.

ONE OF THEIR OWN was also honored by Columbus Theta Sigma Phi members at their Matrix Table. Mrs. Marion (Pat) Renick, 267 E. Longview-av, seated, was presented with a distinguished achievement award for her unique contribution to children's literature—25 books in 25 years. Her latest book, "Watch Those Red Wheels Roll," was published last month. The award was an original, ceramic tile, carved with the sports' figures that are themes of Mrs. Renick's book, designed and executed by Mrs. Oren L. Adams, 181 N. Edgevale-rd, center. Mrs. Adams is the mother of the chapter president, Mrs. William Behnke, 710 S. Burgess-av, at right.

900 ATTEND MATRIX TABLE

A RECEPTION LINE formed on the promenade, following the Matrix Table banquet Apr. 1 at the Columbus Plaza, to give the 900 guests, such as the two in the foreground, an opportunity to meet the speaker, Mrs. Ruth Philpott Collins. From left are, Mrs. William F. Behnke, president Columbus Chapter, Theta Sigma Phi, sponsor of the traditional Matrix Table for the past 41 years; Mrs. Collins, 50-year veteran in the field of writing for children, religious publications, magazines and newspapers; Mrs. Frank J. Lausche, wife of Ohio's senior senator; Mrs. Maynard E. Sensenbrenner, wife of Columbus' mayor, and Mrs. Novice G. Fawcett, wife of Ohio State University president. Not included in the photo were, Mrs. Millicent Easter of Waverly, life member Theta Sigma Phi; Mrs. E. J. Kahn of Chicago, editor Matrix Magazine, and Miss Jane Andrews, Ohio Eta Chapter president and city editor, Ohio State University Lantern.

COFFEE BREAK

Just How Would Ozzie And Harriet Handle It?

By ADELINE DALEY

If there's one thing I deplore it's parents who quarrel in front of their children. I fervently believe that all differences of opinion should be discussed behind closed doors in the same manner one would expect Ozzie and Harriet to handle the situation.

Some of the biggest arguments, as a matter of record, between my husband and myself have been about that very matter. I regret to add that we usually argue about in front of the kids, because our walls and doors aren't soundproof enough to muffle our voices raised in heated debate. In fact, when I caution my husband, "Hush, the children will hear you," I am referring to the kids in the next block.

I suppose we should argue in muted tones, as we do when we have company and my husband will whisper to me in the kitchen, "What happened to all of the soda?" And, "How come the kids' faces look so dirty."

Believe me, it sometimes takes an Academy Award performance on my part to emerge from the kitchen smiling like a heroine in a Ladies Home Journal short story.

I don't have the advantage, either, that some wives have of threatening to go home to mother. More often than not, it would mean moving into her bedroom across the hall.

And, of course, when she is living with us we must also resort to arguing in dark corners in whispers. In fact, when you consider all of the people we have to worry about NOT fighting in front of—the kids, the Avon lady, the Fuller Brush man, the milkman, the dry cleaning man, assorted repair people, neighbors — it's really a miracle that we have time to devote to it at all.

That's why I truly admire the type of parents who display such complete self-control that they are able to postphone any battles they might have until the children are out of hearing range.

Tell me, do they set up an appointment by making a week from next Tuesday as the first available time the kids figure to be out? In my case I'd probably have to wait until all of ours left home to get married.

However, I think there are some advantages in arguing in front of your kids. For one thing, it sure shuts them up for a while. It also hardens them to the iniquities of life in discovering that all marriages aren't as placid as those of Donna Reed, Leave It to Beaver and Father Knows Best on television.

But, please, I don't want you to get the impression either that we have replaced the Friday Night Fights.

Boy Scout News

Unit elections are being held by members of the White Oaks Chapter, Order of the Arrow, during the month of April for troops in the Bexley-Whitehall area.

While these troops are actually in the Hetuck district, the White Oaks chapter is conducting the elections since there is no OA chapter in the Hetuck district as yet.

The purpose of these elections is to nominate candidates from the troops for possible membership in the Order of the Arrow.

Once a Scout has been named by his troop as a candidate, he must then be tapped out and undergo an ordeal before actual induction into the Order, which is a service organization for honorary Scout campers.

The tapout of elected candidates will be held at the Hetuck District spring camporee, scheduled for Apr. 30, May 1 and 2. All scoutmasters and explorer advisors in the Bexley-Whitehall area should make arrangements with the OA before the middle of April.

Arrowman Carl Japikse is in charge of all unit elections held by the White Oaks chapter. He may be contacted at 231-8647.

Other arrowmen serving on the elections committee are Dean Bright, Eric Stocker, Mike Kiem, Jim Kelley, Dick Almay, Mike Pope and Dean Appleman.

NO SCHOOLFIELD BUT . . .

Eight Vets, Depth, Soph Crop Make East City Contender

East track coach Lee Williams took a hard one on the chin last week.

Williams found he will be without his number one '64 returnee—Kent Schoolfield — this spring due to ineligibility.

SCHOOLFIELD, a hurdle and relay man, qualified for state competition last season and was pretty much considered the center spoke of East's '65 cinder squad.

But nine other returning lettermen and the best depth East has had in the past five seasons allows Williams to remain optimistic about his Tiger thins' chances this spring—even without Schoolfield.

Besides Schoolfield, the Tigers should feel the loss of three other individuals who helped East to runnerup positions in both the City Meet and District.

GONE ARE Alex Moore, John Bailey and Mike Gordon who, with returnee Gil Mathews, composed an East mile relay team which set a new District mark last spring (3.22).

Setting the pace for the '65 Tiger cindermen will be co-captains Jerry Bynum (high jump) and Gail Lane (100, 220, relays).

Broad jumper Galen Bias is Williams' other letterman, the remaining six all juniors.

THOSE JUNIOR vets include: Soloman Espie (sprints, relays, broad jump), Mathews (shot put, mile reay), Frank Sullivan (mile run), Don Washington (high and broad jump), Willie Jackson discus) and Grady Bobo (shot put).

Up from the East reserves are junior Archie Allen, who took the quarter-mile in the '64 City Reserve Meet, half-miler George Shropshire and hurdler Jim Lake.

Two juniors—sprinter Jim Taylor and distance man Horace Walker — are joined by miler Craig McMullen, quarter-miler Jim Rand and sprinterr Hardin (all three seniors out for the first time) to add additional depth.

BUT EAST'S forte could well lie in a fine crop of sophomores Williams will try out on the varsity this spring.

Two of the top sophs are hurdler Rodrick Jones, who Williams compares to Schoolfield and Phillip Cousins, a shot put artist.

Cousins, a junior high champ in his event, could be one of the best ever to put on track shoes at East, according to Williams.

OTHER TOP soph prospects include: hurdler Clarence Bennett, broad jumper Frank Tucker, sprinter Reginald Bates and half-miler Dan Patton.

"I feel we've got three of the City's best sprinters, five of the top six in the quarter-mile and the best miler and broad jumper in the City," Williams said.

"We don't have a lot of individuals this season but teamwise we'll be real tough," the Tiger mentor concluded.

Here is the remainder of East's '65 track schedule:

WHITEHALL VETS READY TO 'PLAY BALL'

Schwartz Robb Marks Pace Thins

Walnut Ridge's Kenny Schwartz, Gahanna's Terry Robb and Eastmoor's Ron Eiland were the big names on area tracks this week in a weather-abbreviated schedule.

Schwartz set a new Scottie school mark in the mile (4:26.9) as W-R placed second-best between winner Fairfield Union and Marion-Franklin in a triangular.

Robb didn't run the mile but he also claimed a new mark at Gahanna, pole vaulting 13'3" in the Lions 76-42 romp over Whitehall.

Eiland scored 20 big points as Eastmoor dropped Whitehall, 78-40.

Elsewhere, Bexley downed Reynoldsburg as Rick Weber (10 pts.) and Larry Ringer (eight pts.) set the pace.

Hartley Diamond Fans Hope That 'Ryan Magic' Works For Hawks

Talking to Jack Ryan is like wading through a conversation with Casey Stengel.

When you finish the interview and look at your notes, you wnder what he really said.

RYAN WILL be taking over the diamond reins at Hartley High this spring and Hawk fans are hoping the veteran mentor brought along that winning formula from St. Charles where the silver-haired Irishman had been hoarding pennants for some time.

"We can't hit very well," Ryan started, "but, on the other hand, we can't field either. You can tell them we'll be wearing clean uniforms."

When the Hawk mentor finally got down to cases, he pointed out that his '65 club should have a good defensive outfield, a fair infield, fair pitching and weak hitting.

ON THE MOUND this spring, Hartley will have Dave Rogers, Scott French, Tom Foley, Joe Whitlach and Dan McKeever.

Behind the plate will be either Tom Schlager or Jim Keegan. The Hawks will also carry two catcher-outfielders in Chuck Drake and Bob Bennett.

Infield prospects include Tom Devlin, Bob Riley and Steve McLaughlin at first, Steve Gaelic, Johnny Sullivan and John Derrer at second, Danny Moore at short and Steve McGrew and Scott French at third.

IN THE outfield, Ryan has Jerry McNenemy, Joe Gatto and Gary Plank.

The Hawks racked up a twin-win over Westerville before dropping a narrow, one-run verdict to Walnut Ridge in their first three games this spring.

Ryan sees "everybdy in the league tougher than ourselves" but quickly added, "if you turn the paper upside down, we're liable to be on top."

CASEY COULDN'T have said it better.

E-M, W-R, Hawks Nab BB Victories

Eastmoor, Hartley and Walnut Ridge collected diamond wins last week in area baseball action.

Eastmoor, the defending AAA District champ, got six-hits, shutout pitching from Tom Cooper and Doug Cromer for a 5-0 verdict over Whitehall. Jerry Groves (three RBIS, two hits) paced E-M hitting.

Hartley led all the way in downing Westerville twice Saturday as Dave Rogers and Tom Foley held the 'Cats to two hits to win the opener, 9-4, before Scott French went the distance on a four-hitter to cop the nightcap, 5-3.

But Jackie Cheatam's final-inning RBI single spotted the Hawk mark Monday as Walnut Ridge survived a Hartley comeback to win, 4-3. Lefty Chuck Crook picked up the win for W-R.

Whitehall hurler John McQuaid allowed Linden but one hit but the Rams lost to the Panthers anyway, 2-0, as Linden's Dan McCarty blanked Ted Georgeff's crew on a two-hitter.

Two Returnees Carry Bexley Baseball Hopes

Bexley diamond coach Perry Smith couldn't exactly be tabbed a rich relative after what he inherited from last year's Lion baseball squad.

Smith, who has moved up to varsity this spring from his spot as Jayvee coach, found only two starters back from Bexley's 2-10 '64 nine.

GONE ARE the likes of pitcher Mike Myers, outfielder Mike Wallace and second baseman Doug Squeo.

Only two sure starters in Smith's '65 lineup are those returning regulars — senior catcher Tim Greiner and junior outfielder Cam Orr.

One bit of encouragement is provided in the pair's '64 batting averages (Greiner hit .275, Orr sticked over .300).

SMITH DOES have a good share of fine pitching prospects available, keyed by senior hurler Bill Meeks. Filling out the Lion pitching corps are Mike Abbott, Steve Stout, Carl Heinke, Jim Moriarty and lefty Wayne Smith.

Although there are still many question marks as to starting positions, Smith's starting infield will be composed of: either Heinke or Smith at first, Jay Worly or Larry Snyder at second, Jeff Gold or Larry Willman at short and Steve Gold or Stout at third.

The outfield, rated as "wide open" except for Orr in left, finds Gary Deeds, Leon Friedland, Woody Jones, Charles Burkham, Sonny Darish, Steve Wyman and Moriarty battling for the two remaining starting spots.

SMITH LISTS Whitehall, Arlington and Worthington as chief combatants for the CBL diamond crown this spring.

Here is the remainder of the '65 Bexley diamond schedule:

NOT COMFORTABLE BUT . . .

Gahanna Thins Rated 'Best Bets' To Nab 2nd Straight Mid-8 Title

There's nothing comfortable about being placed on the "hot seat" before you've even set foot on the cinders but, nevertheless, that's where his Mid-Eight colleagues have deposited Gahanna's Ed Reary this spring.

And with 12 lettermen returning to the defending Mid-Eight champion's fold this season, it isn't too difficult to see why everybody's listing Reary's Lions as the team to beat.

REARY DID lose four key performers off that '64 squad which finished 7-1 in dual and triangular meets. Gone are leading distance man Tom Yank and Al Bolton plus hurdler Jim Roush.

A fourth letterman — sprinter Bill Vardeman—has moved to Arizona.

But a strong fourth at the recent Franklin County Indoor Meet indicates the Lions aren't hurting too bad this spring.

GAHANNA should be strongest in the pole vault and broad jump events where depth is a Lion asset.

Three of those 12 returning vets—Terry Robb, Mike Sullivan and Mike Keiner—are vaulters, Robb taking a second in the event at the Indoor Meet (13').

Bob Glover (second in Indoor Meet broad jump) leads the Lion lineup of vets in that area with Robb and soph Doug Young also listed as broad jumpers.

AND THE Lions' strength doesn't end there as evidenced by a second in the two-mile relay at the same Indoor Meet.

Returning vets in distance events include juniors Mike Harbinger and Bill Miller.

In fact, there's barely a spot where Reary can't insert a seasoned performer like co-captain Mike Bokros in the hurdles, Nelson Robb in the shot put, John Marsch in the high jump, and Rick Morris in the discus.

HOW ABOUT sprinters? Try co-captain Glover (finished) in top five at Indoor Meet), Robb or Glenn Martin.

But the saddest thing to consider (as far as Gahanna's track opponents this spring are concerned) is the wealth of surplus talent behind the lettermen.

Reary is high on a pair of cross-country greads — junior Tim Horn and frosh Al Strickling—both ticketed for service in distance events.

OTHER PROSPECTS include: sprinters—Bob Clemans, Bob Hunter, Dan Pullin and Ronnie Doran; hurdlers—Charlie Strohm, Bruce Baker and Bob Bay; field men—Fred Brown, g and Rusty Koetz.

Also adding depth to the Gahanna squad are Tim Sullivan and Bob Lawhead (pole vaulters), Larry Barth (440), Chuck Vosse (high jump) and Barry Hennis and Lee Jones (distances).

About the only spot where Reary sees any weakness is relay events. "I'll be putting the good boys in the major events and our relay events will be stacked with inexperienced boys," the Lion skipper says.

IN COMPETITION thus far this spring, the Lion ding downed Groveport and Mifflin in a triangular, picking up 12 firsts in the process.

In that meet Glover picked up 18 big points while Robb and Morris added 10 more apiece.

Reary sees Hilliard, with its sprinters, and Grove City with its distance men, as Gahanna's chief competitors in the Mid-Eight this spring.

HERE IS the remaining '65 Gahanna track schedule:

Apr. 8—Westerville
Apr. 10 — at Worthington Relays

Hot-Hitting E-M Eyes Another District Title

With nine returning lettermen, Eastmoor diamond coach Marsh Mobberly has a running start on AA District title this spring.

The Warriors will be lacking two important ingredients this spring, however, in the form of departed pitcher Jerry Aggas, E-M's number one flinger last season, and battery mate Bob Wymer.

BUT THE Warrior skipper has some pretty good backup in both those spots and they are lettermen to boot.

Eastmoor's pitching duties this spring will fall largely on the shoulders of Tom Cooper and Doug Cromer, both moundsmen on Mobbery's 14-8 E-M nine last season.

Behind the plate will be Mike Gornell, who swatted an impressive .402 last spring.

THERE ARE plenty of other familiar faces around the Warrier infield this season with returnees Steve Howell (1b), Ron Bollie (ss, .389 hitter last season) and Mike Berry (3b) returning.

The outfield is also pretty well set with three lettermen stationed there in Mike Allen, Steve Brownstein and Jerry Groves.

"We got off to a late start this spring because of the basketball tournament but if we can get off to a good start, we should do okay," Mobberly said.

"OUR HITTING should be good again this year although we'll only be fair defensively. The key is the pitching. A lot depends on how fast our pitchers come along."

The E-M coach listed West, Whetstone, North and Linden as his Warriors' chief source of opposition on the City League base-paths this spring.

A MORE RELAXED SETTING than the one offered during the past few weeks at the 'AA' cage turney provides South High basketball coach John Colmery (right) with the opportunity to challange All-State cager Bill Bullock to a game of "Scholastic Basketball" — John's late contribution to the field of sports games.

'MONOPOLY' ON ANN-ST?

Better Move Over, Jerry Lucas: Here Comes 'Scholastic Basketball'

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Can the coach of a state basketball championship team win fame and fortune as the inventor of a 97 cent parlor game?

If the coach is South's John Colmery and the game is "Scholastic Basketball," the answer may well be "yes." But you might still have to "tune in tomorrow" to find out for sure.

JOHN DEVELOPED the idea for the game about a year ago while he was searching for something to keep his basketball "students" busy during the final lull in their study period.

"When a basketball player has some grades difficulty, we schedule some extra study halls for him. It seemed like there was always a few minutes left at the end of these periods and in order to keep them busy while I got some work done, I devised this simple basketball game," Colmery relates.

The South mentor-turned inventor first sought to find some kind of basketball game to buy for the boys. "The only thing I could find on the market was this game using springs and ping pong balls."

WHEN THIS proved unsatisfactory, Colmery started on a trial and error basis developing a game of his own. "It took about three months and it was finally produced last summer."

But it wasn't until John decided to market his product commercially that he discovered that the "monopoly" of the games business is much more complicated that simply "passing 'Go' and collecting your $200."

"It's been a real learning experience for me in teaching Democracy," the South redhead admitted. Income tax implications, securing a vendor's license and copyright (Dec. 1, 1964) were just a few of the complications John discovered went into the marketing of a game.

SALE OF THE game was begun strictly on a mail order basis and Colmery sent out 100 "test" letters to poll the popularity of his product.

"They told me a five to 10 percent return would be good," John relates. Most gratifying then was the 20 percent return the game experienced.

"The only other basketball game on the market besides the ping-pong setup at the time I got mine started was Jerry Lucas' new game," Colmery recalls.

BUT SINCE the Lucas game was priced in the double figures, John didn't consider it competitive on the dollar and cents basis.

"The biggest fear my advisors had was the price. They were afraid no one would want to buy a 97 cent game, figuring, for that price, it wouldn't be worth much," the South coach added.

But John stuck to his double aim—to provide a simple game at a low price.

WERE THERE other problems? A few. "In our trial and error efforts, we found that at first our terms were too technical, then too simple," Colmery relates.

Then there was the problem of condensing the rules from three typewritten pages to their present simplified form.

John's wife, Maxine is "Scholastic Basketball's" bookkeeper. "I told her if I got into this thing, she'd have to keep the books," Colmery says. "She's done a real fine job."

THE GAME itself is simple to play. It consists of three die, each with a black, blue and red marking. The black die is considered a jump ball and is used to begin each quarter.

"Blue" is the basketball and is rolled each time, turning up such situations as "good pass, lay in," "shot good," "shot missed, rebound," "shot blocked, lost," "jump shot in, fouled," etc.

If the player is "fouled," the "red" die comes into play. "Red" is marked "good," "rolls in," "miss, tip in" (two points), "rolls out, jump." (Latter turn-up resorts back to "black" die).

THE GAME is played on a board which consists of a running score, time clock (move 12 second every play) and periods of play.

The game can be played by any number of players or even solitaire.

Geared to high school basketball situations, the game comes amazingly close to high school scores if the clock is kept properly, Colmery claims.

THE GAME is not available in stores since Colmery's initial idea was to market it solely by mail order on a "gift" basis.

"We'll continue on a mail order basis through this year," John says. "I hope to increase the volume around Christmas time. If it 'goes,' then I'll be able to make some improvements in the quality of the game."

John did admit that a national cereal company had expressed interest in the possibility of contracting for the game.

ALMOST LIKE the Madison Avenue expression of "let's run it up the flag and see who salutes," Colmery has been cautious in his venture, careful not to over-produce before a market for his game had been guaranteed.

"If I quit now, I wouldn't be out a cent," Colmery adds.

Can "Scholastic Basketball" win fame and fortune for John Colmery?

Nothing looks impossible in this "year of the Bulldog!"

Under Buckeye Skies

By KEN MACK McCREARY

Out Of The Frying Pan . . .

Now that the fishing season has finally arrived, most anglers (including this writer) are optimistically looking forward to the most successful year ever, both in terms of action and fish on the stringer. Unfortunately, many fishermen will miss out on the ultimate enjoyment of the sport . . . sitting down to some of the finest eating ever to grace a table. (Perhaps I should wait 'til after Lent to say that.)

Although some sportsmen give away or throw back the fish they catch because they either don't like the taste of fish or don't want to bother with cleaning them, many anglers who do take the loaded stringers home don't take the time to make certain they get the most in flavor from the fish.

Actually proper cookery begins the minute you catch the fish: the neglect of freshly caught fish can ruin it much quicker than any lack of skill in the kitchen. Fish should be kept cool and moist, but not allowed to soak. The longer your catch stays alive the better it will taste, so always string the fish through the lips rather than the gills. Clean your fish as soon as possible, then keep them cool. We've found that the foam - type ice chest makes a valuable addition to your boat; you can keep your lunch and beverages cool, then toss the fish into it as you catch them. However, it will pay to use "canned" ice or a couple milk cartons frozen in the refrigerator to keep the fish from soaking in water as ice melts.

McCreary

Now, with the preliminaries out of the way, let's get down to the serious kitchen business. Here are some fishermen's - favorite recipes for cooking and seasoning a fine kettle of fish.

Here's the simplest way of cooking pan fish and other small varieties (also recommended for camp cooks and beginners): First, dip the cleaned fish in milk, with an egg beaten in it if you desire, or water; then drain. Next, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in bread crumbs, cornmeal, or flour. Fry in hot fat or cooking oil one-eighth inch deep in a skillet until it is brown on both sides (about 10 minutes) and the fish will flake easily. Then drain and serve piping hot for a truly delicious feast.

Many Ohio fish are delectable baked with a savory bread stuffing. While the oven is pre-heating to 400 degrees, wash and dry the fish, then rub inside and outside with salt. Stuff the fish loosely with bread stuffing; close with skewers or toothpicks. Next, place the fish in a greased baking pan and bake 45 to 60 minutes (15 minutes per pound). While the fish is cooking, baste with butter or place strips of bacon on it for the final 15 minutes. Serve with lemon wedges or with tartar sauce.

For a tasty change, serve fish and chips. Just fillet a walleye, bass, or similar fish. Then, cut strips about an inch wide and roll them in a batter such as used for French toast. Fry in deep fat until the coating is crisp and brown, then serve piping hot. (As my wife leans over my shoulder, she reminds me to recommend deep-frying as her favorite method of fish-frying.)

Broiling is an ideal way to prepare a larged sized fish. After cleaning and splitting the bass, place it, skin side down on a well-greased broiler rack; broil for about 15 minutes, basting liberally with melted butter. Then turn and broil just long enough to make the skin crisp.

Finally, don't overlook the backyard barbecue grill when it comes to fish cookery. I've found that placing the fish fillets on a sheet of well-perforated aluminum foil on the grill, then cooking with some hickory chips on the charcoal will give your fish an unusual but great flavor.

* * *

How about you — do you have some favorite fish recipes which we haven't covered? If you do (or if the LW does) we're interested in passing them on. And to make it worth your while, we'll award a spinning, casting, or fly-fishing line (your choice) for the five best recipes.

Just jot your "mouth-watererer" down and mail it to: Under. Buckeye. Skies,. The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus 4, Ohio. We'll pass along the winners in a few weeks in this column. The lines, incidentally, are the finest made; from genial Dick Jennings and the "little ol' linemakers" at Cortland Lines.

Go-Karters Shoot For CBS Records Sunday

Championship Go - Kart races will be under way again this Sunday afternoon at the CBS Speedway with the track record — presently held by Columbusite Charles Sparks—almost sure to be broken.

Many new motors have been installed and the go-karters will be seeking to better the big, all-time stock car mark they recently broke at the speedway.

'Where To Put 'Em' Is Scioto's Problem

How do you get 760 or more horses into 660 stalls? That is the happy question facing officials at Scioto Downs exactly two months before the opening on June 4.

With 766 stall applications already received and more expected, Scioto Downs president, Charlie Hill, reminds horsemen that today is the deadline to mail in stall applications for both the Scioto Downs and the MARA at Scioto Downs meetings.

Looking for some relief in the stall space problem, president Hill noted that Scioto Downs is constructing 60 additional stalls in the barn area as space permits which will bring the total stall space at Scioto Downs to 660.

Scioto's new race secretary, Don Roberts, will be at the track after today's deadline to allot stall space from the applications on file.

DeSales Nine Opens 29-Game Schedule

DeSales' third baseball season is now underway. This is the first season the Stallions will use their home diamond regularly.

Jerry Connor will return as coach, with Kenny Schneider captaining. Last season DeSales was 11-11-1 for the year, and 6-4 in the Central Catholic League.

The Stallions' '65 schedule is:

Apr. 7—East
8—at Gahanna
9—Lexington
12—Brookhaven
14—at South

"I UNDERTOOK THE JOB of assembling this collection because I believe art should belong to everyone and should be available to everybody," charming screen and television star Vincent Price tells an admirer of both art—and Vincent—during a press preview at the Columbus Athletic Club. The collection of originals (there are no reproductions) now at Sears, Northland, includes oils, water colors, collages, etchings, drawings, woodcuts and gouaches. Price was founder and first president of the Modern Institute of Art. He received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Ohio Wesleyan University.

ART(IST) ON LOCAL SCENE

Sears Stages Vincent Price Exhibit

More than 400 original works of art selected by Vincent Price, ranging from 16th century masters to contemporary artists, are being exhibited at Sears, Northland through Apr. 10.

Sears, who decided in 1962 to make fine art accessible to the general public, commissioned Price to organize the collection.

The veteran of 80 motion pictures and 1,000 television appearances, is a member of the Fine Arts Committee for the White House, and has been an art connoisseur and collector since he was 12 when he purchased an etching by Rembrandt by making a $5 down payment.

Born in St. Louis, Price, a Yale undergraduate, was studying for his master's in art at the University of London when he won the role of a Chicago policeman in a London stage production.

His film career after that is known to millions. In what amounted to a one-man crusade to stimulate interest in fine art, Price began lecturing on various art topics in 1940, speaking to university and civic groups throughout the country.

When approached in 1962 by George Struthers, Sears vice-president in charge of merchandising, with carte blanche to use his own judgment and knowledge in selecting good art in good taste, he accepted it as "the most exciting project in my life."

From warehouses and galleries in America, in Europe, and in Latin America, he bought whole collections of works, as well as single masterpieces.

Sears says the first exhibition of the collection, in October, 1962, in their Denver store, was an instant success. So many pictures were sold the first day an emergency shipment had to be flown in to continue the showing.

Price, and Sears, believe the collection proved to be the catalyst of an "art explosion" which is now sweeping the country and is dynamically alive in Columbus.

Price created a stir in Columbus Saturday, Apr. 3, when he flew in to kick off the art exhibit.

At a press interview he told The Spectator, "Fine art formerly belonged to the rich, but it is an expression of the ages, and it belongs to the people of the ages. I am more thrilled by my role in bringing originals into the average home, than by any role I have ever played on the screen."

He added, "Art is not a luxury—it is the ultimate in home fashions. And it is very much within the budget of the average American. Our greatest achievement has been to prove that this is so."

Turner Company Will Show New Model Home At Opening

THE "TOWN HOUSE"—one of 32 models available.

At last a low cost home has been designed to fill the special needs of farm families and cause farm wives to cry "hurray!" according to the William Turner and Company, local representatives of the Homestead Corporation.

The company is opening their newest model home to the public at 845 Wilson-rd this Sunday, Apr. 11, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

From requirements suggested by rural housing specialist Carlton M. Edwards, of Michigan State University, the Homestead Corporation has created a residence that provides both an office for the owner and facilities for him to wash up without muddying up the rest of the house.

"The floor plan reveals a door at the back of the house that opens immediately into an office which is connected to a lavatory. In from the fields and chores of the day, the busy farmer can enter his office without going through any other part of his home, shed his boots and work clothes, wash up in the connecting lavatory and don clean clothes before entering the "living" part of the house.

The office has ample space to enable the owner to conduct his farm business without interfering with activities in the rest of the house. Garage and full basement are optional.

There are 32 low cost models that Homestead Corporation builds on owners' lots and finances with 15-year mortgages issued by its subsidiary, Homestead Acceptance Corporation.

Three years ago, the 37-year-old company formulated its unique building and financing plan that has met with such tremendous success in rural, small town and vacation areas in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

The Homestead plan provides for building any Homestead model on the owner's lot for a down payment of $50 (assuming that the lot is valued at 10% to 15% of the cost of the house). A 15-year mortgage at simple interest is issued to the purchasor and no closing costs or other fees are tacked on. Interest is charged on the unpaid balance only. In addition, the purchasor is offered a five percent discount if he elects to pay cash for his home within 90 days of the signing of the mortgage.

Homestead Corporation assembles components for its homes in its brand new 40,000-square-foot plant at 7200 E. 15-Mile-rd, in Warren, Mich., employing modern engineering techniques to increase the quality and lower the cost of its homes. It erects its homes with its own construction crews and also provides the financing — the only firm of its kind that takes full responsibility for construction, erection and financing.

Crambe is under development by the USDA's Agricultural Research Service as a new oilseed crop. Its oil is rich in erucic acid, a valuable industrial raw material not now available in large quantities for domestic crops.

OHIOANS set an all time record by increasing their bank accounts a total of $1,287,000,000 during 1964, according to final statistics just compiled by the Ohio Bankers Association. "A great deal of this increase can be credited to the higher interest rates paid on savings accounts and certificates of deposit by most commercial banks," Howard B. Sturgeon, secretary of the association, stated. The generally prevailing rate is four percent on such deposits.

Special preschool classes are being scheduled for 100,000 four and five-year-old underprivileged children through out the country this summer.

Lake Central's new prop-jet NORD 262

The competition to develop a worthy replacement for the old reliable DC-3 went on a good long time. As you can imagine, the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board looked at many a plane before it commended one for its specific capabilities. The winner—by a good long Gallic nose—is the new French prop-jet NORD 262, to be flown first by Lake Central.

Anything the DC-3 does, the NORD does newer. It gets you there faster, and more comfortably. It's air conditioned. Pressurized. Boards on the level. In short, the perfect short-haul carrier to the fifty mid-central U.S.A. cities Lake Central flies to.

HOLY EASTER STORY IS INTERPRETED THROUGH SYMBOLIC ARTISTRY

"AND THE SOLDIERS CAST LOTS FOR HIS GARMENTS"—stark and somber symbolism of the crucifixion. Good Friday is interpreted with a fallen cross, robe borrowed from the Franciscan monks, and dice at Franklin Park Conservatory, 1500 E. Broad-st, as part of the annual Easter floral display. The public may view this and other arrangements from 9 to 9 Friday and Saturday, and from 6 a.m. on Easter Sunday to 9 p.m.

FROM THE "MISERE Series," an exhibit of original prints by famous masters now on loan to Scottwood Community Church, 3330 Scottwood-rd, is a lithograph by George Rouult. Miss Mina Keller, 753 S. Fifth-st, examines the art.

TRIUMPH OF EASTER is portrayed at Franklin Park Conservatory by the traditional, eight-foot cross of live lilies. Five hundred lilies are used to form the cross, focal point of Sunday's 6 a.m. sunrise service.

Whitehall Tax Office Open On Saturdays

Whitehall Income Tax Department, located in the Municipal Building on Yearling-rd, will be open on Saturday mornings through April, for the convenience of residents paying their city taxes.

Auditor Walter Helber made the announcement, and issued a reminder that the taxes are due by the end of the month.

Bexley Residents Air Apartment, Traffic Woes

Bexley Council Tuesday night listened to protests from residents on a variety of city situations, promised action and offered assistance on sidewalks and traffic problems, and refuted reports that they had been requested to approve a high-rise apartment on the Broad-Merkle tract.

Residents of the area protested, through their attorney, that they had not been notified of reported plans to construct a tall apartment on E. Broad-st between Merkle and Gould rds.

Council President Charles Kurtz replied that council had not been approached, and had no official knowledge of such a plan.

An appeal for assistance by residents of 84 apartments on Mayfield-pl, now "boxed in" by construction on Livingston-av and in need of an access route, was registered by Esther Bain, property manager of Bexley Terrace Apartments, at 900 and 925 Mayfield.

And Councilman Brad Salt, also secretary of Bexley Civic Improvement Association, reported that Mayor William Schneider had continued to deny BCIA the use of the city's addressograph plates, despite council's recommendation that he make them available to the organization.

An attorney from Thomas Applegate's office, legal representative for residents protesting, reported plans for a high-rise on Broad-st, read a letter of objection that they had not been notified, and asking a public hearing on the matter.

Kurtz replied firmly, "Despite reports, we have had no requests for a high-rise, and there would be a public hearing," he added, "if the request should come in."

Their attorney also reminded council that the rezoning of the tract to multi-family was still in litigation in the County Court of Appeals.

Clark Merkle, on behalf of the Broad-Merkle Corp., commented after the meeting that he was prepared to submit a proposal and preliminary plans for a 15-story apartment on the site, but arrived after the session was adjourned.

He indicated that he would present the plan to council at its next meeting.

Construction of the bridge on Livingston at the Alum Creek-dr intersection has made access to Mayfield very difficult for the apartment residents, Esther Bain explained. And, she continued, "it is virtually impossible to get out," especially during peak traffic hours.

Kurtz promised to place her request for help, possibly a temporary access route, during the four months of bridge construction, before the mayor.

First request to use the city's addressograph plates by BCIA, for the purpose of mailing an informative letter and membership forms to Bexley swimming pool. had been denied by the mayor.

The matter was then brought before council at its last meeting by Bill Birch, president of the organization which operates the city pool at Jeffrey Mansion.

Council unanimously passed a recommendation to the mayor that the organization be offered the same service Bexley provides for the city's other civic group, Bexley Celebrations Association.

The mayor was not present at the meeting to comment on his continued refusal. Letters will now be addressed by a mailing firm. Plans to distribute them by hand were dropped as an un-

MISS LOUISA HOLLOWAY received an apple from one of her students, and happy congratulations from the entire class when Fairmoor's principal informed them of Miss Holloway's selection as elementary "Teacher Of The Year."

JOHN M. CONDIT, teacher of biology at Eastmoor and recipient of the Junior Chamber of Commerce's honor, high school "Teacher Of The Year," also keeps statistics for the school basketball team and films games for the football team.

Selected 'Teacher Of Year'

A teacher from Eastmoor High and one from Fairmoor Elementary were among three Columbus Public School teachers honored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday "for exemplary qualities and as representative of all dedicated teachers."

Miss Louisa Holloway, sixth grade teacher at Fairmoor, has been teaching for 48 years, and John M. Condit is teacher of biology at Eastmoor.

The third teacher selected for the honor was A. D. V. Crosby, mathematics teacher at Champion Junior High.

Miss Holloway, at the request of school officials, developed the elementary-science programs for television in Columbus in 1957.

Cleverness and humor are her trademarks, and her notes to Fairmoor principal Paul Swinger are often in verse.

She was transferred to Fairmoor in 1953, after a transfer request to the assistant superintendent that ended with, "If I must give a reason for asking for a transfer, after 27 years of continuous service at Olentangy Elementary, it is only that I don't wish to get into a rut."

John Condit has taken pupils on biology trips as far as Texas during summer vacations and, in addition, keeps statistics for the basketball team and films games for the football team.

He received his master's degree from Ohio State University last year, and spent the summer studying ornithology (study of birds) at Stone Laboratory, Put-In-Bay.

The teachers are chosen by a committee of Junior Chamber of Commerce members.

'Happier Living' May Get You To The World's Fair

It's the last year of the New York World's Fair!

What with unexpected taxes and things, many Spectator Readers have told us they are reluctantly folding up their World's Fair literature — along with their once gay and exciting dream of making the trip.

Well, The Spectator, which week by week tries to keep its readers happy, has a happy announcement!

Some lucky family of two or couple will unfold their literature, dust off that dream, and take a four-day all-expense-paid Spectator Holiday at the World's Fair as guests of our forthcoming "Happier Living" edition.

To stretch every memorable moment of this dream trip they'll jet by fast, luxurious American Airlines to fabulous New York.

They'll have an opportunity for a special prize of $100 cash to take along for that "special something" they'll see and want.

Or — if the World's Fair doesn't happen to be your dream — the lucky family of two can take an equivalent holiday anywhere American Airlines set down.

In addition to this grand "Happier Living" first prize there'll be many other awards.

Watch for full details in The Spectator's "Happier Living" Edition Apr. 29.

Bexley Library Buys Its Site From Capital

Bexley Public Library's purchase of the land on which its building is located, from Capital University last Friday, will open the way for the library's badly needed expansion program.

Mrs. Mary Zimmerman, head librarian, said plans to enlarge the building to the east are under way, and it was hoped the program would be launched soon.

Since about 1928 the library has been operating under a 30-year lease arrangement with Capital, with the privilege of renewal.

The agreement, renewed a few years ago, extended the lease to 1988, and at that time the land was to be sold to the highest bidder.

While the library was located on leased ground an expansion program wasn't practical.

An open house will be held at Bexley Library Sunday afternoon, Apr. 25, to mark the beginning of National Library Week.

On hand to meet the public will be Mrs. Zimmerman, Assistant Librarian Mrs. Mary Handerson, the library staff, Mrs. William Wasserstrom, president, and other members of the board, and library trustees.

Guests will be taken behind the scenes, and services and operation of the library will be explained.

Egg Scrambles Slated Saturday

The search will be on Saturday, in locations throughout the community, for gaily-colored Easter eggs concealed by civic organizations sponsoring the annual hunts.

Areas at each location will be marked according to age divisions in order that the tiniest tots may have an opportunity to spot the treasures.

In Bexley, the egg hunt is held on the Jeffrey Mansion ground, from 3 to 4, preceded by entertainment at 2, and is sponsored by Bexley Celebrations Associations.

Eligible to join the fun are youngsters of fourth grade age and under.

Whitehall stages its hunt in the field behind Robinwood Plaza at 10:30 a.m., with age groups from 15 years and under.

Town and Country Businessmen Associations supply plastic eggs, jelly beans and cash, and Whitehall firefighters fill the eggs and conduct the hunt.

East Columbus Lions Club sponsors the event at Krumm Park, scheduled to start at 9 a.m., for children 11 and under.

In Bexley . . .

Bexley youngsters will search for 5400 hardboiled, dyed eggs on the grounds behind the Jeffrey Mansion, 165 N. Parkview, Saturday afternoon.

A combo, The Jaguars from Bexley High, and the two folk singers from the school will entertain at 2:30 p.m., and the hunt will follow from 3 to 4 p.m.

There will be four age divisions in the search for eggs —pre-schoolers, kindergarten, children in grades one and two, and in grades three and four.

Sixteen golden eggs, concealed among the 5400, may be redeemed for cash prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Middlemus are chairmen of this year's event. Bexley Celebrations Association sponsors the hunt, and Capital University lends a hand by hard-boiling and coloring the eggs.

In Whitehall . . .

Kids from toddlers to 15 years will scramble for filled plastic eggs in the open field behind Robinwood Plaza, W. Broad-st at Robinwood.

The 3000 eggs are stuffed with jelly beans, and 1200 of the colorful, plastic spheres have an added bonus of cash.

The field will be roped off into three areas — for youngsters under six, six to 10, and 11 to 15.

A cooperative venture of Town and Country Businessmen's Association, Fire and Police Departments, the business group supplies eggs, candy and cash, and the firefighters hide the eggs and supervise the event.

The Police Department and auxiliary policemen help with supervision, and Boy Scouts also assist.

At Krumm Park

Children will search for Easter eggs at Krumm Park Saturday morning at 9.

Those six years and under will gather near the shelter house before the hunt begins; children seven to nine will group on the blacktop, and the third group, nine to 11, will meet on Rarig-av.

East Columbus Lions Club sponsors the annual event, and Boy Scout Troop 475 will assist recreation leaders during the hunt.

RIDERS ENJOY SCENERY AT TEAYS VALLEY RANCH

Teays Valley Ranch Offers Summer Fun

Teays Valley Ranch-Camp for girls and boys nine through 14 is now accepting enrollment for the weekly sessions, starting June 20, was announced by Harry and Jane Feldman, owners of the summer facility near Asheville.

Accredited and approved by the American Camping Association, the setting appeals to youth because it offers western ranching, pioneer camping and country living.

With 35 selected horses and ponies, the campers will have the opportunity to learn how to ride and care for their mounts, sleep in covered wagons, cook over an open fireplace, explore nature's secrets in woodlands and meandering creek, go swimming, boating and fishing as part of each day's experience. The ranch has two lakes and swimming pool.

Each group of ten campers with its own two counselors plans the program on a day-by-day basis without regimentated schedules. Each senior counselor is a qualified member of the teaching profession, skilled in all phases of outdoor living and horsemanship — with an understanding and love for children.

Descriptive brochures may be obtained by calling 263-4426. Visitors are welcome.

"Keep the Ball Rolling" was a slogan originated during the presidential campaign of 1840. According to The Ohio Historical Society, young political enthusiasts prepared huge balls, some 12 feet in diameter, of any material at hand and rolled them from one political rally to another by relays. Party supporters shouted their catch-phrase for all to hear.

Colorful Cowboy Is Local Actuary

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

Western story fans, let me spin you a yarn about a cowpoke and an easterner. If the plot sounds familiar, it isn't.

In this story, the cowhand and the easterner aren't two conflicting waddies. They are one and the same — David Bethune — a Columbus businessman who has played both real-life roles during his colorful career.

Dave grew up on a horse on the open ranges of Montana. His father was a ranch foreman for Nevada's Governor John Sparks, who had a hand in taming the West. Later, he was superintendent of the huge, sprawling F Triangle ranch near Great Falls, Mont. This was the period when Dave was stretching tall enough to poke his feet into the stirrups.

These were the days, too, when although rustlers and badmen and steel-nerved lawmen were actually doing most of the things you see today on TV screens, the West was shrinking and cattle cars began to be outnumbered by cars carrying barbwire for the homesteaders.

Although sections of the West were being fenced and homesteaded, Montana open range was still the scene of cattle roundups and trail drives. Cowboys still rode the line and hunkered down at night in lonely line shacks. Cowboys worked the roundups, cook and flunky rode the range wagon, wranglers herded the remuda of string horses, and the only folksingers were night herding buckaroos who crooned uneasy longhorns to slumber.

Began The Climb Early

Dave is a walking encyclopedia of western lore and original tales. His personal life is a subject for western story writers who have exhausted their saddlebag of Westerniana.

He started his own horse string when he was 13 by trading a hungry Blackfeet Indian a $3 sack of flour for his horse.

He had his own brand, the Lazy D5, registered with the Cattlemen's Association when he was 15.

Before Kid Curry, familiar western story outlaw, hit the owlhoot trail after killing a peglegged barkeep and robbing a Great Northern train for getaway money, Dave swapped stories with the gunslinging Kid during a trail drive to railhead. Dave says Kid Curry drifted to Argentina where he became a big-time cattleman, wealthy and respected.

Dave remembers it all, just as vividly as if it were on a television screen. The badmen, the lawmen, the rustlers, and the Cattlemen Association range detectives.

He remembers how his father peeled off his shooting irons and whipped a cheating cowhand who forgot to "Smile when you say that, pardner!" The gent later served a stretch for blotting a rancher's brand with his own running iron, then came out of the pokey to promote one of ringdom's historic prize fights, and later become prominent in Montana politics.

That was the stirring hell-for-leather West through which Dave rode and grew to manhood.

Fortunes Rode Cattle Herds

While he was growing up his father was becoming one of Montana's most respected cattlemen. Large fortunes were won on the hoof in those days. It was the time when a four-year-old steer brought $50 and there were no income taxes. When a cowboy worked for forty-a-month in the summer and rode the grubline in the winter without pay.

Those days accumulated and faded into the era of World War I, and the cattle business boomed. Steers now were bringing $200, four times their former value, and there weren't enough to feed a hungry country at war. Cattlemen speculated, invested in more land and more cattle.

Abruptly the war ended. The bottom fell out of the cattle market. Prices dropped back to $50 a head. Debts, interest, taxes and wages didn't fall with the decline. In fact, they increased.

To add to the cattlemen's plight, a three-year drought hit the range. Grass withered. Hay, cottonseed meal, cottoncakes and grain had to be shipped in. Expenses outpaced market prices.

Most cowmen went broke.

Dave gained a healthy respect for the world of finance during this era of his life. He also gained a high school education, went to the University of Montana, and later to the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

He entered the insurance business as an agent, became assistant manager, then manager and was sent by his company to Washington, D. C.

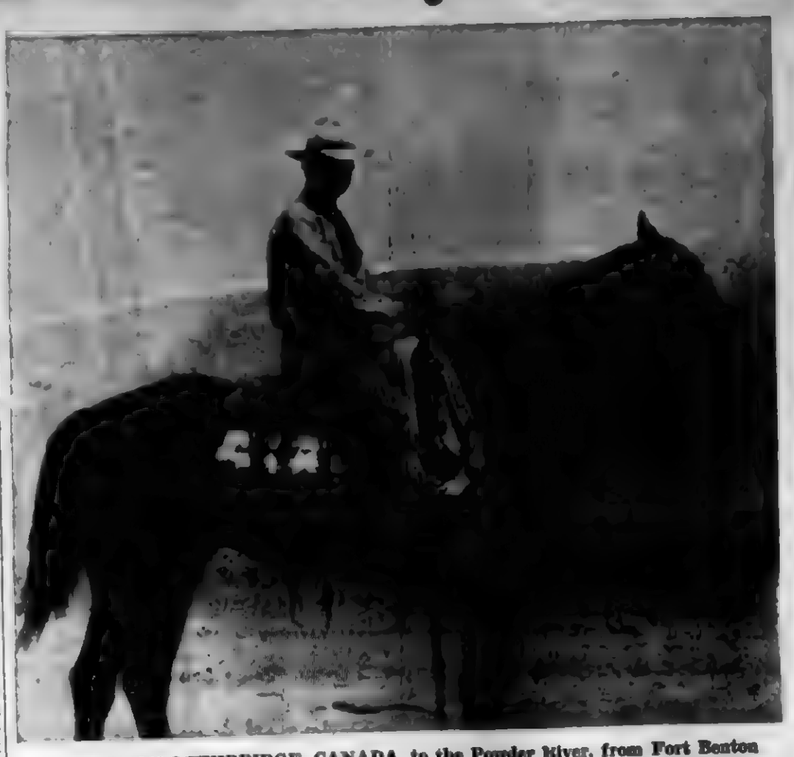
The cowboy became an easterner.

Because of his knowledge of the West, his company sent him to Wyoming with the man-sized job of organizing the entire state insurance system.

His own personal experience, and that of other cattlemen who had pounded a saddle all their life to end up broke, intrigued Dave into what was to become a large and important field designed to forestall such situations — employe benefit plans, which includes pension plans, profit sharing plans, group life and hospitalization, and annuities.

With 30 years of practical experience to draw upon, Dave established his first pension plan in 1941 for a bank with 225 employes.

Today, he owns and operates David S. Bethune Associates, actuaries and employe benefit consultants, Room 613 in the Beggs Building at 21 E. State-st.



Today he services eight companies for whom he designed and installed either a profit-sharing or pension plan.

This work is Dave's sole business and professional interest. He does it primarily to be busy and to be helpful to others. He has an independent life income which makes this possible.

Dave, probably remembering the past, says every employer and every employe should utilize pension and profit-sharing plans approved Service) for tax benefits to both employers and employes.

Employers, he states, can put away dollars for their employes' old age that otherwise would go for taxes. There are special tax benefits to employes, too. Because of these tax benefits, the employe can realize about three times more income in old age than with other methods of savings.

Dave can spin many "eastern" stories to match his western tales. And for those who may be interested in the "buck" of a western cow pony or a "buck" in the bank, he has a tale worthy of an audience.

THE WESTERN STORY has become a TV staple, but the Indians have gone to college, and cattlemen rides the range in airplanes since Dave swapped his saddle for a calculator and turned to methods which can insure the working man against the hard winter of life. Dave lives at 2078 Fairleigh-rd and maintains offices in the Beggs Building. Events of his youth indelibly impressed upon him the importance of accumulating a nest egg for the "winter years of life." He took care of this for himself. He has a life income which permits him — almost as a hobby — to help others to plan for the future. His daily objective, he says, is to find better ways to help both employe and employer toward a suitable reward for their lifetime of effort. As Dave remarked, "A good hand can survive the winter without selling his saddle—if he knows the ropes."

FROM LETHBRIDGE, CANADA, to the Powder River, from Fort Benton to Jackson Hole, hideout for infamous wild west outlaws, Dave Bethune rode the range, punching cattle, swapping trail stories with many historic figures now enshrined in Western lore. In those days, Dave says, "It took a good hand to summer a girl and winter a saddle." In Eastern lingo this implies that some cowboys, out of work in the winter, sold their spurs and saddle, even their bedroll, to tide them through till Spring roundup, a new job, and wages to spark a girl. Those who could entertain their girl on summer wages, and still put enough aside to tide them through winter without peddling their gear, were considered something of a financial genius and a good catch by the western belles. Substitute the terms, and these conditions still seem to apply today, even in the East.

Bexley Groups Scrutinize City Recreation

Steering committee of the "Recreation Self-Study," currently being conducted in Bexley as a prelude to shaping a new and complete city-wide recreation program, will hear reports from sub-committees at the Jeffrey Mansion Wednesday, Apr. 21, 8 p.m.

The entire group of interested organizations in Bexley, participating in and supporting the study, will meet to hear a progress report in May.

Harry Feldman, director recreation planning, United Community Council, is serving as consultant.

And, when the inventory of Bexley's current recreation facilities, programs and opportunities is completed, a questionnaire will be sent to every resident, asking for comments about hoped-for recreational opportunities in the city.

A 14 member steering committee, representative of Bexley's church, civic, social, and school organizations, launched the plan, and has named sub-committees to delve into different facets of recreation.

Committees and their chairmen are:

C. W. Jones, population characteristics — school population, Mrs. David Altmaier; population by neighborhood, Mrs. O. R. Woodyard, Jr.; population growth, Mrs. Chris Powell.

Physical factors, Sam Ingwerson; and housing, Dave Carruthers.

Mayer Rosenfeld heads the group taking inventory of available facilities, including — city-supported, William Birch; school, Mrs. Brooks Julian; commercial, Robert Harbold; church and volunteer agencies, C. R. Bright; cultural, Mrs. Howard Bloom; civic, service and fraternal, Tom Montei, and private clubs, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leach.

Special services for handicapped and senior citizens, Mrs. W. K. Edmister; financial situation of the community, Doyt Bell, and administration of recreation in the city, Dr. John Lewis.

Appointments Not Pledged, Moling Says

If former Whitehall Mayor Walter B. Moling is successful in his bid to return to office, his son, W. Richard Moling, will not return as the city's safety director.

The four-term Republican mayor told The Spectator this week that he wanted to spike rumors, presumably being circulated by his opponents, that he has selected his administrative team if elected.

"I don't intend to make any promises for appointive office," Moling said, "When I am elected I will take it up with council."

Moling ruled out his son for any appointive position by saying that the younger Moling "is too busy" as head of Moling Associates to undertake any appointive duties.

The elder Moling served as Whitehall mayor for eight years before being upset by present Mayor William H. Holzhause in the 1963 election. Holzhause won a 49-vote victory in his first try for public office.

Moling, Holzhause and James C. Polzer, former city service director, are all seeking nomination in the May 4 Republican Primary. There is no Democratic Primary this year because the Democrats have fielded an unopposed slate.

The Republican mayoralty victor will face Paul J. Haytcher in November. Haytcher currently is serving his second term as city solicitor.

LaCorte Returns To Whitehall Recreation Post

John LaCorte's application for Whitehall recreation director, a job he quit Apr. 2, has been accepted by the Whitehall Recreation Department.

LaCorte had left the post to go into private business after some disagreements with the board over policy and procedure.

In announcing the board's decision to rehire LaCorte, John Bishop, chairman, said that the recreation director would be given latitude in planning and developing his program, and in managing his staff.

Policy and procedure, however, would remain decisions of the board.

And plans are under way for the sidewalk exhibit, held as part of Bexley's Fourth of July celebration.

Colorful Cowboy Is Local Actuary

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

Western story fans, let me spin you a yarn about a cowpoke and an easterner. If the plot sounds familiar, it isn't.

In this story, the cowhand and the easterner aren't two conflicting waddies. They are one and the same — David Bethune — a Columbus businessman who has played both real-life roles during his colorful career.

Dave grew up on a horse on the open ranges of Montana. His father was a ranch foreman for Nevada's Governor John Sparks, who had a hand in taming the West. Later, he was superintendent of the huge, sprawling F Triangle ranch near Great Falls, Mont. This was the period when Dave was stretching tall enough to poke his feet into the stirrups.

These were the days, too, when although rustlers and badmen and steel-nerved lawmen were actually doing most of the things you see today on TV screens, the West was shrinking and cattle cars began to be outnumbered by cars carrying barbwire for the homesteaders.

Although sections of the West were being fenced and homesteaded, Montana open range was still the scene of cattle roundups and trail drives. Cowboys still rode the line and hunkered down at night in lonely line shacks. Cowboys worked the roundups, cook and flunky rode the range wagon, wranglers herded the remuda of string horses, and the only folksingers were night herding buckaroos who crooned uneasy longhorns to slumber.

Began The Climb Early

Dave is a walking encyclopedia of western lore and original tales. His personal life is a subject for western story writers who have exhausted their saddlebag of Westerniana.

He started his own horse string when he was 13 by trading a hungry Blackfeet Indian a $3 sack of flour for his horse.

He had his own brand, the Lazy D5, registered with the Cattlemen's Association when he was 15.

Before Kid Curry, familiar western story outlaw, hit the owlhoot trail after killing a pegleged barkeep and robbing a Great Northern train for getaway money, Dave swapped stories with the gunslinging Kid during a trail drive to railhead. Dave says Kid Curry drifted to Argentina where he became a big-time cattleman, wealthy and respected.

Dave remembers it all, just as vividly as if it were on a television screen. The badmen, the lawmen, the rustlers, and the Cattlemen Association range detectives.

He remembers how his father peeled off his shooting irons and whipped a cheating cowhand who forgot to "Smile when you say that, pardner!" The gent later served a stretch for blotting a rancher's brand with his own running iron, then came out of the pokey to promote one of ringdom's historic prize fights, and later become prominent in Montana politics.

That was the stirring hell-for-leather West through which Dave rode and grew to manhood.

Fortunes Rode Cattle Herds

While he was growing up his father was becoming one of Montana's most respected cattlemen. Large fortunes were won on the hoof in those days. It was the time when a four-year-old steer brought $50 and there were no income taxes. When a cowboy worked for forty-a-month in the summer and rode the grubline in the winter without pay.

Those days accumulated and faded into the era of World War I, and the cattle business boomed. Steers now were bringing $200, four times their former value, and there weren't enough to feed a hungry country at war. Cattlemen speculated, invested in more land and more cattle.

Abruptly the war ended. The bottom fell out of the cattle market. Prices dropped back to $50 a head. Debts, interest, taxes and wages didn't fall with the decline. In fact, they increased.

To add to the cattlemen's plight, a three-year drought hit the range. Grass withered. Hay, cottonseed meal, cottoncakes and grain had to be shipped in. Expenses outpaced market prices.

Most cowmen went broke.

Dave gained a healthy respect for the world of finance during this era of his life. He also gained a high school education, went to the University of Montana, and later to the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

He entered the insurance business as an agent, became assistant manager, then manager and was sent by his company to Washington, D. C.

The cowboy became an easterner.

Because of his knowledge of the West, his company sent him to Wyoming with the man-sized job of organizing the entire state insurance system.

His own personal experience, and that of other cattlemen who had pounded a saddle all their life to end up broke, intrigued Dave into what was to become a large and important field designed to forestall such situations — employe benefit plans, which includes pension plans, profit sharing plans, group life and hospitalization, and annuities.

With 30 years of practical experience to draw upon, Dave established his first pension plan in 1941 for a bank with 225 employes.

Today, he owns and operates David S. Bethune Associates, actuaries and employe benefit consultants, Room 613 in the Beggs Building at 21 E. State-st.

Today he services eight companies for whom he designed and installed either a profit-sharing or pension plan.

This work is Dave's sole business and professional interest. He does it primarily to be busy and to be helpful to others. He has an independent life income which makes this possible.

Dave, probably remembering the past, says every employer and every employe should utilize pension and profit-sharing plans approved Service) for tax benefits to both employers and employes.

Employers, he states, can put away dollars for their employes' old age that otherwise would go for taxes. There are special tax benefits to employes, too. Because of these tax benefits, the employe can realize about three times more income in old age than with other methods of savings.

Dave can spin many "eastern" stories to match his western tales. And for those who may be interested in the "buck" of a western cow pony or a "buck" in the bank, he has a tale worthy of an audience.

FROM LETHBRIDGE, CANADA, to the Powder River, from Fort Benton to Jackson Hole, hideout for infamous wild west outlaws, Dave Bethune rode the range, punching cattle, swapping trail stories with many historic figures now enshrined in Western lore. In those days, Dave says, "It took a good hand to summer a girl and winter a saddle." In Eastern lingo this implies that some cowboys, out of work in the winter, sold their spurs and saddle, even their bedroll, to tide them through till Spring roundup, a new job, and wages to spark a girl. Those who could entertain their girl on summer wages, and still put enough aside to tide them through winter without peddling their gear, were considered something of a financial genius and a good catch by the western belles. Substitute the terms, and these conditions still seem to apply today, even in the East.

THE WESTERN STORY has become a TV staple, but the Indians have gone to college, and cattlemen ride the range in airplanes since Dave swapped his saddle for a calculator and turned to methods which can insure the working man against the hard winter of life. Dave lives at 2078 Fairleigh-rd and maintains offices in the Beggs Building. Events of his youth indelibly impressed upon him the importance of accumulating a nest egg for the "winter years of life." He took care of this for himself. He has a life income which permits him — almost as a hobby — to help others to plan for the future. His daily objective, he says, is to find better ways to help both employe and employer toward a suitable reward for their lifetime of effort. As Dave remarked, "A good hand can survive the winter without selling his saddle—if he knows the ropes."

Bexley Groups Scrutinize City Recreation

Steering committee of the "Recreation Self-Study," currently being conducted in Bexley as a prelude to shaping a new and complete city-wide recreation program, will hear reports from sub-committees at the Jeffrey Mansion Wednesday, Apr. 21, 8 p.m.

The entire group of interested organizations in Bexley, participating in and supporting the study, will meet to hear a progress report in May.

Harry Feldman, director recreation planning, United Community Council, is serving as consultant.

And, when the inventory of Bexley's current recreation facilities, programs and opportunities is completed, a questionnaire will be sent to every resident, asking for comments about hoped-for recreational opportunities in the city.

A 14 member steering committee, representative of Bexley's church, civic, social, and school organizations, launched the plan, and has named sub-committees to delve into different facets of recreation.

Committees and their chairmen are:

C. W. Jones, population characteristics — school population, Mrs. David Altmaier; population by neighborhood, Mrs. O. R. Woodyard, Jr.; population growth, Mrs. Chris Powell.

Physical factors, Sam Ingwerson; and housing, Dave Carruthers.

Mayer Rosenfeld heads the group taking inventory of available facilities, including — city-supported, William Birch; school, Mrs. Brooks Julian; commercial, Robert Harbold; church and volunteer agencies, C. R. Bright; cultural, Mrs. Howard Bloom; civic, service and fraternal, Tom Montei, and private clubs, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leach.

Special services for handicapped and senior citizens, Mrs. W. K. Edmister; financial situation of the community, Doyt Bell, and administration of recreation in the city, Dr. John Lewis.

LaCorte Returns To Whitehall Recreation Post

John LaCorte's application for Whitehall recreation director, a job he quit Apr. 2, has been accepted by the Whitehall Recreation Department.

LaCorte had left the post to go into private business after some disagreements with the board over policy and procedure.

In announcing the board's decision to rehire LaCorte, John Bishop, chairman, said that the recreation director would be given latitude in planning and developing his program, and in managing his staff.

Policy and procedure, however, would remain decisions of the board.

Appointments Not Pledged, Moling Says

If former Whitehall Mayor Walter B. Moling is successful in his bid to return to office, his son, W. Richard Moling, will not return as the city's safety director.

The four-term Republican mayor told The Spectator this week that he wanted to spike rumors, presumably being circulated by his opponents, that he has selected his administrative team if elected.

"I don't intend to make any promises for appointive office," Moling said. "When I am elected I will take it up with council."

Moling ruled out his son for any appointive position by saying that the younger Moling "is too busy" as head of Moling Associates to undertake any appointive duties.

The elder Moling served as Whitehall mayor for eight years before being upset by present Mayor William H. Holzhause in the 1963 election. Holzhause won a 49-vote victory in his first try for public office.

Moling, Holzhause and James C. Polzer, former city service director, are all seeking nomination in the May 4 Republican Primary. There is no Democratic Primary this year because the Democrats have fielded an unopposed slate.

The Republican mayoralty victor will face Paul J. Haytcher in November. Haytcher currently is serving his second term as city solicitor.

Art Class Postponed

Congregations Mourn The Death But Rejoice In The Resurrection

The resurrection of Christ from the tomb will be heralded by Christians in many indoor and outdoor services on Easter morning, Apr. 18. Also scheduled are Maundy Thursday and Good Friday services. Readers are urged to attend services in which their respective churches participate.

"Behold, He is not here. He is risen."

At Faith

An altar banked with lilies will augment the beauty of the three Easter services at Faith Lutheran Church. The sunrise service at 6:45 will be followed by Holy Communion and will feature the Youth Choir directed by Gretchen Schultz. The 8:30 and 11 a.m. services will be identical to one another, with the Junior Choir, directed by Carolyn Wachtman, singing at the former and the Senior Choir, directed by Ethel Mathey, singing at the latter.

At Scottwood

The Maundy Thursday worship service this evening (Apr. 15), 7:30, at Scottwood Community Church, 3330 Scottwood-rd, will feature a pantomime written and presented by members of the Women's Association.

Entitled "Women of the Cross," it is adapted from the book, "God Speaks to Women Today," by Eugenia Price. Mrs. Keith Dull edited the pantomime, assisted by Mrs. William Griffiths, and readers will be Mrs. Dan Pike and Mrs. Paul Benedict.

Other cast members are Mrs. Walter Siders, Mrs. William Ott, Mrs. Leroy Rice, Mrs. William Thomas, Mrs. Ed Loewe and Mrs. Anthony Priore. A background of special organ music will be provided by T. Betty Gillum.

Following the pantomime a Communion Service will be held, with the Chancel Choir under direction of Lawrence Gillum providing selections appropriate to the Lenten season.

Joint Service

The Good Friday service of the Whitehall-East Columbus Ministerial Association will be held at the East Baptist Church, 4295 E. Broad-st, on Friday, Apr. 16, 11 a.m. Rev. Francis T. McCarty is the host pastor.

Revs. Olen Peters, pastor of the Reformation Lutheran Church, James B. Foster, pastor of Eastview Methodist Church, and Kenneth E. Wrightsel, pastor of Whitehall EUB Church, will be the speakers for the service. A duet, "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked," will be sung by Howard Drake and Mrs. William Banks from Grace United Church of Christ.

A nursery will be available during this hour of worship.

The public is invited to attend this service.

Young Missionaries To Visit Hope Baptist Church Sunday

"Missions Without the Resurrection" will be the Easter Sunday theme at Hope Baptist Church, 3556 Noe Bixby-rd. Rev. Jesse Eaton, missionary appointee to East Pakistan under the Association of Baptist For World Evangelism, Philadelphia, Pa., will speak to the junior church, and also the adult church services in the morning. He will speak again to the young people at 6 p.m. and will show pictures of the missionary work in East Pakistan at 7 p.m. for the public.

Rev. Eaton is a native of Lockport, N. Y., and was graduated from Baptist Bible Seminary, Johnson City, N.Y. In 1959 he was called to be the first pastor of the newly organized New Haven Baptist Church in New Haven, Ind.

Mrs. Eaton is also a graduate of Baptist Bible Seminary and of the nurses' training school in Johnson City, N.Y.

Pastor Eaton and his family plan to join a team of 30 other young missionaries in East Pakistan. The ultimate purpose of their service will be to firmly establish the born-again Christians of East Pakistan in their own indigenous local churches train the national leadership for Gospel ministry and continually widen the outreach of the evangelistic ministry already started there.

The Eatons have three children who will live with them in the city of Chittagong, East Pakistan for the first four year term of service.

An Easter lily will be presented on Sunday night to the largest family present.

Rev. Norman Bosworth, pastor of Hope Baptist Church, will welcome the public.

At Reformation

Easter services at Reformation Lutheran Church, 1355 S. Hamilton-rd, will be held at 8:30 and 11 a.m. The Junior and Senior Choirs will share in presenting special anthems.

Rev. Olen A. Peters, pastor, will use as his sermon subject, "What Is Beyond Death?"

New York School System's floating classroom, the S.S. John W. Brown, will continue in use and may be replaced eventually with a more modern vessel when a new Food-Maritime Trades High School is built. The Brown, a Liberty-type ship acquired by the board of education in 1946, provides the shop program in the training of pupils in the deck, steward and engine departments of the maritime trades.

Family Problems To Be Dicussed

Solutions to real family problems will be sought in the Church of St. Edward, Whitehall, Family Living Seminar beginning Apr. 19.

Dr. George L. Borelli, president of the Central Ohio Consulting Psychologists, will conduct the weekly meetings in which the participants will talk out problems in family relationships. Registration for the $1 per session is not restricted to members of the church.

Sessions will be held at the parish hall, 214 Fairway-blvd, 7:30 p.m. Mondays.

Synagogues Herald Passover; Services Starting Tomorrow

The Jewish Festival of Passover called the "Festival of Freedom" will be ushered in by Jews throughout the world at Sunset on Friday, Apr. 16. The holiday is marked by a special family service called "Seder" which entails the reading of the ancient Passover story as the Jews recall their deliverance from Egyptian bondage over 4,000 years ago, during the reign of Pharah and participate in ritual observance of eating the Matza (unleavened bread) vegetables and bitter herbs, reminding them of past persecution and oppression.

At Temple Israel

Passover will be inaugurated with a 6 p.m. service at Temple Israel, 5419 E. Broad-st, Friday, Apr. 16. The service will be conducted by Dr. Jerome D. Folkman and Rabby Stephen A. Arnold. The musical portions of the service will be rendered by the Temple Israel Choir under the direction of Mrs. Melville Frank with Charles Everly at the organ.

The Temple Israel Brotherhood will sponsor a Congregational Seder immediately following the conclusion of the service. The Seder will be held in the social hall at approximately 6:30 p.m.

The service for the first day of the Passover will be conducted in the chapel by Dr. Folkman and Rabbi Arnold at 11 a.m. Saturday morning. For his sermon, Rabbi Arnold has selected "I Will Be With Thee."

HARTLEY CATCHER Tom Schlager (left) was a man with a problem on this play last week against South. Schlager is attempting to reach Bulldog baserunner Danny Kauffman (sliding home at right) but finds his progress impeded by Reb batsman Mark Rhoades. Ump ruled runner out via interference call but South won anyway, 3-0.

E-M, Academy Stay 'Clean'; Hardin's Shutout 'Saves' Lions

Eastmoor and Academy emerged as the only two area nines able to get through the week's competition unbeaten.

The defending District champion Warriors discovered a new pitching find in infielder Ron Bollie who found a turn on the E-M mound to his liking.

HIS OPPONENT, Gahanna, wished Bollie would have stayed put as the Warrior senior limited the Lions to three hits in a 6-2 win.

Dan Fouche's 11-strikeout, three-hit pitching performance gave Academy a 5-2 win over FCL mate New Albany.

Steve Mahaffey's pair of two-baggers and Al Silverman's triple provided the Viking offense.

A SEVEN-RUN fifth frame cooled Gahanna for Watterson enroute to a 11-3 victory.

The Lions, aspirants this spring for the Mid-Eight flag, bounced back to keep the early loop race a question mark Saturday, however, by splitting a twinbill with perennial favorite Grove City.

Gary Hardin's masterful one-hitter chilled the 'Hounds in the opener which Gahanna won, 2-0 on Mike Hensley's homer.

THE GREYHOUNDS' Bill Thomas must have taken notes as he came back in the nightcap to duplicate Hardin's feat and drop the Lions, 10-0.

The defending Mid-8 champs made good use of 12 hits and six Gahanna bobbles, sewing it up in a big eight-run sixth.

Light-hitting Hartley got four-hit pitching from Scott French and reliefer Gary Novak but couldn't solve South's Jim Tanks, losing 3-0 on a three-hit, 10-karat job by the Reb hurler.

SOUTH GOT the only run it needed in the fifth when Bob Cloud scored on a relay to home after a inning-ending DP attempt by the Hawks was late at first.

North gained the upper hand in a see-saw battle with the Hawks later in the week, winning 5-4 in overtime — Hartley's second extra-frame loss in as many weeks.

Five East pitchers allowed only two hits but a defensive collapse (five errors) allowed DeSales to add up a 10-2 win over the Tigers.

ELSEWHERE, Newark scored big early to down St. Charles twice, 6-3 and 8-2.

More than 100 schools desegregated between the fall of 1963 and fall 1964 in the 17 southern and border states, according to a U.S. Civil Rights Commission staff report. Total of desegregated districts stands at 41.7 percent, but in the 11 former Confederate states, only 1.2 percent of the Negro school population is enrolled in classes with white students.

Viking Thins Face Major '65 Overhaul

Academy's Dick Price has a rebuilding job on his hands this spring as he points his Viking cindermen toward the Franklin County Meet May 7 at Canal Winchester.

The Viking runners placed fourth at the event last season but the finish was largely based on the performance of five key individuals, since departed from the Academy scene.

PRICE WILL sorely miss an 880 and mile quartet composed of Bob Schoene, John Larrimer, Ross Shepard and Jim Kirk, who not only won both these events at the '64 FCL Meet but also set new marks in the process.

The foursome also won the District in the mile and closed out with a third in state competition.

Price will also miss Larrimer's speed in the 100 (won FCL) and the hurdle efforts of a fifth departee — Rocky Saxbe.

THE VIKING cinder boss hopes that five top returnees can take up some of the slack resulting from the loss of this quintet.

Price looks for point-producing performances from co-captains George Green (shot, discus) and Mike Hannah (880) and Terry Larrimer (hurdles), George Lipovich (mile) and Pete Bigelow (high jump).

But Academy will need some big help from a bevy of prospects if the Vikings hope to match or better their showing at the '64 FCL running.

PRICE WILL be basing a good heap of his hopes on the likes of Charlie Ebinger, Jack Hammond, Neil Larrimer, Jack Merritt, Chris Haines, Tim Keny, Stan Leisle, Bob Fox, Herb Dolce, Rick Brandes, Joe Devinish and Mike French.

Price sees most of his Vikings' scoring coming in the track events and believes that Canal Winchester, St. Mary and Reynoldsburg have the best shots at the '65 FCL crown.

LEVY NEEDS CITED —

Schools Outgrowing Funds

(Editor's Note: The Columbus Board of Education is asking voters to approve a 3.9-mill school levy on May 4. The board has given three major reasons for the levy: (1) enrollment growth; (2) neighborhood seminar recommendations, and (3) to attract and retain well-qualified teachers. This article, prepared by the board, covers the first reason—enrollment growth.

On May 4, the Columbus Board of Education will ask voters to take the third of three steps required to prepare the Columbus Public Schools for the future.

The first step was taken in November, 1963, when voters approved a renewal levy. This levy provides more than half of the income required to operate the Columbus Public Schools.

The seceond step was taken in November, 1964, when voters approved a bond issue. This issue provides funds to build new classrooms to house growing enrollments.

The third step—a 3.9-mill operating levy — is deemed absolutely essential to the improvement of education in the Columbus Public Schools. It is designed to accomplish these three specific purposes:

(1) To provide the income required to educate an additional 16,000 pupils.

(2) To carry out improvements in the program and services of the Columbus Public Schools, as recommended by 4,000 citizens who participated in Neighborhood Seminars on School Program and Finance two years ago.

(3) To strengthen the competitive position of Columbus in attracting and retaining well-qualified teachers.

Passage of the proposed levy not only would enable the school system to reach these three objectives but also would eliminate the possibility of serious cutbacks in the educational program. The levy would have a life of three years; income from it would be collected in 1966, 1967, and 1968.

Both the problems and the program have been studied and restudied with great care by the board and the administrative staff over a period of 10 months. After considering numerous other alternatives, the board and the school administration concluded that the only responsible course of action was to recommend a 3.9-mill levy having a life of three years.

The tax rate for school operating purposes has remained constant for four years. All signs indicate that there will be no let-up in the growth rate of the Columbus Public Schools. By 1968, enrollment should pass the 118,000-mark. Enrollment this year is above 102,000.

'Classroom' Born Every Day

It must be emphasized that the enrollment projections are based upon children already born and living in Columbus. Although there are 102,000 children presently in kindergarten and the 12 grades, more than 65,000 boys and girls in Columbus are too young to attend school. Every 20 hours enough babies are born to Columbus parents to fill a classroom.

The schools must have additional funds to hire the teachers, equip the classrooms, and purchase the textbooks and other learning materials that these additional children will require. It simply is impossible to educate 118,000 children on the same budget as 102,000.

The growth of the Columbus school system results largely from the tremendous growth of the city, now the second largest in the state in terms of population. Since Columbus has the largest geographical area among the cities of Ohio, the potential for further residential growth is great.

Growth has a telling impact on the financial operation of the Columbus Public Schools. Unfortunately, the financial resources increase at a much slower rate than the educational responsibilities.

While enrollment has been increasing at a rate of four and five percent each year, the tax duplicate has been increasing at a rate of only two and three percent annually.

As a result, tax valuation per pupil has been decreasing steadily in Columbus. Calculations made by the State Department of Education show that Columbus valuation has decreased by more than $1,000 per pupil during the last three years. Complicating the picture is the fact that Columbus historically has had the lowest tax valuation per pupil among Ohio's large cities.

When the tax duplicate provides fewer dollars for the education of each pupil, a school board has only two alternatives: make cutbacks in the educational program or seek an increase in tax rate. The Columbus Board of Education has chosen the latter.

'Vigil For Peace' To Be Held In Capitol Grounds

A "vigil for peace" has been announced for Saturday by the Columbus Citizen's Committee for Peace in Vietnam.

"To be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday near the McKinley statue in the west grounds of the State House, it is "to protest American policies in South Vietnam," the announcement said.

One paragraph claims, "The American government has refused to permit a general election to be held, and has evidenced a willingness to murder more than half the population of South Vietnam in order to maintain the corrupt regime of a military dictator."

According to the committee, it "consists of people united out of a common concern for a peaceful resolution, consistent with American interests, of the conflict in Vietnam."

The committee lists the address as 3420 Stonehenge-ct.

WINNERS in a district-wide Jaycee "Speak Up" contest held recently at Howard Johnson's West, were Robert Voll, left, of 1945 N. Star in Upper Arlington, and Joseph Frost, 880 Franklin Court, Worthington, center. The contest, hosted by the Prairie Lincoln Jaycees, featured five-minute talks on a word or phrase in the Jaycee creed, during which each of the contestants presented his feelings about his topic. Voll, who placed first, received a plaque from the host club, which was presented by Lee Clagett, right, 4957 Eastham-wy, Lincoln Village. Voll will represent the district in state-wide competition later in the month. The two men were formally recognized at the Apr. 10 District Meeting.

Hobby Shop Operator Wins Dual Distinction

Mrs. Bunah L. Burnham, of the Linden Hobby and Bike Shop at 2458 Cleveland-av, has aptured two new "firsts" for Columbus.

She is the first woman to be elected chairman of the Dealers Section of the Hobby Industry Association of America, Inc.

She is also the first Columbus resident to hold any office in the association.

Congress, in 1960, said "April is Hobby Month," and since that time it has been observed by over eight hundred dealers of hobbies and crafts who are members of the association.

"The association program," says Mrs. Burnham, "has been planned to promote hobbies and crafts as a means of developing creativeness in both youngsters and adults, as well as a means of affording wholesome recreation which is especially needed in these days of rush and tension."

In the shop owned and operated by her husband, Capt. Bunah L. Burnham, they cooperate with the program by featuring window displays of different hobbies, and stressing that "April is Hobby Month."

For many years we have purred like a kitten because so many people complimented us on publishing a good, clean, interesting Family Weekly Newspaper . . . . . .

NOW . . . Since our circulation has been expanded to 125,000 each Thursday it appears that the kitten has grown into a full size tiger. It's expressions like these that firm up that opinion!

WHEN THE WIND BLOWS, HAVOC IS WROUGHT

LITTLE WAS LEFT of the trailer home of the Bob Stout family on Groveport-Circleville-rd within seconds after the tornado struck early Monday morning. But friends and relatives patiently went through the rubbish, salvaging a toy here, and a kitchen utensil there and a few items of clothing. Hardly anything was intact, with parts of the trailer found over two miles from the site. In photo at right Tricia and Sandy are ready to go home from Mercy Hospital with Grandma, Mrs. Paul March, Rt. 1, Lockbourne. Little Janet, age two, also was dismissed from Mercy Hospital Monday morning, but Mr. and Mrs. Stout and their daughters Sharon and Nancy remained for observation. The girls were saved from more serious injury by their mother who threw herself over them in an effort to shield them when she heard the roar of the winds. The tape on the children's foreheads served as identification not as surgical bandages. One small heartbreak for the tots was avoided when Nancy Pritchard of Ashville, shown at left, rescued their pet rabbit from a shed that was reduced to kindling. Stout's parents, upon whose farm the trailer had been parked, were at a loss as to where to pen the pet, as all the outbuildings were in shambles, but were determined Peter's disappearance wouldn't be added to the little girls' worries. On the scene minutes after the disaster were Don Thompson, chief, and other members of Ashville-Harrison Township volunteer fire department. Hamilton Township mobile unit was brought in near the Stout property and emergency communications set up. Help was also sent from Lockbourne AFB. Before the night was over, according to Thompson, 15 persons had been rescued by the volunteer units. The above pictures were taken late Monday morning, and no one had gone off duty yet. (Hospital picture by Jack Wittenmeier)

Story And Photos By Jane Robinson

UP THERE was where Curtis Wagner was asleep at 12:30 a.m. Monday when he awakened with his bed rocking "just like a cradle." When a section of the nearby silo hit the side of his house, he decided it was high time to go pay an early morning call on a neighbor, and the sooner the better. He took off on foot, as his truck was buried in the rubbish of what had once been the big barn, and his automobile was pinned in the garage. When he came back to look over the damage done to his property just west of Ashville on Rt. 752, he was a welcome sight to a State Patrolman and Spectator reporter who feared he might be trapped, dead or alive, in the debris.

THIS $1.8 MILLION Teays Valley High School proved vulnerable, too. Extensive damage was done to the roof over the gym and the cafeteria windows were blown in, and several areas were flooded from the heavy rain accompanying the storm. For once the news "No school today" failed to rouse the cheers of the youth of the community, who seemed strangely sobered by the calamity they viewed around them Tuesday morning. At the left, Mrs. Rexford Hall, Jr., commiserates with a neighbor, Eugene Clifton who lives at the intersection of Rt. 23 and 752, just north of South Bloomfield. The silo is all that remains of the Clifton barn. Both the Clifton and Hall homes were damaged but with the exception of a cut on the hand suffered by one of the Hall children, both families were unharmed.

WHEN YOU'VE PUT not only money but hard work and love into your [illegible], it can never quite be replaced, explained Mrs. Orville Zelmer as she, choking back the tears, picked up a few odds and ends where her kitchen had once stood. "I can't even find the refrigerator," she added. (Its wreckage turned up in the creek bottom.) Mrs. Zelmer isn't sure whether she was awakened by noise or instinct, but recalls the walls of her three-year-old home crashing in before she reached her son Craig who was sleeping in another bedroom. She also remembers the terror with which she asked her husband, "Are we off the ground?" and the relief she felt when he told her they were not sailing through the air, borne by the storm. The only material things the Zelmers salvaged from the storm near the intersection of Rts. 104 and 316 were most of their clothing and a chest of drawers.

WHAT DOES a herd of cattle do when its barn suddenly falls like the House of Usher? Well, the steers belonging to Walter Cummins took it fairly calmly, extricated themselves from the falling timbers and set up residence in the front yard as if they belonged there. However, Cummins, who lives east of the Teays Valley High School, realized the arrangement was not a practical one and made a deal with the Swift Packing Co. to purchase the 104 head immediately. Mrs. Cummins, shown coming down the lane, agreed that maybe it was too late to start over again, and that Monday's tornado might well be the end of Cummins's life as a farmer. They both marveled that a lame foot was the only casualty suffered, except for the family dog. Afraid of thunder, he had followed his usual custom of retreating under an outbuilding, at the first crack of lightning. When he was rescued from the demolished structure he was "pretty well stove up."

Will We Rise With Christ?

Lent is the season of sacrifice. But, what we have given up is relatively unimportant; it is what we have gained that really matters.

Some of us, for example, may have given up smoking for Lent. If we are smart, according to most medical testimony, we will make this "Lenten sacrifice" a year-round habit. Our reward will be an enhancement of our chances for good health.

For too many of us Lent proves only that we can exercise self-discipline over a short course. And Easter —which should signify the Resurrection — becomes, instead, the day of release from an unloved duty.

Blessed is the Lent for those who have enriched their sacrifices with reflection, prayer and meditation on the message of the Risen Christ. If, on Good Friday, we join Christ in dying to the world, we will rise with Him on Easter Sunday to eternal life.

Renewed Hope

UR Facts Available

If Columbus residents don't become more familiar with the operation and purpose of the city's Urban Renewal Department it won't be the fault of that department's leadership.

Pat Phelan, UR director, has initiated two methods to beef up his department's public information program —and without adding to his staff. The programs include a bi-monthly newsletter to community leaders and other individuals interested in the Urban Renewal operation, and a speaker's bureau to take the UR message to local groups.

Two facts are very apparent, The "public information" method will be utilized as a public relations program to show the progressive face of urban renewal, and UR leadership will be looking to November and the $6 million Urban Renewal bond issue.

But most important, we think, is the apparent confidence Phelan has in the soundness of the total Urban Renewal program. He is taking his program, plans and hopes "to the people"—and early enough in advance of a ballot test so that questions may be posed and, hopefully, resolved.

Several civic, service, business and church groups have already invited the Urban Renewal staff to tell its story. A widespread response from such groups through the city could result in a healthy working partnership between the planners and the people.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Railroads: Whose Rights Are Abused?

While we are talking about rights let's consider one that's in danger of being lost — the right to quit a losing venture.

Senator Vance Hartke (D-Ind.) wants to change the Interstate Commerce Commission rules on abandoning railroad passenger trains. Under present rules, protesting citizens must prove that the continuation of the trains would not be "an unfair burden on the railroads." Senator Hartke wants to turn the burden of proof around and force the railroads to prove (1) that "public convenience and necessity" require the abandonment of service, and (2) that continuing the service would "constitute an unjust and undue burden upon the interstate operations involved."

Jones

Under Senator Hartke's theory, it is difficult to imagine where any railroad that is making any money at all would be allowed to drop a losing run. Why would public convenience and necessity demand the elimination of a train, even if ran absolutely empty?

And what would be an "undue burden on interstate operations?" Senator Hartke would do us a service if he would tell us what percentage of a railroad's profit in hauling freight would have to be absorbed in running passenger trains that can't meet expenses.

According to the current issue of Trains magazine American railroads are only hauling two percent more in ton-mileage than they did in 1947 in spite of a 100 percent increase in industrial production during the same period. In a desperate effort to make ends meet, the railroads have eliminated enough trains and installed enough automation to be able to cut the working force in half during the same period. But the annual earnings of rail workers went up from $3,069 in 1946 to $7,100 last year, so the labor bill is just as big.

With every railroad in New England losing money, with the New Haven bankrupt, with the Jersey Central, the Lehigh Valley and the Erie-Lackawanna approaching bankruptcy, with the B&O saved only by mergers and with many lines unable to borrow enough money to meet depreciation of track and equipment, it is certainly time to reconsider "public convenience and necessity."

And that can only be served by permitting the rails to earn the surplus necessary to buy the equipment to perform services that rails can do best and cheapest.

Early this year the 22 unions represented by the Railway Labor Executive Association demanded government ownership and operation of all American railroads.

"When a public utility in the hands of private managers simply refuses to recognize its obligations to the public," said RLEA Chairman George Leighty, "government ownership appears the only way to meet the essential needs of the people."

These "essential needs" are not to be confused with the profits which private enterprise must make in order to stay alive. They include firemen with nothing to fire, 100 to 125-mile work days, and passenger trains carrying two maiden aunts and a crate of chicks. These, presumably, must be preserved, at taxpayers' expense, if necessary, in order to serve the public well.

The delusion that the welfare of labor will be promoted, even if private enterprise fails, if only the government takes over was recently blasted by Perry Heath, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who pulled his organization out of the RLEA last fall. He pointed out that when the right to strike disappears, when rail workers must wait for an act of Congress for a wage raise, and when the same computer that has the Defense Department closing down military bases is used to find which rail lines should be abandoned, labor may decide that private management was pretty good after all.

The 19th Century theory that workers should have no rights and that companies should exist only for the stockholders was no crazier than the theory among many modern labor leaders that the stockholders be damned and that labor welfare has nothing to do with profits.

The chief glory of private enterprise is its efficiency compared to socialist performance. The efficiency is imposed by rigorous natural laws: Higher costs must mean smaller profits if they are not balanced by greater volume or higher charges. Higher charges invariably shrink volume. Greater volume can generally be achieved only by exhibiting competitive advantages to customers. Competitive advantages can be achieved only by improved service (including better and more costly equipment) or lower rates.

Complacent Parents Encourage Delinquency

To the Editor:

The recent disclosure of wild parties involving youthful participants seems to have shocked many adults, and rightly so. However, many parents, living outside the immediate area, may well be advised to avoid complacency and an "it-could-only-happen-over-there" attitude.

Psychologists, psychiatrists, welfare professionals, and others are beginning to recognize a comparatively new development which bodes ill for all youth. This is a withdrawal on the part of an alarming number of parents from participation in, and support of, desirable programs involving youth. A further problem is that of parents who willingly work for and with youth but concentrate on only one aspect of the needs of youth. These are guilty right along with the others of neglect in important areas of social growth and development.

Because of this withdrawal, increasing numbers of young people in all classes of society are being left to devise their own social diversions, to set their own standards of conduct, and to build their own attitudes toward everything from what is acceptable dress, through what is acceptable religious beliefs (if any), to what are the sexual standards which they should follow.

As such withdrawal by adults occurs, the void is filled by the voices of those who do not understand and their displeasure compels even persons who would and could help from doing so. This is particularly evident in our schools where a large pool of professionally-trained talent exists but often is afraid to function in any affair outside academic curriculum.

It takes no genius to recognize that worthy moral and social codes can't be built without responsible assistance. The seeds of the recent events exist in every geographical area and could blossom at any time unless young people are given more meaningful help and guidance than many at present obviously are getting.

Likes Animal Column

To the Editor:

We have lived in the Linden area for 23 years . . . . I was quite surprised, and I might add pleased, to find The Spectator on our porch every Thursday beginning about the first of this year.

So many articles are good—it is hard to select one as a favorite. But since we own two dogs and three cats, I like Dr. Miller's "Wonderful World of Animals." It is both informative and a public service. Please continue it.

Wants Law To Control Pets

To the Editor:

I, along with many others, am interested in getting a law passed to make it mandatory for owners of cats and dogs to have them neutered. This would reduce the surplus animal population and lessen the homeless and unwanted, hungry animals that roam the countryside. My main interest is the welfare of these animals. Now that spring is here many people who have no interest in pets must endure the nuisance these uncontrolled animals —especially dogs—cause in the destruction of lawns, gardens, etc.

I hope your newspapers will give this matter the publicity it deserves.

Salute Brave Housewife

To the Editor:

I wish to thank you for your article, "Who Belongs in Alabama," concerning Mrs. Roger Thomas and her mission to Alabama. It was a very inspiring one.

Here is an ordinary housewife (although in reality not in the least "ordinary") whose convictions regarding human rights compelled her to take a stand — an unpopular and literally dangerous one.

This has been so succinctly demonstrated in the recent deaths and the many other deaths and persecutions in the past (some not even publicized) of those connected with the civil rights movement, both Negro and white. And to go despite her family's objections and her own fears.

It is easy for most of us to feel anger and guilt at what is happening in Alabama and elsewhere, but not many of us have the courage needed to go directly where the present trouble is.

I salute Gretchen Thomas. I only wish I were as brave as she.

Congratulations for "Who Belongs in Alabama?" (4/1), on the front page where it belongs.

To the Editor:

Here is a thought — almost every day and in almost every newspaper we read, on the front page, the most horrible things that the civilized world has to offer—rape, murder, robbery, war, accidents, death, delinquency, etc.

Could these be put on Page 2 for one day (I am writing to other editors) and replaced with nothing but good —on Good Friday? In many cases we do very little more to acknowledge this day of eternal importance than many of only temporal value.

It might possibly have the flavor of hope for a rather hopeless world.

A Vote Against SB 96

To the Editor:

May I commend you for your editorial in the Spectator (Apr. 1) opposing Senate Bill 96. This effort to legalize the sale of liquor on Sunday, is as you said, "stupid, senseless, and asinine."

Frosting on the Cake
BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

Every day, we read about "'car-crazy kids" who steal autos just for a thrill and a joy ride until the gas runs out. These youngsters seem to have no decent perspective insofar as this criminal act is concerned.

For 35 years this problem has engaged my serious interest. I wish to make a suggestion that makes sense to me and to many policemen with whom I have discussed it.

President Johnson is all out to do something about juvenile delinquency, and there is a way to cope with this growing headache that wastes important time and energy of officers who have to be tied up too often on such nonsense.

Why not have a "Jalopy College" in every state that has a rigid discipline policy, but which would immediately create a focal point of interest. Have a completely equipped garage and body plant and give these wild kids a year to learn how to fix cars and also have a private race track on the reservation where they can be under complete control, both working and driving.

Such a "Jalopy College" would sort these kids into two classes; those who are just no good anyway, and those who have a compulsive fixation to "mess around with cars."

Many good mechanics would be produced every year and driving skills would be improved. Those who just can't or won't behave themselves should not be fooled with very long. Then after such a year, the honor graduates could earn the right to seek employment in outside plants and restoration of their driving license.

Locking the good kids up in any "school for crime" just is a waste of time and money. We always will need such institutions for a minority, but it seems to me that such a "Jalopy College" for a year would be a sane and workable method of sorting the decent kids from the "foul-balls" who are just incorrigible and have vacated every right by their anti-social behavior.

You know something: it just might work out.

"WHAT MY RELIGION MEANS TO ME"

Religion is the Life of God in the Soul of Man.

As a reborn Christian, to me God means Jesus Christ. When you accept Jesus Christ as your personal Savior, Christ takes over your life. A personal relationship exists between you and your God. Your life then takes on real purpose.

Judge Shull

As you learn to know God, everything else fades into insignificance. God created the heavens and the earth, and this little earth is just a speck in the cosmic setup.

I believe that Jesus is the Christ and through Him life eternal is available. I believe in the Holy Trinity, the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit. That Jesus was born of the Virgin Mary, grew to manhood, gave us God's way of life, suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified for my sins. He died on the cross, was buried, overcame death, ascended into heaven and sent the Holy Spirit as our comforter. I believe that Jesus died for my sins and that by His stripes I have been healed.

I believe that God is the same today as He was at the beginning of time and that the power of Jesus Christ is the same today as when He trod this earth. I believe that the Christ is available to all of mankind regardless of race, creed or color; that Christ is the answer to all the problems of this old world. I believe that God is love and as our Heavenly Father He bestows upon His children only good; and that sin, disease and death are the result of evil. I believe that God is in control of this universe.

My life is complete if I live the Lord's Prayer, and let His "will be done on earth as in heaven." I believe that God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

With God all things are possible. The individual who denies God is damned and the nation that turns from Him is doomed!

Judge of the Municipal Court

Stop-N-Go Plans Five New Stores

The chain version of the mom and pop type food store, which operates under the name of Stop-N-Go Food Stores, is gaining momentum. The Stop-N-Go approach is to carry everything available in the big markets except red meat but to handle it in less depth and variety.

To be in the position to serve the customers for fill-in merchandise, the stores operate from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. seven days a week including holidays.

Stop-N-Go Stores also offer such services as money order sales, television tube-testers, ice, rental buffers, and photo-developing service.

Mr. Michael Johnston, executive vice-president of Stop-N-Go of Ohio, Inc., a regional company, plans five additional stores in the Columbus and Newark area as part of the increasing program of expansion set forth by Marketing, Merchandising, Inc., who are franchising consultants for Stop-N-Go presently operating some 55 stores in 13 regional companies.

Stop-N-Go Store No. 42 is at 1447 S. Hamilton-rd.

UP AND OVER—Walnut Ridge pole vaulter Corbett jackknifes over the bar and heads pit-ward Saturday at the Worthington Relays, clearing the bar at 11'6". The Scotties finished third in the event and seventh in the Relays won by the host Cardinals.

Lion, Scottie, Tiger Cindermen Win Duals; Schwartz Sets Mark

Bexley, Walnut Ridge and East picked up dual meet wins during the week on area tracks and more records fell as high thins dug deeper into the spring cinder session.

Bexley, supposedly in a major rebuilding year, looked like old pros in dumping Grandview, 92-28.

MAC ALBIN set the pace for winning Lions by copping the high jump and broad jump events plus running on Bexley's winning 880 relay team.

Other Bexley wins were secured by: Mat McCloy (high hurdles), Jim Nowacki (low hurdles), Dick Weber (100), Paul Davis (440), Tom Williamson (shot), Rex Antle (pole vault), Pat Leach (discus) and the Lions 880 and mile relay teams.

East's Tigers, paced by Solomon Espie (wins in 100 and 220, 10 points) slipped past Linden, 60-56.

OTHER WINNERS for Lee Williams' Bengal thins were: Don Washington (bj and hj), Frank Sullivan (mile), Willie Jackson (discus), George Shropshire (880) and Grady Bobo (shot).

Walnut Ridge, employing strength in the field and distance departments, sidetracked Bexley in another dual affair, 66-52.

Paul Karpik (wins in the high and low hurdles and high jump) teamed with Kenny Schwartz (wins in the mile and 880) to set the pace for the Scotties.

OTHER W-R wins were taken by: Rick Mettle (440), Jack Brown (shot), Reg Raymond (discus), Chuck Corbett (pole vault) and the 880 relay team (Greg Fout, Ed Chin, Larry Salyer and Zeke Barber).

Dick Weber, Paul Davis, Rick Weber and Bexley's mile relay quartet (Paul Schultz, Ed Schneiderer, Paul Davis and Dan Vogel) took firsts for the Lions.

Kenny Schwartz set a new school mark in the mile (4:26.8) but the Scots placed last (28) in a triangular with Whetstone (72) and West (48).

W-R'S ONLY other firsts came in the high jump (Paul Karpik) and 88 (Rick Mettle).

In another triangular, Eastmoor (40) placed between winner West (54) and tailender Marion-Franklin (21).

The Warriors' Wayne Mixon topped all scorers (10 points) with firsts in the 100 and 220. E-M also won both the 880 and mile relay events and Norwood Thomas took a first in the 440.

ALTHOUGH neither could place any higher than fifth, Gahanna and Walnut Ridge each came home from the Worthington Relays with new marks Saturday.

The Lions four-mile relay team of Mike Haninger, Bill Miller, Alan Strickling and Tim Horn ran the distance in 19:09.8 to topple Ashland's '64 mark by a full 20 seconds.

Rick Mettle, Ed Chin, Zeke Barber and Ken Schwartz covered the distance-medley course in 7:45.8 for W-R to set a new time in that event.

ONLY OTHER first garnered by an area team at the Relays (won by the hosts) was Whitehall who combined a shot put team of Mike Boyer, Rick Callicoat and Dave Mowrer to take that event (140'½").

Gahanna took fifth at the Relays (31), the Rams were sixth (14), the Scotties seventh (13). Worthington won with 51 points.

Area Thins Set Sights On Records At Ohio, Gahanna, Riverside Relays

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Three of the new cinder season's most tasty plums ripen this week as area tracksters race for the laurels at the Ohio, Gahanna and Riverside Relays.

Saturday "lead off" finds the festivities set for Ohio Stadium where some 23 colleges and a like number of high schools display the finest in track around the sttae.

PRELIMS BEGIN at 9:45 a.m. with finals scheduled to get under way at 1:20 p.m.

Spectator-area schools vieing for honors at the Ohio Relays will be Bexley, Academy, Brookhaven, Central, East, Eastmoor, North, South, West and Worthington.

Other high schools entered are Amherst Steele, Ashland, Bedford, Chillicothe, Cleveland Heights, Cleveland Rhoades, Dayton Belmont, Chaminade and Roosevelt, Euclid Senior, Pleasant Local (Marion), Shaker Heights and Springfield South.

THE EVENT features the cream of school-boy talent around the state — outstanding boys in each of six events who are invited to the competition.

There will be no team title but individual winners will receive medals.

Events to be run include 440, 880 and mile relays, 100 yard dash, high hurdles and mile run.

ONLY RECORD smashed last year was that splintered by Central's mile-relay team.

Price of admission will be $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students and children.

* * *

THE FIRST "sneak preview" of the '65 City League cinder champ should be provided Tuesday and Wednesday (Apr. 20-21) at Central's annual Riverside Relays.

All City League teams (Central, West, Brookhaven, Walnut Ridge, Eastmoor, East, Marion-Franklin, South, North, Linden and Whetstone) have accepted invitations to vie for Riverside honors.

"Outsiders" battling the 11 City teams for the Riverside crown will include Springfield South, Lancaster, London, Fairfield Union, Washington Court House, Whitehall, Gahanna, Hartley and Hamilton Township.

TUESDAY'S competition will be centered around field events, beginning at 4 p.m. Running events are scheduled 24 hours later. (There will be no preliminaries.)

A coaches' meeting has been set for 3:30 p.m., Apr. 20, in the Teachers' Lunchroom at Central.

Awards will be presented to the first five men in each event.

ARLINGTON won the Relays last year while the host Pirates placed second.

No fewer than seven events stand in danger of having records shattered at this year's Riverside running.

The hosts hold six of the existing marks (distance medley, 8:04.7 in '64; 440 relay, 44.4 in '63; sprint-medley, 1:36.2 in '63; 880 relay, 1.32 in '63; broad jump, 61'8" (three-man team) in '60, and high jump, 18'1" (three-man team) in '61].

OTHER EXISTING records are held by: shuttles (East, 59:0 in '63; mile relay (East, 3:32.5 in '63); two-mile relay (Walnut Ridge, 8:34.7); discus (South, 410', three-man team in '64); shot put (North, 150'6¼", three-man team in '56) and pole vault (Arlington, 35'10", three-man team in '64).

Although four marks were smashed last year, records seem likely to tumble even harder next week.

Brookhaven, named preseason best in the City League, must be rated a favorite for the Relays — if for no other reason than its record shattering performance Saturday at the Worthington Relays.

ALTHOUGH the Bearcats placed second behind host Worthington, Brookhaven established three new marks —two with better times than existing Riverside times in those events.

Bearcat thins could set new times in the 440 relay (3/10 sec. off Riverside time at Worthington), shuttle hurdles (bettered existing mark by almost two full seconds Saturday) and 880 relay (topped existing mark by 2/10 sec.).

Also shaky are the distance medley (bettered by :18.9 secs. at Worthington Relays by Walnut Ridge's team of Rick Mettle, Zeke Barber, Ken Schwartz and Ed Chin) and mile relay (Whetstone's team Saturday nearly five sec. better).

THE ENTRY of Hamilton Township in the Relays this year could disturb existing field marks in the discus and shot put categories.

The shot mark, untouched since 1956, could meet its master in a Ranger trio headed by husky Frank Peters, who's already topped the 54 ft. barrier. Peters' compadres will be Ralph Morgan and Mike Warning.

Peters, Morgan and Paul Keller have shown ability to come dangerously close to the discus mark of 410 feet set last year by South's Walker, Cook and Pate.

* * *

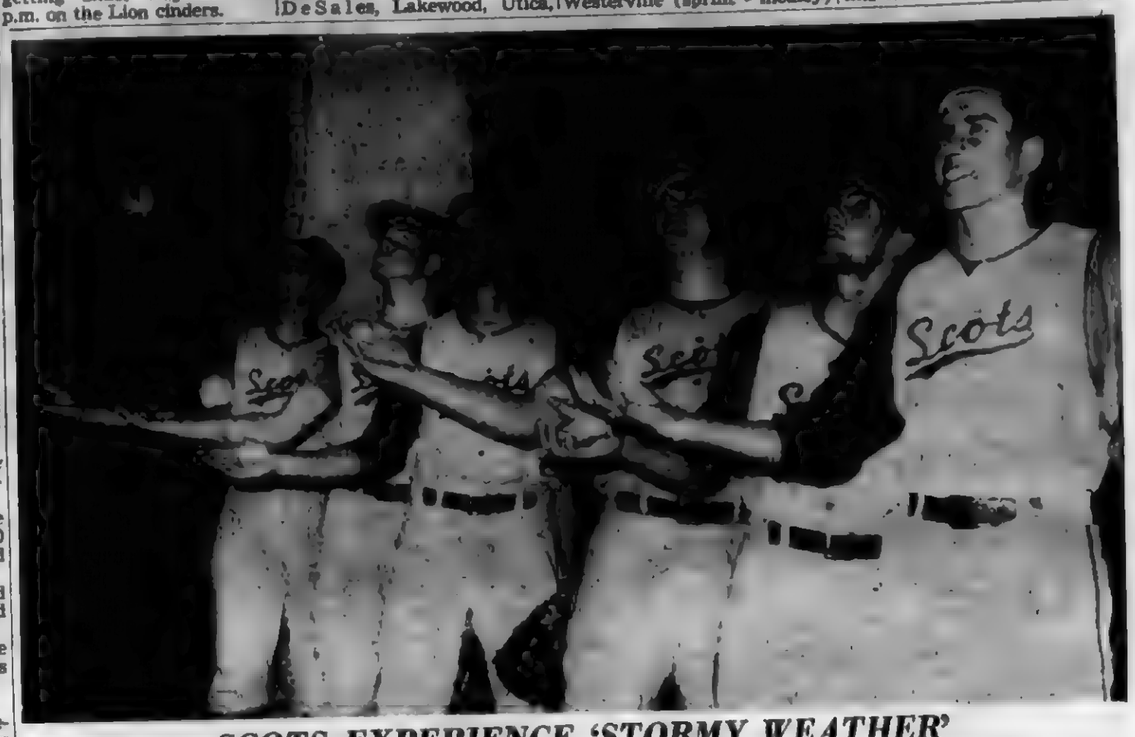
Also scheduled Saturday is the ninth running of the Gahanna Relays with prelims getting under way at 3:30 p.m. on the Lion cinders.

FIELD EVENT finals are set for 6:30 p.m. with running finals beginning one hour later.

The 14-school field (at press time) will not include the '64 winner — Lancaster Public — or Eastmoor's runner-ups.

Schools participating besides the host Lions are Delaware, Franklin Heights, Grove City, Groveport, Hilliard, London, Mifflin, Reynoldsburg, DeSales, Lakewood, Utica, Westerville and Whitehall.

RELAY EVENTS will include 880, 440, four-mile, 480-yard shuttle-hurdle, distance medley (220, 440, half-mile and mile), mile, sprint medley (110, 110, 220, 440).



Also included in the meet will be all field events (broad and high jumps, pole vault, discus and shot put).

Eastmoor (broad jump), Lancaster (four-mile run) and Westerville (sprint - medley) set new marks last year.

GAHANNA'S relay queens will present first-place trophies, second and third-place medals and fourth and fifth-place ribbons to individuals.

There will also be trophies for the team winner and runnerup. All awards have been contributed by local Gahanna merchants.

Everybody pays 50 cents to get past the ticket-taker at this one.

SCOTS EXPERIENCE 'STORMY WEATHER'

LIKE MOST area nines attempting to find a dry diamond last week, these Walnut Ridge baseballers discovered nothing but the wet stuff when they prepared to take the field. Checking hopefully for a halt to the "stormy weather" are Scottie returning veterans (from left) Mike Lower, Dave Feyh, Jay Hill, Dave Walter, Bill Masch and Rick Hourihan.

Hawk Cindermen Have Talent To 'Take It All' In CCL—Palmer

When the sun sets on the Central Catholic Track Meet a week from this Saturday, Hartley track coach Jim Palmer will be disappointed if his Hawk thins aren't resting at the top of the heap.

Hartley was nosed out by DeSales by a scant one-half point last spring at the CCL Meet and a fine 6-2 dual mark plus a third in the Diocesan Meet didn't help much in easing the pain of that narrow setback.

PALMER, TAKING over the head cinder reins this season after serving several springs as assistant coach, believes his Hawks have the gopower to take the top rung on the CCL ladder this time.

And 12 returning lettermen don't do anything to make Palmer's forecast seem like whistling in the dark.

Palmer will be without the services of three top '64 performers — Ron Williams (relays, hurdles), John Cox (weights, holds school record in discus) and Dave Erwin (pole vaulter)—lost via graduation and a fourth — best quarter-miler Walt Mischler—who moved to Georgia.

BUT EVERYTHING else looks sunny with seven of the 12 returnees seasoned seniors.

Palmer will expect key roles to be played by seniors Greg Hon (mile, 880), Joe Kuhner (sprints), Mike Reiser (hurdles, high jump), Mike Santy (sprints), Dave Thomas (high and broad jumps), Dick Tinko (hurdles) and Larry Ziccardi (quarter-mile).

Juniors Tim Burch field (pole vault)-and Mike Federer (shot - discus) lend some experience to the Hawk field department as does John Ucker in the 440.

TWO SOPH letter winners Steve Grier and Craig Wingo —lend more depth to the hurdle department.

And Palmer isn't cut short in the top prospect area with a good number adding to the Hawks' depth.

Palmer has seniors Ray Posey (transfer from France, discus and 440) and Joe Wicks (sprints) and juniors John Carrillo (from France, mile, 880), Bob Jacobs (weights), Tim Koontz (pole vault), Jim Farrell (mile, 880) and Andre Preneveau (440) to bolster his letterman corps.

UNDERCLASSMEN who could develop into some key spots are sophs Bob Thornton (distances), Bob Fowle (hurdles), Joe Hayes (sprints) and Rick Marcum (sprints, broad jump), plus frosh Lloyd Devine (440, sprints) and Alan Preneveau (hurdles).

"We'll be strongest in the high and broad jump, sprint and low hurdle events," Palmer says. The only area where his Hawks could run into trouble is the high hurdles.

Here is the remainder of Hartley's cinder schedule:

Apr. 15-20 — Bexley
Apr. 20-21 — at Riverside Relays (Central)
Apr. 22 — Academy, St. Charles
Apr. 24 — CCL Meet (at Hartley)
Apr. 28 — Walnut Ridge, Reynoldsburg (at W-R)
Apr. 30 — at Whitehall Relays
May 4 — Reynoldsburg
May 6 — North, Walnut Ridge (at North)
May 8 — Diocesan Meet (at Hartley, prelims at 12:30 p.m., field finals at 5 p.m., running finals at 7).
May 13 — Sectional Meet (at Walnut Ridge)
May 15 — District Meet (at Worthington)

AT ST. CHARLES:

Rooney Holds Key In Rebuilding Year

The baseball story at St. Charles this spring will be one of rebuilding.

Dick Geyer, who takes over head diamond duties from departed skipper Jack Ryan (moved several blocks south to Hartley), will have to come upon some real finds if his Cardinals expect to duplicate or better their '64 finish.

LAST SPRING, the Cards battled Watterson to the wire before conceding the CCL pennant to the Eagles and closing out 19-10 overall.

But Ryan wasn't the only Card departee. Also gone are number one pitcher Bob Begland, first sacker Danny Boyle and catcher Ted Ellerbrook.

Geyer will key his '65 squad around seven returning lettermen, headed by top pitcher Tim Rooney.

ROONEY, who possesses a good fast ball, could be one of the best in the CCL if he can overcome a control problem. "A lot will depend on Tim," Geyer said in reference to the Cardinals' progress this spring.

Geyer does have another vet hurler in Kip Clager to add to the St. Charles staff, which also includes Joe McAndrews.

Lettermen in the infield include third baseman Buzz Hummer, shortstop Joe DiCesare and utility man Jackie Ryan. Geyer also has John Finn back in center field, along with Merrill Phelan in left.

PHELAN, HOWEVER, has been sidelined recently — the result of being hit by a ball earlier this season. Geyer was counting on Phelan to supply most of his Cards' batting power.

Phelan's replacement in left field will likely be Tom Wolf with Press Southworth filling out the Carolian garden in right.

Getting back to the infield, Geyer will station Larry Amicon at second, Dick Weisgerber at first and Mark Kotlinski behind the plate.

THE PITCHING will depend largely on Rooney with Hummer and Finn counted on to supply the bulk of the hitting. Geyer believes both will hit around the .300 mark this spring.

"We'll scratch for our runs and take them any way we can get them," Geyer said. "And I think we might run a little bit," the Card skipper concluded.

Jets Open Season Saturday vs. Bisons

The Columbus Jets open their 1965 International League baseball season Saturday at 2 p.m. with Buffalo's Bisons moving in to provide the opposition..

Gates will swing open at noon. Opening game ceremonies are scheduled to get under way at 1:10 p.m. with several dignitaries on hand to help open the season.

BOTH SATURDAY'S opener and a doubleheader Sunday are delegated as "Big Bear Days" since the company has "bought out" the Stadium for the two days, assuring the Jets capacity crowds.

Big Bear will also sponsor an Easter Bonnet contest for the ladies on opening day.

The Sunday doubleheader with Buffalo will begin at 1:30 p.m.

BUFFALO departs Monday night after an 8 p.m. single game, opening up the visitor's dugout for Toronto's Maple Leafs, who open a three (night) game series Tuesday.

The Jets hit the road when the first home series is concluded Thursday, traveling to Syracuse for a three game set and Rochester for four more.

Next home series for the Columbus nine will open Friday, Apr. 30 (eight game stand with Syracuse and Rochester).

S-E Archers Open 'Invite' Season Apr. 25

The first arrows of spring will swish through the air Sunday, Apr. 25 as the Southeast Archers host the first Invitational of the new season.

Registration time is 8 to 10 a.m. with 42 field targets available. Entry fees will be $1.50 for adults, $1 for juniors and Intermediates will shoot free.

THE INVITATIONAL will also feature a bow bird novelty (ten bird run with two practice birds).

A trophy will be awarded to the top amatuer shooter.

The Southeast site is three miles south of the Work House on State Route 104.

FINAL STANDINGS in the recently concluded indoor competition were: Marpet (Robert Nial, capt.), Silver Moccasin (Robert Armstrong, capt.), Southeast No. Two (Frank Pennington, capt.), Wyandotte (Lefty Christensen, capt.), Southeast No. One (Jay Beals, capt.).

Competition for the first three places was close as all three finished within two points of one another.

Where's That Whippersnapper Who Says Life Begins At 40?

Oh My, Too Much . . .

Don't Hit Mine . . .

Oh Dear!!

THOSE YOUNGSTERS who scoff at the adage about life beginning at 40 apparently have never attended a Senior Citizens' Shuffleboard tourney as Spectator photographer Jack Witteameier did last week. Above, Mrs. Anna Trimble, 77 years young, suffers through an anxious moment in the women's finals. Mrs. Trimble lost out by a narrow margin to Mrs. Grace Anderson, a spry 73.

GOING, GOING, GONE!

THAT'S WHAT happened to the record in the shuttle hurdles Saturday at Worthington's Relays as Brookhaven's "do-everything" cindermaa Ralph Marinello came home with the final leg for a four-man time total of 57.5. Marinello also helped the Bearcats set two more records (440 and 880 relays) and take a first in the broad jump but Brookhaven lost out to Worthington, 51-42½.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR MR. MILLER: Because I have trouble with asthma, someone sold my husband and a humidifier they told him would help me. Well, it hasn't helped me much (some Christmas present!) but my, has it made a change in Jo Jo! Jo Jo is our five-year-old English Bulldog.

He has had trouble with breathing, too, and he has always wheezed and sputtered his way through every winter. Now since we have been using the humidifier he breathes much easier and quieter. He doesn't even wake us up at night with his snorling as he used to. At least not as often.

Another thing that has made us happy is the way it has helped his shedding. Nothing we tried before ever helped it so much. I just wonder if Jo Jo is different from most, or if the humidifier has helped other dogs? We think now that it was well worth buying just for him.

—B. R.

DEAR B. R.: Yes, humidification has helped other canines, too. One normally associates respiratory troubles with dampness, but the pendulum can swing too far in the other direction, too. The average home (in wintertime) contains air twice as dry as that found in deserts. The air dehydrates the muscous membranes of the respiratory tract, making them less resistant to irritation and infection.

The skin area of the body is also exposed to this drying effect, and normally shedding processes are greatly accelerated. When the moisture content of the air is brought up to a more tolerable level, breathing becomes easier.

As skin health improves, the hair follicles are better able to hold hair, so shedding is reduced.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Tammy, our tortoise, was sleeping by the hot air register last night when I accidentally dropped the nutcracker on her. It punctured a hold in her shell. She acts all right today, but couldn't that hole be dangerous? Does she need something done with it? Will it ever heal up? What would you suggest? —N. S.

DEAR N. S.: (copy of earlier reply) Better have Tammy's wound checked. An antibiotic ointment may be all that is needed, provided the wound is clean. Unless the wound is small, most fractures of the shell will knit much faster if protected with a fiberglass cover. The doctor will determine whether or not plastic surgery is necessary.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have heard of a rare rat that is called the Korat. I understand a few have been imported into this country. I would appreciate it if you could tell me a little about them and where a pair could be bought. I have other rats —L. Z.

DEAR L. Z.: The Korat is rare in this country. It is even rare in its native Thailand. Purchasing one would be difficult if not impossible. Your present ratty companions would doubtless resent the new arrival anyway. The Korat is gray, with green eyes and — most importantly — it is a CAT!

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

DURING CHILDHOOD, the foot is a flexible structure reacting to many stresses and strains. As the child grows older, the foot becomes more sturdy. Early foot care should begin when the small bones are building and the muscles developing. It is during this period that the child's feet must be carefully observed and protected, for they can be distorted, made weak and deformed. Have your child's feet examined soon by your podiatrist. Why Not Family-Style 'Cultural Exchanges'?

By ADELINE DALEY

After a few technicalities are straightened out, my new "Cultural Exchange" program between families such as ours and those of our friends will be ready for operation.

It's based on the principle the United States and Russia use to exchange various types of entertainment. For instance, we have sent over Van Cliburn and they have repaid us with the likes of Tamara Press, the 200-pound Soviet deb who breaks world records throwing the shot put and discus.

My plan would be similar in that should Family A have a young daughter selling tickets to her ballet school's dance recital, Family B would purchase a ticket because their son is also peddling Scout-O-Rama ticket. An even trade would be arranged because the dance recital is at least 3½ hours in length, and if you've seen one knot-tying exhibition by the Boy Scouts, you've seen them all.

Thus, taking into consideration that some events might be less interesting than others, the following would be a suggested method of exchanging "culture" between families:

Three reels of home movies which include such epics as Baby-taking-first-steps is equal to 200 color slides of the other family's vacation trip to Grand Coulee Dam.

Two Little League games equal listening to a home tape recording of four-year-old reciting "Humpty Dumpty."

One accordion concert is equal to attending the semi-finals of the Regional Baton Twirling competition in which Family B's kids are entered.

One session of leafing through a stamp collection (particularly if you are not interested in stamps) equals the same amount of time spent looking at alternate family's photo album. (Particularly, if you really don't care what host's brother-in-law's kids look like.)

One off-key rendition of "Clare de Lune" performed on the piano by somebody other than Paderewski equals a tap-dancing number to "Tea for Two" by child of comparable talent.

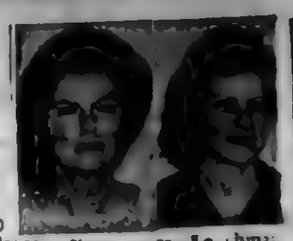
Attendance of one school orchestra program with no less than 35 individual numbers, including a saxophone solo by Family A's prodigy, is worth attendance at a concert by junior high school chorus in which Family B's daughter is scheduled to sing "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" three octaves higher than normal.

No hard feelings should both parties decide not to attend each other's command performances.

Local Secretaries Having Their Week

The week of Apr. 18 through 24, has been proclaimed Secretaries Week by Gov. James A. Rhodes and Mayor Maynard E. Sensenbrenner. The Columbus Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) and the Business Equipment Manufacturers Association are co-sponsors of Secretaries Week, with a theme "Better Secretaries Mean Better Business."

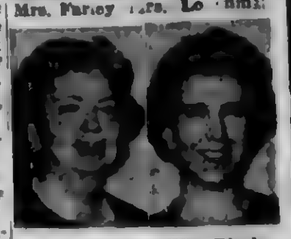
Mrs. Mary Biegler, president, Columbus Chapter, NSA, has announced that Mrs. Flo Andrews, "Secretary of the Year," will be honored at a brunch to be held at Lazarus on Saturday, Apr. 24 at 9:30 a.m., followed by a behind-the-scenes-tour of Lazarus.



All secretaries may contact Mrs. Jini MacLeod, 333 Starrett-ct, 263-9034, for reservations at $1.75.

"CHILDREN WITHOUT"

Columbus Urban League with the aid of a grant from the Robert W. Stevenson Fund of the Columbus Foundation, announces the purchase of the film, "Children Without," produced by the National Education Association and depicting the culturally deprived. The film is available for showing by contacting the Urban League, 107 N. Monroe, 258-9529.



PRESENTS CANTATA

"On the Passion of Christ," a cantata for mixed voices by David H. Williams, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Good Friday, Apr. 16, in Trinity Methodist Church, Cambridge-blvd at Fifth-av. Said Robert E. Miller, choir president, "This brief musical Easter story portrays the fury of mob violence, the terrible agony of its principal victim, and ends with a hush so dramatic that it is unforgettable."

A Little Classified Ad Does A LONG WAY

CAPITAL CITY Sound Recording Co. did production and recording this year for the Ohio Society of Crippled Children and Adults, coordinating agency for the county chapters. Easter Seal Chairman Jerry Lucas recorded three radio spot announcements. Mrs. Ruth White, 97 Hamilton-pk, society publicity director, was production chief working with John D. Harmer, the sound company's owner and manager. The entire package was pressed onto seven-inch 33.3 rpm electrical transcription discs and distributed statewide.

Easter Seal Portrays Work Of Many Hands

Whether it's on the basketball court or in community activity, Jerry Lucas has a way of evoking pride in Columbus, in Franklin County, in most everyone in Ohio.

One way is the effort he has put into the job of chairman for the Ohio Easter Seal campaign.

Earning mention along with him is the Hilltop's own Capital City Sound Recording Company at 11 N. Roys-av, owned and operated by John D. Harmer. Harmer cooperated with Jerry, contributing his time and equipment, in cutting the discs for the Easter Seal radio spot announcements.

Many others deserve a salute too—the volunteer paraders, captains, majors, area chairmen who made personal calls, newspapers, television and radio, and hundreds of social, business and civic organizations.

The biggest salute, Crippled Society workers say, is due the people who actually use the seals and contribute each year to the unmet needs of crippled persons.

Dr. Jimmy Hull, the 1965 Franklin County chairman, reports that as of Apr. 10, total contributions have reached $79,594 and he is optimistic that the goal of $100,000 will be reached by Easter Sunday.

Returns from the Easter Seal Parade totaled $35,563. Mail contributions from former contributors and business firms added $44,031. Yet to be counted are the returns received from the Apr. 10 Lily Day conducted by the Y-Teen members.

The Franklin County Society does not send out reminders. Instead, it relies on the interest and concern of the community to volunteer a donation for its work for handicapped children. Money received from this campaign stays in Franklin County and goes to direct services for the handicapped.

Lake Central's new prop-jet NORD 262

The competition to develop a worthy replacement for the old reliable DC-3 went on a good long time. As you can imagine, the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board looked at many a plane before it commended one for its specific capabilities. The winner—by a good long Gallic nose—is the new French prop-jet NORD 262, to be flown first by Lake Central.

Anything the DC-3 does, the NORD does newer. It gets you there faster, and more comfortably. It's air conditioned. Pressurized. Boards on the level. Is short, the perfect short-haul carrier to the fifty mid-central U.S.A. cities Lake Central flies to.

Which Meat For Easter Dinner?

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Meat, and Poultry—hams, eggs, beef roasts, ground beef, broiler-fryers.

Vegetables—carrots, asparagus, salad greens, celery, all-purpose potatoes, cabbage.

Fruits—bananas, oranges, grapefruit, rhubarb.

Other foods — dairy products, fresh smelts, canned: peaches, Bartlett pears.

If you were not a lucky winner of a ham for your Easter dinner you can buy one this week at a bargain price. Dealers say that supplies of all kinds of hams are adequate to meet the heavy demand, and wholesale prices are only a cent a pound above last year.

There are two types of hams in most retail stores today. They are "fully-cooked" and "cook - before - eating." And it's important to know which type you are buying, since this will influence the cooking time and the number of servings you can expect per pound. The label will tell you which you are buying.

Either type ham can, of course, be had in many forms, —whole, half or by the slice; in cans, whole, pieces or chopped. Look carefully for the amount of waste as well as the price tag before you buy.

A beef rib roast — either standing or rolled—is a treat most families can't afford every day of the week, but for Easter . . . maybe! A roast is so simple to prepare — a little seasoning and a meat thermometer are all that are needed for an elegant meal. The quality of beef roasts is high now and prices are steady.

A spring lamb roast, delicately glazed with a mint sauce, is a sure way to bring light into the eyes of lamb lovers. Lamb supplies are small—well below a year ago, but the lamb is young and of high quality.

Fresh smelts might be a treat if you're looking for a change of fare. They are sweet and plump now before they begin to spawn. Prices are reasonable. White fish from the Great Lakes are also available but the lakes are still frozen and other kinds of fish are slow in coming.

EGGS, DAIRY PRODUCTS

Eggs and dairy products can add economy along with glamour to your Easter meal. Eggs are the cheapest in years and quality in general is high. While large sizes are usually the better buy at this season, you'll find good values offered on medium sized ones this week.

Dairy products are more in the limelight. Almost every market is suggesting some variety of cottage cheese. Also, watch for good values on butter, ice cream, loaf cheeses and dairy biscuits.

On Curing Our Ills

The problems of people are many. Those of us who are in contact with people each week have our own observations as to what brings on many of these problems.

It has long been my contention that most all the ills of the world can be relegated to one of two causes . . . either faulty communication or faulty elimination.

If communication is poor and we do not get the word then it stands to reason we are in trouble.

If our elimination is impaired the net result is that we become grouchy, don't feel well, and generally everything goes wrong.

Next time you have a problem check these two subjects.

Two Zonings Pass Council

Tuesday' night's Whitehall council session afforded the city's politicos the final opportunity to make pre-primary speeches to a captive audience. They didn't.

Instead, the meeting was conducted with dispatch, good order and a tasteful touch of good humor.

Approved by a unanimous vote following a public hearing was a rezoning to permit a commercial designation for three lots at 4043-4063 E. Broad-st. The area will be developed for an Allstate Insurance Co. office building.

The one-story building will cost about $150,000, including land purchase. In addition to a gain for the Whitehall tax duplicate, the office building will add money to the city coffers in the form of city income tax revenue.

Councilman Ray Shipley drew a chuckle from the audience when he commented that the measure was a "switch," because it rezoned an area carrying an apartment designation.

Councilmen also agreed with installation of storm sewers in Westphal-av from McAllister-rd to Pinecrest Subdivision. An assessment equalization board was successful in resolving protests of affected property owners.

The business session of council also took affirmative action on the following measures:

Rezoning of the northwest corner of Hamilton and Etna-rds to permit Chrysler Motors Corp. to operate a new automobile and truck sales agency and a new and used car and truck lot.

Approved issuing of bids for the servicing and maintaining of police radios. A contract will be awarded on the basis of the lowest and best bid.

Rejected by council was an ordinance which would have banned parking or stopping of vehicles in specified school areas.

Councilman Gil O'Shaughnessy told his fellow legislators he was investigating the possibilities of getting federal aid for necessary capital improvement projects in the city. He said he would communicate with Ohio Congressman-at-Large Robert E. Sweeney to determine the status of legislation in Congress affecting grants and loans to local communities.

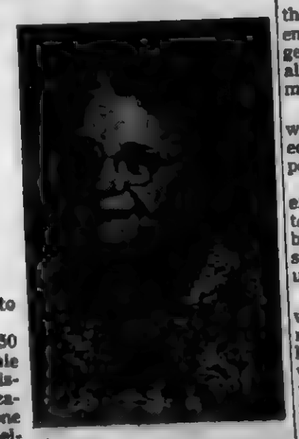
Councilman Marvin Levine ended the business session with a tongue-in-cheek comment to the effect that he wished O'Shaughnessy were writing to Senator Jacob Javitz. Levine was reminded that the old expression says "tell it to Sweeney."

EAST COLUMBUS CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Church Half Century Old Next Sunday

The congregation of East Columbus Christian Church, Fifth-av at Stelzer-rd, will honor its only active charter member at the church's golden anniversary service Sunday, Apr. 25, 10 a.m.

Mrs. Gladys Stelzer Mitchell, her mother, father and four aunts comprised seven of the nine charter members. The only other surviving charter member is Ada Neal Watts of Florida.



Dr. A. B. Norris, president Christian Theological Seminary of Indianapolis and former schoolmate of the pastor, Dr. Joe Belcastro, will present the anniversary message.

Ray Shade, chairman of the board, and Ray Rose, chairman of Elders, will also have active roles in the service. Many former members and friends have been invited to attend.

A suggestion made 50 years ago by Mrs. Fannie Castro to the four Stelzer sisters resulted in the organization of the church in one room on E. Fifth-av at Stelzer-rd. Mrs. Casto, although not a charter member, joined later and still attends the church.

When Dr. Belcastro became minister in 1943, membership had dwindled to eight persons. Since then the congregation has grown to 900 members, and worships in its present church building.

Mrs. Mitchell is active in the Chancel Choir, along with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joe (Coleen) Donahue, and two grandchildren, Rogeen and Timmy.

City Hall Pondering Sewer Rate Dilemma

By FRANK RYAN

There are now more alternatives before Columbus City Council for solving the city's sewer needs than there are school pupil busing proposals in the Ohio General Assembly.

Tuesday's special council session included the following choices:

1. Consider a 10-year capital improvement program totaling $62.5 million dollars and a rate increase tailored to elevate sewer division revenues by 35 percent.

2. Scale the program only to the five-year-$42.5-million level and hike rates for only a 24 percent revenue increase.

3. Use the combination of the rate increase and revenue bonds, thus protecting general obligation bonding for already voted capital improvement measures.

4. Finance either program with general obligation (voted) bonds and at least postpone a sewer rate increase.

5. Put a rate increase into effect and then ask the voters to approve general obligation bonds, with a pledge that only sewer division revenue will be used to pay off the bonds.

The first three proposals were advanced by Finance Director John Stanley in an hour-long presentation in which he listed recommendations of the Sensenbrenner administration. The fourth solution currently carries a "preferred" tag with most council members.

Hear Sawvel Suggestion

The last suggestion was advanced by Findlay Consultant J. S. Sawvel near the close of the long special session. Sawvel challenged comments by Council President William R. Fornof that "we should know just what we need" and what it will cost.

Sawvel told Fornof that this area is "not a question of something that is unknown." He said that his analysis, submitted to council last December, and the modified version presented by Stanley both answered Fornof's questions.

The consultant said that surpluses in the sewer division in recent years reflected a lack of needed improvements and not a profit, as such, from the operation. He also questioned Fornof's contention that the existence of past surpluses indicated that similar or greater cash balances could be expected when services are expanded.

Sawvel said that projected year-end balances, assuming a rate increase of 30 to 35 percent, fluctuated between $1 million and $1.8 million. This, he said, contrasted with the alleged $6 million surplus at the end of 1964. This, he said, indicated that "every dollar" of the proposed rate increase is needed to meet the sewer expansion program planned by the administration and approved by council.

Sawvel concluded by saying he saw no fault with the use of general obligation (voted) bonds to finance the sewer projects, but only if council raised sewer rates enough to assure bond retirement.

'Don't Burden City In Future'

Speaking for Mayor Sensenbrenner, Stanley told council:

"We do not accept the proposition that some future council should be asked to raise sewer rates to pay back the income tax for capital improvements spending authorized by this council. A future council may be no more willing than the present council is to take the unpopular action of raising sewer rates."

Stanley said it "is false for anyone to assert that a sewer rate increase is not needed," and a decision to avoid a rate increase would be "a political judgment — not a financial one."

Stanley said that Sensenbrenner soon will introduce to council a series of resolutions in an effort to determine if council will act favorably on a rate increase ordinance. He said it would be futile for the administration to submit a rate ordinance if council is determined not to increase sewer rates.

Fornof said council would not act on the voted bonding proposal introduced by Councilman Ronald DeVore until after it has an alternative proposal from the administration.

No date was set for the next council - administration meeting on the controversial subject. If sewer project contracts continue to met on schedule, Stanley said, the city will run out of contract funds in July.

Sponsors Continue To Push Tax-Sharing Bill

Efforts were to be exerted this week to retrieve from an Ohio Senate subcommittee a bill calling for establishing a city income tax "sharing" plan.

The measure recently was endorsed by the Mayors' Council of Franklin County. A prime mover in getting the measure before the legislature has been Reynoldsburg Mayor George W. Twyford. Until recently, Twyford has been fighting a virtual one-man battle against what he termed "the one-way street of city income tax collections."

Twyford has called the Columbus income tax "inequitable and discriminatory," and a deterrent to the growth of suburban communities.

Senate Bill 196, as proposed, would rebate 25 percent of such taxes to the residence community of the taxpayer. Under current state law, the taxing authority may collect from both residents and those who work in the area, but live outside the district.

Reciprocity between taxing districts is permitted under existing state statutes, but virtually all communities imposing an income tax exclude any type of rebate program.

Under the proposed law it would not be necessary for the recipient community to have an income tax in effect.

Necessary bookkeeping would be the responsibility of the taxing district. This is a point which drew sharp criticism from Columbus Auditor John H. Price. He said that passage of the proposal would mean setting up "books" for 26 different communities. Sponsors of the bill counter that this cost would be minor compared to the inequity of what they term "taxation without representation."

The bill is co-sponsored by Sens. Ed Garrigan (R-Summit) and Ray T. Miller, Jr., (D-Cuyahoga). A member of the Senate taxation subcommittee said Tuesday that every effort will be made to return the bill to the full committee.

Sponsors are hopeful that the bill will secure committee approval within the next week or two.

'Promises Not Kept' --- Polzer

Whitehall mayoralty candidate James C. Polzer has challenged the 1965 pledges of incumbent Mayor William H. Holzhause as "warmed-over promises" from 1963. Polzer is contesting with Holzhause and former Mayor Walter B. Moling in the May 4 Republican Primary.

Polzer, who helped to draft the 1963 Holzhause platform, said:

"The incumbent publicly denies that he has approved additional apartments, yet the minutes of the Planning and Zoning Commission indicate otherwise. One of the most prominent pledges made by candidate Holzhause was a promise to veto any legislation permitting apartment construction. But the record indicates that such power of veto was not exercised by Mayor Holzhause when such legislation was passed."

Polzer said he considered the recent approval of twin-single construction a violation of the no-apartments pledge.

Polzer also said Holzhause has failed to keep his pledge to "present to the legislative authority each year a program for expansion.

"These and other pledges have not been kept," Polzer charged, "so now the mayor says he pledges to continue. He should be saying he continues to pledge."

Rezoning Asked For Far South-East Tract

Application was made to Columbus City Council Monday night for rezoning of a huge tract on the east side of Hamilton-rd, between the New York Central RR and the Outerbelt, to permit future development of the land for apartments, offices, commercial, recreational and manufacturing uses.

Rezoning of the five parcels of land would permit the construction of small golf course, clubhouse and miniature golf course, bowling alley, commerical enterprises and apartments.

Applicant is Walnut Investment Co., 22 E. Gay-st, with Carl Slabaugh, developer, and David Durschnitt, attorney.

Even if approved by council, the land would not be developed, according to Harold Buchanan, City Planning Commission, until water and sewer lines were in, about 1966 or '67.

Rezoning was requested for the five parcels from M-1 manufacturing, RRR restricted rural resident and P-1 private parking districts to AR-1 apartment residential, C-3 and C-4 commercial, and M-1 manufacturing districts.

A public hearing on the matter will be held sometime in May.

Development Committee Stays Firm For Hiking Sewer Rates

Continued support for a sewer rate increase as the best answer to meet sewer capital improvement and administrative costs was advanced Wednesday by the Development Committee for Greater Columbus (DCGC).

The DCGC endorsed a resolution of its Water Management Committee calling for a rate hike designed to increase sewer division revenues by "at least 35 percent."

The four-point resolution includes these recommendations:

1. Reaffirm the policy position on a city-wide sewer system approved by the Steering Committee on Mar. 17. (A single system operated by the City of Columbus, with equitable rates based on costs of service, and equitable and reasonable uniform contracts).

2. Urge city council to formulate and adopt a revised sewer rate schedule which will provide an increase of at least 35 percent in revenues to the Division of Sewerage and Drainage.

3. Recommend to city council that the resultant increased revenues be utilized to finance the construction program, using a combination of five-year notes and utility revenue bonds.

4. Oppose the issuance of general obligation bonds, to be retired from the dedicated portion of proceeds from the city income tax, to finance the construction of facilities for a revenue-producing utility.

The DCGC stand is in keeping with that group's policy calling for the use of "earnings" to finance programs of revenue-producing utilities. The adopted resolution pointed out that the voted bond issue proposal now before council would violate the principle of "financing utility systems from earnings thereof and would preempt funds needed for other, non-revenue producing, but essential, capital improvements."

The rate increase to provide 35 percent more sewer revenues was advocated by Findlay consultant J. S. Sawvel in

Eastmoor, Walnut Ridge Teachers Receive Grant

Two East area teachers were among the 10 recipients of $500 study grants, provided for each year by an anonymous donor "for the purpose of encouraging improvement in education."

Announcement of their selection was made at the Columbus School Board meeting Tuesday.

Area recipients were Miss Miriam Gleasner, history and English teacher at Eastmoor High, and Miss Donna M. Robson, guidance teacher at Walnut Ridge Junior High School.

Miss Gleasner, 84 N. Gouldrd, will devise a study plan for slow-learner classes of American history.

She will investigate materials and then develop a course of study. She will use this plan in her modified class next year, and will share it with interested teachers.

Miss Robson, 3541 Seabrook-av, will compile a book for guidance counselors regarding local vocational opportunities for high school students who will seek jobs upon graduation.

She will visit local companies and compile specific information on procedures, qualifications and educational services. When her book is completed she will make it available to other high school counselors.

WILL ATTEND SEMINAR

Reynoldsburg Mayor George W. Twyford received an invitation from U.S. Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey to attend a seminar on the problems of the federal government to be held at the estate of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Link, Jr., in Cincinnati, Monday, May 10. Others expected include the U.S. Attorney General, Secretary of Commerce and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Bexley Library Open House Set

An open house and conducted tours will be held at Bexley Public Library, 2411 E. Main-st, Apr. 25, 2:30 to 5 p.m. in observance of National Library Week. All area residents are invited.

"Acquaintance with the services a public library offers becomes much more important in today's expanded recreational and educational life," explained Mrs. Mary T. Zimmerman, librarian.

Staff members will be on hand to explain library functions and conduct tours starting at 3, 3:30 and 4 p.m.

Hosts for the afternoon will be members of the Bexley Library board of trustees including Mrs. William Wasserstrom, Fred Schoedinger, Dr. Clark Prichett, Mrs. Hugh H. Bone, Mrs. W. C. Harrison, Raymond K. Kilbourne, Clyde W. Jones, Mrs. Zimmerman and Mary H. Handerson, assistant librarian.

Bexley Access Road Is Termed 'Impossible'

Construction on Livingston-av near the Alum Creek intersection, an inconvenience to everyone using the busy east-west artery, poses a real dilemma for apartment dwellers on Mayfield and Ferndale, just east of the problem area.

Residents, attempting to turn into the streets, or out onto Livingston during busy rush hours find that the four lanes of traffic, merging into two, causes a solid backlog of cars that makes access extremely difficult.

Bexley Mayor William Schneider, responding to a request for help from Esther Bain, realtor and manager of Bexley Terrace Apartments, found her suggested solution virtually impossible.

Mrs. Bai. had asked for a temporary access route from behind the apartments north across vacant land to Astor-av. However Ray Vannoy, street superintendent, surveyed the area and reported that the plan wasn't practical.

"The land is muddy and holds water" the mayor said. "Cars going back there now would be stuck — it will be June before it is dry enough to get back in there and work on a road, and by then much of the problem will be over."

Another possible solution would be the installation of a temporary traffic light by Columbus, at the intersection of Mayfield and Livingston.

Press Club Using Preview Theme Of 'Birds 'n' Bees In The Great Society'

One thousand civic, professional and social leaders among Central Ohio women have been invited to join the "Birds 'n' Bees in the Great Society" Tuesday, Apr. 27, when female Press Club members will stage their annual Petticoat Preview by that name.

The Preview, at the Southern Hotel Ballroom, permits the women a peek at the men's Gridiron Show in a preliminary production of the political spoof to take place the following evening at the Southern Hotel and Theatre.

Title of the Apr. 28 all-stag Gridiron Show is "That Was the Year That Was." Its general chairman is Laurence R. Connor, editorial writer and Ohio State University faculty member. Script chairman is William Teague, radio news reporter.

Petticoat Preview guests will gather at 5:30 p.m. in the ballroom for a "nectar and birdseed" social hour preceding the 6:30 p.m. dinner and entertainment by female Press Club members and wives of members.

Rabbi Folkman To Discuss Play

"Echoes of the 'Fiddler on the Roof'" will be the title of the sermon to be delivered by Dr. Jerome D. Folkman at the eight o'clock service at Temple Israel, 5419 E. Broad-st, Friday evening, Apr. 23.

"Some of the members of the congregation have seen the current Broadway success, 'Fiddler on the Roof,'" explained Dr. Folkman in announcing his pulpit message. "I hope that many more will have an opportunity to see it. My pulpit references to the play will be clear enough to those who have not yet seen it; at the same time, it is my hope that they will enhance the appreciation of the play by those who have seen it or will be seeing it sometime soon."

This play received the citation of the Roman Catholic Drama League as the outstanding religious play of the year.

BEXLEY TOTS SCRAMBLE FOR EGGS

EASTER EGG HUNT — The traditional, happy search to find the 4200 hard-boiled, dyed eggs, colored by Capital University, and supplied and hidden by members of Bexley Celebrations Association, brought hundreds of Bexley youngsters to Jeffrey Mansions grounds Saturday afternoon. Additional cash prizes were awarded to those who located the golden eggs. "The Jaguars," combo from Bexley High, and two folk singers from the school provided entertainment before the hunt.

Strife In Selma Meaningful To Jews Says Rabbi Stavsky

In a Passover message to his congregation, Rabbi David Stavsky of the Beth Jacob Synagogue said "Passover 5725 will go down in American history as the year of civil strife and rebellion. Suddenly the small unknown town of Selma, Ala. became popular and a household word.

"Suddenly many of us who were indifferent to the seriousness of the fight for human rights, became aware of the deep clash of ideology which marks this war of human liberties which is being waged in our land. To the Jew particularly, nothing can be more meaningful than the understanding of a battle for human rights and dignity. For who has suffered more than the Jew in this age old conflict.

"The empathy that a Jew has for the Negro transcends obviously the political or racial issues, it cuts deep into the realization that EVERY man is created by God and that Jews in particular must have a sense of responsibility for human worth 'Kavod Habriyos,' the dignity of man, to safeguard it and preserve it."

The rabbi called for a mutual exchange of understanding of individual rights and differences, "the right to be different and remain different" in a pluralistic society as America. He warned his co-religionists about watering down one's faith in a 'barter for equiminical climates.

"There are great rewards in genuine equiminism" said the rabbi, "but they should not be paid for as a price for individual religious idealism."

Whitehall Clean Up Campaign Shifts Into High Gear Apr. 25

All Whitehall problem areas will be under attack by city officials during the city's annual clean up campaign, Apr. 25 to May 8.

"Abandoned cars, vacant lots overgrown with weeds and accumulated trash will be cleared out," Mayor William Holzhause said, "according to city ordinances."

city ordinances.

businesses in their homes, in areas zoned residential, will be notified that this is illegal," he continued.

The city will help residents wishing to dispose of trash and unwanted items by providing pick up service.

Extra trucks will be operating every day, on an announced schedule, and will take everything placed at the regular trash pick up spot—at the curb or in the alley.

Notices will be issued to residents having abandoned cars or trash on their property, and a time period will be set for their removal. Anyone not complying, the mayor said, will be prosecuted under city ordinances.

Those operating businesses in homes in residential zones will also receive a notice informing them that the practice is illegal.

PICK UP SCHEDULE

The Police Department safety car and the familiar, antique red fire truck will travel areas the day before trucks are due, to inform residents through their public address system.

Pick up schedule is:

Apr. 27—Maplewood-av to Beechwood-rd, including west side.

Apr. 28 — Beechwood-rd to Yearling-rd, including west side of Yearling.

Apr. 29 — Yearling-rd, east side to Ross-rd, both sides.

Apr. 30 — Hamilton-rd to Fairwood-blvd.

May 3 — Maplewood-av to Beechwood-rd, west side.

May 4—Beechwood-rd east side to Yearling-rd, including west side of Yearling-rd.

May 5 — Yearling-rd, east side to Ross-rd, both sides.

May 6—Hamilton to Fairway-blvd.

May 7 and 8 — Cover whole city.

a December, 1964 report to council.

The consultant originally indicated to council that he would recommend a 55 percent rate increase, but was told that such a recommendation would not be considered. In his December report, Sawvel advocated increases ranging from 30 to 35 percent.

Sawvel counseled against the use of voted bonds as a means of avoiding a rate increase. He said that such a method would not take into account the problem of increased administrative costs—particularly in the early stages of the sewer expansion period.

Sawvel noted that bond financing is limited to capital improvements only. He said he felt a rate increase would be necessary even if council chose to finance needed system improvements with voted bonds.

Sawvel's proposed financing plan calls for the use of five-year notes during the initial sewer program construction stages, thus allowing for a revenue return from completed projects prior to long-term bonding.

Both the DCGC and the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce have expressed support for financing of the proposed $45 million sewer expansion program through a rate increase. Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner recently told council that he would initiate rate increase legislation if council does not do so.

"CLEAN UP TIME!"—Signs everywhere — on city trucks, police cruisers and on barrels in shopping centers remind Whitehall residents of the annual spring clean up campaign, Apr. 25 to May 8. Mayor William Holzhause and Fire Inspector James Soteriades fix signs on the barrels.

Dr. Stellman To Direct CMACAO

A noted educator and social worker with wide experience in community improvement work has been named executive director of the recently organized Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization (CMACAO).

Appointment of Dr. Samuel D. Stellman, 3019 Templeton-rd, associate professor of social work at Ohio State University, was announced Tuesday by the CMACAO Board of Trustees.

At the same time, the board approved the first major anti-poverty program for the Columbus area under the Economic Opportunity Act. Called "Operation Head Start," it is aimed at culturally and economically deprived children who are entering school for the first time this fall. The Columbus Board of Education will direct the eight-week summer program. A primary objective is to help these children enter school with cultural and social skills comparable to other children in the community.

Dr. Stellman, a 16-year resident of Columbus, has been a member of the OSU faculty for two years. Earlier, he was a staff member and assistant executive director of the Columbus Jewish Center.

He is considered a specialist in the fields of community organization and adult education. Stellman has also served at Capital University where he taught sociology, marriage and the family, and race relations.

Stellman has received national and local recognition for his work in such fields as youth development, camping, adult education, social work and research on aging. Of late he has been actively involved with the workings of the Economic Opportunity Act.

The office for the local anti-poverty program will be at 137 E. State-st. Plans call for the appointment of a budget and finance director and a secretary.

Fred Cooley, Jr. GOP Candidate For Councilman

Fred C. Cooley, Jr., candidate for Councilman Fourth Ward in Whitehall's Republican Primary May 4, has based his platform on creating a "better family living city."

He cited as goals, the organization of teenage and senior citizens clubs, the preservation of residential streets, and more properly supervised playgrounds.

Cooley promises to "put to work my experience as a businessman to help run the Whitehall government as a real business."

John J. Boyd, Sr., campaign manager for Cooley, said of the May Primary, "This is the most important election ever to be held in the city of Whitehall . . . we all must stand up and be counted and vote."

Along with Cooley, Boyd listed, as "real Republicans running for office," Walter Moling, mayor; James Maxwell, Jr., solicitor; Larry L. Shipley, treasurer; F. Eugene Cook, auditor; Walter Siemer, president of council; Les Ballenger, councilman First Ward; Robert Stahley, councilman, Second Ward; John Bishop, councilman, Third Ward; Linn L. THE LESSONS OF CHILDHOOD

The lessons taught by a wise Mother who cares about her child's physical beauty are the most important things in a girl's life if she is to grow up to become, and remain a beauty as long as she lives. It must become a basic character habit for a girl to expect to take whatever trouble is necessary to look as well-groomed and as pretty as possible. In order to take root, this must become an everyday habit very early. A weekly visit to a beauty salon can be of help in molding the "beauty character" of your child if it is begun early enough. We'd love to help you to help your daughter to build sound beauty habits.

BEAUTY—AMERICAN STYLE

Whether you come from U.S.A. North, South, East or West, you have that indefinable something that sets you apart. Perhaps it is the scrubbed skin that allows you to wear makeup for fun, or your general busyness that creates an aura of eagerness and zest for life. We know so many of you and take care of your beauty needs here in our salon. Perhaps it is because we understand you so well that we are able to serve you so quickly and efficiently. We know that time is important with you so we don't waste it. You can make your next appointment after you leave here, with perfect confidence. Time is valuable to you and to us. Clock-watching is as American as apple pie and it is a very important part of our service to our patrons.

THE BEST OF EVERYTHING

We have a rule that every patron is entitled to the very best service, and the very best products. If you ever receive less than the best in our salon it will be because you insist on shortcuts. Most patrons do take our advice, but we are here to serve you. If a patron's ideas do not agree with those of our artists we always do as the patron requests. Your beauty is our business. May we help you?

"The Old National Road Company" of Reynoldsburg, a newly organized community theatre group, will offer the great old temperance melodrama as its first production.

Song and dance have been added to "The Drunkard" and it will be played in a night club atmosphere, much the same as the musical version which played in Hollywood for 26 years.

The audience will be seated at tables and expected to participate in the show to the extent of encouraging purity and hissing evilness.

Everyone who is tired of talking back to his television set, is urged to attend "The Drunkard" either night at 8 p.m. when "telling off the bad guy" will be perfectly acceptable.

Tickets are $1 and may be purchased at the door.

CHARLIE WOULDN'T PEEK!

GAHANNA hurdler Charlie Strohm appears to be taking a new approach to the event at Saturday's Lion Relays as he clears the first obstacle enroute to qualifying the Lions for the shuttle hurdle finals. Charlie and teammates Mike Bokros, Bob Glover and Terry Robb watched the clock in the finals, winning and setting a new Relays mark (:59.1) in the event.

Gahanna, E-M, Bexley Show 'Profits' On Cinder Ledgers

Gahanna, Eastmoor, Bexley and Hartley stole most of the thunder on area cinder fronts this week by garnering wins.

The Lions joined a bevy of company in a double win, streaking past (79) Grove City (54) and London (14) in a triangular behind Bobby Glover's 20-point performance and proving to be a poor host by copping their own Relays Saturday.

EASTMOOR offset Walnut Ridge's strength in the distance events by making hay in field and dash competition as the Warriors sank the Scotties, 63-53.

Bexley swept through eight of 14 events with firsts to subdue Hartley, 71½ to 46½, taking some of the edge off the Hawks' lopsided 79-30 demise of Pleasant View the day before.

Gahanna's Lions solidified a pre-season Mid-Eight favorite role Saturday by outpointing all opponents at its own Relays.

THE LIONS of Ed Reary, although taken to the wire by upstart Hilliard (55-47), gained firsts in seven events, establishing new marks in two of the wins.

Gahanna put the handwriting on the wall in the only afternoon running finals event when Bob Jones, Bill Miller, Tim Horn and Mike Haninger covered the four-mile relay distance in 19:37 for a new Relays mark.

The Lions opened the evening fare by setting another mark, this time in the shuttle hurdles with Messrs. Charlie Strohm, Mike Bokros, Bobby Glover and Terry Robb finishing in :59.1.

BUT IT wasn't until final results were known in the pole vault event that the Lions could be assured of victory.

Hilliard, which set two of three more smashed marks at the Relays, copped the final track event and led the field until Robb, Mike Sullivan and Mike Kelner brought home the bacon in the pole vault finals.

Other Lion firsts were recorded by two-mile relay team (Haninger, Horn, Miller and Al Strickling), mile relay team (Bokros, Glover, Strickling and Bob Clemans), high jump team (Chuck Vosse, John Marsch and Bokros) and the broad jump trio of Glover, Robb and Doug Young.

WHITEHALL, only other area team at the Relays, finished third (28) — the Rams' lone first coming in the shot put event where Rick Callicoat, Mike Boyer and Dave Mowrer combined a toss of 136'8".

In Eastmoor's win over Walnut Ridge, Warrior firsts were garnered by Vance Rutledge (bj), Doug Rodabaugh (highs), John Mooney (100), Tom DeMolet (shot), Steve Gutridge (discus) and Norwood Thomas (hj).

Ken Schwartz (mile, 880), Rick Mettle (220, 440) and the Scots' 880 and mile relays teams accounted for W-R's firsts.

RICK WEBER'S twin win (broad jump and 220) paced the Lions in their dual victory over Hartley.

The Hawks did better the day before against Pleasant View as Mike Santy (100), John Carillo (mile, 880), Steve Grier (lows), Larry Ziccardi (440), Rick Marcum (220), Ray Posey (discus), Tim Burchfield (pole vault) and Dave Thomas (hj), scored individual firsts for the Hawks, along with the 880 and mile relay teams.

In another dual meet Brookhaven sidestepped Walnut Ridge, 73-45, despite wins by Ken Schwartz (mile), Zeke Barber (440), Rick Mettle, (880) Steve Roberts (pole vault), Paul Karpick (hj) and the Scots' mile relay quartet.

EAST DROPPED a 74-43 verdict to Mansfield Senior but Solomon Espie (100, 220) and Don Washington (broad and high jumps) scored double wins for the Tigers. Willie Jackson got East's other first in the discus.

Firsts in Whitehall's 69-49 dual loss to Franklin Heights were picked up by Rick Foltz (bj), Steve Beery (pole vault), Mike Boyer (shot, discus) and the Rams' mile relay team (Bill Barnhill, Randy Catalina, Earl Hunter and Randy Nichols).

George Lipovich's victory in the mile run was Academy's lone first in a triangular with Canal Winchester, and Reynoldsburg, won by C-W.

SOLOMON ESPIE and Kenny Schwartz made some news at the Ohio Relays Saturday —the former winning the 100 for East, the latter garnering a third in the mile run for W-R.

The Scotties also took a fourth in the two-mile relay while East gained a third in the 880 relay.

Pitching Problem At East

Second term East baseball skipper Paul Pennell will have a sound, five-lettermen nucleus from which to mold this Tiger diamond club this spring but Pennell is short on one major ingredient — pitching.

With not one pitcher available with a single inning of varsity mound savvy behind him, Pennell will have to rely on a sound defense and the Tigers' hitting.

BACK TO bolster East's '65 baseball forces are seniors Sherman Lundy (shortstop), Dave Cole (second base) and Chuck Roberts (center field).

Juniors John Wright (catcher) and Jim Griffin (left fielder) complete Pennel's veteran returnees.

Pennell will move ex-catcher Roland Martin to first base to take care of that vacancy and hopes that soph prospect Bill Allen will be able to hold down the hot corner.

THE TIGER boss will be pinning a good share of his pitching hopes on a pair of soph hurlers — Dana Middleton and Harry Hagans.

East closed out 3-8 in City League play last spring and 5-13 overall.

Johnson, Culver Win SILLS Headpin Event

Bob Johnson and Carolyn Culver topped the field in the recent first annual SILLS Headpin Tourney held at Rainbow Lanes.

Second and third place in the Men's Division went to Glenn Groves and Paul Bean, Jr. respectively while Betty Fauss and Nancy Green finished likewise in the gals bracket.

All profits from the tourney will be used to finance the Southern Independent Little League, Inc.

The '65 season will open May 24 at the J and K Motor Sales Park, south of Refugee-rd on Lockbourne-rd.

HAWK NINE BOASTS TIGHT INNER DEFENSE

THE RULES won't let 'em play quite this tight defensively but Hartley baseball coach Jack Ryan still hopes that the Hawks' diamond opponents will have a rough time getting anything through his infield this spring. Hartley's infield regulars (from left) include: Scott French, John Gallick, Steve McGrew, Tom Devlin and Steve Jurcick.

Whitehall, Academy, E-M, East Nines Capture Loop Openers

Whitehall, Academy, Eastmoor and East came out best when the dust had cleared on area diamonds this week.

Ted Georgeff's Rams were the only ones to escape unscathed as Eastmoor dropped its first verdict of the young season.

WHITEHALL opened its '65 CBL slate on a winning note with a 3-2 victory over Worthington but the Rams did not have a picnic.

Whitehall trailed 2-1 going into the final frame despite John McQuaid's well-pitched four-hitter. The Cards helped the Ram cause parlaying two walks and a wild pitch into tying and winning markers for Whitehall.

Things weren't much simpler as the Rams edged Teays Valley, 5-4. Mitch Joseph's two-run homer tied everything up in the sixth, paving the way for Gary Younkin's game-winning single one frame later.

STEVE SCHAFER picked up the win in relief of John Turkle. The pair allowed three T-V hits.

Eastmoor opened its City League season successfully with a 6-3 "comeback" win over Marion-Franklin.

The Devils hopped off to a 3-0 lead but Steve Howell brought the Warriors back with a two-run triple in E-M's half of the first.

A THREE-RUN sixth snapped a 3-all tie to win for the Warriors. Mike Barry got a pair of hits and Ron Bollie picked up the mound win.

That same productive sixth inning proved to be a nightmare for the Warriors the next day as Worthington scored all its four runs in the frame by sending up 10 batters who brought back a 4-2 win.

Academy's Dan Fouche ignored Dublin's press clippings, dropping the two-time defending FCL champions in the loop opener for both clubs, 5-0.

FOUCHE FASHIONED a one-hitter, banged out two singles and rested easy when teammate Joe Hartzler drove in a pair of runs with a bases-full single.

The Vikings scored all their runs in two innings and then hung on for a 9-8 win over Bexley earlier with George Silverman picking up the mound victory in relief.

The home run bats of Lonnie Coulter and Mike Stafford (two each) were too much for the Vikings against Watkins Memorial as the Warriors won, 7-3.

WITH SHERMAN Lundy runnin' wild (six stolen bases, three singles), East pulled the upset of the week by downing Linden, 3-1, on Chuck Robers' RBI safety.

Harry Hagans' two-hitter held the Panther bats at bay.

Walnut Ridge was victimized by Jim Tank's five-hitter and seven costly errors in its City opener, losing to South, 5-2. Hartley played errorless ball but Grove City hopped on three Hawk pitchers for 13 hits (including a six-run first frame) to win, 9-5.

BOB YURCICH counted for half of Hartley's eight hits off three 'Hound hurlers.

Gahanna kicked away a victory in a tilt with Reynoldsburg, blowing a seven-run lead and letting the winning run trot home on an error.

The Raiders scored on a fielder's choice with two outs in the sixth when a Lion infielder chose to make a play at third and threw the ball away.

THE LIONS dropped two full games off the pace in the Mid-Eight flag race by splitting Saturday with Westerville.

Gary Hardin lost a two-hitter, 1-0, in the opener which saw the Lions make two more errors than they got hits.

Mike Hensley kept Gahanna alive in the nightcap by twirling an identical two-hitter. But the Lions provided the hits (seven) in this one, winning 5-0.

ST. CHARLES snapped a six-game losing streak as Kip Clager fired a four-hitter to claim a Saturday nightcap win, 3-2, over Marion Harding.

The Cards had dropped a 10-1 loss to Hilliard earlier in the week and the opener with Marion, 10-0.

HIS HOBBY IS SERVICE

HATS WERE OFF to Stelios Steison last week when the Eastern Sortoma gave him its greatest tribute, the club's 1965 "Service to Mankind" award. From the left are Bob Stokes of the service club, Steison and A. O. Wing, Sortoma president. The 11-year, one-man program which has resulted in tens of thousands of text books being shipped around the world and a chain of international friendship linked together through 6,000 Americans writing about our country to those in foreign lands brought the honor to the Greek immigrant. Steison has explained his devotion to his do-in-yourself diplomatic corps through love of his adopted country to which he came 45 years ago with nothing "but a name tag and the clothes on my back." The Sertoma plaque will be decorative on the wall of his one-room apartment at 45 Franklin Park, West, but the typewriter from Sertoma will be a more practical expression of the club's respect for Steison. He has been writing literally hundreds of letters a week either in long-hand or with a borrowed typewriter.

The Art Club traveled to Findley Interiors on Apr. 18 to hear Mr. Gordon Findley discuss requirements needed to become an interior decorator. Miss Storm, from Capital University, is doing her student teaching in the art department this semester by explaining style, contrast, color and form related to the human body.

Nominees for the 1965-66 Dramatics Club offices are Bill Cohen and Judy Engleman, president; Bill Brust and Barb Golden, vice-president; Marcie Kaplan and Sharon Smith, secretary; Dave Cooke and Dan Masys; treasurer, and Kathy Dawdy and Laurie Schaeffer, member-at-large.

In the spring, members of Dramatics Club and Music Club will have a joint picnic. Officers of Music Club include Sylvia Dozer, president; Janet McCleary, vice-president, and Betsy Frampton, secretary-treasurer.

New inductees of the Bexley chapter, National Thespian Society, are Ronni Altman, Bill Cohen, Susan Doughy, Ron Grove, Henry Maston, Dave Skeen and Sharon.

Members receiving recognition for extra work include Stan Cohen, Sylvia Dozer, Carol Lubin, Tom Williamson and Judy Engleman. Students who were inducted last year are Bill Brust, Irene Cohen, Ivan Gold, Tina Holmes, Norma Meizlish, Sammye Sokol and Marcia Ziskind.

To become a member of National Thespian Society a student must acquire 10 points of credit by helping with stage productions, and seeing plays. One point symbolizes 10 hours of work. To receive recognition after becoming a member, another 100 hours of work are required.

Barritt Finds Taste Of City Politics Salty

By JANE ROBINSON

City Council agreed Monday to immediately hire six counselors to screen the applicants for Columbus' Neighborhood Youth Corps.

But their consent came with at least three strings attached.

Council Chairman Bill Fornof made it clear in committee meeting that he would throw a monkey wrench into the deal if the ordinance as prepared by the administration were not amended.

He would not tolerate counselors to be hired at other than Scale A in their particular pay range, he would not okay an assistant for the program's director, Ward Barritt, and he wouldn't even consider pay ranges for trainees at Monday's sessions.

Through this attitude he led Councilman William Hormele into going along with the amendments. Hormele explained that although he did not agree with the amendments he would compromise so the program would not be completely stymied.

Barritt's painstaking explanation of the need for higher salaries apparently fell on deaf ears.

He had arrived at the suggested salaries by prorating the going rate for trained counselors employed by the city schools to a 12-month basis.

His thinking was that qualified personnel are not going to leave the security of teaching positions for an uncertain future when the salary is less than they are now receiving.

He conceded that he would not have trouble filling the positions if he forgot educational and experience factors.

"I can't seriously consider the applications from persons with only a high school education who state that their experience, 'a father of a 17-year-old son' qualifies them," Barritt said.

He also stated that council's failure to fill the position of his assistant is a step that will severely handicap his progress.

"Without administrative help, I do not see how I can keep from being swamped before I begin," he said.

Council's rebuff triggered one of Mayor Jack Sensenbrenner's more explosive "open letters."

Claiming that both Fornof and Councilman Ronald DeVore have taken unmerited slaps at Barritt, he charged them with "petty delay and obstructionistic tactics."

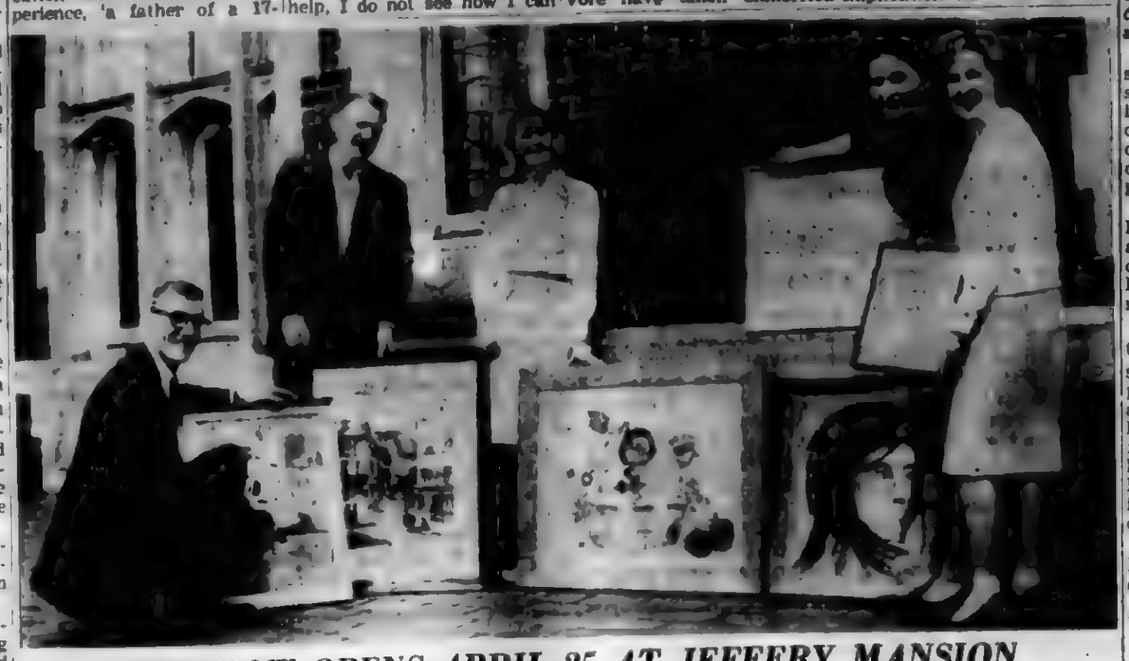
The mayor particularly resented Fornof's statement that Barritt was evidently "quickly becoming indoctrinated in the ways of City Hall." The implication was that he was willing to spend more money than necessary for salaries and equally willing to hire surplus employes.

Fornof had stated, however, that after results were shown he might change his attitude.

"In the meantime," the council president cracked, "I don't want to see a staff with all chiefs and no Indians."

Although Sensenbrenner stated Tuesday he expects to see the screening begin within two weeks, this is a more optimistic estimate than that of Fred Simon who as safety director is responsible for the program.

He foresees a week in which Barritt will fill the positions, and anticipates that most successful applicants will be obligated to give a two-week notice to present employers.



Sensenbrenner pointed out that as coordinator of the school board's "work-study" program Barritt has had three assistants plus secretarial help. The school plan has found part-time work for 108 high school youths. The Neighborhood Youth program is expected to provide similar employment for 750.

One brief exchange between Fornof and Simon, Monday, ended with Fornof retreating.

The South Sider pointedly asked the safety director to explain why the program had been transferred to safety from Urban-Renewal.

Simon's reply was direct and to the point!' "Because it is required by city charter."

If Monday's lack of cooperation between council and the administration proves typical of how NYC will be handled, the accusation that politics can't be kept out of the program may prove valid.

The first state-wide conference of American Legion post chaplains will open at 11 a.m. Sunday, Apr. 25, in the home of Bexley Post 430, E. Livingston-av at Zettler-rd.

Rev. Kenneth S. Learey, 2058 Inchcliff-rd, state Legion chaplain will lead a discussion on the conference theme: "The Effective Post Chaplain." Dr. Learey is an administrator with the Ohio Methodist Conference.

Principal speaker for the event is Rabbi Albert M. Shulman of South Bend, Ind., who was national Legion chaplain in 1962-63. He is a native of Cleveland and received part of his rabbinical education in Cincinnati.

Named on the discussion panel with Dr. Learey, are: Rev. Harrison Gruenler, pastor Calvin United Presbyterian Church; Rabbi Nathan Zelizer, Temple Tifereth Israel, and Rev. Karl W. Scheufler, retired pastor of First Methodist Church.

Members of Bexley Unit, American Legion Auxiliary, with Mrs. C. William Heacock in charge, will serve doughnuts and coffee during the hour before the conference opens.

Girl Scout News

Several hundred parents and friends were present for the Juliette Low program presented Apr. 9 by the Turkey Run Girl Scout Neighborhood. Ten troops participated in the event which was held at Johnson Park Junior High School.

Coordinating the affair, the theme of which was "Around the World in Scouting," were Mrs. Robert Taylor, neighborhood chairman, and Mrs. Edward Orenic.

Brownie Troop 609, dressed as daisies, explained the uses of the Juliette Low Fund as they accepted contributions from the various troops. A daisy chain completed their part in the program.

The program was narrated by Junior Troop 1119, whose members appeared in "Daisy Bus" windows to introduce each act. A series of skits by Junior Troop 78 depicted the beginning of Scouting in England.

This was followed by a clever song and dance by Troop 1192 attired in identical Dutch costumes and wooden shoes. A turning windmill, beds of tulips and changing lights provided an effective backdrop for "Jeanette and Her Wooden Shoes."

France was portrayed by Brownie Troop 1382, which gave an animal puppet show and sang "Petite Oiseau" in French.

The story of "Hansel and Gretel" was done by Brownie Troop 1337 with the cleverly designed stage scenery (lollipops, trees, sun, etc.) played by the girls. This skit represented Germany.

Again, interesting use of lighting added to the effectiveness of the Hawaiian folk dance with sticks done by Troop 996. This was followed by a Bossa Nova dance by Junior Troop 185, costumed to represent Brazil.

A Pinata dance and song in Spanish was the contribution of Brownie Troop 529, whose members were colorfully dressed as Mexicans.

Concluding the program was a community sing led by Junior Troop 711 which also provided the programs. Various patrols appeared in appropriate cosumes for "Easter Parade," "Here Comes Peter Cottontail, "Side by Side," "Old Smoky," "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" and "Ol' Texas," with "Till We Meet Again" as the finale.

Shipley: 'Primary Candidates Have No GOP Backing'

Whitehall Councilman Raymond E. Shipley has pointed out that "none of the candidates running on the Republican ticket in the Primary can claim official party backing until the voters have made their choice May 4."

Shipley said that although one of the several committees supporting candidates in the primary has the word "Republican in it, "it should be pointed out that all of them represent candidates who are running on the Republican ticket.

"The officials of the Republican Party have long encouraged an open primary election . . . never, to my knowledge, have they endorsed any candidates in the local Primary election," Shipley continued.

Shipley listed the committees supporting candidates in the GOP Primary: "Whitehall Council Committee, Whitehall Republican Committee, Ward 3 Committee For Action, Moling-For-Mayor Committee, Whitehall Treasurer Committee, etc."

Teething time may become a new school readiness test, according to the Gesell Institute. Studies show a correlation between the appearance of permanent teeth, emotional maturity and academic performance. Of those ahead of schedule in teething, 60 percent were in the top group academically. Only six percent of those behind schedule were included among the leaders.

RUMMAGE SALE

"Shoes for sale, old shoes for sale. Mackerel, fresh mackerel, Rags, rags, old rags.

These may not be specific items to be sold, but the spirit of old-time buying and selling is being brought back to the east side area as Cub Pack and Boy Scout Troop 390 plan to hold a rummage sale on May 8.

Actual place of the sale has not been determined yet, but it will be in the Country Club village. The Boy Scout troop is busy at present collecting clothing, furniture, and any items which can be sold on May 8.

The scout troop, sponsored by Rosemore Junior High School, plans to use proceeds from the sale to buy camping gear for summer overnights.

The cubs, sponsored by the Kae Avenue School PTA, are planning to use the money to finance a field trip and similar summer activities.

The rummage sale is being coordinated by Frank Morgan, cubmaster of Pack 390. Persons interested in contributing items for the sale should contact Scoutmaster Guy Bullock at 866-7559.

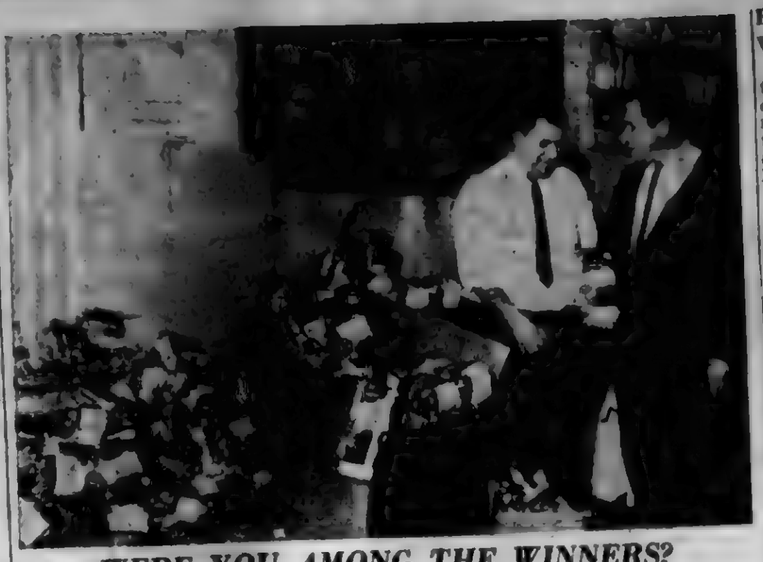
Moling Seeks Re-Election As Mayor

Walter B. Moling, 664 Maplewood-av. mayor of Whitehall for eight years before his defeat at the last election, is again a candidate for the post at the Republican Primary, May 4.



The Moling-For-Mayor Committee points to his record as mayor in seeking his re-election.

Whitehall grew, under Moling's administration, from a village to a city of 25,000; street lights, streets, sidewalks, sewers, water lines and two bridges were installed; Hamilton-rd, was made a state highway. A 22-acre park site was purchased and a recreation program developed, Municipal Building was constructed, police station completed and fire house remodeled.

Moling, a Whitehall resident for more than 40 years, was treasurer of the city for eight years before serving as mayor for eight years.

Under Buckeye Skies

By KEN MACK McCREARY

Pollution . . .

The uphill battle against the pollution of Ohio's water resources continues, amid some indications of progress.

Three more cities, including Columbus, have been cited by the Ohio Division of Wildlife for causing water pollution resulting in the destruction of fish.

WILDLIFE boss Dale Whitesell revealed a few days ago that the Capital City has been sent a claim for $663.96, as the result of pollution which killed thousands of fish in the Scioto River last Sept. 19 and Oct. 13.

Wildlife investigators said they determined the pollutoin originated from a sewage treatment facility.

McCreary

So far, municipal officials have given no indication whether they'll pay the bill. Whitesell says he has received a letter from the city attorney's office requesting more detailed information about the [illegible].

AT THE SAME time, it was revealed that suburban Gahanna has sent the Division a check for $118.02 to settle a claim for fish killed by water pollution in the Big Walnut Creek last summer and autumn.

That pollutant also originated at a sewage disposal plant, according to investigators.

Columbus is the third Franklin County community to be charged with causing fish - destroying pollution; Reynoldsburg earlier paid $60.00 for a fish-kill in Blacklick Creek last fall.

In this case also the municipal sewage treatment plant was the culprit.

WHITESELL had high commendation for Gahanna officials and citizens "for accepting their responsibilities to the people of Ohio in paying the claim."

The Wildlife chief defended the actions taken against cities, corporations and individuals in pollution cases, in these words: "The fish and other wildlife resources of the state belong to all the people, and it is our responsibility to fully enforce the laws which protect these valuable resources."

Since last summer, when the concentrated battle against fish-killing pollution was kicked off, 64 investigations have resulted in 25 claims being filed; 11 claims have been settled, with total payments of $27,408.

THE OTHER two Ohio cities most recently cited are Findlay, which was billed $792 for sewage-caused pollution of the Blanchard River, and Tiffin, which received a claim for $1719.70, following a large-scale case of pollution in the Sandusky River last summer.

The Tiffin claim is the largest since the anti-pollution cases (involving cities) started.

Water pollution isn't a pleasant subject to talk about, but until enough people talk and do something about it, the day may come when we may not have water suitable for fishing, swimming, or perhaps even drinking.

Wit 'N' Wisdom

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Smorgasbord . . .

Since it's expected that each sports editor stick his neck out for some predicting about this time, here goes:

CONTRARY to popular belief (nine boards of experts), Baltimore will end the Yankees' hold (at least for one year) in the AL.

Only Street and Smith's annual diamond report agrees with me but that's better than usual!

Remaining four followers (in order): New York, Chicago, Cleveland and Minnesota. (Who cares about the bottom half?)

IN THAT always stronger senior circuit, we'll try the Cardinals, new manager et al.

It isn't popular to repeat in the NL (Milwaukee did last way back in '57-'58) but St. Loule just looks like it has enough for a series encore.

Try Cincy, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Los Angeles to trail. (Most experts pick Reds (four), two more each like Cards and Phillies, one calls Giants).

FOR THE record, we picked the Yanks and Dodgers last spring (.500 percentage still ain't bad!)

* * *

IT LOOKS like another entry has been made in the "best laid plans of mice, men and architects" book at Houston.

The Astros spent a mint building a stadium to let them play in a thunderstorm and now it looks like games will be called when the sun's shining.

President Johnson added insult to injury by hustling out of the ballpark smack dab in the middle of the eighth inning of the grand opening with the score tied 1-1.

Could be he was thinking how he could use all that money in his War on Poverty.

THIS REPORTER is one of several playing "I've Got a Secret" this week, sitting on a story about the approaching birth of a new high school athletic league.

Five leagues will be affected by the formation of the eight team alignment. Holdup is at the request of one of the members who still has some loose ends to tie.

Official announcement should come sometime early next month. In the meantime, we're beginning to feel like a mother hen awaiting for her eggs to hatch.

* * *

CLOSING NOTE comes from Memphis, Tenn., where little Miss Bonnie Dondeville helped kill a trend before it got started.

Miss Dondeville quit Memphis State's varsity tennis team last week, complaining that such things as running laps on the track with other team members was "too much. especially with half of the football team watching and howling."

(And all this time, we thought they really enjoyed that sort of thing).

SHE ALSO objected doing knee bends with the team, remarking, "I've got bad knees." (We can't all be Jayne Mansfields).

Bonnie took a backhand when the coach told her that not complying to the regular training routine would hurt the team's morale.

So it's probably back to Home Ec for the one-time precident-setter.

MORAL: "If you've got bad knees, don't run laps where the football team can see you."

* * *

Reports leaking out of Cincinnati claim that Royal noe and local favorite Jerry Lucas is "on the block." No one will say any more on the subject but don't be surprised if the Cincy star is wearing different colors when the trade winds quit blowing and NBA play gets under way next season.

Seminars Helped Identify School Needs

(Editor's Note: The Columbus Board of Education is asking voters to approve a 3.9-mill school levy on May 4. The board has given three major reasons for the levy: (1) Enrollment growth; (2) Neighborhood seminar recommendations, and (3) to attract and retain well-qualified teachers. Last week the first reason was discussed. This article, prepared by the board, covers the second and third reasons.)

(Second of three articles)

During May, 1963, 4,000 citizens met in Columbus schools to discuss the present school system.

Neighborhood Seminar recommendations touched upon all facets of the school program and school services. When it became apparent that substantial sums would be required to carry out most seminar recommendations, six special study committees were organized to establish priorities for the consideration of the board and the school administration.

Only the most urgently needed improvements, as identified by seminar participants, are included in the proposed millage program. They are as follows:

Establishment of new programs in vocational and occupational education; expansion of the enrichment-teacher program; expansion of the slow-learner program; expansion of the adult-education program; provision of broadened counseling services in junior and senior high schools; establishment of a counseling program in elementary schools; expansion of psychological services, health services, and speech-therapy services; and provision of additional clerical services.

Reports compiled by special seminar study committees indicate that Columbus has pressing needs in each of these areas.

Seminar participants also expressed deep concern over the ability of the Columbus Public Schools to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers, the key to strong schools.

Teacher-personnel problems have multiplied since the time the seminars were held. A major source of these problems may be readily identified: The salary schedule of the Columbus Public Schools is low compared to the schedules in effect in other Ohio cities and Columbus suburbs.

Pertinent facts about the Columbus salary schedule are as follows:

(1) Beginning salary for teachers with bachelor's degrees is $363 less than the average for Ohio's six other largest cities; top salary for such teachers is $733 less than the average for these cities.

(2) Beginning salary for teachers with master's degrees is $428 less than the average for Ohio's six other largest cities; top salary for such teachers is $966 less than the average for these cities.

(3) In Franklin County alone, Columbus has fallen behind Bexley, Grandview, Upper Arlington, Whitehall and Worthington in the salary Columbus is able to pay the experienced teacher with a master's degree.

These data reveal that the Columbus competive position is weak at all levels of preparation and experience: less to offer beginning teachers with BA degrees; more importantly, less to offer career teachers with MA degrees.

By September, 1965, the Columbus position will be worse: other school districts already have completed plans to raise teachers' salaries.

If Columbus is to compete strongly with other cities for the services of the best teachers available, the salary schedule must be improved. Good beginning salaries attract young teachers just embarking upon their careers, and good maximum salaries encourage capable, experienced teachers to stay in Columbus classrooms.

Friday Deadline For Registration

There is still time to register for the May 4 Primary Election — but not much.

The registration books will be closed at 4 p.m. Friday, April 23. Harold Holzworth, clerk of the Franklin County Board of Elections reported that the extension of the registration period beyond the original Mar 24 date has not appreciably increased the number of registered persons.

An average of about 14 persons daily have made the trip to the Court House Annex at 410 S. High-st. Current figures show there are 311,782 registered voters in Franklin County, including 203,489 in the City of Columbus. If past primary voter performances hold true, only 73,000 will vote in Columbus and 39,000 in other sections of the county.

All polling places in the county will be open because the May 4 date also includes a special election on four issues. Columbus voters will decide the fate of a 3.9-mill school tax levy, and all voters in the county will ballot on renewal of a .55 TB levy.

ISSUE NUMBER 1
seeks to clarify the state's guarantee on loans to Ohio-resident college students. The state does not make loans—conventional lending institutions do, with the state guaranteeing to repay them 80 cents on the dollar in cases of default. Since the program was established in 1961 by the Legislature, the Ohio Higher Education Assistance Commission has administered 7,146 such guaranteed loans—with only 5 defaults. Ohio is one of 17 states with such a program to help students finance their higher education. Issue Number 1 is needed now to clear the legal status of the program, because a 1964 Ohio Supreme Court ruling (in another case) casts doubt on the constitutionality of such loan guarantees.
Vote YES ISSUE NUMBER 1

ISSUE NUMBER 2
You can be proud of Ohio's economic development — sites and buildings for higher education have been provided, recreation and resources have been developed, we have the finest network of highways in the nation. Issue Number 2 will keep us on the march, giving us business-planesize airports in 50 counties now without them . . . provide facilities for elementary, secondary and higher education, plus technical institutes . . . meet needs in the field of problem youngsters, public health and recreation . . . extend sewer and water lines in certain areas to attract and expand industries. This $290 million bond issue will provide for these pressing capital needs—creating new jobs for Ohioans right now!
Vote YES ISSUE NUMBER 2

ISSUE NUMBER 3
We have to apportion representation in the Ohio House according to the "one man, one vote" rule —all states were ordered to do this by the U. S. Supreme Court last year. To keep Ohio control over Ohio apportionment we must pass this issue. If we do not, the Federal Courts will step in to devise a plan and force it upon us. Each member of the House will represent approximately 70,000 Ohioans under Issue Number 3. Population will be the starting point and controlling factor in apportionment. This is where the expression "one man, one vote" comes from. Apportionment of the Ohio Senate is not at stake, since our present method is acceptable to the U. S. Supreme Court.
Vote YES ISSUE NUMBER 3

ISSUE NUMBER 4
Jobs and progress count heavily on our ability to attract new companies to Ohio and expand our present industries. But we can't compete effectively against 42 other states having industrial financing programs when we don't have one. We are losing 300-million payroll dollars a year. In the last 18 months 42 major companies who were interested in Ohio plant sites went elsewhere because we lacked a financing program. 92 community improvement corporations are ready for action, but stymied. This is costing us jobs and income. An industrial financing program was devised by the last General Assembly. Now we need to pass Issue Number 4 to support the Assembly's action . . . which will in turn provide additional jobs for our exploding population.

TB Levy Passage A Must

Franklin County voters are being asked to renew a TB levy on May 4. There should be no question about an overwhelming approval. The .55-mill levy represents a .05 reduction from the existing six-tenths of a mill.

The millage reduction is possible because scientific advancements and treatment techniques —particularly in the use of drugs — have reduced the average hospitalization time of patients. In 1949, the average patient confinement in a hospital was 18 to 24 months; today it is six months.

But tuberculosis has not been eradicated, and the best current hope is still early detection and treatment. There is no immunization shot, and the average patient still requires about $5,500 worth of medical care while hospitalized. Lost wages and other needed public services balloon the total average cost per patient to $15,000.

Failure of the reduced TB levy would mean the closing of the county tuberculosis hospital and of the Ben Franklin Clinic at the Columbus Health Center. We can ill afford these alternatives to the relatively small cost of continuing a highly successful program.

Over the years, progress in treatment and early detection has reduced TB's reputation from that of a sure killer to "the thief of time." Hopefully, we will yet defeat this insidious disease. But failure of the levy will be an invitation to return TB to its killer role.

The TB levy requires a 55 percent affirmative vote to pass. It merits a 100 percent "yes" vote.

Issue No. 3 Is The Best Current Plan

We favor a "yes" vote on the controversial Issue No. 3 — reapportionment and subdistricting. While the Republican-sponsored plan is somewhat less than eminently fair, the belated Democratic counter-proposal of "weighted" voting in the legislature is little more than laughable.

Granted, the Republican-dominated special session did what comes naturally to politicians. It devised a program calculated to do the least amount of damage to the Republican Party. But the fact remains that application of the "one man, one vote" U.S. Supreme Court edict — even as administered by Republicans — diminishes the overall strength of that political party in Ohio.

It is a strange sight to see the state's Democratic leaders and organized labor fighting for a plan to give each county, regardless of population, an elected member to the House of Representatives. These are the same sources who have cried for years about domination of the legislature by the normally Republican rural counties.

If the Democrats had argued that a federal court could do a more objective job of reapportionment, we could at least have respected their point of view. In fact, we would welcome a plan that would take such matters out of the hands of politicians and yet have the job done effectively, and at the state level.

But we will deal on May 4 with a choice for the present, and the plan on the ballot represents our best current hope of solving the problem.

Backs State Obscenity Bill

Letter to the Editor:

I'm addressing this letter to all parents.

After taking a walk last week through my neighborhood drugstores, I was quite shocked. There, prominently displayed, were the worst smut magazines and sick publications I have had the misfortune to see in a long time.

It depressed me very much, that we have to tolerate this filth. One of these stores is located one-half block from my children's school. It features a soda fountain where a lot of the neighborhood children gather. When several mothers complained to the police department about these magazine racks they said, "It will just get thrown out of court." It seems our obscenity laws are not strong enough to accomplish much.

Fortunately there is a solution. This Tuesday night, Apr. 27th at 8 o'clock in the State House, State and High sts, 3rd floor, there will be Senate hearings on an obscenity bill that will help us to correct this problem. Please show your support of this bill by attending.

What would your reaction be if you heard the book "Lady Chatterly's Lover" referred to as a classic? This is what the magazine industry's attorneys would have us believe.

Now is the time we can have a voice in our government. Our legislators want to know how we feel. It takes every parent's support to pass this bill. Believe me there is strong opposition from the magazine industry against it. Are we going to let them win?

Jones Column Is Favorite

To the Editor

My family and I enjoy reading The Spectator every week. We especially find Jenkin Lloyd Jones' column very informative.

Our city papers do well reporting mostly national news, but I believe Columbus residents look forward to the local news coverage in The Spectator. It is refreshing to read a publication such as yours.

I would like to say that your classified section has been most helpful to us in selling furniture, sports equipment, and the like.

'Opinion' Is Challenged

To the Editor:

I enjoyed reading "One Man's Opinion" by Frank Ryan in which he commented on this organization. He has given a very fair account of our concern for the separation of church and state. As he states, it is quite true that we oppose any use of public funds for the support of churches or their schools.

He mentions the fact that Protestant ministers have opposed tax support for transportation to parochial schools. He fails to mention, however, that what precipitated their action was the use of Catholic pulpits by Catholic priests to urge such use of public funds. If one is wrong, where is the virtue in the other?

Frank Ryan is dead wrong on one thing. He says that we at Americans United enjoy the same tax exemption as churches. We don't. We have to pay our taxes. Pretty high, too.

C. Stanley Lowell, Associate Director
Protestants and Other Americans
United for Separation of Church and State

Ed. Note: The "One Man's Opinion" column did not say that POAU enjoyed the same tax exemption as churches. As a matter of fact, POAU files its federal tax returns on Form 990-A. This form carries the title "Return Of Organization Exempt From Income Tax." We might add that our local experience regarding Mr. Lowell's comments concerning "Catholic pulpits" and "Catholic priests" runs counter to the opinion he expresses from Washington, D.C.

Suggests Pension Method

To the Editor:

For the benefit of those who oppose a service pension for the veteran of World War I, we present the following:

1 — According to a national research consultant, payment due the USA by foreign nations in WWI debts amount to $20,045,657,134. The interest on this debt is now $8,612,708,953 and the total of both exceeds the estimated cost of a service pension to all WWI veterans to the year 2010 (and their average ages would be 108 to 155).

If the U.S. collected this war debt, a service pension such as has been paid practically all veterans of former wars prior to WWI could be paid by this money.

2 — Based on precedent, service pensions have been granted by Congress, not on a basis of age, disability, income, total wealth, etc., but on one condition alone—service in the armed forces in times of war.

3 — Using practical business figuring, it can be shown that the veterans of WWI have paid for such a service pension, if we use the following method:

(a) The average pay for a soldier in WWI was $1 a day. (b) The average pay of a defense worker was $10 or more a day. (c) This is a $9 difference in pay per day. (d) Multiply that by a year of 365 days and you have the amount that the WWI GI could have made in a defense plant if he had not enlisted or was drafted. (e) Using present interest bank rates of six percent, you can find his estimated yearly-income, over and above his service pay. This is the amount per year that is now due him. (f) Multiplying this by 47 (years since 1918), you will have the total he would now be entitled to, had he been the lender of that amount. (g) We have eliminated the so-called bonus payments due to the fact that many WWI veterans served two or more years and that would more than make up for the total bonus payment to all.

(h) By using $100 a month as a pension payment, you can find the number of years it would take to pay each veteran what's due him or her. This is proof that this service pension has been paid for and that few, if any, present WWI veterans would ever live long enough to collect all of it—for their average age is now 70 or over.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Affluent Society In Circular Movement

There was this angry high school teacher in the Minneapolis suburb of Wayzata and the more he thought about the values of the average student in his class the madder he got. So two weeks ago 30-year-old Douglas Sarff spent $140 of his own money to buy a full-page ad in the Wayzata weekly newspaper and teed off.

Sarff denounced his pupils as individuals "frozen with sophistication who perpetuate the slick, empty modern living that is seen at its worst in this town."

He added:

"It's a shrill, hand-waving convertible-riding round of trivialities, and for the young a blurred descent into oblivion, because, having exhausted its substance by age 17, and knowing nothing else, they become bored with themselves, with others, and with life.

Jenkin

"From then on it is all a contest with ennui, and no meaningful change ever. Instead of taking a thousand spins on the bay on water skis behind their old 20 horsepower motor, they buy a 40-horse and do it faster. But they are still going in circles."

Providentially, Teacher Sarff simultaneously announced that he was quitting at the end of the current term and intended to go forth and write a book. It would be hard to imagine him sticking around Wayzata High School after that broadside.

Without first-hand knowledge of the kids in prosperous Wayzata it is a little difficult to comment on the fairness of Mr. Sarff's blast. But there surely must be in Wayzata High School dedicated youngsters.

There must be girls who help their mothers and put in time as "candy stripers" at the local hospital. Certainly there are boys who shovel the walks or cut the lawn without too much griping, who toy with the idea of joining the Peace Corps, and who some day hope to heal the sick or enlighten the benighted.

There's a lot of idealism in American youth if you go looking for it. Even the cars that try to out-drag each other when the light turns green must contain some adolescents who know in their hearts that there's something better to do and who intend to do it as soon as they can find out what it is.

But the brave, if foolhardy, Mr. Sarff makes a fascinating point. The "affluent society" produces confused values and aimless activity simply because vast masses of people who used to struggle to make ends meet now have the money and the leisure to do stupid things.

Let's go back to Wayzata, as it must have existed 50 years ago. There was a streetcar line that came out from Minneapolis, because an afternoon at Lake Minnetonka was a big deal for the families of the millhands and railroad workers who put in 10 and 12-hour days six days a week for a total of 20 or 25 bucks.

A bandstand stood on the lakeshore and there were places to spread your picnic. A ride on the steam launch (15 cents a ticket) was pretty much for the middle class. There was no question of helling out to a country drive-in with the idea of starting a rumble.

Wayzata High School in that distant day was for the aristocratic or the eager. The patricians who lived in the big houses on the east shore naturally sent their children there, because they were headed for college. Offspring of the middle or lower classes, who dreamed of professional careers or even clerkships, were proud to go to high school. It was a matter of distinction and the mothers and fathers were proud, too.

Because high school was considered a privilege no one worried about drop-outs. No teacher expected to put up with incorrigibles.

Today, Wayzata High School is for everybody in and around Wayzata. If you have no motivation, if you aren't with it and therefore want to wreck it, the Wayzata teachers are supposed to put up with you, anyway. For dropping out is considered a fate worse than death, and there is now talk that everyone should be sent to college, gratis.

The affluent society has meant an end to the cruel 60-hour weeks and no longer are children sent out to grub along the railroad tracks for bits of coal. But the improvement in living standards has in many ways outrun the improvement in human imagination.

The worker of 1915 had to be satisfied with the streetcar ride to the picnic grounds. It was all he could afford. But the family was a unit and there was an eye on the kids. Today it's the old man's bowling team in the evening, the car for junior, and 13-year-old Sister's date with her steady boyfriend.

If Junior is fired by no nobler ambition than the search for kicks it is perfectly logical that he should go from beer at 16, to whisky at 18, to goof balls at 20, to heroin at 22. And if Sister winds up in motel rooms at 17 it is a logical result of permitting her to throw away her childhood for premature monogamy and tinplated savoir faire.

The affluent society is very nice. It could mean money for books, time to develop absorbing hobbies, opportunities for wonderful trips with the family, leisure to work for the good of others.

But, as angry Teacher Sarff points out, if you don't have much imagination you'll get a 40-horse outboard and go around in circles.

A CENTURY HAS PASSED

April 14, 1965, marked the 100th year since the assassination of Abraham Lincoln. History students know that his murderer was killed and never brought to trial. Newspaper readers know the current history of President Kennedy's death and the fate of his assassin. But how many know about the details of the loss of two other Presidents?

President William McKinley was greeting people in Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 6, 1901. Leon F. Czolgosz concealed a gun in a handkerchief and shot the President at close range. He died Sept. 14. Czolgosz was tried Sept. 23, found guilty two days later, and was electrocuted Oct. 29. His unclaimed body was buried in sulphuric acid to destroy it.

President James A. Garfield, after only a few days in office, was shot in a D. C. railroad station July 2, 1881, by Charles J. Guiteau, a disappointed office seeker. The President died Sept. 19. The assassin was found guilty in a lengthy trial and was hanged June 30, 1882, in the presence of 250 spectators in a Washington jail.

Four unsuccessful assassination attempts have been made against other Presidents.

A disgruntled house painter, Richard Lawrence, tried to shoot Andrew Jackson on the Capitol portico Jan. 30, 1835. Theodore Roosevelt was shot while campaigning in 1912. He had been President but was running again on the Bull Moose ticket. Attempts were made on the lives of F. D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman.

It says here . . .

Protection of the President's life is one of our greatest security problems.

Frosting on the Cake

BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

The time has come for someone to make a frank suggestion to State Senator King of Toledo. He appears to have become completely out of balance in his violent and constant harrassment of Governor Rhodes and issue No. 3 upcoming in the May primary.

Many of us who have never been anti-labor, but persistently "anti-anarchy," see the destructive results of the senator's radical performance. He is hurting the legitimate labor cause in Ohio and no one seems able to get him to adopt any rational attack on what he believes to be against the fair, balanced objectives of organized labor. The Shakespearean truth is applicable here: He doth protest too much.

Ohio is rapidly becoming the leading industrial state of this union. Public services are at last commanding the respect due them.

Jim Rhodes is doing a good job in light of the mess he inherited two years ago. His determination to build up Ohio total industrial growth and create more real jobs is a wholly worthy objective, and sane balanced labor progress is desirable. The four issues which the general public will decide next May 4 are fair and make sense to many of us.

The slogan, "profit is not a dirty word in Ohio" makes sense.

Guest Pulpit . . .

Repent or perish is a stern warning given by our Lord as to what sin will do to humanity. We can see every day it is true. When man rejects God and His way he will perish both physically and spiritually.

Rev. Evans

The Apostle Paul tells us in Romans 6:23 that the wages of sin is death; Romans 3:23, all have sinned and have come short of the glory of God. Therefore, all must repent. I am convinced that the psychiatrist would go out of business and there would not be the need of taxes to build penal and mental institutions if people would turn to God whole-heartedly.

There are more people perishing today on the highways and in violence than in the two world wars. Solomon said that he that covereth his sins shall not prosper; but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy.

Jesus said men loved darkness better than light. David said, "If I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me." Hearts need to be emptied of sin and filled with the love of God. We are going to have to live upright and walk straight; love God with all of our heart and our neighbor as ourself.

This season reminds us that Jesus was nearing Calvary, men were in prison, and God paid the ransom. Over 1900 years have passed and men are still in bondage. Why? John 8:24-25 gives the answer — people have not obeyed.

David again tells us that righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach to any people. God is waiting. Why not turn to Him now? Jeremiah 29:13 — and ye shall seek me, and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart.

FIREFLY BALL DATED MAY 1

In keeping with a spring "May Day" theme, complete with flower arches, ARC (Aid Retarded Children) will be host to the fifth annual Firefly Ball, Saturday, May 1, 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Valley Dale.

Named honorary chairman of the Ball is Gene Fullen with Dean Lewis and Clark Smith as emcees for the evening. Chuck Selby's orchestra will play for the informal dance. Tickets may be obtained at Central Ticket Office, 37 N. High-st, CA. 8-1305, or at the door.

ARC began in 1950 when several women who had mentally handicapped children decided that more could be done to help them. A year later ARC Advisory Board was formed and in succeeding years ARC membership has grown to 400 women from Columbus, Gahanna, Reynoldsburg, Grove City, Westerville and Worthington.

The funds raised by ARC projects are used to support pre-schools in all parts of Columbus. ARC also supports a year-round recreation program that provides elementary and adolescent retarded children with social experiences necessary in their training.

Expansion of these pre-schools and recreational programs will be met with proceeds from the Ball.

Hubby's 'Other Women' Prove Rather Irritating

By ADELINE DALEY

Quite frankly, I'm becoming increasingly irritated about the "Other Women" in my husband's life. And he dare not deny they exist, because he refers to them constantly. In fact, he flaunts them before me.

"Why don't you shop early in the day like 'Other Women'?" he will ask upon seeing me return from the supermarket at 5:30 p.m. laden with five bags of groceries. Moreover, he never gives much credence to my excuse that this way our kids have a shorter time in which to eat everything up.

What I would like to know, however, is that if "Other Women" do all of their shopping in the morning, how come they all seem to be lined up at the check-stands at 5 o'clock?

These same wonderful "Other Women," I also hear, are marvels of efficiency. They never run out of light fuses, toothpaste, razor blades, clean socks and ironed shirts. But what I dislike most about them is that they keep their homes so spotless, and with so little effort.

In fact, I would do well to model myself after them and get all my housework done before noon, instead of drinking six cups of coffee and gossiping away the day, thus postponing the housework until 4 p.m.

"Other Women also have no idiosyncrasies, such as stacking ironing in the refrigerator which makes the ironing easier, but causes distraught husbands to ask, "What are we having for dinner tonight —starched blouses or wrinkled dresses?"

As you also might expect, "Other Women" are much stricter with their kids. As a result THEIR children perform their chores about the house whistling cheerfully like Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs.

What's rather confusing, however, is that just as I do not compare favorably with these "Other Women" in my husband's life, I also bear no resemblance to my children's favorite person, "Everybody Else's Mother," who is the exact opposite in that she is a real swinger.

For one thing, "Everybody Else's Mother" thinks that a midnight curfew for teenagers is hysterically funny. She also thinks there is nothing wrong with permitting her daughters to go on unchaperoned skiing trips or have their own charge accounts.

Of course, I have been known to draw a few comparisons myself between "Other Husbands," who perform all sorts of home repairs and mine, who calls in a plumber to change a washer. And why is it that "Other Peoples' Kids" keep their rooms so immaculate? Or do all of these exemplary prototypes reside in Shangri-La?

The brain functions best when outdoor temperatures average between 30 and 40 degrees F., biometerology authorities assert in the Catholic Digest.

The Wonderful World Of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: You never saw such a bird as our parakeet, Mr. Wonderful. He is just a little feather person, with personality plus. He eats anything we do, as long as we let him nibble on it. And he has a fabulous vocabulary, too. He even picks up words from the radio and television. We wonder about his nibbling on onion and garlic. He likes it as well as ice cream. Will it hurt him or is it good for him? —B. C.

DEAR B. C.: In moderate amounts, garlic in the gizzard will have little effect on Mr. Wonderful, one way or the other. Except, perhaps to lower his popularity rating temporarily.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My husband and I would like to raise dogs and are torn between two breeds. We especially love English Setters and Boston Bulldogs. We have plenty of room and could handle either one. From our limited experience so far, we assume that the Setter would be an easier breed to raise. Is this actually the case or is it all a matter of knowing how? —T. F.

DEAR T. F.: A healthy English Setter female is one of the more efficient and productive puppy factories. Her litters are large, often averaging eight to 10 puppies, and obstretical problems are rare. The Boston Terrier (or Bulldog) has fewer puppies per pregnancy. Also the large headed puppies often have trouble getting through the pelvic canal, so that complications are common.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have a mostly Pekingese dog weighing ten pounds, name of Fifi. She has a most unladylike snore, and the people downstairs can't believe it's this little dog. They think my husband is the only one who could snore that loud. Can you give me a solution to my problem? A simple one? Thank you.—H.S.

DEAR H.S.: The simplest solution (it it works) is simply to poke Fifi — gently — in the ribs and get her to turn over. The only complete cure is considerably more drastic, and would involve surgical removal of part of the soft palate in the back of the throat, thus allowing a comparatively unobstructed flow of air.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My dog was recently wormed for tapeworms. A friend asked what kind of worm and I said they were tapeworms that was all I knew. She thought there was more than one kind. If so, could you explain?—R.C.

DEAR R.C.: The dog is one of the most vulnerable animals to tapeworm infestation, as it may be the adult host of ten different tapeworms. These fall into three main types: (1) those carried by fresh water fish. (2) those found in raw muscle and viscera of farm and wild animals. (3) those found in the flea (and in biting lice).

When the raw fish, meat or fleas are swallowed by the dog, the intermediate stage of the tapeworm hatches out and then attaches itself to the wall of the intestine.

Hope, Nicklaus To Tee Off At Scioto In Cancer Benefit

Zany Bob Hope and '65 Masters winner and local favorite Jack Nicklaus will play an 18-hole exhibition match against Scioto Country Club pro Walker Inman and television's Jim "Maverick" Garner, Tuesday, May 4 at the Scioto course with all proceeds going to the local Cancer Crusade.

A limited number of tickets to the exhibition, available for a $50 contribution to the crusade, will assure a good opportunity for patrons to view the exhibition, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Persons wishing to make contributions should contact pro shops, country clubs and golf course offices throughout the Central Ohio area as well as the Columbus Athletic and University Clubs.

Contributions can also be sent to Ralph Riley at Suburban Motor Freight or Robert Hoag at Hoag and Hoag Insurance.

Checks should be made out to "American Cancer Society Golf Exhibition" and sent to Hoag at 85 E. Gay-st before Apr. 30.

Tickets will be either mailed to the contributor or reserved for pick-up at Scioto's main gate the day of the match.

TV 4 Sets Benefit Game Cage Lineup

WLW-C TV has announced a powerful cage lineup to face their opponents from WBNS-TV Saturday evening at the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

The basketball spectacular will benefit children handicapped by cerebral palsy and mental retardation.

Coached by "slick" Stan Robinson, the TV-4 roster will include: dribbling ace Jimmy Crum, center Hugh DeMoss, defensive whiz Clark Smith, sharpshooting Clay Eager, steady Dave Collins, strategist Tom Roper and speedster Al Waslon.

Dr. Max Rafferty

Rafferty Slated At Youth Center

Dr. Max Rafferty, California superintendent of public instruction, will appear in Columbus at the Youth Center of the Ohio Fairgrounds on Friday, Apr. 30, at 8 p.m.

The nationally prominent school administrator, an outspoken critic of "progressive education," has been a staunch campaigner for a return to the "three R's."

He rocketed to public notice in 1961 after a talk, "The Passing of the Patriot." He lamented the demise of stories concerning American patriots from school textbooks.

Dr. Rafferty's appearance is being sponsored by the Watch Washington Club. Tickets may be obtained at the door or from Mrs. A. E. Bradbury (486-2647).

Clean-Up Drive Starts Monday

The Columbus Division of Sanitation has completed plans for the Spring Clean-up Drive Apr. 26 through May 8.

The City will supply the manpower to load all the rubbish, refuse, old furniture, brush, etc., providing the neighbors have placed these items outside their property line, and household refuse is in containers to provide ease in handling.

Superintendent Mangold stated that the residents should place their debris outside their property line, in the alleys, or if the alleys are too small for the trucks, to place the items on the front curbs. Pick-up of material will start Apr. 26.

Red Cross Will Take Funds For Tornado Victims

Franklin County Chapter, American Red Cross, has been authorized to accept contributions for relief and rehabilitation of tornado victims in Ohio and neighboring states.

American Red Cross president, James F. Collins, estimates Red Cross will spend over $2 million in providing disaster relief for victims of spring floods and tornadoes in the nine-state midwest area.

Early estimates indicate some 5,200 families will register with American Red Cross for long term recovery aid, including rebuilding, repair and refurnishing of homes.

American Red Cross disaster expenditures since July 1, 1964, exceeded $10 million prior to the spring disaster period. Gen. Collins noted that this has "totally exhausted" the annual ARC disaster budget of $8 million. In a message to all Red Cross chapters, Gen. Collins said:

"Americans everywhere who wish to assist their friends and neighbors in the affected states may contribute directly to the relief effort through their local Red Cross chapter."

It is noted that Red Cross assitance to disaster victims is an outright gift and further that 100 percent of contributions made are used for rehabilitation, none is used for salaries or expenses.

Lake Central's new prop-jet NORD 262

The competition to develop a worthy replacement for the old reliable DC-3 went on a good long time. As you can imagine, the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board looked at many a plane before it commended one for its specific capabilities. The winner—by a good long Gallic nose—is the new French prop-jet NORD 262, to be flown first by Lake Central.

Anything the DC-3 does, the NORD does newer. It gets you there faster, and more comfortably. It's air conditioned. Pressurized. Boards on the level. In short, the perfect short-haul carrier to the fifty mid-central U.S.A. cities Lake Central flies to.

'Happier Living'

The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

Spring Notes: Did we get three snows this year after the forsythia bloomed or do we still have a gust of winter coming? . . . Kathy's old white duck has started a nest between two old bales of hay on the island but already old Mr. Crow has sampled one of the three eggs . . . Looks like about another week will bring the rhubarb right from the garden to the hot biscuits in the kitchen . . . And as usual, the fastest thing in the garden is asparagus . . . Add spring tonics: Dandelion greens! . . . Cherry blossoms, blood root, tall broadleafed May apple, blue violets, all are delivering the word, "Spring is here."

Old Song . . . New Version

How many times have you involved yourself in a community sing with the words and tune of "Three Blind Mice"?

John Ewart, genial county agent at London, recently taught Kiwanians there a new version of the song like this:

Three rodents with defective vision
Three rodents with defective vision
Observe how they motivate
Observe how they motivate
They all pursued the agriculturist's spouse,
She severed their appendages with a kitchen utensil.
Did you ever observe such a phenomenon in all your life
As three rodents with defective vision?

Gardening Note

A local realtor's booklet has some good advice for gardeners:

Plant four rows of peas
Personality,
Perseverance,
Promptness and Preparation
Plant four rows of squash
Squash gossip,
Squash indifference,
Squash criticism and
Squash negative thinking.
Plant four rows of lettuce
Let us obey the rules and regulations
Let us be true to our obligations,
Let us be faithful to our duty and
Let us love one another
Plant four rows of turnips
Turn up for monthly meetings
Turn up with a friendly smile
Turn up with new ideas and
Turn up with determination
Cultivate well, perspire a little and reap the benefits of an outstanding garden.

Hard To Tell Who's For Whom

It isn't always easy to tell just who is for whom in Whitehall politics.

Last week Republican candidate James C. Polzer criticized incumbent Mayor William H. Holzhause, also a Republican candidate. A few days later, the third Republican candidate, Walter B. Moling criticized Holzhause, and told a Republican audience of the many street and sidewalk improvements his administration had "given" to Whitehall residents.

So now comes Polzer to the defense of Holzhause.

"I don't think the previous administration 'gave' the citizens of Whitehall anything," Polzer said. "The last I heard, people were still paying taxes, and it's these taxes that pay for all improvements. I don't think this criticism of the present administration is justified."

Cable Television In Local Tug-Of-War

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

With little fanfare and no commercials, a big, new profit-seeking industry is set to invade thousands of Greater Columbus homes.

The industry is collectively known as CATV.

In larger cities, CATV is a fighting word which frightens big television stations and independent theaters.

In smaller, surrounding towns it woos the favor of mayors and councilmen.

To the public at large and industry, CATV is an abbreviation for "community antenna television."

Locally, Whitehall's official family is dickering with the Multi-Channel Cable Co., of Portsmouth, and another CATV firm based in Altoona, Pa. According to an informed source, Whitehall Council wants to emcee the introduction of CATV to the Columbus area.

In Hilliard, Mayor Stephen G. King, who has also been approached by the Portsmouth company, has not even bothered to formally introduce the subject to council.

These are the two extremes. In between, communities like West Jefferson, Reynoldsburg and Grove City are sampling the people and the facts, marking time. Some of these communities have calendared the event for their council meetings.

In Bexley, a delay on any action by council was voted Tuesday night after Solicitor Howard Parks was prompted to advise "no action" because of the FCC probe.

Actually, a tug-of-war is being waged, in fear that the public might take sides with the "enemy," the lips of some executives and officials alike are sealed.

Stepping behind the "curtain of interests," the following facts are apparent:

CATV as an industry is only about 15 years old. About 1600 systems in the country serve more than 5,000,000 viewers in nearly 2,000,000 homes.

Its major opponent in major market areas, meaning larger cities, is television with about 670 stations. Lined up with the televisior interests against CATV is the Independent Theatre Owner Association representing 400 to 600 theater owners in Ohio.

What Is It?

CATV offers subscribers additional programs on the now-blank parts of their television channels. Most CATV companies besides the additional programs guarantee clear reception, no ghosts, no snow and superior color without an outside antenna and often for a fee less than the cost of one.

CATV's opponents say they are being "pirated" and hint that some cable companies may be bankrupted through copyright infringement suits.

CATV says the industry does not "pirate" programs. They merely extend the "free" signal of television stations to the antennas of their subscribers. In Chillicothe, an independent telephone company also televises city council meetings, football games and other special events. Customers pay $5 a month.

Involved in the situation locally now are:

IT ISN'T THE DROP... IT'S THE SUDDEN STOP

A FAIRWAY-BLVD resident called The Spectator Sunday to report the lack of proper signing or barricades in the Fairway-blvd area of the Hamilton-rd construction project. Three motorists reportedly drove into excavated areas in a 24-hour period over the weekend. Two particular danger zones were discovered in Shumaker-ln and Hamilton-rd, where there were little or no warnings of excavated roadway. Traffic being routed over a short stretch of Shumaker-ln to Hamilton-rd faced an excavation marked only by one barrel at the left of the road. Fairway-blvd traffic, coming from east of Hamilton-rd, faced no barrier to the excavated area. Responsibility for proper marking and barricades rests with the contractor, Complete General Construction Co., Columbus. Project manager Jim O'Neil told The Spectator that proper safety measures would be undertaken. The hazardous condition in Shumaker-ln is pictured above. Six-year-old Kevin Ryan, 4177 Elbern-av, stands in the excavated area while his brother, David, three, points out the lone barrel at one edge of the road.

Council, Levy, State Issues Face Voters

Issues, rather than candidates, will dominate the Primary Election May 4, and Franklin County Board of Elections officials predict a light Columbus turnout.

Local voters will select six of the seven candidates listed for council seats. It is almost a foredrawn conclusion that the "endorsed" three from each side of the political fence will face a November rematch.

School Levy

The issue of most direct concern to Columbus voters will be the 3.9-mill school tax levy. A 55 percent affirmative vote is required for passage of the three-year levy. The additional school funds are said to be necessary to meet the needs of 16,000 more children who will be enrolled during the next four years.

School officials have indicated that success of the levy would mean that no school tax levies or bond issues would appear again on the ballot until at least 1968.

The school levy has gained the support of virtually every major local organization. Among these are the Homebuilders Association for Greater Columbus, the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce, the Columbus and Franklin County AFL-CIO and the Columbus Urban League. There has been no organized opposition.

City Council

The only race on the nonpartisan Columbus ballot will find seven candidates vying for the six nominations for city council. Although the candidates do not carry party designations in Columbus elections, partisan endorsements are common.

Of the seven, only Harold Hichman, 57, of 2885 Hiawatha-av, a Republican, is running without partisan endorsement. He is a printer for the Columbus Dispatch. It was Hichman's entry into the race which necessitated the city primary election. There are no primary contests for any other city office.

Candidates endorsed by the county Republican organization include incumbent Council President William R. Fornof, Carl J. Kegelmayer and Charles R. Petree, II. The latter two are seeking public office for the first time.

Fornof, who operates a greenhouse, is seeking his second term on council. He is 47, and resides at 103 Fornof-rd. Kegelmayer, 44, of 2845 Berwick-blvd, is a real estate broker. Petree, an attorney, is 31. He resides at 186 Irvingwy.

Endorsed by the Democratic organization are:

James L. Baumann, 38, 1434 Lonsdale-rd, a plumbing and heating contractor; M. D. Portman, 50, 80 S. Chesterfield-rd, a stock broker, and Donald L. Woodland, 35, 1060 Parma-av, a school teacher and coach.

Baumann and Woodland were unsuccessful in 1964 bids for the Ohio House of Representatives. Portman, who lost a bid for council two years ago, was the city's first finance director.

County, State Issues

All Franklin County voters will decide the fate of the .55 mill TB levy. The renewal of an existing levy represents a .05 reduction in the tax rate. The levy has been solidly endorsed. It would continue support of the Franklin County Tuberculosis Hospital and operation of the Ben Franklin Clinic at the health department. A 55 percent favorable vote is required.

All voters throughout the state will vote on the four proposed changes in the Ohio Constitution. They will be at the top of the ballot as issues Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4, and provide for the following:

Issue 1: To validate the state's guarantee of loans to

GOP Clashes Top Primary

Whitehall Republican voters will do their political pruning at the May 4 Primary while the city's Democrats rest their "team" for the "really big show" in the fall.

There will be no Democratic Primary because no more than one Democrat has filed for any of the elective offices. The Democrats have a full slate, with each candidate winning automatic nomination without opposition.

Republicans will choose three of three candidates for mayor, and will make their choice of three of the five contenders for council at-large posts. Two-way contests will decide nomination for treasurer and third and fourth ward council candidates.

By far, the battle creating the most interest is the "three-way stretch" in the mayoralty race. Incumbent Mayor William H. Holzhause is facing challenges from former mayor Walter B. Moling and James C. Polzer, who served until last February as the city's service director.

Here are the choices Republican voters will face:

Mayor: Holzhause, 44, 4239 Mayflower-blvd; Moling, 67, 654 Maplewood-av, and Polzer, 60, 4192 Wright-av. The winner will face Democrat Paul J. Haytcher in November. Haytcher is in his second term as solicitor.

Solicitor: James Maxwell, Jr., 40, 4042 Mound-st. Auditor: Francis Eugene Cook, 32, 4034 E. Mound-st. Treasurer: Francis E. Shaefer, 56, 488 Collingwood-av, and Harry L. Shipley, 22, 4227 Rickenbacker-av.

President of Council: Walter J. Siemer, 39, 355 Ross-rd. Councilman - At - Large: Alvin J. Hallas, Jr., 38, 1056 Elaine-rd; Theodore R. Harmony, 30, 4607 San Jose-ln; Linn L. Hiatt, 47, 4204 Chandler-dr; Joseph W. Shannon, 39, 4148 Etna-rd, and Raymond E. Shipley, 46, 4077 Powell-av.

Ward Councilman: First Ward: Lester K. Ballenger, 62, 459 Robinwood-av. Second Ward: Roger R. Stahley, 35, 4197 Chandler-dr. Third Ward: John A. Bishop, 37, 4482 Chandler-dr, and George W. Snyder, 25, 4312 Etna-rd. Fourth Ward: Charles H. Carroll, 39, 345 Fairway-blvd, and Fred C. Cooley, Jr., 60, 5110 Dimson-dr N.

For county and state issues, see accompanying story.

DEMS CAN VOTE ISSUES

Whitehall Solicitor Paul J. Haytcher issued a reminder to all Democrats in the city that they may vote the issues in the May 4 Primary even though they may not vote for candidates. Said Haytcher:

"Voters need not declare their politics to vote on issues, and the important issues on the ballot deserve the attention of all qualified voters. I want to remind all Democrats that they cannot vote for any candidate without being subsequently listed on the voting rolls as a registered Republican."

Bexley High Rise Proposal Again Fails To Materialize

A proposal of plans to build a high-rise on E. Broad-st between Merkle and Gould-rds, again failed to materialize at Tuesday night's session.

Area residents attending the meeting and council members learned from Mayor William Schneider that Mark Merkle, officer in the developing corporation, had indicated that the plan was dropped for the time being.

Merkle, according to the mayor, had asked the city consulting engineer, Claude White, to survey the sewer system in the area to see if it was adequate for constructing a 15-story building on the tract, with the first floor for commerial use and 140 apartments on the upper 14 floors.

And the mayor also said that the access road for apartment dwellers on Mayfield and Ferndale, needed because of construction on Livingston-av, could probably be provided by the time it was needed.

Present bridge construction and two lane traffic on Livingston at the Alum Creek-dr intersection, just west of Mayfield, now makes access into the apartments difficult.

Mayor Schneider had earlier said that immediate installation of a road from Mayfield or Ferndale north across vacant land to Astor-av would be "impossible at this time" because of muddy conditions.

However, he amended, the land would be dry enough to permit a road by the time Livingston-av is torn up for repaving, when access into the apartments would be impossible.

Easements across the tract would have to be obtained.

Howard Park, city solicitor, was instructed to prepare a resolution of necessity for the next meeting, requiring sidewalks to be installed on the south side of E. Broad-st between Merkle and Gould-rds.

Plans for additional garages for the Parkview Arms Apartments, to be constructed at 555 S. Parkview, were brought to council for approval by builder Burkley Showe.

The building will include 52 units, with 12 three-bedroom apartments, 44 two bedroom units, six one-bedroom, and a studio aparment, with two bedrooms and a den.

Holzhause Stays Anti Apartment

Whitehall Mayor William H. Holzhause has branded as "straw-grasping" a charge that he had not kept his pledge to veto apartment legislation.

"A look at the records of our city will show that there has been no new apartment legislation during my term of office," Holzhause said. He said the council had authorized two zoning measures calling for construction of about a dozen twin-single residences.

James C. Polzer, one of three candidates in the Republican mayoralty race, charged Holzhause with pledge-breaking, saying he considered the twin-singles to be apartments.

Holzhause said he did not sign either ordinance authorizing the twin-single construction because he feels that twin singles should not carry the same zoning classification as apartments.

"Apparently, council members did not consider this to be apartment construction," Holzhause said, "because every member of council, at one time or another, has said he would not vote for apartments."

Holzhause said he will continue his practice of not signing any legislation carrying the apartment classification and "will veto any and all apartment construction" legislation.

"We still have apartments going up from a last-minute flurry of ordinances passed by the 1963 council," Holzhause said.

The mayor said he was surprised that Polzer would accuse him of failing to provide planned expansion.

"Mr. Polzer, as the city's service director during my first year in office, helped to implement some of our better programs of expanded service and purchase of money-saving equipment," Holzhause commented.

Two East Side Sites Dangerous

Two East Side intersections had high traffic accident counts during the first half of April.

Four crashes were reported at Cassady and Fifth; three at James and Livingston.

A bicycle rider was killed on Livingston-av, east of Dellwood.

Police have been ordered to crack down on illegal lane-changing and improper turns.

Harassed Residents Promise 'Petitions Will Replace Pleas'

By BETTY DAFT

Pleas to officials for help in halting distressing incidents involving teenage customers of the Carousel Sweet Shoppe, 616 S. Yearling-rd, will soon be replaced with petitions, irate property owners in the area promise.

"We have tried everything else," said Mrs. William Compton, whose property at 604 S. Yearling-rd adjoins the shop's parking lot. "Interested parents and teachers, as well as residents of Yearling, will sign petitions," she said, "and I will circulate them if this situation isn't cleaned up."

Acts of alleged trespassing, vandalism, profanity and indecent exposure by rowdy juveniles patronizing the Carousel have been vigorously protested by residents to the police, city officials and council members.

And when the situation remained unchanged after an Apr. 5 meeting with the council's safety committee, Carousel owner Jack Rosen and his attorney, Walter Siemer, also council president, the group lodged a formal complaint at last week's council session.

"City officials tell us it is a police matter," Mrs. Compton said, "and the police tell us they can do nothing without evidence. I'm sick and tired of this run-around."

Mrs. Compton said that council members and city officials had visited her home on her invitation and observed the situation.

She said that a hundred or more had trespassed on the Compton property going to and from the Carousel, broken down the fence and thrown beer cans, whiskey bottles and trash on the property. There had also been incidents, she continued, of indecent exposure and vulgar language.

"And when I call the police, they are unable to catch them," she continued.

Darrell Todd, safety director, said that apparently there is nothing illegal in the operation of the Carousel, and that the trouble happens outside. He admits that most of the Carousel customers recognize Whitehall police officers, making their job harder.

"However," he said, "I did ask the owner, Jack Rosen, to install lights along the side of the building to discourage trouble, and he hasn't complied."

Automatic three-day suspension from school is the penalty for any Whitehall High student caught in Carousel during school hours. "This is the same rule applied to students found in any other commercial establishment when they should be in school," Austin Peel, principal, explained.

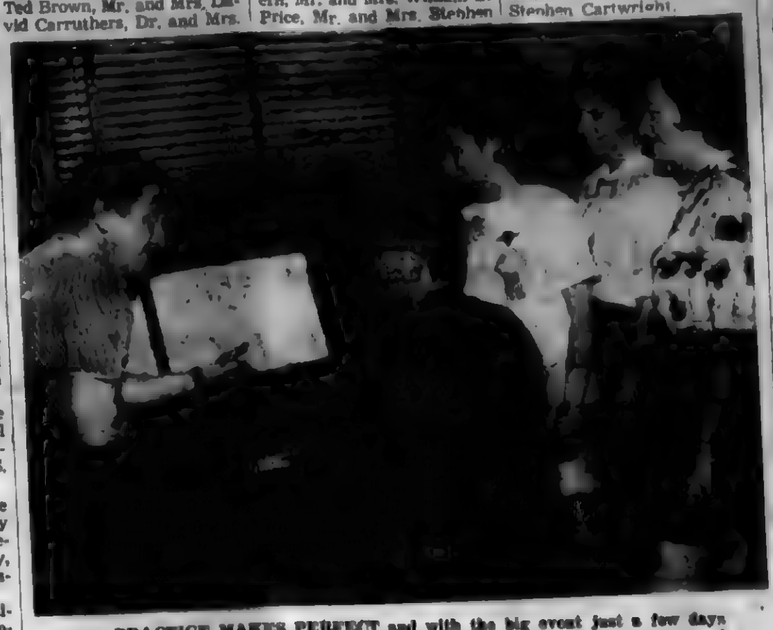
150 Have Parts In Musical

Childhood League's "Merry-Go-Round-1965," a musical variety show with the theme, "Music Through the Decades," will be staged Saturday, May 8, 8 p.m., at the Hartman Theatre.

The show is taught by the director, Howard Miller, to more than 150 cast members in three weeks and includes dancing, singing and many dramatic parts. He brings the music, costumes, and all show material with him from New York City.



Childhood League is responsible for scenery, production, lighting, sound, makeup and anything else needed to produce the show, and most of all — the cast.

A dance will immediately follow the show at the Neil House with the Al Waslohn orchestra.

Proceeds will go to the Childhood League Pre-School for Slow Learners (or mildly retarded child), 850 S. 18th-st.

Working on the show are East Side residents, Mrs. Jay S. Hanna, sets; Mrs. Stephen E. Auch, publicity, and Mrs. Ted Brown, costumes.

Clayton A. Martin, William B. Price and Mrs. Stephen Auch will have sales. Others in the cast from the area include: Mr. and Mrs. Ted Brown, Mr. and Mrs. David Carruthers, Dr. and Mrs. Keith Crompton, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Kevin McGovern, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Auch, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Willcox, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Smith and Mrs. Stephen Cartwright.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT and with the big event just a few days away, Childhood League members are going great guns. From left are Howard Miller, director; Jim Cline, pianist; Mrs. William B. Price, 2631 Wellesley; Mrs. Kevin McGovern, 117 S. Ashburton, and Mrs. Joseph O. McDonald, Jr., 2431 Elm-av.

Issue 3: To authorize a $290 million state bond issue for various capital improvements. This would include construction in such major areas as correctional institutions, public education, juvenile industrial schools, parks and recreation and public works.

Issue 3: This would provide for reapportionment of the Ohio House of Representatives and subdistricting of the state's congressional districts.

Issue 4: Passage of this measure would permit the state to guarantee loans for industrial development financing.

The constitutional amendments require a simple majority vote for passage.

thority over CATV which has not been defined by Congress.

Whitehall Cable Vision, Incorporated, which recently filed articles of incorporation with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

Capital Cablevision Co., 62 E. Broad-st, affiliated with WBNS-Radio.

Multi-Channel Cable Co., Portsmouth, and perhaps 15 other cable service companies which are eyeing the virgin territory of Greater Columbus.

Peoples Broadcasting Corporation, subsidiary of the Nationwide Mutual Insurance Company with local outlet WRFD (880kc).

Meredith Avco Corporation, subsidiary of the Crosley Broadcasting Corporation (WLW-C channel 4).

Bob Wiegand, the "voice" of WTVN.

Ken Prickett, spokesman for the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio.

Mayors, councilmen and other officials of nearly every Greater Columbus community.

Innumerable citizens who own or contemplate owning a television set.

Here are more facts:

The cable service companies want in, and they're willing to pay a percentage of their gross profit to whoever lets them in.

Television wants them out. The theaters want to keep them out.

If there must be cable service, WBNS would prefer its own company, Capital Cablevision Co.

WLW prefers that its cable company, Meredith Avco, would provide the service.

PBS (WRFD) is engaged in a hearing before the FCC for authority to construct and operate a new station on channel 40, and admits that CATV would be a serious threat.

Bob Weigand, who is generally outspoken in his channel 6 editorials, was not so outspoken when queried about CATV. He was "inclined to believe that CATV might lead to destruction of free TV," but was undecided whether to oppose it or ask for similar grants.

A statement released by Ken Prickett urges mayors, city managers, law directors, finance directors, and state senators to take a long, hard look at propositions offered by the CATV industry and "demand a suspension or stay by any group who have been awarded permission to operate."

"It is inconceivable," the statement said, "that any public official would be a party to approval of any ordinances affecting the welfare of their people and free TV until control of CATV is placed under the PUCO in Ohio through Senate Bill No. 172 and/or action by the FCC."

Whitehall "Ready"

Whitehall is seriously considering a 20-year franchise with a cable service company while aware that the electronic industry is advancing so rapidly even engineers cannot keep pace.

Loren Mason, chairman of council's industry and commerce committee, estimated Whitehall's potential profit the first year would be about $2,000, based on the town's 6,500 residential units. Yakima, Wash., which recently signed up with Cascade and Columbia Empire broadcasting firms, operators of KIMA-TV and KNDO-TV, and Telecable, Inc., of Seattle, received a $30,000 annual guarantee based on 14,689 residential units.

Representatives of a number of CATV companies are working the local area. Their modus operandi is simple. Sell CATV to one or more official families of the communities surrounding Columbus. Where required, an ordinance is introduced, passed, and a franchise is granted by council to the CATV company.

CATV companies lease poles or cables from utility companies, connect subscribers, set up microwave stations to pluck programs from the air or feed programs from other points through coaxial cables.

The core of their problem is "getting a foot in the door."

In this respect, Whitehall may not be first to introduce the cable service here, if it gets here.

Reynoldsburg, Too

Reynoldsburg council is holding a hearing for all interested parties in the near future.

An informed source has revealed that Reynoldsburg's official family, in the meantime, has been invited to a dinner at the Wigwam, a Wolf industry retreat, at 6 p.m. on May 20, to hear a presentation by Richard A. Borel, chairman of the board of Capital Cablevision Co. This company, as previously stated, is affiliated with WBNS-Radio.

The Spectator earned from another usually reliable source that Senate Bill 172, which would give the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio some jurisdiction over CATV, has been "lost" in subcommittee action in the Senate.

Yes, a major tussle is being waged behind the "curtain of interests" and the public isn't exactly being invited to the performance.

Miss Cones Becomes Mrs. Mormile In Ceremony At Our Lady Of Victory

MRS. ANTHONY MORMILE

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Philip VanArsdale of 966 S. Hampton-rd, Miss Barbara Jeanne Cones, became the Apr. 24 bride of Mr. Anthony Mormile, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mormile of 1322 Elmwood-av.

The ceremony was performed by Fr. J. Arnold Favret at Our Lady of Victory Church.

The bride chose a floor-length gown of white organza over bridal taffeta styled with a chantilly lace bodice and long tapering sleeves. Tiered organza edged in chantilly lace formed the bouffant skirt which swept into a graceful train. Touches of embroidered sequins and seed pearls accented the complete gown.

Her finger-tipped veil of imported illusion fell from a crown of crystal and seed pearls and she carried a sheath cascade of snowdrift fuji pompons centered with a golden throated orchid and accented with gilded beautyberry and polished camellia foliage.

She was attended by Mrs. Frank Xavier Asbeck III as matron of honor, who was gowned in a floor-length empire sheath of white silk crepe with scoop neckline, elbow-length sleeves and trimmed in a white satin band at empire line. Antique gold petals of silk leaves and veiling formed her headpiece. She carried a sheath arrangement of gilded beautyberry with golden amber cybidium orchids.

The honor attendants were Mrs. Robert Girard, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Edward G. Lombardo, Miss Gloria Elliott and Mrs. Jack W. Brewer. The bride's sister, Miss Phyllis Kay Van Arsdale, served as flower girl. Their gowns and floral pieces were identical to those of the matron of honor and carried out the theme of white and gold.

Mr. Edward G. Lombardo was best man while Mr. James Flanagan, Mr. Joseph S. Dallas, Mr. Stephen R. Cones, brother of the bride, and Mr. Robert Girard served as male attendants. The guests were seated by ushers, Mr. Joseph De Francisco, Mr. Thomas Longenbaker and Mr. Joseph De Franco.

Immediately after the ceremony members of the bridal party were guests at a buffet luncheon served at the home of the bride's parents, proceeding from there to the Aztec Room at the Desert Inn where a reception and dance was held.

The bride is associated with the State Auto Mutual Insurance Company and attended Eastmoor High School and Columbus Business University. Mr. Mormile is a graduate of Ohio Technical Institute and is employed by the D. P. Van Arsdale Wallcovering Contractors.

Following a wedding trip through the Midwest, the couple is residing in Columbus.

Dr. Seagle was educated at Lenoir Rhyne College, the Biblical Seminary in New York, Chicago Lutheran Seminary and New York University. She was a recipient of the National Science Foundation Award in Anthropology in 1964 and a delegate to the World Conference on Social Work in Tokoyo, Japan, in 1958.

Dr. Seagle, who writes for numerous journals, is a member of the American Sociological Association, American Anthropological Association, American Academy of Political and Social Science, National Lutheran Welfare Conference, Ohio Valley Sociological Association, Pi Lambda Theta, Alpha Kappa Delta and the board of trustees of the Southern Theological Seminary.

21 Teens Tagged For Service Honors

Twenty-one teenagers will be honored at the Jewish Center's annual meeting on May 6.

Each will receive the David Goldsmith Memorial Award, presented annually to teenage members of the Jewish Center who have displayed a dedication to Jewish life through service to the community.

To be honored are participants of a number of programs sponsored by the center Youth Movement, including the teenage tutoring program established early this year to aid culturally deprived children. The program is conducted at First English Lutheran Church

Those receiving awards for work in this program are Steve Schecter, Linnie Robinson, Mark Mentser, David Hazan, Sherry Peselnick, Lois Schecter, Judy Schachter and Leslie Center.

Five teenagers serving as volunteers all year at Gladden Community House on the West Side, providing leadership for groups of elementary age children, are Norma Meizlish, Lynne Skilken, Nancy Wasserman, Ted Sutton and Debby Kayne.

The Jewish Center has two active groups providing service to its own membership.

The Center Service Corps has been primarily active in the cultural arts area. Those chosen to receive awards are Steve Hofheimer, Lynne Gundersheimer and Marilyn Maierson.

The Torch Club is a service group which assists the physical education staff in coaching and refereeing its basketball and baseball programs. Boys selected to receive awards for outstanding service are Alan Pressman, Jon Kaplan, Mark Smilack, Mike Talis and Ron Gurvis.

The teenagers have been selected for the amount of their service, because this service was performed conscientiously.

Spice CABINET

Larger quantities are usually less expensive than small amounts. Compare prices of fresh, frozen, canned and packaged foods to see which one gives the most servings for the least money. Select the largest size package or containers that you can use without waste, especially these: flour, sugar, cornmeal, oatmeal, rice, nonfat dry milk and coffee.

Firemen Need Auction Items For May Sale

Dear Friends

I think that you should know that our firm has just finished the biggest year in its history and I must truthfully say that a share of this success can be attributed to our advertising program in the Spectator.

When your Mr. DeSpelder called on me several years ago at the time of our opening I was reluctant to advertise with you because Ashville appeared to be so far out on the fringe. However, Mr. De was a good salesman and I agreed to give it a try.

Our quarter page ads have been increased to the place where most every week we are currently using a full page because we have been so pleased with the good business that has come to our store.

It seems that our business has increased almost weekly and each quarter since we started has been better than the quarter before. I am particularly pleased with the fact that January, 1965 was the biggest single month we have ever had, and January is not normally a good month.

I think special credit should go to Mr. De for the fine way he handles our accounts. He seems to have a seventh sense in advising us what to advertise and how to advertise it.

Naturally, as long as it is so successful, we would want no alternative but to continue using these papers.

We find that the people of our community are kept well informed on local news through The Spectator and we wish you continued success.

Sincerely,
John E. Little

Bishop Hartley High School

The HAWK-er

By JOE McFALL

Students of Bishop Hartley High's Home Economics I and II will give a style show, open to the public, in the very near future. There will be approximately 104 girls participating in the show, which has "My Fair Lady" as its theme.

A short play will be presented before the modeling with Terry Chellis as Eliza Doolittle and Kirsten Redinbaugh, designed to bring out the theme. Fashions worn are the second semester work of the girls.

Last Thursday the junior class had a meeting concerned with the upcoming junior-senior prom. Anyone wishing to help with the decorations signed up.

Mr. Higgins also explained the procedure to follow if planning to run for a class office. These elections will be held in the latter part of May.

Hartley is very proud of Dave Messmer, who won the Joyce Scholarship to the University of Notre Dame. The scholarship includes tuition, transportation and spending money.

Hartley played Watterson last week in baseball, winning over the Eagles 3-2. Scott French is to be congratulated for pitching a no-hitter in this game.

Freshman girls have been practicing for cheerleading tryouts to be held next month before the student body, who will vote for the girls to be reserves next year.

Hilltop, Whitehall Relays Top Cinder Card; 'Invites' Set At C-W, Hilliard

Two big Invitationals and three major Relay events provide the standouts on the weekly cinder schedule tomorrow, Saturday and Tuesday as area thins make final preparations for three loop meets next weekend.

The Whitehall Relays and Hilliard Invitational kick off a week full of cinder spectaculars tomorrow with both events going under the lights.

THE LARGEST field of the week (18) will descend on Canal Winchester's oval Saturday for an afternoon-evening running of the Indians' Invitational.

Relay events at Mifflin and West (Hilltop Relays) round out the week's program.

• • •

GIVEN ANY kind of a break by the weatherman, just about every existing mark could be broken tomorrow night at Whitehall's Relays.

The third annual Ram event will find Walnut Ridge, Hartley, Bexley, Gahanna, Brookhaven, DeSales and Westerville joining the hosts to provide a classy lineup.

Defending champion Lancaster Public, however, will be missing when field finals get under way at 6 p.m. with running finales set one hour later. (There will be no prelims.)

THIRTEEN of the Relays' 18 events surrendered records last spring. Here are the scheduled events and present record holders:

Mile — Norm Smith, Whitehall (4:39.9, '63); 440 — Mike McCalla, Westerville (:51.8, '64); 100 — Mike McCalla, Westerville (:10.3, '64); HH —Wayne VanHouten, Brookhaven (:15.6, '64); 880 — Bruce Trousdale, Lancaster (2:05.3, '64); 220 — Mike McCalla, Westerville (22.6, '64); BJ — Bob Glover, Gahanna (22'4¼", '64); PV — Rick Harbold, Bexley (12'11½", '63); S—Bill Landis, Whitehall (52', '64); D — Mike Short, Whitehall (142'4½", '63); Hop-Skip-Jump — Ken Barth, Gahanna (42'3¼", '63); HJ — Dave Thomas, Hartley (6'¾", '64); LH — Tom Rowland, Lancaster (:21.3, '64); mile relay — Lancaster (3:35-1), '64); 440 relay—Gahanna (:45.6, '63); 880 relay — Westerville (1:32.8, '63); two-mile relay — Lancaster (8:29.8, '64); and shuttle hurdles—Gahanna (:60.2, '64).

WALNUT RIDGE, probably the strongest "distance" team in the District, has a good shot at five of the marks.

Miler Ken Schwartz already has recorded a better time in that event; Zeke Barber has topped the 440 clocking; Schwartz and Rick Mettle both have bettered the existing 880 time (as has Whitehall's Ed Young) and the Scottie mile and two-mile relay quartet (Schwartz, Mettle, Barber and Jim Wallar) have eclipsed both those top times, the latter as recently as last week's Riverside Relays (8:21).

Brookhaven also seems likely to take home some new marks (Chuck McNeal or Jerry Fields in the highs, McNeal in the 220, Fields in the lows and both the 440 and 880 relay events — Ralph Marinello, Steve Kesterson, Jerry Sullivan and McNeal.)

ONE OF THE evening's top duels should come in the shuttle hurdles where Gahanna's quartet Charlie Strohm, Mike Bokros, Bob Glover and Terry Robb) will likely vie with the Bearcats' foursome for first place. Both have topped the existing Relay time in the event this spring.

Another battle is in store in the 100 where B-H's Marinello, Bexley's Mac Albin and Hartley's Mike Santy look capable of cracking another mark.

Thinks don't look much safer in the field events with only Harbold's vault mark and Thomas' high jump record looking tough to better. (Thomas will be back to defend his mark).

DEFENDING broad jump artist Bob Glover of Gahanna could duel the Bearcats' Marinello for a new mark in that event.

But Whitehall-held marks in both the shot and discus look shaky with another Ram —Mike Boyer — already recording better distances in each event this spring.

Despite W-R's strength in the distance events, Brookhaven appears to be the favorite with Gahanna a close second.

ON HAND to distribute awards, (team trophies for first, second and third, individual trophies first three places, medals for fourth and fifth) will be Whitehall's Relay queens — Debbie Blanton, Phyllis Curtis, Rhonda Hopkins, Kay Larrick and Kathy Hackenberger.

Everyone pays 50 cents for admission at the Relays.

• • •

ANOTHER TUESDAY night battle will be staged at Mifflin where the Cowpunchers will host Relays which find Brookhaven, Gahanna, Westerville and DeSales comin' to run. (Mifflin coach Harlen Snouffer is seeking a sixth team, unknown at press time).

Six new marks were established last year at Brookhaven (set two records) won the Relay crown.

The powerful Bearcats, preseason picks to win the '65 City League thin crown, will be favorites in this one with Gahanna expected to be B-H's chief source of competition.

IN ADDITION to all regular field events, the 880, mile and two-mile relays, shuttle hurdle, sprint and distance medleys will be included on the running program.

Both the Lions and Bearcats are proficient in all field events and distance relay events (800 and two-mile relays) plus the shuttle hurdles should tell the story.

In addition to a team trophy, ribbons will be presented to the top three finishers in each event.

ADMISSION FEE for the Relays will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students and children. Field finals begin at 6 p.m.; running finals are set for 7.

• • •

TRUMPETS will call event winners to the tiered victor's stand at Tuesday's 18th running of the colorful Hilltop Relays at West.

Since each of six participating schools (West, Linden, Eastmoor, Whetstone, Marion-Franklin and Walnut Ridge) will supply their best boy for each event, there will be no prelims.

Field finals will begin at 6 p.m. with running finales starting one hour later. The events will run every five minutes.

LAST YEAR'S champion—South's Bulldogs — won't be around this spring due to the rotating schedule which admits only five City League schools (plus the host) each year at the Relays.

Besides all regular field events and the 100, 220, 440, 880 and high hurdles, five relay events (440, 880, mile, two-mile and shuttle hurdle) will be run.

Whetstone, who finished second last spring (between South and West) is an early favorite to take the '65 laurels.

..ONLY ONE mark was broken at last spring's Relays — the two-mile relay (Walnut Ridge's Ken Evans, Rick Mettle, Kenny and Larry Schwartz, 8:15.5).

Larry Schwartz and Evans have departed but their replacements this season — Zeke Barber and Jim Waller—have already collaborated with returnees Mettle and Ken Schwartz to better that time this year.

Only other mark in possible jeopardy at the Relays ("the existing records have been pretty stable," according to host coach Rufe Glass) might be the high hurdle event.

COWBOY DON Tidwell has sliced a full ten seconds off the existing record time this spring.

Relay queens will present ribbons to all five placers with team trophies going to the winner and runner-up and individual high point man.

Price for a seat will be 50 cents (everyone).

• • •

Coach Bob Blais and his Indian cindermen at Canal Winchester will find plenty of company available Saturday when some 15 teams arrive for a shot at C-W's Invitational title.

Two of the stronger teams originally scheduled to participate — Hamilton Township and Reynoldsburg — will not be in attendance, due to conflictions with other school activities.

PARTICIPATING teams (at press time) besides the host Indians will be: Groveport, West Jefferson, Millersport, Academy, Berne Union, Ready, Rosary, Amanda, Dublin, Carroll, New Albany, Jonathan Alder, St. Marys and Highland (Delaware County).

Track prelims and field finals will begin at 1 p.m. with running finals scheduled under the lights, beginning at 6.

All regular (14) track and field events have been scheduled for the seventh running of the Winchester "invite."

HAMILTON Township won the team title last spring with the hosts placing second. Since the Rangers will not participate this year, the favorite role might well be split between Ray DeCola's St. Marys Rams, Carroll and C-W.

Here is a list of the existing records for the Invitational: HH — Rice, West Jefferson (:15.0, 1964); 100 — Draudt, Academy (:9.9, 1961); mile — Doran, New Albany (4:42.5, 1961); 880 relay—Academy (1:35.2, 1962); 440 — Larrimer, Academy (:53, 1962); LH — Bonn, C-W and Schmidt, Smithville (:20.1, 1962); 880 — Johnson, C-W (2:06, 1964); 220 — Draudt, Academy (:23.0, 1961); mile relay — Academy (3:35.6, 1964); shot put — Kelly, Bremen (51'3½", 1962); BJ—O'Hare, St. Aloysius (21'6½", 1961); discus—Kelly, Bremen (144'10½", 1962); PV — Bonn, C-W (11'5", 1962); HJ — Rice, West Jefferson (6'3", 1964).

SINCE HAMILTON'S Frank Peters won't be at the event, records in the discus and shot put look secure (Peters has already topped both the marks this year).

All other field events and Academy's times in both the mile and 880 relay events seem safe but '65 entries could make some changes Saturday in seven other running events.

The Rams' Mike Hodge (:16.0 in the highs and :20.9 in the lows) could rewrite the books in those events with C-W's Wendell Bond also a threat in the latter.

ST. MARYS' Vic Perdue, besides nearing the existing 100 mark, is only 5/10 second off the record time in the 220. Rosary's Bryce Bradford is another 220 threat.

Winchester's Jim Burke was slightly off the 440 time recently on a slow track.

The Rams have an additional record threat in the mile where Mark Sheaf will be running. (Sheaf was less than six seconds off the record time in a recent meet with University).

NO LESS than three competitors have a good shot at the 880 record with Sheaf (2:09), New Albany's Jimmy Doran (2:08.8) and Winchester's Dave Haffey (2:11 on slow track) squarely in the running.

Team trophies will be awarded to the top three finishers along with the top individual scorer. Ribbons will be presented to all five placers.

Admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

OTHER SPECTATOR area teams competing in major track meets on the road are East and Central (tomorrow at the Dayton Relays), East and Eastmoor (Saturday at the Cambridge Relays) and Carroll (Wednesday at the Mid State Meet at Frankfurt).

French No-Hits Eagles; Academy Leads FCL

Hartley elbowed its way above the .500 mark, Academy maintained its share of the FCL lead and Gahanna, Eastmoor and Whitehall added up non-league diamond wins to highlight area baseball this week.

The Hawks won twice where it counted — in the Central Catholic League with Watterson (3-2) and St. Charles (2-0) the victims.

THE WIN OVER the Eagles was a very special one for winning pitcher Scott French. The Hartley junior sat down the defending CCL champs without a hit.

French was forced to stretch his faith in Hawk teammates to the limits, however, as Hartley trailed, 2-1, with one chance left.

A pair of walks, a sacrifice, an error and a couple of squeeze bunts got Scott in hot water and it looked for awhile like the Hawk hurler would suffer a similiar fate as two Rosary pitchers did earlier this spring against West Jeferson.

BUT SCOTT'S no-hitter had a happy end.ng as Gary Plank walked, Joe Gatto and Tom Schlager singled and Steve McGrew singled after a walk to Jerry McNemneny to provide the two biggest runs French will probably ever see.

Dave Rogers nabbed Hartley's other CCL win, firing a three-hitter at the Cards. Rogers' RBI double in the sixth proved to be frosting.

Academy set up an early FCL flag showdown with Reynoldsburg tomorrow (if the "A" tourney doesn't interfere) by coming back in a 7-5 win over West Jefferson.

THE VIKINGS wiped out a 5-2 deficit with a five-run fifth inning. Academy is scheduled tomorrow against unbeaten Reynoldsburg — the winner standing all alone atop the FCL standings.

John Turkle's four-hitter cooled off Groveport bats as Whitehall gained a 2-0 win over the Cruisers. Jim McKee flipped a two hitter for Groveport but the Rams made better use of their hits.

Whitehall got one less hit against Gahanna's Dave Belli the day before but the Lions rapped two Ram hurlers for 10 hits enroute to a 10-3 win.

EASTMOOR, exploded for six big runs, in the fourth inning, overwhelmed Watterson, 7-3, as Jerry Groves (triple, double, single) and Steve Howell (double, single) added punch to a combined seven-hit effort by Doug Cromer, Ron Bollie and Tom Cooper.

The Warriors were not so fortunate the day before, however, as North bounced E-M out of a share of the CL lead with a 3-0 victory.

Elsewhere, East dropped a pair to Ready (8-1) and Central (13-1). West subdued Walnut Ridge (5-1) and Hamilton Township nudged St. Charles (5-3).

The E-M Boosters Association conducted the presentation ceremonies for Warrior cage and mat squads.

ON AREA OVALS . . .

Rebuildin' Lions Keep On Winnin'; Scottie Quartet Adds Three More

Bexley, Hartley and Gahanna closed the finish line first last week to share the spotlight on area ovals.

Russ Owen's crew, ignoring pre-season warnings that this would be a rebuilding season, gained wins five and six in eight tries this spring with dual victories over Groveport and previously-undefeated Circleville.

RICK WEBER'S 14½ points (firsts in 100 and 200, second in broad jump and anchorman on winning 880 relay quartet) set the pace for the Lions in a 78-40 verdict over the Tigers.

Bexley handled Groveport with much ease, winning 78½ to 39½ as Mac Albin took Lion scoring honors (14½ pts.) with wins in the long and high jumps, a second in the 100 and a leg of Bexley's winning 880 relay team.

Other Lion firsts were recorded by: Mac McClay (highs), Larry Ringer (lows), Larry Miller (shot), Pat Leach (discus) and Bob Curl and Greg Antle (tied in pole vault).

HARTLEY TOOK firsts in 10 of 14 events as the Hawks (85) routed Academy (31½) and St. Charles (30½).

Mike Santy (100, 200) and John Carrillo (mile, 880) took double wins for the Hawks who won every running event.

Other Hartley firsts: Mike Reiser (highs), Larry Ziccardi (440), Dave Thomas (HJ), Steve Grier (lows) and both the Hawks' 880 (Ray Posey, Rick Marcum, Joe Kuhner, Mike Santy) and mile relays teams (Kuhner, Andre Preneveau, John Ucker, Larry Ziccardi).

GEORGE GREEN got Academy's lone win in the discus while Andy VanCamp (broad jump), Joe VanBalen (shot) and Sean Maxfield took Carolian firsts.

VanCamp, incidentally, took a first in the high jump, seconds in both hurdle events and a third in the broad jump in St. Charles' loss to Teays Valley in a triangular.

Charlie Strohm tok a pair of wins and Gahanna took 11 of a possible 14 as the Lions outclassed Grandview, 78-33, in a dual meet.

DOUBLE WINS by Solomon Espie (100, 220) and Don Washington (broad, high jumps) couldn't prevent East from taking a 68-50 setback at the hands of West in another dual contest.

Walnut Ridge's quick-silver quartet of Kenny Schwartz, Rick Mettle, Zeke Barber and Jim Wallar couldn't bring the Scotties home any titles but they did manage (ho-hum) three more records.

The fleet foursome set new distance medley (7:49.5) and two mile (8:21.0) marks at the Riverside Relays, won by Arlington, last week.

LEAVING NO cinder unturned, the same quartet came home from the Bellaire Relays four days later with another record time — 7:51 flat in that meet's distance medley.

The Scots finished eighth at Riverside (12 pts.) while other area teams—East and Eastmoor—closed fifth-place tie (14) and 12th (5½) respectively.

The rains fell mainly in Central Ohio Saturday, washing out the Central Catholic League Meet at Hartley. The event has been reset for Tuesday, May 11.

Because gasoline is cheaper than hay, cowboys in Dodge City, Kan., now ride motorcycles instead of horses. The switch was made because each horse was eating as much as $12 worth of feed a week while a motorcycle suitable for the cattle trails could be run on about $1.50 worth of gasoline.

Culottes may be 'in' as high fashion, but they remain "out" as far as Torrance, Calif., schools are concerned. A 14-year-old model who appeared at junior high school wearing the new style breeches was promptly sent home again. School officials said they consider culottes active sports attire.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Resident Of Whitehall 'Sounds Off' On City

Dear Editor:

We don't have to pick up a newspaper to read of tensions around the world for we have them here in Whitehall. I can only talk about it since June, 1957, when we moved here from Akron, much to our regret.

Our city government has been known for its bickering, disagreements, squabbles, etc. Our present mayor, William Holzhause, did not occupy the mayor's seat in 1957, nor did he for six years after that. We still have disputes, also non-coperative attitudes.

I do agree, however, under the Moling administration we had a number of new streets and sidewalks put in, also sewers. I have read so much about this recently in newspapers. Unfortunately, I have not read that the property owners on these particular streets have paid or are paying their share for these new installations. Mr. Moling did not pay for these.

Our share amounts to $1,846.80 at $92.34 every six months for a period of 10 years. We also were assessed $78.00 for a sewer which I doubt we will ever use.

I am not being prompted by anyone to write this and I also wish to say my intentions are not to praise one particular political party or denounce another.

I have also read a news article last week where the preaident of Whitehall Council, Walter Seimer, has made the statement that our present mayor has not worked with him or council, Personally, I feel the statement should be reversed. It seems to me that honesty is not acceptable anymore.

I have called Mr. Seimer by phone, also our safety director, Darrell Todd, recently concerning the deplorable situation at a business establishment on Yearling-rd, expecting some help or a solution, only to find neither one of the men to cooperate with the mayor to place a police officer there when needed. The mayor did authorize a policeman there, regardless of opposition, for the safety of everyone concerned.

TO THE CITIZENS OF WHITEHALL

"A Message From Your Mayor"

I would like to take this opportunity to set the record straight on a matter of great concern to the citizens of Whitehall and to me, as your Mayor.

As you are aware, apartment house projects seem to be under construction in every portion of our city. I made you a promise that, if I was elected, there would be no apartment housing legislation presented to the council nor would I sign or endorse any such legislation if it came across my desk. Believe me, I have not endorsed, nor presented to the legislative authorities of this city any such legislation nor have I signed any such legislation during my tenure of office beginning January 1, 1964.

All of the construction you are now witnessing is the result of hurried legislation passed by, what the newspapers termed at the time, the "lame duck administration" of my predecessor. Once this legislation was passed, and it was all passed in 1963, I became powerless to alter the zoning map or prevent those persons who are now building from applying for, or receiving, a building permit.

My office is open and so is the office of my Service Director at any time to any citizen who wishes to verify the statements I have made by checking for themselves copies of the legislation that was passed in the calendar year of 1963 — prior to my inauguration as your Mayor.

I have not changed my platform or the pledge I made to you prior to my election, as the advocates of apartment house legislation would imply. I intend to stand by my original program and with your help in the selection of qualified persons to assist me, I will bring an end to the type of building that has been so offensive and distasteful to the majority of the citizens of our city.

Very Truly Yours,

YOUR MAYOR,

Bill

WILLIAM H. HOLZHAUSE

Around The [clock] With A Student Nurse

Anne Medaglia has the only "contagious" thing allowed in a student nurse . . . a ready smile.

Equipped with that and a genuine love for people, the brunette, brown-eyed junior makes her rounds at Mt. Carmel Hospital where she is a student in the School of Nursing.

Her zeal for helping the helpless began when she was a child. She repaired her dolly's broken arm with the assurance that her "little girl" would be well again.

Today, at 20, Anne helps heal real broken arms for real people . . . with the same assurance.

Like most schools of nursing, Mt. Carmel has a select group of students working towards their R.N. Applicants for admission are young women between the ages of 17 and 35 who possess intellectual ability, a sense of responsibility, integrity and seriousness of purpose. Anne and her classmates must have good moral characters and good physical and mental health.

"You have to be strong," said Anne, "the patients depend on your strength."

Recalling an elderly man who was a patient last summer, Anne revealed what a nurse must do in times of sorrow. For weeks she cared for him, giving food, medication and much of herself. But all the medicine and care in the world cannot save a man, if God chooses to take him Home.

When death came, Anne consoled his family with the quiet and sincere dignity of a true nurse. "He thought of you as the daughter he never had," the man's wife confided to Anne. But Anne's tears didn't come until she was off duty . . . in the privacy of her own room.

Most of the time, however, a student nurse is faced with pleasant tasks, such as introducing a newborn infant to his parents. Although Anne is devoted to all phases of her chosen career, she favors maternity and surgery.

Elaborating on the latter, Anne described the feeling of seeing a patient come in in pain, have corrective surgery and walk out of the hospital two weeks later. "Knowing you had a part in a person's recovery . . . that's the reward."

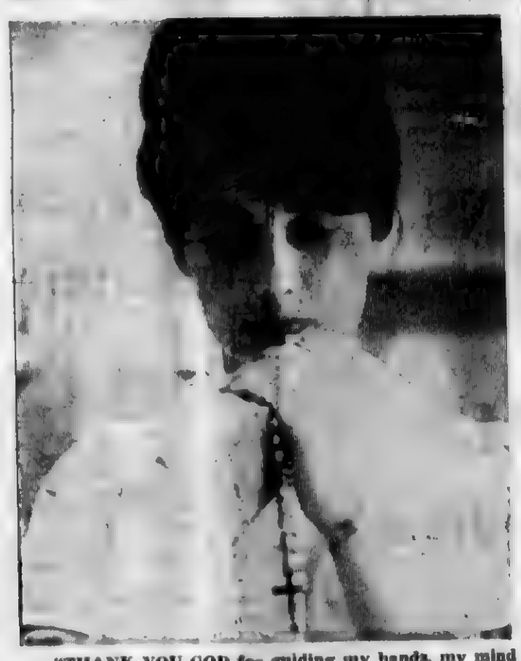
Anne's busy schedule of theory and practice sometimes brings on pressure. "At times you feel like quitting. Then the next day something wonderful happens and you wonder why you ever thought of giving it up."

Even when she is off duty, Anne is a busy gal. During her freshman year she was general chairman of the school's talent show and was a committee member of four other extra-curricular activities. This year she helped with the student-faculty reception, the Snowflake Ball and the junior-senior banquet. She spent the summer working in Hamilton Hall, one of the hospital's surgical floors, and continues to do so on weekends on the same hospital student service program.

On free weekends Anne heads for 64 W. Cooke-rd to be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Medaglia, her brother and two sisters.

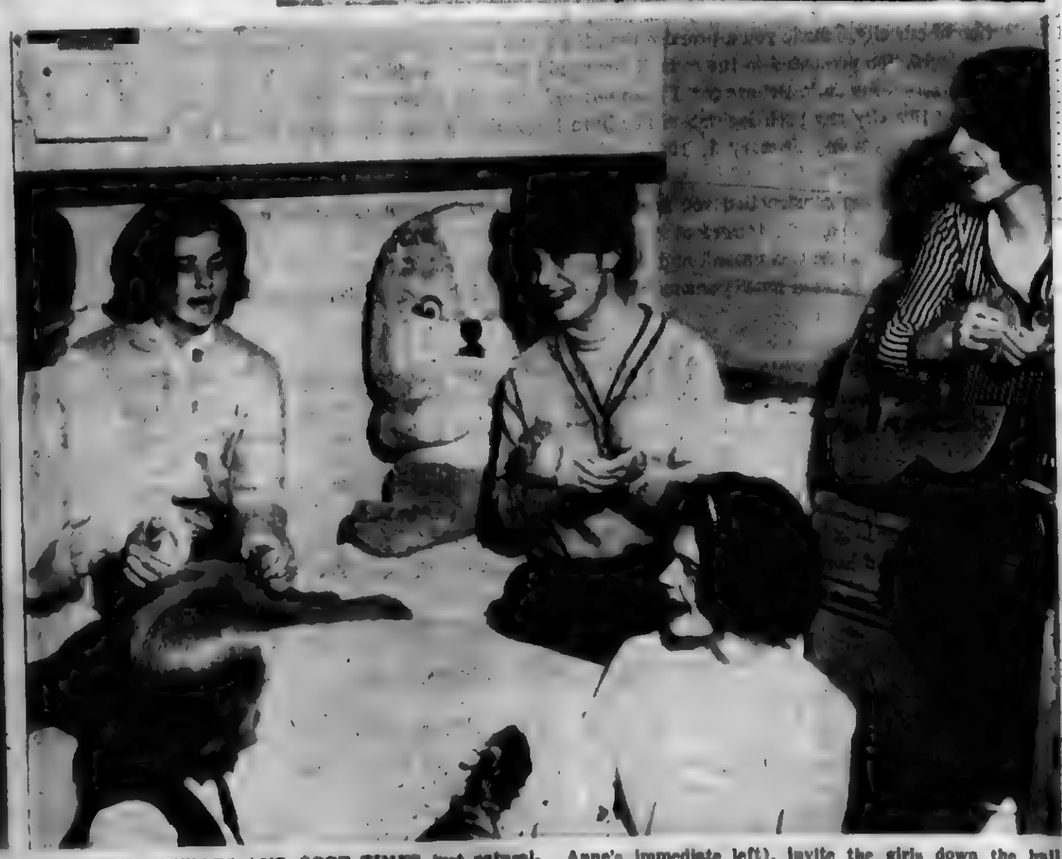
Watch for Anne's healthy smile. It's "catching"!

GOWNED IN GREEN for surgery, Anne is trained to be the doctor's "right hand." She is responsible for assembling the necessary instruments and to think quickly in case of complications. In the picture below, Anne checks a patient's chart with Dr. V. H. Hash, a medical resident. Although she still has another year to go before graduation, Anne is following closely in her aunt's footsteps. Her aunt, Anne Burns, is chief of the Division of Nursing of the Ohio Department of Health.



HOSPITALS CAN BE FUN . . . especially when a pretty student nurse takes your blood pressure. Banker Roy Vonins apparently "feels no pain" as Anne makes her regular check on her patient. In the picture below, Anne takes notes on the lecture being given by Dr. Richard Lamprecht. In conjunction with the new academic program instituted last year at the school, the students go from the classroom to the hospital to practice what they have just learned.

SAY IT WITH FLOWERS goes the saying, and most folks do. Florists leave bouquets at the elevators where Anne picks them up to deliver to the designated patient. Sister M. Grace Anne, C.S.C., looks on approvingly.



"THANK YOU GOD for guiding my hands, my mind and my heart," Anne finds strength for the next day in the chapel.

Story By JANET MICHAEL . . . Photos By HARLEY GROOM

A PROUD DADDY looks fondly at his new daughter. James Bayliff, Grove City, joked with Anne saying "My wife and I haven't named her yet. There were 3500 names in the book to choose from so we decided to wait until the baby was born so we could narrow it down to 1700."

GIRLS, GUITARS AND GOOD TIMES just naturally go together at the end of a long day. Anne (seated at the right on the bed) and her roommate Sharon Leis (to Anne's immediate left), invite the girls down the hall in for a hootenanny. From left are Julie Riener, Pat Hiltner, Marcia DeWalt and Ginny Knorzer.

DINING OUT is an adventure for Columbusites who find 122 Hong Kong selections besides a complete offering of American steaks, chops and sea food on the menu at the Peacock Kitchen.

Peacock Kitchen Offers Authentic Hong Kong Menu

By CHARLES McDERMOTT
Spectator Business Editor

There is a taste of intrigue for the gourmet and a touch of oriental mystery for many in words like "char sue bok toy," and "litchee gai kew," and "chow loong har."

They were selected at random from the rather elaborate menu of a Hong Kong restaurant.

If you traveled 8,000 miles west, and were hungry, and had a desire to sample authentic oriental dishes, you'd probably discover the original Hong Kong Restaurant in that busy (Canton) colony.

If you travel a few miles east from downtown Columbus, to 3991 E. Broad-st, you will discover the Peacock Kitchen, a Hong Kong restaurant with the same menu of authentic taste sensations.

Owned and managed by Richard Dong and Joe and Katherine Dowing Chin, for years familiar faces in Jong Mea diners, the Peacock Kitchen offers genuine Hong Kong dishes, and American foods, too,

Mrs. Chin prepared by true Hong Kong people.

Katherine Chin attended the University of Hong Kong. She and part of her family fled China when the communises swept to power there. Her grandparents who remained there were killed by them. Today, her father is a university professor in Formosa.

The Peacock Kitchen opened last September and, as though the tracery of tragedy which shadowed Mrs. Chin in her homeland somehow followed her here, a fire in February nearly destroyed the new restaurant.

Displaying the true graciousness and character of the real Chinese, Mrs. Chin praised the efforts of Whitehall firemen who saved part of her business for her. She is planning to hold a dinner party for them as her way of saying "Thanks."

The Peacock Kitchen has been re-opened with a new decor in oriental lavender and Chinese cherry blossom murals. The menu is elaborate but reasonably priced. Dinner wine and ale are served and the management has planned to add a cocktail lounge.

An American touch has been added to this Hong Kong restaurant. They offer orders to go, free delivery service and, if desired, will cater a complete dinner for large and small gatherings.

Sagraves TV And Appliances Holds Grand Opening This Week

If the Sagraves brothers, who are having their Grand Opening this week at 7295 E. Main-st in Reynoldsburg, keep going the way they've started, every Spectator reader in the area may soon have color television in his home, Carl Sagraves said this week.

The four brothers who started their unusual success story in Carl Sagraves' garage on Truro-rd in 1960 estimate they made 60 percent of all color TV sales in their area last year, and sales are still climbing.

The Sagraves brothers are Carl, Kenneth, Pedro and Curtis. Their family-owned company is Sagraves TV and Appliance in Reynoldsburg. The secret of their unusual success they modestly admit, is their own solid technical training, high discounts, and honest service.

Two of the brothers are lay ministers, Curtis in the Hilliard Free Will Baptist Church, Kenneth at the Amity Enterprise Baptist Church.

Carl, the company's general manager, is an RCA color-trained engineer. All the brothers and their employes are highly trained and experienced technicians, Carl pointed out.

For example, Hobart Sluss, their chief technician, has a modest 21 years experience in electronic repair and is licensed in all phases.

Since the little garage on Truro-rd, Sagraves, have expanded into a large discount house offering washers, dryers, refrigerators, freezers, air conditioners, dish washers and most other appliances.

Their entertainment department carries am-fm radios, stereos, transistor radios, hi-fi's, tape recorders and televisions.

In explaining their large discounts on most items, Kenneth said: "We're located in a low-rent district, we handle our own sales and service, and we by-pass all 'middleman's costs."

He said, "All of us — and this is not boasting — all of us are competently trained engineers and technicians. We know exactly what we are doing and this not only pleases customers, but keeps their service costs low long after their warranties have expired. They come back to us for service, and also when they replace or add other appliances."

The Sagraves brothers have announced that they are definitely a discount house and will compete favorably with any in the Central Ohio area. They are furthering plans to add a wholesale electronic parts outlet department.

During their grand opening, Apr. 26 through May 1, they are offering free pizza to the browsing public, soft drinks, mileage calculators and rain hats, 5-piece measuring sets and for the kiddies balloons, marbles and kites.

BUSY WITH CUSTOMER SERVICE, as well as details for the Grand Opening of Sagraves TV and Appliances this week, Pedro missed his date with the photographer, but (from left) Curtis, Kenneth and Carl Sagraves took a minute off to pose, and invite the public out for free pizza and gifts and a look at their new discount center.

JEWISH CENTER MAY 2 TO 6

Bibical Wood Sculptor To Stage Show

Howard Schoenbaum, Jewish Center president, announced the second event of the newly-developed Gordon Memorial Series of cultural events will be held during the week of Sunday, May 2, through Thursday, May 6.

A one-man art show will be staged by Nehemiah Mark, Biblical wood sculptor, who has widely toured the United States and Canada.

A meet-the-artist reception will be hosted by members of the Jewish Center Art Committee, Sunday, May 2, 2 to 4 p.m. During this time, Mark will demonstrate his techniques in wood carving.

At 3 p.m. the 71-year-old artist will lecture on "Art Through Faith."

The exhibit, which will be held in the Adult Lounge, 1125 College-av, consists of more than 100 items of various sizes. It is being brought to Columbus through the courtesy of the Gordon Memorial Fund.

Mark was born in Lithuania and came to the United States more than half a century ago. He has put aside his work as teacher and rabbi to concentrate on transmitting faith through wood.

Bearing in mind the Biblical Commandment — You shall not make for yourself any graven image — he does not carve full faces, always leaving one feature uncompleted.

Beginning on Monday, May 3, Mark will meet with a range of community workers, religious school educators and their students, and many other community groups who will participate in his demonstrations and lectures.

During the course of the week, Mark will meet with Temple Israel Religious school, Torah Academy, Columbus Hebrew school, Jewish Center pre-school, Jewish Center staff and camp counselors, Golden Agers, Beth Jacob Religious school, Center teen age groups, Heritage House residents, Tifereth Israel Religious school, Agudas Achim high school class, and at the Jewish Center annual meeting on Thursday, May 6, 8:30 p.m.

Mark will be carving in wood daily in the Jewish Center lobby from about 3 p.m. on.

IN QUEST OF TRUTH

Christians everywhere recently mentally and emotionally reenacted the event of the first century when Jesus of Nazareth was born, made His declarations and was crucified.

Then, as now, many evaluations were made of His Mission and Message. Some people believed Him and followed Him and were designated Christians when they went to Antioch.

It was He who gave us the Golden Rule, which is the basis for professional and business Ethics. It is that Code we follow as we support the school and church programs so that our youngsters may be informed and ready for the days ahead. That Code is followed when we are called to serve a family in sorrow.

JOBS–PROGRESS–EDUCATION
EQUAL REPRESENTATION
NO INCREASE IN TAXES

Here's a shot in the arm . . . a buckeye booster . . . a major economic and educational transfusion for the state of Ohio. Rarely have the people of Ohio had an opportunity to vote for a program to benefit themselves so greatly, so fairly, so deservingly in all parts of the state. AND WITH NO INCREASE IN TAXES. A ballot box bonanza!

Vote YES ISSUE NUMBER 1

COLLEGE STUDENT LOANS
To put it simply—you and your kids deserve this financial break. State guaranteed loans through regular financial institutions to assure your children a higher education. How can Ohio and Ohioans do without it? Pass this Amendment!

Vote YES ISSUE NUMBER 2

EDUCATIONAL AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT
Better schools, more schools, all kinds of schools—from the first grade to colleges . . . from technical to correctional. Also recreational and public health facilities. Sewer and water lines for industrial growth and more jobs. Pass this Amendment!

Vote YES ISSUE NUMBER 3

EQUAL REPRESENTATION IN OHIO HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES—Here's the plain truth about issue 3
The Federal Court has ruled that the present method of apportionment of members for the Ohio House of Representatives is unconstitutional and must be revised. But who's going to revise it? That's the question. The people of Ohio? Or the Federal Court? Is Ohio going to run Ohio or is the Federal Government going to run Ohio? If the people of Ohio don't vote YES for Reapportionment according to the Ohio plan—the Federal Court will step in with its own plan which Ohioans don't want.

So by all means—vote YES for Issue 3—and keep Home Rule in Ohio.

Vote YES ISSUE NUMBER 4

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT
You know it! More industry in Ohio means more jobs, more paychecks, bigger salaries, a better life for Ohio workers. Ohio can gain many new industries and hundreds of millions of dollars in payroll a year. With all our other advantages—location, transportation, highways, rivers, labor—Ohio will be the industrial heart of America. Pass this Amendment!

THEY'RE YOUR ISSUES! YOUR STATE! YOUR FUTURE!

Citizens for Jobs & Progress Committee, Everett D. Sloan, Secretary-Treasurer, 165 N. Parsons, Columbus, Ohio

WITH HIS USUAL enthusiasm, Rocky salutes from the deck of the "Empress," 30-foot flagship express of the Owens line on display at the new location. In case you're considering, it sleeps six, has twin 225 horsepower Flagship Marine V-8's, 6 feet 2 inch cabin headroom, color-keyed interior, complete galley and custom lavatory, and is double-planked from keel to sheer for yacht-like seaworthiness, comfort and convenience.

Rockenbaugh Has Complete Boat Line At New Location

Out at 3260 Valleyview-dr in a new 8,400 square foot showroom, two 100-foot storage buildings, a service building and about four acres of ground, all filled with boats and cruisers and yachting gear.

And filled with people, too, customers and employes alike who tell stores about watercraft and cruises and fishing trips that make you nearly seasick with envy.

But probably the most exciting story is the one that hasn't been told until now. About the phenominal M. W. Rockenbaugh company itself.

From the early '40's until 1957 the Rockenbaughs, "Rocky" and Evelyn, tinkered around selling new and used cars. They had a lot on Cleveland-av, an agency in Greenfield, and then a lot at 3090 W. Broad-st.

Here, in 1958, they started a boat business with two tiny craft. In a sense you might say these were two of the most powerful small craft ever set afloat, at least around this city.

For in seven years, 1958 until now, they floated the Rockenbaugh company right up to the top in the boating business, as anyone can guess who visits these new facilities.

Part of their success might be attributed to the enthusiastic way Central Ohioans have taken to the water during the last decade. But most of their success can be attributed, if you believe the record, to the tremendous energy and enthusiasm these two Columbusites have contributed to the business and to the sport.

The Rockenbaughs in 1960 accepted the franchise for the noted Owens line of marine equipment. Two years later they won the Owens Grand Award, outselling all dealers in 11 states.

Last year they won the coveted Mercury Dealer Congress Award for sales. Marshall Saunders, their Mercury motor service manager, is widely noted and respected. Those who know him come from all over the state seeking his motor wizardry.

At their new location the Rockenbaughs offer fishing boats and 42-foot yachts and top-line sizes in between. On display, too, are trailers, camping trailers, motor bikes, and of course, Mercury motors and MerCruiser stern drives.

They carry a complete line of boating and yachting gear, and have storage and service facilities. They are charter members of COMDA, which promotes better boating and boating facilities. The Rockenbaughs pioneered long-term financing in this area for cruisers and higher-priced boats.

'65 Parade Of Homes Is June 12

The 1965 Parade of Homes is set for opening June 12, in Walnut Hill Park, south of Livingston-av, in the southern section of the city.

According to William S. Fannin, chairman of the parade, 26 homes in all styles of architecture will be on display. Twenty-four different builders, all members of the sponsoring Home Builders Association of Greater Columbus, are participating in the event.

"The purpose of the Parade," Mr. Fannin said, "is to show the residents of central Ohio the newest ideas in homes and home building. While just 24 of the more than 175 builder members of the Home Builders Association can participate, all members, located in every section of the city, enthusiastically back the event as an educational program to help those planning new homes or remodeling.

YMCA Camp Opens June 20

Camp Alfred L. Willson, owned and operated by the YMCA, opens the summer camping season for boys 8 through 15 Sunday, June 20.

The camp's 337 acres of partially-wooded, scenic country, containing 70-acre Lake-Mac-O-Chee, near Bellefontaine, provides varied camping activities to suit interests and needs of all youth.

Water activities include swimming, boating, sailing, fishing and canoeing. In addition, there are a wide variety of daytime and evening programs including tennis, archery, horseback riding, council fires, handcraft and a camp-stocked zoo.

Constant supervision is guaranteed by a trained and experienced staff.

Interested parents are urged to register their children as early as possible. Last year all camping periods were filled at any early date.

Persons desiring complete details on Camp Willson may write or call the YMCA, 40 W. Long-st, for a Camp Willson folder.

Ward's Sprayer Speeds Painting

Painting the professional way is made easy with Ward's budget-priced paint spray outfits which are being featured during the final days of the Ward Week Celebration Sale.

Easy to operate, the sprayers can be used anywhere an electrical outlet is available.

Instructions are easy to follow. Just fill the paint cup, plug in the sprayer and pull the trigger. No matter how big or small the job, painting with a Ward's sprayer is said to be four to seven times faster.

Besides the downtown store, Montgomery Ward and Co., have appliance stores at three locations: Great Southern Shopping Center, Great Western Shopping Center and at Town and Country Shopping Center.

MARK TENTH BIRTHDAY

McDONALD'S HAMBURGERS, with over 706 restaurants from coast to coast, are now celebrating their 10th year of operation. In keeping with increased growth they have opened a new regional office at 1116 S. High-st, headed by Ralph Lanphar, regional manager. Lanphar said Columbus was selected as the new office location, which will serve seven states, because of its central location and the promise of continued prosperity and economic growth within the area.

Rite Rug Observes 30th Year At Same Location

There must be very few if any Columbusites who, either in their own home or while visiting have not walked upon a rug or carpet or hard floor covering that came out of a shop at 262 S. High-st called Rite Rug.

The firm has been doing business there in the same location for 30 years, and has grown with the city.

It is difficult for an outsider to know how in the world they ever keep track of hundreds and thousands of selections in rugs and carpeting of every color and design that come from the nation's hundreds of busy mills and distributors. But somehow, they do.

Walk into the store and you can choose from Bigelow, Masland, Magee, Karastan, Coronet and a host of other equally famous name brands in a rainbow of colors and textures.

Rite Rug Company advertises themselves as one of the largest individual retail dealers in rugs and carpets in the United States and without checking statistics you can assume they are if their stock and samples are any criteria.

The store employs expert carpet workmen and they display a knowledge of decorating and color coordination which must be based on many years of experience.

Right now they are featuring exciting patterns and colors in summer home carpeting and accent rugs are available for immediate delivery from warehouse stock. As an extra value during their summer home carpeting special, which is now in effect, Rite Rug offers all the padding and labor — free — required to install your purchase of wall-to-wall carpeting.

The store is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and on Monday and Thursday they remain open until 9 p.m. They are also featuring vinyl inlay, linoleum, and other tile and hard surface floor covering. Rugs and carpeting are offered without down payment and for the customer's convenience payment can be extended up to three years.

Those who prefer to select their carpeting in the home where samples can be harmonized with the room's present decor can call CA. 8-1571 or CA. 8-3201 and a representative will call with a wide variety of samples. This service is offered without charge or obligation, one of Rite Rug Company's many features of convenience.

COFFEE BREAK

Why We've Called Off Spring Cleaning

By ADELINE DALEY

After starting what we facetiously call "spring cleaning") because it amounts to doing chores we've put off since last December, such as disposing of the Christmas tree) I have concluded that we are faced with two alternatives: "We either have to rent warehouse space—or move."

Otherwise, what are we going to do with all of our teenaged daughters' hair rollers? Right now, I believe we have a collection of every type of roller ever manufactured — ones with brushes, one without brushes, magnetized ones, de-magnitized ones and those horrible types with nail-like bristles.

I have the general impression, too, that my husband isn't very happy with seeing boxes of rollers and curlers everywhere he looks. In fact, he asked me if they had been declared government surplus yet; he hoped that we'd be receiving a subsidy from the government for not using all of them.

But rollers aren't the only items we have in overabundant supply in this household. Take empty pop bottles. And I wish you would, because I can't find a grocery store within a 30-mile radius which will claim some of the off-brand labels.

In fact, I have offered to pay stores a goodly amount to take them off my hands everytime I hear a checker at the supermarket reluctantly declare, "I'm sorry, ma'am, but we don't refund on 'Zwip,' 'Quirp' or 'Gloop' bottles."

Somewhere, someplace there is a little store that sells these products — and nothing else, — but nobody in this household can remember where.

We're also running out of space in which to keep the empty mayonnaise and peanut butter jars I keep saving in the hope of using them when I make my own jellies and jams. In the meantime I keep buying preserves at the supermarket in order to get drinking glasses.

Our medicine cabinet could also stand to be cleaned out of half-used prescriptions of pills for ailments that I no longer can remember. Considering their high cost, I often wonder whether I ought to gamble and use an unknown tube of ointment to combat poison oak or save it to whiten the kids' shoes next Sunday.

About the best idea I've had yet for what to do with this collection of intangibles is to call off spring cleaning.

'Go' On All But Issue No. 4

Last week we encouraged passage of the controversial Issue No. 3 on the May 4 Primary ballot. This deals with reapportioning of seats in the Ohio House of Representatives and subdistricting for seats in the U.S. Congress.

But there are three other important state issues to be decided by the electorate, guaranteeing of student college loans, the $290 million bond issue, and establishment of an industrial development financing program.

There is almost universal agreement that the state should continue its college loan program through the Higher Education Assistance Commission. The question of conformity with the Ohio Constitution has not been challenged.

But, a 1964 Ohio Supreme Court decision ruled unconstitutional the industrial development program by which the state was to back loans for industrial development and expansion. The court held that the plan was an improper extension of the state's credit. This left the door open for a similar challenge of the student loan program.

ISSUE NO. 1 would make clear the state's right to extend its credit to the educational loan program. It is a worthy measure, deserving of an affirmative vote.

ISSUE NO. 2—the $290 million bond issue — is another proposal that merits a "yes" vote. The "pork barrel" flavor notwithstanding, the bonding program encompasses many necessary projects.

Higher education stands to garner the lion's share of the funds, $145 million. Public school construction is marked down for a $25 million share. Mental Hygiene and Correction is listed as a $30 million beneficiary of the bond issue.

Unfortunately, we think, the entire $30 million will be required for a new penitentiary and a reformatory. We would like to see a sustained and meaningful approach to needs within the Division of Mental Hygiene.

There are other less serious flaws in the measure, but, on the whole, it is necessary and should be passed.

ISSUE NO. 4—the industrial financing program — stems from the Ohio Supreme Court decision mentioned above. The court inactivated the Ohio Development Financing Commission, created by statute in 1963.

The commission was intended to administer a loan program, through revenue bond financing, to encourage location and expansion of private enterprise. The proposed change in the Ohio Constitution would validate the commission and permit the state to underwrite such loans.

This seems to us to be an impractical way to attract stable and worthwhile industry and its expansion. The plan, in its simplest terms, means a state subsidy for private enterprise. It smacks of the something-for-nothing philosophy, a creed foreign to really worthwhile industry.

We think that management decisions relating to plant location and/or expansion is a private enterprise matter. The state's responsibility is to provide for industry those necessary services reserved to the state.

The type of industry Ohio needs should be more interested in our basic resources, highways, welfare services and stability of tax base, rather than securing financial assistance. The industrial subsidy measure merits a "no" vote.

Respect for the Law Insures Order

Law Day Is Significant

May 1 will mark the end of a week-long observance of Law Week, and has been designated Law Day U.S.A.

Law Day, sponsored by the American Bar Association, has a deeper significance this year than ever before. In recent months those charged with administration of our laws have been doing some constructive soul-searching. In Ohio, for example, much attention has been given to updating our court systems.

There has been discussion about the relationship between attorneys and law enforcement officials — and the part played by the news media in both areas.

Respect for the law breeds order. Those sworn to enforcement and administration of our laws are working hard to gain our respect. It is our responsibility to support such efforts. The net result will be laws which respect the rights of the individual and secure the protection of all.

Guest Pulpit . . .

Recently, on a day we have called down through many centuries "Good Friday," I had an experience in depth.

Rev. Koster

Among the many worship experiences I was privileged to have during Lent, I feel the pinnacle was at Lord's Table in the chapel at Training Institution of Central Ohio, a school for the older delinquent boy. It was at this service that I discovered anew the breadth of Christ's table and it was He alone Who has the right of giving an invitation to sit with Him in "Holy Communion."

At TICO that Friday we offered in Christ's name a service of Holy Communion to those who earnestly desired to feed on Him by faith and in thanksgiving. Out of approximately 165 boys my fondest expectation for such an experience would have been 25 to 35. But over 70 boys, carrying many negative labels by society and bearing many frustrations and problems, came reverently, and searchingly upon invitation.

I was moved greatly when I saw at Christ's table room for both white and black, teacher and student, learned and unlearned, those in authority and those under authority; and all without money and without price. I was reminded again that we do not come to Christ's Table because we are good, and we do not refrain because we are bad, but all come because He has invited us even though not always worthy. I noted that some who knelt there would not be invited to many tables set by the prejudiced and selfish hands of man. But Jesus Christ said "whosoever will may come." Realizing this, I found reason to rejoice and offer thanksgiving.

Following the service, a number of troubled boys thanked me for providing an opportunity for them to share in the high moment of Holy Communion. Reflecting back upon this mountain top experience it is thrilling to know that "God so loved the world that He gave His only Son," that all men, regardless of color, status, or circumstance, when believing upon Christ can know His peace and can come boldly before His Throne of Grace, and find a place at His table.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

So, Why Not Whole-Hog Freedom?

My favorite professor at the moment is Mulford Q. Sibley, instructor in political science at the University of Minnesota who has fearlessly outlined the dimensions of that complete academic freedom which the American Association of University Professors is always shouting for.

On Apr. 10, according to an Associated Press report from Winnipeg, Professor Sibley addressed the Winnipeg chapter of something called "The Voice of Women." He had a little difficulty getting into Canada. For a short time Immigration Minister John Nicholson objected because Professor Sibley has been quoted as claiming that, in a free society, universities should allow nudist colonies and free love clubs. But, fortunately, freedom prevailed and the Minnesota scholar went up to give the Canadian ladies the word.

Jones

The word was that the United States is in an evil and immoral position in Viet Nam, that it is "violating international law," and that "the show of strength drives many people away who would be attracted to the United States through cooperative measures."

It is splendid to think that the University of Minnesota has the courage to maintain on its payroll a political expert who goes into a foreign country to outline the inequities of his own. We should be humiliated to compare our criminal bombing of North Viet Nam with the puckish blowing up of the U.S. Embassy in Saigon, or the light-hearted elimination of troublesome anti-Communist elements in villages overrun by the Viet Cong. As Professor Sibley points out, international law must be observed.

As a professor of political science, Mulford Q. Sibley was in a fine position to tell the ladies in Winnipeg how people have been attracted to the United States "through cooperative measures." We hope he mentioned how our vast outpouring of foreign aid into France, Indonesia, Pakistan, Burma, Syria and Ghana has gained us firm friendship, to use a few examples.

It is terrible to think that some reactionary citizens and parents in Minnesota agitate to separate Professor Sibley from the public payroll. They don't understand the first thing about academic freedom. Academic freedom means that the professor who outrages bourgeois ideas of public decency and denounces popular opinions is absolutely inseparable from the public payroll.

As far as the academically-free faculty is concerned the farther out you are the farther in you are. You are deemed invaluable for jolting the old middle-class shibboleths and leading youth into new and more exciting areas of experimentation. After awhile you simply become unfirable, and any college administration that would seek to pry you loose will have to answer for tyrannizing free expression.

Therefore, it is splendid that Professor Sibley has boldly advocated nudist colonies on the campus, even though most parents think bikinis are bad enough, and that he favors free love clubs in spite of widely-held opinion that many kids are well down that road already.

Professor Sibley, as a matter of fact, is my candidate for president of the university. For I have several nominations for the faculty.

One is Madame Fifi Trollope who used to run a popular establishment in Marseilles. She should be dean of women. After all, how can you be absolutely sure that free love will be available at all hours of the day or night unless you have some young ladies on the public payroll to guarantee the service? Madame Fifi could set things up in a truly democratic manner, where there would be no considerations of race, creed or druthers.

For the medical school faculty I suggest Dr. Nkrumas Ogooue of Upper Gabon. It is time to break the strangle-hold of the American Medical Association on the medical school and Doctor Ogooue is a man who challenges. He challenges such things as antibiotics and antiseptics. He has a marvelous juju bag containing leopards' claws, monkey teeth and chalked bones, and he is a wizard at wax figures. Obviously, Doctor Ogooue would bring fresh medical theories to his students, and he dances well, too.

For the department of astro-physics my man is Herkimer Z. Schizo who is well known in several state institutions. Mr. Schizo is sure the moon is made of green cheese. Nobody has actually been on the moon yet and therefore Mr. Schizo's theory is as good as anyone else's. But the students have been told only that the lunar surface is made of lava and volcanic dust, a very narrow point of view. The Schizo approach also presents an exciting solution to the world food shortage. If we can winch the moon in close enough we can eat it.

Academic freedom is just wonderful.

'THE GRIST'
Ground Out by Dusty Miller

TALES — Good stories, like good songs, last. "From my youth up" I've heard my tale-telling grandfather's story repeated — about the man with an ailing liver, who went West, drank water good for livers, and when he died at 123, they had to take his liver out and kill it with a club.

Retold recently to 10,000 people it hit the show's laughmeter's top notch.

A church congregation was convulsed a few Sundays ago by the story of a man filling out a death certificate. Under "Remarks" he wrote: "He didn't make none."

Dusty

That anecdote and its twin were taken on the ark by Brer Noah. The section boss filling out the blank reporting a cow's unsuccessful bout with an engine wrote under "Disposition of Remains," three words: "Kind and gentle."

Like I say -- the good ones last.

Frosting on the Cake
BY "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

The recent Sunday evening "mess" on the freeway is both inexcusable and unnecessary. There are "human element" failures in every such incident but the one redeeming factor is that every time such a foul-up occurs someone learns something that might have been thought of beforehand.

The State Highway Department got "shock treatment" about it so fast that it curled a lot of hair in high and mighty places. This man Shocknessey is something special in lots of people's rate book.

Inside of 10 years this marvelous city of Columbus will be one of the truly great metropolitan areas of this country. It already is great. Transportation problems are going to multiply like rabbits and unless some far ahead "looking and thinking" is done now, the only answer is to "stack 'em" as added millions of cars jampack every street and highway.

People who work downtown every day will have to change their minds about having thousands of cars pour into the "loop" every morning from 7 to 9 with only one person riding in each car. Many of us who never drive downtown except in imperative emergencies, are already more wisely oriented. We can go whenever we choose by bus and have no parking fee, no high blood pressure, and no busted fenders. The psychological injury to thousands of drivers each morning and evening is already recognized as a definite medical problem.

There are many partial answers to the headache. First get rid of all grade crossings in every direction out of town, not just on the freeways. For 10 years the situation at Third-av, Fifth-av, King-av, North Broadway and Star-rd and Olentangy River-rd has been screaming for action. Wasted gasoline at all these intersections in one year would pay for every such crossover or underpass needed.

Another solution is genuine rapid-transit from outmost points in all four directions. Parking lots that can handle the whole terminal burden simply must be established and express bus service amplified many times. Better yet is elevated monorail service that stops at every important crossing street.

There can be mass transportation if real convenience and safety are made available. It will never be solved by "politics." Partisan piffle is out in this challenge.

Grateful For School Levy Support Editorial

To the Editor:

We want to thank you for your editorial "Consider School Levy a Solid Investment," printed Apr. 8.

The parents of the boys and girls who take an active part and attend the PTA meetings regularly know how important it is for the passage of the school levy on May 4. It is our job to convince those who are not informed. We have been told by some, "The schools always want more money. Every election we are expected to vote more money for the schools."

The Columbus Board of Education has not submitted an additional levy to the voters for four years, since 1961. Two other issues have appeared on the ballot since 1961. One was renewal of the operating millage in November, 1963, and a bond issue for construction funds in November, 1964. Now, what is the difference between a bond issue and an operating levy?

A bond issue provides funds for construction and it does not cost the taxpayer any additional money. An operating levy provides operating revenues to purchase instructional materials, pay salaries, meet fuel and utilities bills, etc. The school issue that we shall be voting on May 4 is a 3.9-mill operating levy, which is the equivalent of $3.90 per $1,000 of assessed valuation of our property.

We hope all the parents and friends of the boys and girls in the Hilltop Spectator area will consider making a small investment in their future and vote "YES" for the operating levy at the primary election on May 4, 1965.

Mrs. Gordon Black, publicity
West Junior-Senior High PTA

To the Editor:

Your editorial entitled "Consider School Levy A Solid Investment" was indeed a most logical, honest and clear statement. Your consistent support of educational programs to improve opportunities for boys and girls is indeed gratifying.

D. P. Randall, Principal
West Junior-Senior High School

I want to compliment you for the very fine editorial in The Spectator, headed "Consider School Levy a Solid Investment." In my opinion you did an excellent piece of work in assembling problems and facts needed by the public to evaluate the levy and help in arriving at a favorable conclusion.

I would tell you also that I like very much your plan of distributing the paper over the entire city. Evidently many other people do also because I have heard many favorable comments.

Says Rhodes Is Spender Who Preaches Thrift

To the Editor:

If the newspapers are the guardians of the public interest as they pretend to be, isn't it about time that they call a halt on the spending spree of Governor Rhodes?

Since he took office and ever since the legislature has been in session, not one constructive piece of legislation beneficial to the people of Ohio has been enacted.

He assumed the office of governor in the same manner in which he became mayor of Columbus. In both instances he preached "austerity" and "no new taxes." Yet, upon learning that he had been elected mayor, he pushed legislation through council imposing the city income tax on a non-suspecting Columbus public which has been plagued with it ever since.

Upon becoming governor, he again embarked on a so-called "austerity" program, ruthlessly "abolished" the jobs of a number of faithful state Civil Service employes for reasons of "economy" and then suddenly sponsored a program of bond issues and spending that eventually will lead this state to certain financial ruin.

A look at the record finds him—

Spending $626,000 on a booklet "The Wonderful World of Ohio;" $314,000 on elaborate highway maps for a total of $940,000 of the taxpayers' money, but which in the long run is merely propaganda for Rhodes himself.

Inserting campaign literature for the four proposed constitutional amendments and campaign buttons for the same issues in the pay envelopes of state employes in violation of Ohio Civil Service laws.

Condoning pay increases for the governor from $25,000 to $35,000; state legislators from $5,000 to $7,500, and increases for cabinet members, various judges and township officials.

Flying over the countryside in a state airplane at the expense of taxpayers, attempting to secure new Ohio industries to "create more jobs," thereby usurping the powers of the various chambers of commerce which have their own industrial departments which attract new industries best suited to their own communities.

Passing a compulsory automobile inspection bill which will cost auto owners $4 more a year in addition to their auto license fees and which will create inspection agencies which will be political plums for Rhodes' supporters similar to deputy motor vehicle registrars who "kick back" to the governor for this kind of patron-[illegible].

Now truthfully, Mr. Editor, what benefits are in this program for you? Nothing but increased taxes. Someone must pay the interest on bonds. Rhodes went into office declaring the state was "broke" by the Democrats. If that is the case, where does he get the money to finance the foregoing program of spending? Who pays for the television time used to promote the four issues on the May 4 election ballot?

Agrees With Judge's Views

To the Editor:

I would like to tell you that I have enjoyed reading The Spectator for quite some time now.

Amen to Judge Shull's testimony ("Guest Pulpit," Apr. 15) on what Jesus Christ has meant to him and also the warning, which he quoted from the word of God, concerning the nations which turn away from God.

Those of us who consider ourselves Christians should realize that we do not have to be judges nor do we need a telescope to see the many people who are in great need of Christ.

I liked your Easter editorial.

LEVY DECISION DUE MAY 4 . . .

School Costs Relatively Low

(Editor's Note: The Columbus Board of Education is asking voters to approve a 3.9-mill school levy on May 4. The board has given three major reasons for the levy: (1) Enrollment growth; (2) Neighborhood seminar recommendations, and (3) to attract and retain well-qualified teachers. All three reasons were discussed in previous articles. The article today, the last of the series prepared by the school board, touches upon the financial factors.)

The tax rate for the 1965 tax-collection year in Columbus is 32.5 mills.

An analysis of school expenditures and tax rates indicates that Columbus is in good position to support the proposed levy.

School expenditures in Columbus are comparatively low. Among the 40 city school districts in Ohio having populations in excess of 30,000 Columbus ranked 38th in school expenditures during the 1963-64 school year.

Figures provided by the State Department of Education show that Columbus spent $339.25 on the education of each pupil during the 1963-64 school year. School costs in Cincinnati were 29% higher; in Dayton, 24% higher; in Youngstown, 23% higher; in Cleveland, 22% higher; in Toledo, 21% higher, and in Akron, 17% higher.

Among the suburbs, school costs in Grandview were 51% higher; in Bexley, 42% higher; in Upper Arlington, 22% higher; in South - Western (Grove City) S. D., 17% higher; in Worthington, 16% higher; in Whitehall, 10% higher; and in Westerville, 1% higher.

Property taxes in Columbus are also comparatively low.

Rates in Ohio's other large cities are as follows:

Cleveland	46.60 mills
Cincinnati	42.22 mills
Akron	39.84 mills
Dayton	39.80 mills
Youngstown	37.00 mills
Toledo	33.80 mills

Rates in Franklin County municipalities are as follows:

Grove City (South-Western S.D.)	40.20 mills
Worthington	38.90 mills
Upper Arlington	38.70 mills
Westerville	37.30 mills
Bexley	36.70 mills
Whitehall	34.00 mills
Grandview	30.00 mills

Upper Arlington schools and Worthington schools also will seek tax-rate increases of 3.95 mills and 3.8 mills, respectively, at the primary election on May 4.

Approval of the Columbus school levy would causes taxes on a home having a market value of $15,000 to be increased by approximately 45 cents a week.

It pays to read the classifieds.

ART LOANS POPULAR

Early March 1965 marked the end of the first successful year of another service of the Columbus Public Library.

Early last year the library began to buy framed prints, reproductions of famous paintings by a representative group of American and European artists. Now there are 95 prints in the collection valued at $2100. Old masters and moderns are included.

Library patrons borrow prints on their library cards. The fee is $1 for 28 days, with a penalty of 25 cents a day for overtime. But loans may be renewed up to a limit of three months.

Churches and corporations, as well as students, and other individuals have borrowed pictures.

Almost every print has been out at least once. The most popular in the first year has been Antonio Canaletto's Square of St. Mark. Others that have been out more than once include works by Boucher, Cathelin, Cezanne, Corot, Ellis, Gauguin, Monet, Guardi, Picasso, Sargent, Utrillo, Van Gogh, Weyeth, Monet, and Cavael.

Some patrons have been inspired to buy prints elsewhere (Library prints are not for sale). Most patrons take good care of the prints. Many have been thoughtful enough to wrap them in plastic when necessary to carry them in bad weather. The Library is now having canvas carrying cases made.

Rental fees and fines during the first year totalled about $800. Two prints have been lost.

Apparently library people feel rather proud as they have the right, of the first year of this new service. It is one more indication, if any be needed, that they know their business.

It says here . . .

Receptive appreciation of art is one of the gracious facets of a civilized society.

DAV Heads Hospital Day Programming

Columbus area veterans organizations play an important part in the National Hospital Day observance at Chillicothe Veterans Hospital, Sunday, May 2.

This year the Disabled American Veterans are arranging the program and H. O. Parke, 311 S. Glenwood-av, is chairman. Others from DAV are Mr. and Mrs. George Sriner, 1040 S. Roosevelt-av, past department president; Grace Nagel, 503 S. Ogden-av; Wayne McClung, local chapter commander, 3516 Wicklow-rd; Charles Copas, 201 Ziegler-av; Jasper Henery, 244 S. Weyant-av; Robert A. Scott, 1420 Oakland Park-av. Ohio Commander Howard Kabler and Adjutant Albert A. Daniels also will be present.

Heading other local groups are Paul Welsh, state adjutant, Amvets; Mrs. Esther King, department president, Blue Star Mothers of America.

About 10,000 visitors are expected at the hospital. Chapel services will begin at 8 a.m. Formal activities begin at 11 a.m. Newscaster Chet Long will be master of ceremonies. Albert Cuervo, DAV official from Washington, will give the main address. There will be a parade at 3 p.m. and a dance at 7.

Volunteers will be given recognition for exceptional service.

TB Levy Gains New Supporters

Seven major Columbus organizations have endorsed the .55 mill TB Tax Levy that Franklin County voters will be asked to renew May 4.

Dr. James R. Hull, chairman of the Citizens' Committee to Renew the TB Tax Levy, announced that they had received endorsements from the Tuberculosis Society, Franklin County Democratic Women's Club, Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce, Pilot Club, Columbus Board of Health, Frontiers International and the Junior League.

The endorsements noted that approximately three-fourths of the operating expenses of the Franklin County TB hospital came from the levy which is now in existence.

The hospital is the only tax-supported hospital for Franklin County TB patients, and the hospital and TB clinic, in the Columbus Health Center, has been termed indespensable to controlling tuberculosis in Franklin County.

The levy is a renewal and reduction of the .6 mill levy which currently provides funds for the Franklin County TB Hospital on Alum Creek-dr, the clinic and TB Controller's Office.

TOP OF A NATURAL GAS STORAGE FIELD

On top, an underground gas storage field looks like any other country field. But underneath — thousands of feet down in the earth — Nature provided a special kind of porous rock in which huge volumes of natural gas can be stored safely and securely.

Here in Ohio gas is stored underground during summer and withdrawn in winter to heat your home. About half the gas delivered by the gas company on a cold winter day comes from underground storage.

Because of underground storage, you can have the natural gas you need, at reasonable rates.

Three Reasons FOR The Columbus School Levy

1. To provide the income to educate 16,000 MORE PUPILS by 1968

2. To carry out improvements in the program and services of the Columbus Public Schools, as recommended by 4,000 citizens who participated in Neighborhood Seminars on School Program and Finance two years ago.

3. To strengthen the competitive position of Columbus in attracting and retaining well-qualified teachers.

Who's Stalling on the Fair School Bus Bill???

(An open letter from Ohio Citizens for Educational Freedom)

To: The Governor and Legislative Leaders

We have brought before the Legislature Senate Bill No. 10 and House Bill No. 255 which provide for uniform and equal treatment for all Ohio's school children.

Over 400,000 Ohio voters signed petitions urging the Governor to take a position of positive leadership on this matter. Hundreds of thousands of individual letters have been sent by parents throughout the state supporting the Fair School Bus Bill.

To date, there has been only maneuvering and delay on this issue. The elected representatives should have the opportunity to vote and express the wish of the people on this measure.

Traditionally, the Executive Branch has taken the lead in urging the passage of bills which affect the common good. The Chief Executive can and should encourage Legislative Leaders to face up to their responsibility. Both the Executive and Legislative Branches must be held accountable for Fair School Bus Legislation in Ohio.

The Governor and a majority of the 106th General Assembly have publicly stated that they are in favor of equal treatment and the safety of bus transportation for all children. We call upon them NOW to exert their leadership and put forth the same energies for the Fair School Bus Bill as they are for the four issues to be voted on May 4.

Ohio's children are most precious to us parents and their safety should be the immediate concern of the Administration authorities and the entire General Assembly. The children's safety and equal treatment are the only questions involved in the Fair School Bus Bill. In these matters — actions will speak louder than words.

OEF FAIR BUS BILL

Under Buckeye Skies

By KEN MACK McCREARY

Fishin' Spots Revisited . . .

Now that the spring fishing season has reached its hot and heavy stage, my telephone has developed a severe case of "ring-itis." What does that have to do with angling? Well, most of the time when the phone rings, the conversation begins with something like: "Hey, Ken, where's the best place to go fishin'?" Understandably, I'm a bit reluctant to give out with any so-called expert opinions — not that I fish any fish-loaded secret spots, but such advice can frequently backfire; often the water conditions and fishing success can turn sour by the time the fisherman gets there, and you can guess who gets blamed.

McCreary

Be that as it may, with some of the best fishing of the year coming up now and in the next few weeks, here are our nominations for some of the "best spots" to head for:

Buckeye Lake, the old canal lake 25 miles east of Columbus yields some of the best bass fishing in the state early each spring. That spree is about over, but good catches of largemouth, crappies, bluegills, catfish and perch are still being caught. The brief white bass run is also just about due.

Dillon Reservoir, the 1,300-acre Muskingum County lake, is a real bet for one of the hottest spots in Ohio this year. Muskies (up to 15 pounds), bass and crappies are the front runners.

Other likely producers for muskie angling this spring are Hargus Creek Lake down in Pickaway County and old reliable Rocky Fork Lake in Highland County.

Hoover Reservoir, northeast of Columbus, rates right at the top of the walleye fishing list . . . this should be one of the best years for the Columbus water-supply pond. Division of Wildlife test nets in Hoover recently turned up almost unbelievable numbers of the tasty walleyes; one net produced over 100 in a single lifting. To let you in on the "Where?" secret — the net was on the east shoreline, just south of Mack's Cove, near Walnut-st.

Central Ohio lakes which should provide worthwhile fishing during the next few weeks are Delaware Reservoir, Hocking Lake and both Griggs and O'Shaughnessy Reservoirs. In addition, don't pass up any available farm ponds for lunker bass and big bluegills. If you're a fan of smallmouth bass angling, Deer Creek, Big Darby, Little Darby and the Kokosing River all are ranked in the "best" category.

Oh, one final note — if you try any of these fish-y bodies of water and don't end up with a full stringer, please don't blame this writer; let's face it, we all have bad days once in a while.

Busy this evening? There's a meeting which all Franklin County sportsmen should be interested in; it's the county fish and game hearing, at the Youth Center of the State Fairgrounds, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Public is invited to attend, and to make known opinions on the proposed laws which will regulate hunting and angling during the next 15 months. Division of Wildlife personnel will be on hand to explain the proposals and answer questions. The item expected to get the most attention and possibly the most controversy is the proposal to change the deer hunting season on a zone basis.

Jets Open Home Stand Tomorrow

The Columbus Jets, battling for an early grasp on the International League lead, return to Jet Stadium tomorrow evening for their second home stand of the young season.

The eight-game stand will find Syracuse's Chiefs joining the Jets for a five-game series with night games set tomorrow (8 p.m.), Saturday (6:30) and Monday (8 p.m.) with a big Sunday doubleheader (1:30 p.m.) in between.

Rochester replaces the Chiefs in the visitor's dugout Tuesday, opening a three-game series (all night games at 8 p.m.).

The Jets' Wednesday date with the Red Wings will be "City Hall Night" with tickets on sale now at all city departments.

Following the set with Rochester, the Jets hit the road for stops at Buffalo and Toronto before returning home (Friday, May 14) to open a short three-day stand with Toledo's Mud Hens — the IL's newest entry.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Put Spring Into Your Menus, Now

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — valencia oranges, bananas, pineapple, grapefruit, orange juice (chilled and frozen).

Vegetables — carrots, cabbage, Katahdin potatoes, salad greens, onions, cucumbers, radishes.

Meat, Poultry — broiler-fryers, eggs, beef "specials," ground beef, canned hams.

Other — dairy products, fresh smelts, canned: pears, fruit cocktail, tomato products.

It's time to give menus a new spring face. You can start with homegrown asparagus — the true sign that spring has really sprung.

The first cutting of local asparagus came to market just a week ago, and if the weather is favorable there will be good volume by May 1. The growers say prospects for a quality crop are good.

The first local rhubarb also arrived last week and there's enough now for everybody. Then there are fine spring greens — homegrown kale, spinach and long, slender cultivated dandelions — all tender and filled with vitamins.

Head lettuce is recovering from rain damage and prices are getting back to normal. Other salad greens are excellent quality and prices the same as you've been paying. Greenhouse tomatoes are in good volume and growers say they will be sending in good ones for the next two months.

Improved weather conditions in Florida and California have increased the volume of sweet corn, pole beans, cucumbers and celery—all with slightly lower price tags. Green onions and radish prices are steady and quality good.

If you haven't had artichoke lately, now is the time they are most plentiful. About 22 percent of the annual artichoke crop comes to market in April.

As for fruit, the lower price on frozen orange juice is most welcome. Five leading chains cut prices on frozen orange concentrate after packers reduced their quotes a week ago. This action stemmed from an increase estimate of the Florida orange crop by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The total U.S. orange crop is now estimated as 23 percent larger than last year.

Meat and Poultry

Retail beef prices are steady with adequate supplies of cattle moving to market. Pork production dropped during the past month resulting in a decrease of 15 percent from a year ago. Hog prices are now at an eight - month high. Broiler - fryer production shows an upward swing and specials will be more frequent. Egg prices dropped four and five cents a dozen after Easter; the large sizes are still the better value considering weight.

FRAME OR BRICK OR THE HOME OF TOMORROW, IDEAS FOR ALL CAN BE FOUND IN THIS SPECIAL SPRING HOME SECTION.

YOU CAN BE "AT HOME"
IN A HOME OF YOUR OWN

"If Spring is here, can the sounds of home building be far behind" . . . is a paraphrase of an old saying. Yet, Spring not only brings flowers and showers, but it brings with it the excitement of a new home building season.

One of the great desires of most American families is to "have a home of our own." In fact, today, three out of every five families in the United States are enjoying the fun, pride and investment returns of home ownership. This desire has been so widespread that the home building industry has grown to be the largest single employer in Central Ohio, just trying to meet the home needs of our people. At the current rate of construction, a new home is built for every 2.3 persons added to the community . . . and it takes 15,000 people in the home building industry to keep up with the demand. In addition, remodeling of homes brings new living comfort and convenience to existing homes and accounts for 13% of all light construction in Central Ohio.

The home building industry exists for one reason, to supply the kinds of homes people want. With nearly twenty years of post-World War II building experience, builders are today offering homes in a wider variety of styles, features, prices and locations than ever before. New schools, new churches, shopping centers, recreation facilities and the extension of utilities and transportation services have opened up broad new vistas of home ownership and enjoyable, leisure living.

Mortgage money and financing arrangements are more attractive today than ever before in an effort to keep pace with rapidly expanding communities.

All of these facts add up to just one thing, if you have been thinking about a new home, then now is the time to get serious.

Builders are offering an outstanding selection of homes which are ready for occupancy. Or, if you desire, any member of the Home Builders Association will be happy to help you plan the exact house you have been dreaming about. So you see there is no need to wait.

But maybe you have a fairly new home, in the right location, and you don't want to move . .. only you just don't have enough room. Then why not remodel? New materials and techniques are now available to make your present home as modern, convenient and enjoyable as you want.

A home of your own is a good investment . . . and now is the time for you to make the decision to have the dream home you've always wanted. So, if you want a ranch style, split-level or two-story, whatever type you are looking for . . . north, east, west or south, you can be "at home" in a home of your own — new or remodeled — yet this Summer.

Neil E. Crabbe, President
Home Builders Association of Greater Columbus

Florida Furniture Co. Now Has Four Floors Of Casual Furniture

Since starting business in July, 1962, Florida Furniture Co., 229 S. Fourth-st, has had a tremendous growth as the largest mid-Ohio dealer specializing in casual furniture for outdoor and patio. In less than three years, the company has expanded from the one street-level floor to four floors at their corner location at Fourth and Rich-sts.

The owner, Mrs. Margaret Yerke, developed the idea of the store because of the family interest in Florida land sales. Mr. Yerke, president of Marvin C. Yerke and Associates, was also instrumental in General Development Co. selling real estate in Florida.

Because Florida residents spend a lot of their time with outdoor and patio furniture, Mrs. Yerke felt the same type of furniture would appeal to Ohio residents. Florida Furniture was started to specialize in recreational area furniture and the rapid growth of the business has more than proved her right. Columbus residents certainly have accepted the idea of casual furniture in their daily lives. Now many styles of casual furniture are being used indoors as well as outdoors, being adaptable for living room, dining room and bedroom.

Florida Furniture has now become the largest dealer specializing in casual furniture in the area. Some of their well-known suppliers in the furniture line are Clark Casual, Whitecraft, Beverly Hills of California, Bam Tan and Flicks-Reed.

In wrought-iron and wrought-aluminum furniture, they feature such names as Gallo, Scroll and Carolina Forge. In redwood pieces, the nationally-advertised name of Vandy Craft is sold.

SMALL PARTS

When cleaning a number of small parts in solvent, keep them from getting lost by first putting them inside a scrap piece of wire or screening bent into a bowl shape which can be lowered into solvent.

A new service at Florida Furniture was recently announced with the naming of a new manager. Mrs. Doris Speer Koski, formerly gift and home accessory buyer for a large downtown department store, now manages Florida Furniture. In her new capacity, Mrs. Koski will be available for consultation and planning . . . a service that will enable Florida Furniture customers to expertly plan their new look in furnishings.

Mrs. Koski, a graduate of OSU, also attended Franklin Business University and studied at the Chicago School of Interior Decoration. She is the wife of advertising executive Edward Z. Koski and the family resides in Westerville.

Margaret Yerke extends an invitation to all to visit Florida Furniture soon, and browse through four floors of beautiful, serviceable casual furniture that is ideal for indoor living or outdoor recreation. Florida Furniture is open Monday through Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

REPAINTING FURNITURE

If you're planning to repaint a surface that still gleams, in places, with a former coating of enamel, you should sand the glossy areas to roughen them slightly. This will provide better anchorage for your new coating. Dust off loose particles of sand and old enamel before painting.

Warren McFadden Offers All U.S. Steel Home Designs

With the living area known as Northland Village rapidly nearing successful completion, the popularity of U. S. Steel design and construction in homes has been confirmed. The variety available is indicated by the more than 80 homes in the $18,000 to $25,000 class which have been completed.

Warren McFadden, president of the Warren McFadden Co., long associated with the Real Estate Industry in Central Ohio, announces the continuation of building U. S. Steel Homes in Westerville, where some 50 new residences have been sold in the $15,000 to $19,000 range.

Additionally, Lakeland Village, featuring close proximity to the popular recreational area of Hoover Dam, continues to grow with homeseekers creating a great demand. A total of 70 more homes are to be constructed at this site.

The McFadden organization is also anticipating the opening of Northland Village East, soon to be announced. With a special entrance off the north side of Morse-rd, opposite the Sears area of Northland Shopping Center, Northland Village East will offer approximately 160 specially-designed residences by U. S. Steel.

McFadden points out that one of the features of his firm is its willingness to accept trade-ins on the purchase of new homes. In fact, he calls his office in Northland Village "The Trading Post."

In the meantime, the Warren McFadden Co., exclusive franchise dealers for U. S. Steel, offers the perfect idea for investors, since nursing homes, town houses and commercial buildings are also available. McFadden said, "Here is the ideal method for an investor to realize an income. Property owners with sizeable acreage can take advantage of all U. S. Steel talents in design and construction and make their property pay for itself through the rental of town houses and/or nursing homes. If an investor has need for a multi-floor building of any size, we have them planned."

The growth of this outstanding real estate firm is assured by the aggressive techniques instigated by McFadden.

Paint Plans Create More Color Harmony

When color styling two adjoining rooms, care should be taken to make the transition from one to the other a smooth one so that the two do not clash.

The National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association suggests two methods which help achieve a harmonious look.

One method is to paint the walls of the two rooms the same color and to repeat the color of the floor covering of one room on the ceiling of the other. A second idea would be to reverse the wall and ceiling colors of the two.

Still another plan might be to take a lighter or darker hue of the colors in the first room and use it in the second.

PAINTING MADE EASY

There are three easy steps to take in room painting: First, paint the ceiling. Second, paint the walls. Third, paint woodwork, doors and trim — after walls have dried thoroughly.

Lighting Ideas Can Give Homes Fresh New Sparkle

LIGHTING MODERNIZATION CAN BRING OUT beauty throughout the home as well as providing for good seeing. The photo above illustrates how recessed ceiling units and pulldown fixtures decorate and illuminate a basement living area.

Homes are often like people. To keep up-to-date and pleasing to all viewers, they need to be revived now and then with fresh new sparkle.

Often, for a relatively small expenditure, new lighting ideas may be incorporated that will bring the entire house up to date. Here are a few "how to's" on reviving the home with light.

To put new life in an old kitchen, and to give all the conveniences and comforts of good seeing, install a generous-sized ceiling fixture and add special lighting under the upper cabinets to light up work surface areas that call for "close seeing." If there's a kitchen work desk, place a long, slender panel of light above the desk.

More and more homemakers are electing to bring back the dining room. A pulley lamp, with a three - way switch for low, medium or high lighting placed over the dining table, may be pulled down for good lighting and zoomed ceilingward when not in use.

Or, use a chandelier. A wide range of sizes and designs is available, to suit any type of decorating and any budget.

To light up the front entrance, a romantic lantern fixture will decorate as well as spread a welcoming glow of light. For an additional friendly invitation through lighting, place a path light on the ground near the door mat.

In the entrance hall, chase dull shadows as well as put a good light on the furnishings with cheery pendants, hanging from the ceiling. Use singly, or in a cluster using four or five different colors.

Decorative lighting fixtures are lighting up bathrooms that continue to get prettier as well as more convenient. Electric supply dealers now feature an extensive display of bathroom fixtures that are attractive, easy to install and carefully crafted.

Shelter Not Enough, We Want Comfort

In case you've wondered, comfort is good for you.

Psychologists have found that physical comfort helps students to learn and workers to earn. It helps prevent accidents and illness and it can turn a disgruntled parent into a lamb and a screaming infant into a cherub.

What is comfort? It might be defined as the absence of discomfort.

Ask a handful of people what comes to mind when they think of comfort and you'll get an assortment of replies —"easy shoes," " a light in your room at night," "a soft bed," "a nice, neat, warm home," are examples.

The more people you ask, the more often you'll hear the word "warm." Sometimes it means the psychological warmth of friendship and security, but it's more apt to refer to physical warmth — a warm bed, warm clothes, a warm home.

'Ahhh,' Not 'Ugh'

Starting with the day in the dim past when Fred Flintstone the First stumbled out of the cold wind into a cave and found himself saying "ahhh" instead of "ugh," man has been trying to provide more comfort for himself and his family — often at any cost.

Man has built fires, pitched tents, constructed open shelters, invented windows and storm doors. He has hung tapestries on cold castle walls, built walk-in fireplaces, and warmed his beds with hot stones, warming pans and electric blankets. When Benjamin Franklin invented a heat-conserving stove people snapped them up and bricked up the fireplaces from which untold billions of British thermal units had escaped up the chimneys.

Today we're unbricking them, but we're not, by gosh, letting much heat escape from our homes.

Suffering Over

After centuries of suffering from the discomfort of cold walls and drafts that swept icily across floors to freeze innocent feet, Nineteenth Century Man finally did something about it. He invented insulation, but it was only about 30 years ago that the American home owner really woke up to the fact that wrapping his house in mineral wool insulation would not only make him comfortable but would also save fuel. Now almost everybody's doing it.

LIGHTING HINT

Small rooms can be made to appear larger with proper wall lighting. Wall-length fluorescent units, concealed behind shielding faceboards 68 inches off the floor on opposite walls, are effective.

Instead of buying bigger, more expensive furnaces and burning more and more fuel, the contemporary home owner makes sure his new house is insulated to recommended standards with batts or blankets of mineral wool in floors, ceilings and walls. Then he buys a smaller heating unit and burns less fuel. He saves enough money on fuel in a few years to pay for the insulation.

He also buys a smaller air conditioning unit, if he's installing one, and pays less for it and less to run it, too.

Then he and his family learn what living comfort really is — as long as they live in that house they're warm in winter and cool in summer, secure and satisfied in their cozy, comfortable home.

Watch Bulb Sizes In Your Fixtures

Keep an eye on the maximum bulb wattages noted in your lighting fixtures.

Bulbs of higher wattage overheat the fixtures and can crack the glass shielding. The heat can also shorten bulb life.

An additional consideration is the glare than can result from too much light in a single source.

Accent Your Accents

Accent your accents, advises the American Home Lighting Institute.

Room accents, like paintings, crystal, planters or art objects, fail to gain real identity without accent lighting.

Bullet-type ceiling fixtures or similar fixtures that place more light on the accents than in the immediate surroundings do the job. A pendant or reel-type fixture is suggested to highlight objects that rest on tables.

Color On Walls Can Show Faces In A Flattering Light

When it's tooth-brushing time in the morning, will the face in the bathroom mirror look cheery and bright or haggard and wan?

A lot depends on the color of the bathroom walls and trim. The right choice of hues in repainting the bathroom can make a big difference.

Walls painted in some yellows and greens reflect a most unflattering light. Pink, rose, coral and peach tones reflect a warm healthful glow that starts the day off right. Pure green and gold are good choices. Blues with a touch of red are warmer and more flattering than pure or greenish blues.

Experts recommend semi-gloss or gloss enamel when painting bathroom walls for many reasons. Enamels keep moisture vapor from entering walls and damaging plaster. Enamels are also easy to keep clean, can be scrubbed often and are more mildew resistant.

Before applying enamel, dirt should be washed away to insure adhesion of the paint and to prevent peeling. Glossy areas should be dulled with sandpaper or steel wool.

To make a bathroom look larger, walls and wood trim should be painted the same color. More than two accent colors in the average sized bathroom are distracting — accents should be picked up in towels or curtains.

Light Utility Areas

For your basement you need at least one ceiling or wall fixture over the laundry area, furnace, workshop, and game tables.

Lake Choctaw Is Beautiful Spot

275 Acres of Water Lie Behind the Spillway

New Cottages Are Being Built at Choctaw

Take a natural water basin near a big city. Build a modern dam. Fill the basin and create a lake pretty as a dream on an architect's board, and what do you have?

Why, Lake Choctaw, of course!

That's exactly what American Realty Service Corp. did over in Madison County only 23 miles from the snarl of downtown Columbus traffic.

Here, with summer coming on, moderately priced cottages as well as year-'round homes are beginning to grace the 1170 lake view and waterfront lots. More than half the lots have been sold. The others are expected to be deeded out before year end.

This company has repeated this story over 40 times in 28 states during the last 19 years. What underlies such success?

In this area the answer is simple. Here, available lakes and water sites have remained nearly static while the population exploded. Economics have played a part. And inland people have turned naturally to water sports, winter and summer recreation, and the relaxing beauty nature expresses through water wonders.

If until now a cottage on the lake has been a poor man's dream and a rich man's pleasure, Lake Choctaw has changed this. This is the answer to its immediate success here.

For the benefit of those who have not read the widespread publicity of Lake Choctaw in both paid ads and news stories, here are a few pertinent paragraphs.

Lots are spacious (15,000 feet minimum), well-located, and protected from commercialism and public use. Byare fishing piers, areas for swimming, water games and waterskiing.

Picnic and recreation areas with outdoor ovens, tables and kiddie amusements are conveniently located throughout the development.

Full lake privileges are accorded to all lot owners.

There is a central water system, electricity, telephones, all-weather roads and blacktopped main streets.

It is a development for seasonal or year-'round living. There are winter sports. Such things to look forward to as ice skating and sleigh rides or parties in the cottage before a log-burning fireplace.

Boat docks for community use are spread about 1,000 feet apart. The lake itself covers 275 acres, is more than two miles long with five and a half miles of shoreline. It is stocked with both game fish, large-mouth bass and bluegill, and native fish. There charter no other additions can be made to the subdivision. In the beach area there will be a restaurant with bath houses and a boat marina that will sell and service boats, bait and tackle, gas and oil. The main business areas will feature a shopping center with a grocery, service station, laundromat, drug store and sundry supply.

Speaking of the beach it is already developed, 750 feet of it with gaily painted pagoda umbrellas and a kiddie playground complete with swings and slides and a protective fence to keep the children out of danger.

Did you hear about the rude Indian who sent up smirk signals?

IDEAL TIME TO PAINT OUTDOOR TOYS
The best time to paint outdoor toys is in the spring before they're in big demand by the youngsters. First, remove all rust. Then apply a bright, fresh coat of enamel. Presto! They're like new again.

Color On Walls Can Show Faces In A Flattering Light

When it's tooth-brushing time in the morning, will the face in the bathroom mirror look cheery and bright or haggard and wan?

A lot depends on the color of the bathroom walls and trim. The right choice of hues in repainting the bathroom can make a big difference.

Walls painted in some yellows and greens reflect a most unflattering light. Pink, rose, coral and peach tones reflect a warm healthful glow that starts the day off right. Pure green and gold are good choices. Blues with a touch of red are warmer and more flattering than pure or greenish blues.

Experts recommend semi-gloss or gloss enamel when painting bathroom walls for many reasons. Enamels keep moisture vapor from entering walls and damaging plaster. Enamels are also easy to keep clean, can be scrubbed often and are more mildew resistant.

Before applying enamel, dirt should be washed away to insure adhesion of the paint and to prevent peeling. Glossy areas should be dulled with sandpaper or steel wool.

To make a bathroom look larger, walls and wood trim should be painted the same color. More than two accent colors in the average sized bathroom are distracting — accents should be picked up in towels or curtains.

Light Utility Areas

For your basement you need at least one ceiling or wall fixture over the laundry area, furnace, workshop, and game tables.

Shelter Not Enough, We Want Comfort

In case you've wondered, comfort is good for you.

Psychologists have found that physical comfort helps students to learn and workers to earn. It helps prevent accidents and illness and it can turn a disgruntled parent into a lamb and a screaming infant into a cherub.

What is comfort? It might be defined as the absence of discomfort.

Ask a handful of people what comes to mind when they think of comfort and you'll get an assortment of replies —"easy shoes," " a light in your room at night," "a soft bed," "a nice, neat, warm home," are examples.

The more people you ask, the more often you'll hear the word "warm." Sometimes it means the psychological warmth of friendship and security, but it's more apt to refer to physical warmth — a warm bed, warm clothes, a warm [redacted]

'Ahhh,' Not 'Ugh'

Starting with the day in the dim past when Fred Flintstone the First stumbled out of the cold wind into a cave and found himself saying "ahhh" instead of "ugh," man has been trying to provide more comfort for himself and his family — often at any cost.

Man has built fires, pitched tents, constructed open shelters, invented windows and storm doors. He has hung tapestries on cold castle walls, built walk-in fireplaces, and warmed his beds with hot stones, warming pans and electric blankets. When Benjamin Franklin invented a heat-conserving stove people snapped them up and bricked up the fireplaces from which untold billions of British thermal units had escaped up the chimneys.

Today we're unbricking them, but we're not, by gosh, letting much heat escape from our homes.

Suffering Over

After centuries of suffering from the discomfort of cold walls and drafts that swept icily across floors to freeze innocent feet, Nineteenth Century Man finally did something about it. He invented insulation, but it was only about 30 years ago that the American home owner really woke up to the fact that wrapping his house in mineral wool insulation would not only make him comfortable but would also save fuel. Now almost everybody's doing it.

Instead of buying bigger, more expensive furnaces and burning more and more fuel, the contemporary home owner makes sure his new house is insulated to recommended standards with batts or blankets of mineral wool in floors, ceilings and walls. Then he buys a smaller heating unit and burns less fuel. He saves enough money on fuel in a few years to pay for the insulation.

He also buys a smaller air conditioning unit, if he's installing one, and pays less for it and less to run it, too.

Then he and his family learn what living comfort really is — as long as they live in that house they're warm in winter and cool in summer, secure and satisfied in their cozy, comfortable home.

LIGHTING HINT

Small rooms can be made to appear larger with proper wall lighting. Wall-length fluorescent units, concealed behind shielding faceboards 68 inches off the floor on opposite walls, are effective.

Watch Bulb Sizes In Your Fixtures

Keep an eye on the maximum bulb wattages noted in your lighting fixtures.

Bulbs of higher wattage overheat the fixtures and can crack the glass shielding. The heat can also shorten bulb life.

An additional consideration is the glare that can result from too much light in a single source.

Accent Your Accents

Accent your accents, advises the American Home Lighting Institute.

Room accents, like paintings, crystal, planters or art objects, fail to gain real identity without accent lighting.

Bullet-type ceiling fixtures or similar fixtures that place more light on the accents than in the immediate surroundings do the job. A pendant or reel-type fixture is suggested to highlight objects that rest on tables.

Lake Choctaw Is Beautiful Spot

275 Acres of Water Lie Behind the Spillway

New Cottages Are Being Built at Choctaw

Take a natural water basin near a big city. Build a modern dam. Fill the basin and create a lake pretty as a dream on an architect's board, and what do you have?

Why, Lake Choctaw, of course!

That's exactly what American Realty Service Corp. did over in Madison County only 23 miles from the snarl of downtown Columbus traffic.

Here, with summer coming on, moderately priced cottages as well as year-'round homes are beginning to grace the 1170 lake view and waterfront lots. More than half the lots have been sold. The others are expected to be deeded out before year end.

This company has repeated this story over 40 times in 28 states during the last 19 years. What underlies such success?

In this area the answer is simple. Here, available lakes and water sites have remained nearly static while the population exploded. Economics have played a part. And inland people have turned naturally to water sports, winter and summer recreation, and the relaxing beauty nature expresses through water wonders.

If until now a cottage on the lake has been a poor man's dream and a rich man's pleasure, Lake Choctaw has changed this. This is the answer to its immediate success here.

For the benefit of those who have not read the widespread publicity of Lake Choctaw in both paid ads and news stories, here are a few pertinent paragraphs.

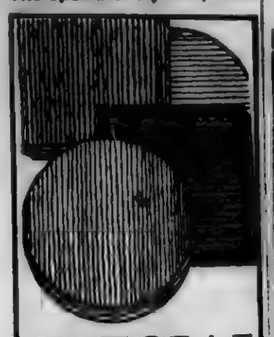
Lots are spacious (15,000 feet minimum), well-located, and protected from commercialism and public use. By charter no other additions can be made to the subdivision. In the beach area there will be a restaurant with bath houses and a boat marina that will sell and service boats, bait and tackle, gas and oil. The main business areas will feature a shopping center with a grocery, service station, laundromat, drug store and sundry supply.

Speaking of the beach it is already developed, 750 feet of it with gaily painted pagoda umbrellas and a kiddie playground complete with swings and slides and a protective fence to keep the children out of danger.

Boat docks for community use are spread about 1,000 feet apart. The lake itself covers 275 acres, is more than two miles long with five and a half miles of shoreline. It is stocked with both game fish, large-mouth bass and bluegill, and native fish. There are fishing piers, areas for swimming, water games and waterskiing.

Picnic and recreation areas with outdoor ovens, tables and kiddie amusements are conveniently located throughout the development.

Full lake privileges are accorded to all lot owners.



There is a central water system, electricity, telephones, all-weather roads and blacktopped main streets.

It is a development for seasonal or year-'round living. There are winter sports. Such things to look forward to as ice skating and sleigh rides or parties in the cottage before a log-burning fireplace.

Did you hear about the rude Indian who sent up smirk signals?

IDEAL TIME TO PAINT OUTDOOR TOYS

Making Old Kitchens New Again

QUICK WAY to "remodel" a kitchen is with steel cabinets that boast plastic panels which can be quickly changed to show a different color or grain.

EFFICIENCY AND BEAUTY MEET IN TODAY'S MODERN KITCHENS. Remodeling plan suggested here uses a "tropical island" theme for attractive appearance. Basic layout is a convenient "L." Electric appliances have coppertone finishes that blend with yellow countertops, walls and flooring. Refrigerator, mounted on wheels, glides out easily for cleaning. Extra-large oven of the range includes a rotisserie. Home laundry area is placed conveniently just behind the kitchen. Hotpoint appliances.

LIGHT THE WAY TO MEAL PLANNING and preparation in the kitchen, with lighting fixtures in the right places. In the kitchen shown here, general over-all illumination is augmented by a fixture that may be pulled down for scanning recipes or raised to add more light to other areas. Suggested by Progress Manufacturing Co.

Custom Home Builder Developes Cost-Saving

Is it possible to cut costs on a custom built home without resorting to inferior material or labor?

It is, according to Richard K. Slabaugh, president of R K. Slabaugh, Realtors, with offices at 1084 E. Hudson-st.

As proof, he points to the homes he built in beautiful Minerva Park North, in River Ridge in Arlington, to Sherwood Forest, Wilson Hills Worthington Hills.

These are custom homes built at a cost much below their market value.

Is his cost saving formula a secret? Not at all, says Slabaugh. It is based on experience, and a somewhat unique approach.

First of all, Slabaugh is a graduate of Lake Forest Academy, the Sheffield School of Science at Yale University and Ohio State University. His career in building dates back to the years before World War II. This firm is supported by both academic training and experience.

Secondly, his cost cutting formula starts "from the ground up." By acquiring the ground upon which he builds, and handling this through his own organization, he eliminates considerable "middle" fees and costs.

From experience he knows the cost of a furnace installation, the air conditioning unit, plumbing and electrical. He does not overbuy or overpay.

To ensure the architectural integrity of his custom homes, he employs a professional architect, AIA, Donald V. Mussawir. Mussawir begins with the land, the setting for the home, and then goes on to create truly distinctive residences.

The success of Slabaugh's formula can be seen in Worthington Hills where a dozen custom dwellings in the $35,000 to $47,000 price range reflect the higher value.

Slabaugh's financial structure offers several conventional financial plans and, in some instances, the firm handles its own financing.

The firm also builds on individually owned property.

It is presently engaged in developing 300 acres for commercial apartments and office buildings south of the Lazarus and Sears complex at Northland, a commercial and industrial area near Kirkersville, and a residential development of exclusive homes and apartments south of 17th-st and Sunbury-rd.

Home Owner Trading Up

Continued strength and growth of the residential remodeling, maintenance, and repair market is expected to offset possible decline in 1965 housing starts.

An additional $23.2 billion for remodeling, maintenance and repair of existing structures is expected to establish a recordbreaking $90 billion plus construction market in 1965.

Good news for the builder and remodeler is that consumers are "trading up." They are demanding and getting higher priced materials in new and remodeled homes.

Not only is there more available housing on the rental market today, but a higher proportion is of recent construction. The older buildings, therefore, face competition that is not only growing in quantity but also improving in average quality.

Hence, the intensified efforts of builders and remodelers to bring these existing buildings up to the highest standards are essential.

Ingenuity Can Create Convenient Center For Home Entertainment

ENTERTAINMENT CENTER BUILT IN to the wall of a room provides space for the television set, with storage space above for books, souvenirs and trophies. The TV set can be shut away when not in use, leaving shelves handy to the desk. Knotty grade Ponderosa pine paneling used for walls as well as built-ins helps to unify the room.

CLOSET CONVERTS to center for radio, TV and stereo phonograph, with removal of door, installation and painting of shelves and partitions.

Constructing a home entertainment center for the family does not necessarily mean adding on a whole new room. Using available space, ingenuity and a bit of imagination, part of a room can be attractively converted into an entertainment center that everyone will be able to enjoy.

A built-in unit may be simple or elaborate as space needs and budget dictate. It may make use of ready-made cabinets, chests and bookcases that lumberyards sell.

House TV Set

A cabinet of wood built into a wall can house a TV set, solve a space problem and also serve as a decorative asset. Many homes have structural features that provide unused space within the walls for an extra cabinet to be wholly or partially built-in.

A free standing storage partition can also take many forms. It may be a waist-high planter unit with TV space and shelving or cabinets. It can extend from floor to ceiling to serve as an actual wall, or within a foot or so from the ceiling to give the feeling of openness, yet still enclose an area.

Adjust to Needs

The use made of storage space will depend on individual needs. The unit can be designed with upper cabinets enclosed by doors which can be opened from either side and a TV set which swivels and is also accessible from either side.

Bookshelving could be added and hi-fi equipment or a writing desk with a top which folds when not in use.

When utility factors have been considered to determine the design of entertainment installation, the next question is what materials to use.

Choice of grain, texture and natural color is wide, and different woods accept a variety of finishes.

Time Is Here To Clean Up, Fix Up Home

Spring time is synonymous with house clean-up and fix-up. And it's a job that the whole family can share, and enjoy, too.

Modern cleaning tools and supplies and the vast abundance of repair materials have made the job of cleaning and fixing up a home somewhat easier, but the job is still a big one. There's sure to be a chore for each member of the family, no matter what his or her age.

First item on the agenda is to make sure all the materials needed for the tasks ahead are on hand. When buying supplies, read the information on the bottle, can, tube, or whatever, carefully. Make certain you know what you are using and how to use it.

Put Them To Work

Now, on to the job of cleaning up. Mom might supervise the cleaning of the inside of the house while Dad takes to the outside. The youngsters can be responsible for many indoors, outdoors, garage and basement clean-up jobs.

Spring clean-up time is a good time for Father to check the walls and roof of the house for trouble spots.

On the roof make sure that all shingles are still in place, nailing down or replacing the ones that aren't. Check for cracks around the chimney, and corrosion in flashing which, if severely damaged, should be replaced.

Check Guttering

Temporary repairs on the roof can be made with a coating of roofing cement, especially useful for minor cracks and rust spots.

The guttering of the house is probably one of the most important spots to check. Make sure that guttering is completely cleared of all debris that has accumulated during the winter. Re-inforce hangings which have worked their way loose and replace the ones which have deteriorated.

As Dad works his way down towards the foundation of the house, he should check the walls for cracks, filling them with caulking. Window panes, lintels and window heads should also be checked for cracks and filled with putty or caulking. These items should also be checked on the inside of the house.

For Foundation

At the base of the home, check for connections between the wood of the house and the ground, separating all such connections with some sort of cement to assure more protection from termites.

Around the foundation, see that all holes are filled with sand or gravel and topped with sod. These holes, if not filled, may cause rain leakage.

Cleaning-Up Tricks Ease Remodeling

Homemakers thinking of leaving home until after the family room has been paneled or the fixtures installed in the bathroom or the wallpaper added in the children's room will find that a few housekeeping precautions make home improvements much simpler.

Proper cleaning measures will preserve a safe, clean home during redecoration.

Equipment should first be organized into these categories.

1. A variety of clean rags, from chamois to scraps of old bath towels and sheets
2. Brushes and mops, including a chemically-treated mophead that will pick up gritty soil.
3. A supply of soaps, cleaners, polishes and waxes.
4. A first-aid kit of solutions for spot emergencies.

Throw rugs, rubber mats or old pieces of carpet should be placed both inside and outside areas where work is in progress.

If heavy construction is scheduled a coat of finish or "sealer" will help protect the flooring. The surface of wood floors may be guarded with a special application of wax. Later, the floors should be thoroughly cleaned and refinished.

Rugs, furniture and walls should be vacuumed frequently to prevent a hard-to-remove film of soil from gathering.

Waste should be thrown out as each job is completed—or at the end of the day so that it doesn't pile up. If waste material contains plaster or dusty articles, sprinkling with water or wrapping in wet paper will make removal easier and less dusty.

Keeping work areas clear will reduce household hazards, as well as dirt. Steps should also be taken to clear these areas of curious young observers. If children are too small to heed "off-limits" signs or commands, a temporary barrier should be set up.

Divide By Nine For Square Yards

Once you have selected your new carpeting, remember that "NINE" is the magic number to use when figuring how many yards of the carpet you will need in a room.

To determine the yardage first multiply the number of feet in the width by the number of feet in the length. For example, in a room 12 feet wide by 18 feet long, multiply 12 x 18, which equals 216 square feet.

Second, divide the number of square feet by nine. In the same example, 216 divided by nine equals 23 square yards. This is the amount of carpet required in this room.

Do not make the common mistake of dividing the square feet by "three." This error will actually triple the correct figure.

Nation Has Eyes On Florida

Some morning, centuries from now, a historian may sit down to tell his generation about a unique population shift that occurred in the 20th century called the "Florida trek."

It may puzzle him for an explanation. But it is no puzzle today to the General Development Corporation, nor to the 30,000 people who each month make the Florida trek to live and make their home there.

Many of these thousands are retired citizens heading for a place in the sun. Many more are engineers, scientists and workmen heading for the Cape Kennedy moon-port region. Literally thousands of them are settling in one of the pre-planned, city-sized communities that General Development Corporation is completing on Florida's east and west coasts.

This is not puzzling. Engineers, scientists and persons who have reached retirement age are not novices in seeking what they want and where to find it.

They're finding it at Port Charlotte, at Port Malabar, Port St. Lucie, Port St. John, Sebastian Highlands and other cities that are prospering in Florida's subtropical beauty and healthy atmosphere.

Here are homes created by award-winning architects. And one look tells you so. Inside and outside their beauty is breath-catching. Here are churches. In Port Charlotte alone 12 denominations are worshipping in their own sanctuaries. Here are paved streets, picturesquely landscaped. Man-made waterways, alive with boats, parks, recreation centers, schools, shopping centers and championship golf courses.

If it sounds like a millionaire's retreat — it isn't. It is populated mostly by wage-earners and former wage-earners who invested in a land-savings account and paid for it on a monthly plan. When they were ready to build, they found FHA and any number of conventional institutions ready to finance.

There are millionaires here too, and professional businessmen, both active anad retired. There is art, and cultural and social movements, educational pursuits and business opportunities.

There is seclusion and restful retirement. There is sparkling, gay fun. There are country clubs and fishing piers, beautiful beaches and fun in the sun.

There is the drama of a new era of living from the young and the old.

It is a story which can never be told in its entirety because each day, each week, a new chapter is being written.

You can read it as it happens on the teletype that clatters busily in the office of the Marvin C. Yerke Company at 232 S. High-st, local representative for the General Development Corporation.

Fixing Up? Check Up Insurance

Are you planning any extensive improvements to your home?

To protect the increased value of an improved home against financial loss and to check on the possibility of saving on insurance costs through fire-safe construction, homeowners planning improvements should get in touch with their local insurance agent or broker even before the construction has begun, points out the Insurance Information Institute.

Suppose you are making an addition to your house, building an enclosed all-weather porch or adding upstairs rooms.

If you take your plans to your insurance agent or broker, he will be glad to have them checked by a fire safety engineer from your insurance company or at the fire insurance rating bureau in your area.

If the plans show that a fire hazard might be created due to inadequate exits, windows that are too small, or poorly planned wiring, the company's engineer or the rating bureau's man can indicate what changes should be made.

Insure Full Value

For instance, by spending a few dollars more for a non-combustible roof, you may obtain, in some states, savings in insurance premiums which in a few years will more than offset the extra materials cost.

If you are planning a brand new second home in the mountains or at the seashore, a check of your plans with your insurance man can also help.

Most architects today build fire safety into a home by following closely the suggestions in a reliable building code, such as the National Building Code, and the National Electrical Code.

The next step, of course, is to check your fire insurance after improvements are made to be sure your home is insured to value

In any case, it pays to check up on home insurance at least every three years, to guard against under insurance.

For instance, experts say that the replacement cost of a brick house built in 1939 is today nearly three and one-third percent times its original cost, A house which cost $9,000 to build in 1939 now would cost over $30,000 to duplicate.

For Homeowners

The fastest growing policy in the property and casualty field is the homeowners policy. Under this policy, called a "package" policy, your home and its contents are insured against fire, lightning, windstorm, and other hazards.

In addition, you have insurance against burglarly and theft, and comprehensive personal liability coverage as well. And, under this policy, the premium cost is 20 to 25 percent less than what it would be if the various coverages were purchased separately.

Moreover this policy has a "replacement cost" feature. If your home should be damaged by an insured peril such as fire, windstorm or lightning, the company will pay you the cost of repairing the damage

FIX-IT TIP

To remove a water mark from a waxed surface, wipe it with liquid wax to remove the old wax finish and apply fresh wax coating.

For an oiled finish, use camphor or peppermint oil on a cloth wrung out of warm water containing ammonia.

If these methods don't help, rub in the direction of the grain with a thin paste made of rottenstone, or fine pumice, or cigar ash and linseed oil. Remove with linseed oil. This also works on heat spots, alcohol stains, light burns, ink stains or paint stains.

Prompt Attention Can Add Years To Carpet Life

Home carpet care is easy and years can be added to the life of carpeting by spotting when an unlucky spill occurs.

Normal household variety stains will not "set" in wool carpet yarns if prompt action is taken. First, remove as much of the stain as possible by blotting up liquids with paper towels and scraping up solids with a piece of cardboard.

If fruit juices, soft drinks, alcoholic beverages or puppy accidents caused the stain, mix up a solution of one teaspoonful of detergent and one teaspoonful of white vinegar in a quart of warm water.

If an oily material, salad dressing, butter, grease, has caused the stain, pour some cleaning fluid (the same type used on clothes) on a clean cloth. Work the cloth into the spot and blot with a paper towel.

If stubborn stains persist call a professional cleaner. He has special spot removers that will usually do the job.

ADEQUATE PIPING

In building a new home, it is wise to talk to the plumbing contractor first about the installations he will make. One of the most important things to ask is whether the service line from the street main to the house is large enough to provide for extra water use in the future, with no drop in pressure. If not, it will cost only slightly more to install a larger service line that will supply enough water for perhaps an extra bathroom, or powder room, automatic dishwasher or washing machine later on — and all at a full-flow pressure.

Flowering Vines Make Good Cover

Vines can be used to accent blank wall space, cover chimneys, add interest to fences, posts and screens. They can beautify a bank and check erosion on slopes.

The heavily blooming clematis is an example of how a flowering vine can add color to a landscape. This vine come in many colors. Varieties include Crimson Star (red), Jackman (purple), Ramona (lavender), Henry (white), and Pink Anemone (rose).

Other flowering vines with unusual colors are Passion Flower (blue-white), Fiveleaf Akebia (maroon-deep purple), and Mme. Galon Trumpetvine (orange).

DUST BEFORE PAINTING

Be sure to use a clean, dry mop or cloth to dust walls before painting. An oil mop or treated cloth may leave a thin film on the wall which will prevent the new paint from adhering properly.

Prosecutor: Now tell the jury why you shot your husband with a bow and arrow.

Defendant: I didn't want to wake the children.

WOOD-PANELED BREAKFAST NOOK can make mealtime a pleasure. Pass-through between breakfast nook and kitchen adds efficiency, too. Warm-toned woods from the Western Pine region were used here.

Eating Elegantly In The Kitchen

Like to give that kitchen breakfast nook, alcove or dining area a little more the air of a dining room by injecting warmth and giving it a "separate" feeling?

One of the best ways to do it is to keep the wall of the eating area different from the kitchen wall by means of wallpaper and painted or stained lumber paneling.

The dining area can do a lot more than simply serve as a nice corner in which to start the day. Its walls may feature cupboards for storage, recessed shelves to show off some favorite china, or a plate rail for the some purpose.

It is fortunate if the eating area has a bowed or bay window. It not, then a picture widow or casement windows that let in plenty of light could be the focal point of the overall plan.

The two-toned effect of wallpaper and horizontal paneling may be used to draw a separate alcove into the kitchen and yet will give it distinction that sets it apart.

Diagonal paneling can be very handsome, or use a herringbone-patterned paneling if there is sufficient wall space to do the design justice Narrow-width paneling will create an illusion of greater size in a small alcove.

If there isn't enough room for moveable furniture in the eating area, build in a table and benches. These can be made to match the walls. Even if the home does have a separate breakfast room, a well-planned eating booth makes good use of wall area, opens the room and eliminates the clutter of an island formed by a table-and-chairs grouping.

Other suggestions include louvered shutters to dress up the windows and afford privacy. Casement molding can also add a touch of distinction to your eating area.

RENEW WROUGHT IRON

Renewing wrought iron is easy if you follow these tips: First, clean thoroughly. Next, sand away any traces of rust. Prime the spots of bare metal with a quality metal primer such as zinc chromate. Let the primed areas dry, then apply enamel.

Rest Period

Plan to have roast turkey done 20 to 30 minutes before servings. This rest period helps make the meat juicy, the carving easier.

New Bill Expands Lending Power Of Savings And Loan Associations

Homeowners in search of ready cash for home repair and remodeling may find expanding opportunities for convenient financing from their local savings and loan associations.

The new Federal Housing Bill presages greater activity for federally charted savings and loan associations in the field of home improvement financing, according to Eugene M. Mortlock, president of the United States Savings and Loan League.

The new bill increases the percentage of assets which a federal association may invest in home improvement loans from 15 to 20 percent and raises the maximum amount of a single loan from $3,500 to $5,000. Savings and loan experts believe this legislation may also encourage state governments to grant similar lending powers to state chartered associations, where they do not already have such powers.

This can mean more money available for home improvement financing from savings and loan associations, already a major source of loans for new home financing.

The associations make some direct conventional and FHA-insured home improvement loans. However, the larger volume of funds they provide for home improvement comes from the "open-end" provision offered to many of their new-home borrowers.

Under this provision the homeowner may re-borrow funds, under the original mortgage agreement, during the repayment period. One advantage is that the borrower saves the service costs of an entirely new loan.

McVay Furniture Bringing Ethan Allen To Columbus

The name of Ethan Allen, famed leader of the Green Mountain Boys, has come down from the Revolutionary War through the history books of nearly every American child.

Yet, as far as we could learn this week, only one statue exists of this noted figure of early American life. This one, we are told, is located in Montpelier, Vt.

Columbus will soon have a second one.

A life-size, authentic fiberglass reproduction done in old green by Austin, of New York, will be placed under the beamed 18-foot cathedral ceiling of the main entrance of McVay's new West Hill Colonial Shoppe which will open about June 1 at 4801 W. Broad-st.

McVay's, presently located at 2542 W. Broad-st, says their new building now under construction is colonial in design complete with bell tower and a huge walk-in fireplace.

They plan to announce soon a date for Open House when the public will be invited to view the distinctive displays of American traditional furniture, accessories, draperies and floor coverings.

Color correlated rooms will offer a glimpse into the warmth and charm which the famous line of Ethan Allen furniture can impart to any home.

McVay's are Ohio's largest Ethan Allen colonial furniture dealer, according to W. A. Finley who will manage the new store. He said the store will be the largest all-colonial shop in midwestern United States.

CLEANING WALLPAPER

Use a warm iron and clean blotter to remove grease stains from wallpaper. Hold blotter over stain and press in place for several minutes. Heat will soften grease and blotter will remove it.

Adding Shower Is Simple Task

Converting a showerless bathtub into a modern tub-shower combination is an easy matter. It's done by piping directly up from a special bathtub spout—and there is no ripping into the wall necessary. With this quick and simple arrangement, a shower can be added regardless of the age or type of bathtub in your home. The chrome-plated pipe and shower head are bracketed securely to the wall, and a valve control to divert the water to the shower head is usually an integral part of the tub spout.

CLEAN DRAIN DAILY

Keeping drains clean is a simple matter, if given regular attention. The drain in the kitchen sink can be kept clear, for instance, by pouring boiling water down it once a day.

Hidden in these pages, too, are the five magic words that will transport some lucky family of two, or a couple, to the World's Fair as guests of The Spectator.

The Magic Words are somewhere in the advertisements. They are hidden — or revealed — in parenthesis like this (contest).

If you find them all they will form an old familiar adage that wraps up the whole idea of "Happier Living."

Now — unfold that World's Fair literature you may have reluctantly put away. Dust off that dream. Open the "Happier Living" pages and search the ads for the five Magic Words.

Read the rules of the contest and fill out the contest entry blank. Mail it to The Spectator before midnight, Sunday, May 9.

Then, sit back and dream of the World's Fair. Or, better yet, while waiting for the announcement of the list of winners, go over the ideas for "Happier Living" in this section.

You may discover just the idea you need to join in the fun of "Happier Living" at home.

Now, additional official entry blanks are available from each of the advertisers in this section. IF — this is important—IF the winning entry is on an official blank which has been picked up from one of the advertisers, the winner will receive a $100 bonus in addition to the Grand Prize.

Speaking of the Grand Prize, if you don't win this there will be other exciting prizes:

- 5 pairs of tickets to Opening Night performance of the Kenley Players.
- 2 pairs of tickets to Playhouse-On-The Green — any performance.
- 2 season books for the Columbus Jets games.
- 10 pairs of tickets to RKO Palace.

Imagination Properly Used, Equals Beauty

GARDEN LIVING IS HAPPIER THESE DAYS with landscaped patios, terraces and outdoor cooking and recreation areas in fashion across the country. Gardening has become a favorite pastime for many Americans who say that it is "good for the health." But, health isn't the only good part of gardening. The beauty that can be achieved with a bit of imagination and ingenuity is "good for the eyes," too, says the American Association of Nurserymen.

Lighting Grounds At Night Adds To Joys Of Living

Outdoor lighting for the home grounds can add much to the joys of family living—and shedding light on outdoor living after dark is just one of its objectives. The American Home Lighting Institute points out these goals, attainable through outdoor lighting:

1. To provide quick, sure seeing for movement in, out and around the home.
2. To extend the enjoyment of the landscaping. Gardens, trees and foliage can be transformed at night into a magnificent panorama of light, shadow and color.

In planning outdoor lighting, says the Institute, be sure to select weatherproof wiring and connections. Bulbs must be checked for their ability to withstand water without breakage. Some very low wattage bulbs may be used without protection, but others must be covered or enclosed. All light sources should be shielded.

Mushroom - type fixtures are excellent for lighting paths and steps. They shield the bulb from view and cast a generous spread of light. Post lights are appropriate for lighting walks, driveways and entrances.

Often heavy ground cover, shrubbery, hedges and foliage can provide natural cover for spotlights or floodlights.

Some outdoor fixtures are designed to masquerade as rocks, toadstools, tree stumps, leaves, flowers or even birdhouses.

Effective landscape lighting should be planned around one or several focal points such as a flower bed; a piece of sculpture, tree, pool or fountain. These selected centers of interest should be markedly brighter than their surroundings.

However to avoid large black areas, a low level of background lighting can be obtained from floodlights mounted on the house, on trees or posts. Head-on lighting tends to make objects appear flat.

Doctor: You have acute appendicitis.

Patient: Listen, Doc, I came here to be examined, not admired.

Every Plant Can Be Put To Good Use

Every plant, every tree or shrub planted by the home owner should have a special purpose. Beauty is the principal purpose for planting the home property according to surveys, but there are many other reasons, as follows:

1. For shade — shade trees offer comfort and beauty in sizzling summer weather. When correctly placed they cool the home, or materially reduce air-conditioning costs. Shade trees lower temperatures near the ground as the layer of hottest air is transferred to the tree tops. They also may provide autumn color. Evergreens provide all-year color, particularly welcome green in winter.
2. Hedges provide family privacy — much needed in some housing developments. Hedges may provide flowers that are pleasing to neighbors as well as yourself.
3. Flowering trees, shrubs and annual plants offer the spring, summer and fall beauty of many types of blooms from roses to apple blossoms. Trees and shrubs offer foods in the form of fruits and berries, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.
4. Where grass will not grow or is hard-to-mow as in shade areas, or areas of poor soil, or on steep slopes, ground covers of many types form a beautiful green carpet.
5. Windbreaks of trees and shrubs provide warmth in winter and coolness in summer. A government test showed that a perfectly placed windbreak sheltered a plains area home from cold north winds and reduced fuel costs 22 percent.

Most of all, however, trees and shrubs provide natural beauty and a feeling of better living for the family.

Homemaker decided to personalize this wall with seven portrait photographs of one little girl as she grew up.

How To Make Your Home A Picture Of Personality

Personalizing her home is every homemaker's goal. She wants it to look fashionable yet have the hallmark of her family imprinted on every room.

One sure-fire way to do it is with portrait photographs, the kind professional photographers take. A wall or table grouping of photographs of the children, grandchildren, other relatives and friends is a picture-pretty sight to warm any woman's heart.

The first step is to get friends and relatives to have photographs taken; then decide where to display them. Any room is appropriate, but bedrooms, halls, dens and family rooms are especially popular places.

Choose frames to complement your decor and the photographs. If you want to include antique photographs in your grouping, your portrait photographer can restore and enlarge them.

For an entertaining effect, mix sizes and shapes of photographs, or include an oil painting, sketch or vacation snapshot.

To plan a wall arrangement, spread a piece of brown wrapping paper on the floor. Create your arrangement on the paper, then trace around all the items. Remove them and you have a pattern for driving nails. Use a spotlight to add drama to your masterpiece.

When you're finished, you'll have a personalized room decoration no one can duplicate. How could they? It's your own family you have glorified.

SIMPLIFY SANDING

Sand hard-to-reach corners and inside of curved moldings or edges with a sanding stick, made by wrapping sandpaper around a dowel or other stick of appropriate size and shape.

Wallpapers Help In Dressing Up Problem Rooms

Kitchen ceiling too high? Wall areas broken by beams and soffits? It's time to remodel!

If the family budget doesn't call for a major remodeling job just now, there still is a solution. Try remodeling tricks with wallpaper.

The many new border patterns now available in wallpapers are designed just for such problem areas, in the kitchen or elsewhere. To meet all decorative needs, there are border patterns of various depths, from two-inch widths to use as moldings or trim to as deep as 18 to 20 inches.

Two-inch moldings are available in four-yard rolls, pre-pasted for easy handling and immediate use. Other patterns, up to 20 inches in depth, are particularly useful in modernizing the out-dated kitchen, or the kitchen with too high a ceiling.

Several of the deeper patterns are ideal for disguising and dressing up broken wall areas. One manufacturer has just presented a collection of 51 different wallpaper borders, plasticized for greater wash-ability and pre-pasted for easy handling.

These borders range from eight to 18 inches deep and each pattern is designed so that it can be trimmed to fit specific areas.

Still another group of borders highlight bright primary colors, as well as black and white. These have been specially designed to contrast with a ticking stripe for walls.

New papers for kitchens feature such design themes as potted plants, fruits, vegetables, copper pots, antiques, bottles, mugs or herbs.

Easy To Make More Room For Bathing

When it comes to expanding bathroom facilities in the home, family convenience comes first. However, today's designs in bathroom fixtures make it easy to plan for smart, decorative appearance, too.

Whether adding a new bath or modernizing an old one, homeowners will find that modern fixtures are designed to make the most of available space, in everything from the smallest powder room to the most spacious bathroom.

The size of the bathroom determines the size of the plumbing fixtures, but even a five-foot by seven-foot area can contain a full-size bathtub and twin lavatories, with double bowls for double convenience and new single-control faucets.

The emphasis in tubs is on comfort and roominess: for example, a tub five and a half feet long, 32 inches wide and 16 inches high.

With the new compact lavatories on the market, powder rooms with countertops along two walls are possible in areas as small as four feet by four feet. Wall-hung lavatories are also available in many new, modernistic designs.

Where room does not permit a twin lavatory installation, it's advisable to select a large single fixture, with ample ledgeroom and bowl size.

Water closet styling is streamlined, with emphasis on quality flushing mechanisms. Off-the-floor models gain popularity, due to greather cleaning ease.

Utilitarian white in plumbing fixtures is giving way to more and more color. Enameled cast iron and china are color matched in brand name fixtures.

Among the most popular fixture colors now are the sandy shades such as fawn beige.

Making Space . . .

Need extra storage space?

When remodeling, plan in advance to be sure "improvements" really make room for more storage.

Adequate storage can be provided by building special cabinets, adding a window bench with concealed storage, or constructing a series of wall-to-ceiling shelves.

Or, storage may be included in another unit, such as a desk.

DUST COLLECTOR

Cut cleaning time when drilling in plaster by catching dust and grit in paper bag taped to wall below area where hole is being drilled.

NO GROPING

If the light switch in a room is hard to find, install one of the new luminous switchplates that glow in the dark.

HALL SAFETY

Slips and falls often occur in dark hallways. For maximum safety, as well as beauty, these areas should be painted in light colors and kept well lighted.

Chandeliers Invade Master Bedroom

The trend to make the master bedroom function as a private suite has touched off another new decorating idea — the use of chandeliers in bedrooms.

Decorators who use this technique argue that, since the chandelier symbolizes elegance and sophistication in dining rooms, it can also add a note of extravagance in the bedroom.

The American Home Lighting institute reports that a number of homebuilders around the country are inspiring chandelier mobility.

"The chandelier is being used to glamorize and dramatize an entrance foyer, stairwell or bedroom; it takes an average, modestly priced home out of the ordinary. It creates a visible difference that makes an impact on prospects to choose the beautifully lighted home."

A Low-Growing Plant, Good To Cover Bare Spots

Many lawns and yards have a space or two where grass just refuses to grow. Low growing "ground - cover" plants are good substitutes in areas where grass is difficult to establish and to keep up—on steep slopes and rough ground, in heavy shade, against buildings and fences, and around tree trunks and shrubs. But they won't take heavy foot traffic.

Plant ground cover plants six to 18 inches apart, depending on rate of spread. Once established, they need little care except occasional fertilizing.

Some ground covers recommended for Ohio are weeping forsythia, Virginia creeper, purpose wintercreeper, English ivy, periwinkle, rock cress, lily of the valley, and moss pink.

Niches Add Charm To Rooms At Low Cost

A wall niche can often add charm and distinction to an otherwise conventional room. Such a feature can be added to the average home at little expense or effort. It is particularly easy to do when a room is to be redecorated.

The space between wall studs will provide a niche about 13 inches wide and as tall as desired — assuming there are no ducts, pipes or conduit in that part of the wall.

To build the niche, metal lath is bent to the desired shape, and is nailed to the studs. The corners are reinforced with metal corner bead and plaster is then applied.

Take Care With Chemical Mixing

Mishandling pesticides can be suicide. If you mix a pesticide chemical at home, measure the correct amount — and no more. Mix in a ventilated place, avoid smoking, and wear a kerchief over the nose and mouth.

Use pesticides only on a calm day. Leave each chemical in the original container and read the directions each time you use it. After spraying or dusting, wash exposed parts of the body thoroughly with soap and water. If you spill a concentrate on your clothing, change to clean clothes immediately. Never use your mouth to blow out a spray nozzle or to siphon a pesticide from a container.

DRESS UP YOUR GARBAGE CAN

A garbage can can be beautiful if you follow these helpful tips from the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

First, scrub the can. Then prime the metal inside and out with zinc dust paint or some other primer especially designed for galvanized steel. Apply two coats of exterior enamel in your favorite color. To make cans less noticeable, paint them to match the exterior of your home.

Or create a delightful contrast by using bright enamel, highlighted with designs or your initials. Your garbage can will be more attractive and enjoy a longer lease on life due to the protective coating.

City National Mortgage Loans Have 'Good Neighbor' Touch

City National Bank has a genuine desire to help people with home or home improvement loans, said Thomas P Boswell, assistant vice-president, Mortgage Loan Department. He added that in two years, the amount of mortgage money City National has loaned has almost doubled. Boswell noted that there are several important points to check when shopping for mortgage money. City National's mortgage loan service includes all of these important points:

Complete Bank Service — One of the greatest advantages of getting home financing through a bank is that the customer can also handle all of his financial needs at one location. Mortgage payments can even be automatically deducted from a City National checking account, and customers may find the bank connection a help in faster additional loan service.

Service, Low Cost, Extended Time — City National offers fast service at all 15 bank locations and has low closing costs on mortgage loans. The bank can extend mortgage payments up to 25 years, on 80 percent of the appraised value.

Monthly Reduction — A special feature that pays off more of the loan and less for interest each month. This lets the borrower own his home that much sooner.

No Escalator Clause — The interest rate cannot be increased during the life of the loan, and there is no prepayment penalty. The mortgage can be paid off earlier than agreed, without extra interest charges.

Blanket Mortgage or Side Loan — When people temporarily have two houses, they can get a City National loan to cover both houses. When one is sold, the mortgage and monthly payments are reduced. Or the bank can work out a side loan, for the time a customer is trying to sell a second home.

At City National, any credit-worthy person can get money to keep a home in good repair. A Home Improvement Loan, considered the cheapest money to borrow, can be used for almost anything around the home, from building a garage to buying screens. City National's own plan has no limit on amount borrowed, and Credit Life Insurance is included at no extra cost. An example of payments would be just over $50 a month when borrowing $2,500 for five years.

Those planning to buy or improve a home this summer will find bankers at all of the 15 City National banking centers ready now to help.

MEASURING METHOD

The easiest way to measure the total length of an appliance or power tool V-belt that needs replacing is to use a flexible steel tape. Measure around the outside of the old belt while it is still in place.

NAILING TIP

Wedge small tacks and short brads between the teeth of a comb, which may then be used to hold them in place for nailing without endangering fingers.

New Method Brings More Home Quiet

New idea in remodeling offers a priceless feature for better family living — more quiet in the home.

There are now steps which can be taken to control irritating sounds within a room or between rooms, in existing homes or apartments.

These steps utilize just two standard industry products—acoustical ceiling tile and sound deadening insulation board.

To control noise between rooms, a plan has been developed for an auxiliary wall of sound deadening insulation board and gypsum wallboard, which can be placed next to the existing wall.

The sound-stopping auxiliary wall uses two-by-three-foot wood studs placed 24 inches apart, on two-by-three-foot wood floor and ceiling plates. There is a three-quarter-inch space between the new wall and the existing wall.

The new studs are faced with half-inch sound deadening insulation board with the nail heads dimpled. Half-inch gypsum wallboard is then applied vertically with the joints offset 12 inches with respect to the sound deadening board joints, by installing with drywall laminating compound.

The gypsum wallboard is temporarily blocked around the perimeter until the laminating compound has adequate bond. The gypsum wallboard joints are then taped and finished and the entire perimeter of the new wall is sealed in place.

As a final step, noise is more effectively confined in a room if the door is of the solid core type with vinyl gasketing and a snug-up threshold.

To control noise within rooms, consider insulation board acoustical ceiling tile. Soft surfaces absorb noise; hard surfaces reflect it. Acoustical ceiling tile is essentially a "soft" material which absorbs up to 70 percent of the excess noise striking its surfaces.

Sound enters the tiny openings in the surface of the tile, and the sound energy waves are reduced or eliminated by the soft porous fibers.

Most lumberyards and building supply stores stock a range of colors and patterns, in insulation board ceiling tile.

AVOID PAINT SAGS

When painting a dresser or chest, remove the drawers and set them with drawer fronts facing up. This will prevent the occurance of enamel runs or sags.

Perhaps the prettiest of all home furnishings styles is French Provincial. A dignified example is this sitting room for an older couple. Pinks and greens of the French court are used. But they are a vivid peppermint and lime rather than pale, soft tones. Both colors, plus the added spice of cinnamon, are found in the shag carpeting which gives a casual look to the room in contrast to the formal furniture.

French Flavor Sparks Room For Older Couple

And now, mesdames et monsieurs, a room that will take the chill out of Franco-American relations. The tone is Gallic—elegant, airy and to the manoire-born. But the colors and the know-how are pure American — robust and vital.

Although designed for a couple whose family now includes grandchildren, the room reflects the young spirits of its owners. The colors are peppermint pink, lime green and warm cinnamon.

The niche behind the bed is covered in pink felt and then galleried with a lifetime of family photos. The same pink is painted to form the chair rail, and reappears on the skirt of the table.

The shag carpet has a rough texture to counterpoint the smooth elegance of the other furnishings. Also in the carpet's favor is the warm, sunny quality that brings indoors the charm of the terrace outside.

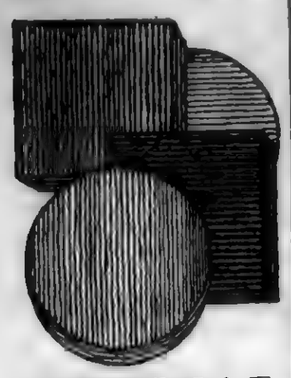
The other furnishings in the room are a creative blend of France's formal court and liveable provincial styles. The mahogany pieces are made in America and their dark woods are contrasted with two painted occasional chairs which were delicately carved hundreds of years ago.

West Worst, South Good For A Patio

Changing family living habits have transformed the occasionally used patio into one of the home's most lived-in "rooms." With its new importance in family life, the outdoor living room should be planned and built with care comparable to the rest of the house.

One question is: Where to put it? West is worst. The afternoon and evening western sun will bake the area. A south or southwest exposure is excellent for an outdoor room if protected from the western sun.

Most families prefer their outdoor living area adjacent to the interior living room, with a large window area uniting the two spaces.



Protection from prevailing winds is another consideration in locating a patio. It can often be situated so that the house is a shield.

Flowers, Foliage Add Quick Color

Proper selection of professionally-grown container plants and shrubs makes "instant landscaping" an interesting, economical "do - it-yourself" hobby for home owners.

An abundance of good ground-cover plants is always available at your florists' or garden center store. Use them as you please to re-decorate outdoors.

For quick color, take home some geraniums, petunias, azaleas or year-round chrysanthemums in red clay pots. For permanent plantings, you can either empty the healthy root ball from the pots, or plunge your plants, clay pot and all up to their rims.

Banks Offer Choice Of Ways To Finance Modernizing

Like death and taxes, one of life's certainties seems to be home improvements. If the house is new, there is usually a basement or attic to finish off, or a porch to add. If the house is older, the homeowner needs to begin thinking in terms of additions or repairs.

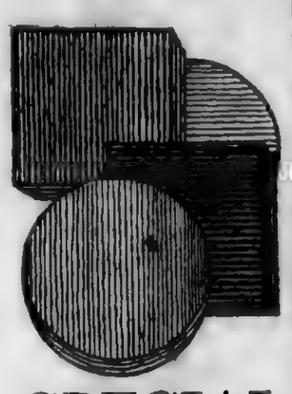
The cheapest way to finance home improvements is to save ahead. But if you don't have the time to accumulate such a fund, you can borrow the money you'll need.

Here is a brief description of six ways to finance your home improvements through your bank:

FHA Title I Loan. You can borrow up to $3,500; take three years to repay loans under $600; and up to five years on larger amounts. Generally, you pay five dollars for every $100 you borrow. Interest is discounted; the cost is deducted from the loan at the very start. Remember to add total interest charges to the amount you borrow when you apply for your loan. Then, you will get the actual dollars you need for home improvements.

To qualify, your improvements must be "built-in," or become a permanent part of the property. The Federal Housing Administration insures Title I Loans. So it insists they substantially protect or improve the basic livability or utility of your property.

FHA Section 203k Loans. If your home is at least 10 years old, you can use the FHA 203k plan for improvements costing up to $10,000. Terms up to 20 years can be arranged and the interest rate cannot exceed six percent per year.



Loan proceeds can also be used to pay municipal assessments or similar charges against the property such as for water or sewer facilities, sidewalks, curbs or other public improvements.

Conventional Bank Installment Loan. It is usually more flexible as to purpose, amount, and terms of repayment. Banks make them entirely on their own. Thus, they are not subject to FHA regulations. And you may finance non built-in improvements such as wall-to-wall carpeting, swimming pools, landscaping.

Open-end Mortgage Loan. If your mortgage contains an "open-end" provision, you may be able to borrow more money on the same mortgage. The amount will depend on how much money you still owe.

Mortgage Refinancing. If you have a conventional mortgage, you may be able to retire it. Then get another in a larger amount to include money for your home improvements. Most often, it will involve a new title search, recording, and other extra fees. But the overall cost will still be lower in most cases than Title I or other short-term loans.

Personal Loans. You won't be able to get as much money here. Many state laws limit the amount you can borrow. Also repayment periods are usually shorter. But it is worth investigating if other avenues are closed.

Two "cubist" area rugs, one hung on the wall as a work of art, make a bold statement of color and pattern in this bedroom done in modern for the teen-age innovator.

Teenagers Not Bashful About Color

What's orange and pink and red all over? A room decorated by its teenaged mistress. Clues to the identity of the owner are the free mixture of stripes on the bedspread and shades with the cubist wool area rugs, the telephone forever off the hook, and a sentimental stuffed animal from childhood.

But the strongest evidence, Dr. Watson, is the uninhibited use of color which reflects the vibrancy of its youthful designer.

The boldest colors appear in the wool area rugs, used as a work of art on the wall, as well as on the floor.

The rug combines burgundy, pink, cerise, bronze, purple and orange in a dazzling red border. The orange is repeated on the comfortable white yacht chair and the red serves again as a border on the woodwork under the desk shelf. Shade and spread are pencil-slim stripes in bitter green and blue, with the wall behind the bed in the same olive tone.

Credit this teenager with a large quota of romance and dreams of her own future home. Right now, the area rug next to the bed can be whisked away when it's time to practice the "Watusi's" successor. In years to come, it will warm both her and her husband's feet on cold mornings, brighten a nursery, or give a cheery welcome to guests in a foyer.

HIGHLIGHT THE FIREPLACE

An attractive fireplace will show up better if its wall is painted a different color from other walls.

MAKE A BIG ROOM MORE INTIMATE

By painting a large room a deep shade, it will appear smaller and more intimate. While warm colors are preferred, a cool wall color can achieve the same result if it is accented with warm colored accessories or furnishings.

The Yardener

Soak Well

The best way to apply fertilizer to ornamental plants is to water the plants, apply the fertilizer and then thoroughly soak the material into the soil.

Women Choose Garb For Home As For Self

A woman can apply some of the principles she uses in picking out a dress for herself to choosing a dress for her house.

The dress for a house is the sidewalls. If the sidewall design and color are wisely selected, they will disguise some of the house's defects in size and proportion.

Design is the first consideration, for it determines the kind of siding material selected. If a house looks disproportionately tall, siding that casts horizontal shadow lines will create a desirable illusion —for the same reason a woman who is thin often selects a dress with a pattern running crosswise. Mineral fiber siding applied over backer board gives an especially strong horizontal effect.

A house that sits too low to the ground calls for the opposite treatment, as a short, stout woman will seem taller if her dress has vertical stripes.

Consideration of color comes next. Light or medium colors make a house seem larger. Darker shades tend to make a big house less conspicuous. Color is available in pre-finished siding as well as paint.

House Washing Spring Chore

Although a house takes a beating during the winter, much of the apparent wear is superficial and can be remedied with little, if any, expense — but, of course some time and work are involved. Here are three suggestions:

1. After the unavoidable chore of cleaning out gutters, pull a garden hose up the ladder to the gutter level and force a stream of water down the leaders, or downspouts. You probably can flush out clogged leaves.

2. Wash the sidewalls. Use a hose and a long-handled brush.

3. Hose storm sash or storm window panels before you put them away. Heavy, encrusted dirt will be removed, and it will be easier to wash the storm windows in the fall.

Outdoor Furniture Gets New Life With Paint

Lawn furniture that has taken a beating from exposure to the elements last summer can be re-vitalized with a little paint and a minimum of elbow grease, says the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

According to the association, there are three very important things to remember to restore a sparkling look to weather-beaten outdoor furniture. These are proper surface preparation; good application of a quality coating and effective color styling.

In preparing the surface, be sure it is completely clean, scrubbing it thoroughly to remove all dirt. All loose or blistered paint from previous coats must be sanded away. Any glossy areas should be sanded to provide "toothing" for the new paint. All rust must be removed from metal furniture or wooden furniture with metal attachments.

When the furniture is ready to be painted, a quality enamel may be brushed or sprayed on. With the brush method, allow the paint to flow on generously, cross-stroking to spread coating evenly and catch any excess.

White is the traditional color for outdoor furniture, because it adds freshness and in the case of metal furniture stays the coolest under long exposure to the sun.

A MENU FOR MOVING DAY

GOOD NUTRITION is featured in this easy-to-prepare lunch.

Although families move all 12 months of the year, May is the month traditionally thought of as the time to change residences. Anyone who has moved just once knows a great deal of work is involved. But, not all of the memories are unpleasant. Remember that kind gesture of friendship from a new neighbor, or the last gathering of friends in your old neighborhood?

If this is the May you and your family stay put, perhaps you'll have the opportunity to welcome a new neighbor, or say good-by to one who is moving away. How should you handle this type of entertainment? A lunch with a simple-to-prepare menu would be very appropriate. Of course, this type of lunch doesn't last long but does provide a pleasant break from work.

This menu, in particular should be well balanced with calories and nutrients in order for everyone to have energy for the afternoon's tasks. A good menu choice would be a fresh fruit salad, assorted finger sandwiches, a chiffon pie and milk. After this meal and an hour of pleasant conversation, moving won't seem at all troublesome to your neighbor. As the hostess, you'll have the nice feeling that comes from knowing you're helped a friend on what can easily be a trying day.

SHERRY OLIVE SPREAD

2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese (½ lb.)
1 3-ounce package cream cheese, room temperature
¼ cup butter, softened (½ stick)

CHUTNEY CHEESE SPREAD

1 8-ounce package cream cheese, room temperature
½ cup chopped chutney
¼ cup chopped pecans
¼ teaspoon curry powder
⅛ teaspoon salt

Blend cream cheese until smooth. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Makes 1-¼ cups spread.

Prize-Winning Ryan Homes Featured At Bonnie Ridge

Ryan Homes forecasts the opening of Bonnie Ridge, its new West Side location on Clime-rd at Demorest by the end of April. This is the seventh location that has been developed in the two years that this nationally known builder has been in Columbus.

To those especially interested in outdoor activities, Bonnie Ridge will have additional appeal as it is situated opposite Bonnie Ridge par-3 Golf Course, and the two swimming pools on Demorest-rd.

In the Columbus area, Ryan is building homes in the $17,000 to $35,000 range. Areas under construction are Worthington Estates in Worthington, Hills and Dales in Westerville, Monterey Park in Grove City, Stoneybrook in Reynoldsburg, Williamsburg in Upper Arlington and the newest addition, Bonnie Ridge. All areas are open to the public from 1 to 9 p.m. daily.

In these areas there are 10 model homes, completely different, on display and these are available in many combinations of exterior elevations for complete individuality. Ryan also has 20 other plans from which the buyer can select his home.

Lots are fully sodded and all city utilities are in and paid for by the builder. Homes are designed to be as "carefree" as possible with aluminum and brick exteriors, paved driveways, completely insulated ceilings, sidewalks and brand-name products to provide the quality and value the potential homeowner has come to expect in a Ryan home.

The efforts of Ryan Homes were cited by Good Housekeeping magazine which awarded the company the 1964 grand prize for marketing achievement. Ryan also received the Good Homebuilding Citation for its excellence in architectural design, land development and house planning for the fourth consecutive year.

The Carpet Shop Appoints Michael To Decorator Post

David Michael, recently appointed manager of the decorating department at the Carpet Shop, 5266 Cleveland-av. has just completed the designs for the store's interior and attractive new front.

David Michael

Dave is a graduate of North High School and the Fine Arts course at both Northwestern and Ohio State Universities. He was formerly a member of the Sears decorating staff, has received wide recognition on many free lance projects, and is a design consultant for University Builders.

He recently returned from a buying tour of the Furniture Mart in Chicago. Ashley Beetham, Carpet Shop owner, said the shop will soon feature a full line of custom furniture.

The Carpet Shop is currently offering free custom draperies in 1965 patterns and colors with the purchase of wall-to-wall carpeting.

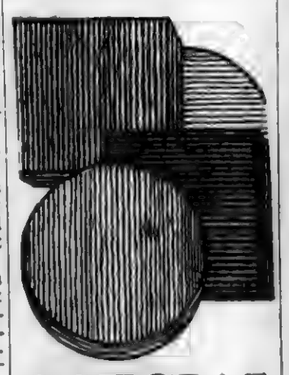
The store not only accepts residential orders, but also does custom commercial and contract-type jobs for both large concerns and small offices. They feature over 700 selections of carpeting, and more than 2,500 patterns, colors and styles of drapery fashions. Selections can be made at the store or in your home.

Beetham said his store personnel continually strives to make available all new styles and fabrics as quickly as they are offered for public approval in design centers throughout the world.

Dave, who has received a coveted Decorators Consultant Certificate from Sears Decorators Forum, says he is personally available to assist anyone in their decorating needs.

He offers the reminder that the Carpet Shop also has a large selection of remnants and short rolls at appreciable savings.

Dave and his wife, Sandy, have three children, Debra, 4; Michelle, 3, and Christopher, 1. They reside at 240 Broad Meadows-blvd.



How To Build In Noise Control

When selecting materials for constructing room partitions, attention should be given to both the development of a satisfactory wall base for decorating and adequate noise suppression.

Plaster is a popular and effective method for finishing interior walls and ceilings. It is capable of receiving both paint and wallpaper and offers good sound suppression qualities.

Full effectiveness of plaster finish is achieved by using a good foundation. One of the best is expanded metal lath, attached directly to joists and studding. If exterior walls are masonry, self furring metal lath is used.

Metal lath can be installed in a manner to prevent the plaster from coming into direct contact with possible dampness or moisture from the exterior walls of a home.

Dannie's Opens New Local Lots

Ohio's fastest growing dealer, Dannie's Mobile Homes, is proud to announce the addition of two new Columbus lots to their ranks. Number one Richardson dealer in the state last year is growing by leaps and bounds.

In keeping with Dannie's policy to serve the public better at all times, they have a huge clean inventory, their own finance company, high quality homes and best possible savings due to high volume purchases and factory discounts.

Manager Carl E. Romans and courteous staff personally extend their invitation to see the beautiful display of new and reconditioned used mobile homes. Dannie says "Thank you, Columbus, for the wonderful welcome we have received. Don't forget our special clearance sales now in progress!"

FIVE BASIC TYPES OF WOOD WINDOWS illustrated above are available ready to install from local building supply dealers. Above are an awning window with sash that opens up and out, and a sliding window. Below, a traditional double-hung window and a casement with removable grille are shown. Bow window is at center.

Select The Right Windows!

The right combination of windows can make a great difference in the long-time pleasure that comes from a home remodeling project.

A first consideration is harmony of style with the original windows, but don't overlook the opportunity for a blithe note such as a bow window at the front of the house, or a big view window overlooking the back yard or patio.

Special situations may call for special solutions, such as a "ribbon" of windows placed high on a bedroom wall for privacy's sake, or awning windows that can be left open when it rains.

There's a great variety of styles, types and sizes of wood windows available from local building supply dealers.

Wood windows come in casement, bow, double-hung and sliding types. There are also sliding - door combinations and various arrangements of open-view walls of windows which may include vents that open either inward or outward, with screen inserts as needed.

Ponderosa pine, of which most windows are made, is a natural insulating material, which means heat loss in winter is kept to a minimum and moisture won't condense on the sash. The wood is chemically treated for durability, and the windows are weatherstripped at the factory.

Color It Carefully— It's Home

Homes that start small and grow a piece at a time are an old Colonial and frontier-America idea that is in full revival today. Starting from a modest one- or two-bedroom original, the today's owner adds a room, builds on a patio, converts a carport to a garage, garage to a den or game room.

Keeping the growing house from looking chopped-up or makeshift is a problem that can be avoided by making the additions conform to the architectural style of the original.

A simple example is to use color to tie a patio to the house.

If a patio includes a plastic or canvas awning, pick up one of the awning colors and use it in the trim elements of the wall area nearest the patio.

Paintable elements on a house, such as wood shutters and wood windows, are helpful in developing an integrated house-patio color plan, because they are logical elements for introducing color. In addition, they are usually made of ponderosa pine, a wood which can be readily painted.

Albee Introduces A New Method Of Selling Homes

Albee Homes, Inc., world's largest producer of "customerized" homes, has added an extra "salesman" in fifty of their offices with the addition of a 20-minute full color movie titled, "The New Breed of American."

As an integral part of Albee's 1965 sales program, the movie is shown continuously on Sundays from 1 to 8 p.m. on a Fairchild 8 mm. repeating sound projector. The unit, which weighs 17 pounds, runs automatically.

In addition to showing the film in Albee model homes and special locations such as home shows and shopping centers, Albee has made arrangements for theatre parties for small groups of new home seekers. These parties are generally held in the home of an Albee customer who has invited friends or relatives who are prospective home buyers. Albee provides refreshments and free gifts to the guests who view this exciting live-action film.

The movie, featuring Albee customers and employes, allows the "do-it-yourselfer" to see how easy it is to build a quality home and effect substantial savings through his efforts. It was written and produced by Raymond A. Corwin Productions, New York City, and is being shown in a special 15-minute version on television and to hundreds of club, fraternal and civic groups in the sixteen states where Albee operates.

Howard Senor, National Advertising Director for Albee Homes, Inc., estimates that by year's end, over 10 million viewers will see the movie through one or more of the above sources.

JUDY EDISON, Albee Homes employe, demonstrates the projector.

Power Mowers Are No Problem To Homemakers

The modern suburban homemaker finds operating her new electric mower similar to vacuuming her carpets. She has read the "use and maintenance" manual which includes instructions for winter storage and springtime "get ready."

Power mowers, either gasoline or electric, require close attention to cleanliness if they are to give top performance, designers of both types, say in their manual. Gasoline engines should be drained, wiped dry, and refilled with fresh fuel at season's start and occasionally during the long summer. The spark plugs should be checked occasionally and crank case oil should be drained before the season and at least once during the summer. Homemakers are warned to keep gas in UL approved red can, in fixed places beyond children's reach. Can should be securely covered to prevent fumes from spreading and stored outside of the home, away from the furnace, water heater, etc.

Electric motors require no attention beyond a few drops of oil, checking brushes, cord and connector plug. A dry cloth is suggested for "after-use" wipe-up. This type mower is best stored off the floor by hanging it on a hook.

MINIMIZE UNATTRACTIVE FEATURES

To conceal unattractive features in a room, such as radiators, telephone cords, etc., paint them the same color as the wall.

Planning To Plant Trees?

Planting a tree? Make sure the hole is deep and large enough to spread out the roots and to allow an inch or two of soil above the graft union which appears as a knot or swelling.

To brace a tree, drive a two-by-two inch stake after the hole is dug and before the tree is planted. When the tree is planted, tie the stake to it with wire run through pieces of garden hose, rags or strips of burlap.

Prune the limbs on bare-root trees back to a side bud or crotch if this hasn't been done at the nursery. This helps to keep a balance between top growth and the roots, which were cut when the tree was dug. Fill the hole with top-quality soil, which might include up to one-fourth peat moss, compost or well-decayed manure. Form a saucer around the tree to catch water and then water generously.

If you're planning to plant a tree in your yard this spring, don't forget that it will grow. This applies to small trees and shrubs planted around the foundation, too. Too many folks choose a tree without considering eventual height, shape, and texture. In a few years, if the wrong kind of tree is planted, it will overwhelm your landscape.

Be sure to select trees and shrubs on the basis of what they will look like when fully grown. Also consider form, spread, color, and texture of the branches and foliage to be sure they will harmonize with other plants in your landscape.

New Paneling Presents Room Treatment Ideas

Homeowners who are adding new rooms, remodeling an attic or a basement or searching for new ways to liven up existing rooms in the house might do well to look to modern paneling as an attractive answer to many problems.

The growing popularity of the new panelings may be attributed to their ease of installation, diversity of colors and textures, minimum maintenance and multitude of uses.

They can be used as wall coverings or room dividers, can enclose cabinets and other storage spaces.

Among the types of paneling now available, hardboard is gaining increasing importance for many reasons.

Through the magic of wood chemistry, hardbard paneling is available in a vast array of surface finishes for every room in the home and for every budget. Just recently, hardboard manufacturers have developed paneling products which simulate travertine marble, die cut filigree patterns and wood grain finishes.

There's Variety

Homeowners can choose from wood-grained finished panels simulating walnut, cherry, birch, oak, elm, pecan and teak. Some of the panels are perforated to add beauty to storage walls.

With the variety of grains, textures, colors and widths available, paneling can act to change the optical size of a room. In cases where rooms seem cramped, lack light, or where the ceiling is too high or too low, the pattern of panel installation can do much to improve room appearance.

For instance, where a ceiling is too high, paneling can be installed horizontally, or vertically where the ceiling seems too low. Light colors, in simulated wood grains or other textures, can give a dark room more of a bright look.

Filigree and die-perforated panels in wide variety serve especially well as room dividers, decorative accents against a solid wall, or as lacy indoor screening painted the same color as a wall.

SIMULATED WOOD GRAIN PANELING partitions a large room into two rooms, creating a "conversation area," as well as a room serving more general purposes. Panels used here have three-dimensional random-plank grooves and gypsum core which prevents shrinking, warping, provides fire safety. The panels can be cut to size by "scoring and snapping." To do this, cut the prodecorated surface with a sharp knife, guided by a thin board with straight edge. Scored panel is then positioned (left) so the piece to be removed is overhanging a straight edge parallel to cut mark. Press the free end until gypsum core snaps. Cut back paper to remove excess piece.

While paneling is most attractive, it can be the easiest of materials to keep clean. The pre-finished surfaces wipe clean of grease marks and other dirt with a swipe of a damp sponge or cloth.

Textured or die-cut hardboard can be painted with a brush or spray equipment to make it a color which may not be readily available otherwise.

Yet another wall covering is simulated wood-grained paneling with a gypsum core, offering the extra advantage of added fire safety.

'Root Out' Those Roots In Piping

Trees are nice to have around the yard. They are pretty, give shade and prevent soil erosion. But when thirsty roots find their way into underground waste and sewage piping—you've got a problem.

Tree roots have tremendous strength, so great is their instinct for moisture, they spread in all directions, seeking it.

Since the roots spread only toward moisture, it makes sense to have underground piping of a water-tight material. Once there is a leak or break in inferior piping, tree roots will find it.

There are methods, however, of clearing lines invaded by roots, depending on extent of damage to the piping. The most effective method, is cutting them out. This can be done with a special, flexible auger that can be reeled into waste lines, cleanly cutting away all growths. This is not a job for an amateur, since improper use of the auger can break the cheap pipe that has caused the trouble in the first place.

Thus, the trouble can be corrected, but only temporarily. The only sure way to avoid a root problem in these lines is to make sure they are replaced with top quality, water-tight material.

PAINT A CAN FOR TRINKETS

Don't discard those empty coffee and shortening cans. They make ideal trinket cans for children's rooms when painted with bright, shiny enamel. They're also handy paint buckets. Clean can thoroughly before using.

It is better to risk saving a guilty person than to condemn an innocent one.—Voltaire.

Container Plants Seen As Answer To Weed Invasion

Now gardeners can achieve that happy goal—"weedless" gardening — with potted plants. No more last ditch efforts to fight off August's annual invasion of weeds with container gardening. Just sit back and watch the plants thrive, virtually without weeds. And it's no trick at all for gardeners who are raising professionally-started plants in red clay pots.

Plant growers and nurserymen start seeds and bulbs and root cuttings in soil that has been sterilized by steam at high temperatures. When the little plants are big enough to be transferred to larger pot and marketed, they are also re-potted in sterilized soil.

This sterilization process effectively knocks out stray weed seeds or latent bugs that might interfere with the healthy growth of the plant. Porous clay pots enable the plants to untilize all the nutrients in the soil for maximum growth.

Porosity of the clay naturally leaches out any excess water through the sides and bottoms of the pots. At the same time, the porous clay walls allow needed air to reach and nourish roots. This saves the added effort of cultivating the soil around the plants to insure adequate aeration.

We have no more right to consume happiness without producing it than to consume wealth without producing it.

Goodyear Stores Team With Westinghouse For Their 'Daze Of Value' Sale

Spring and early summer bring days of careful planning for remodeling the kitchen, adding air conditioning, replacing appliances, converting the living room to a color TV amusement center.

These are happy days, says Goodyear, especially for home planners who visit one of the four Goodyear Stores this week to see the daze of values being offered.

Goodyear Stores in addition to tires and car care services feature a complete line of Westinghouse appliances. All the newest models in refrigerators, stoves, laundry room appliances, television and radios — the complete Westinghouse line are being displayed now.

The stores are offering bonus gifts and prices that beg comparison.

Even if you're not buying, say the quartet of Columbus Goodyear Store managers, it's interesting to browse through the store and see the many features available on today's fashion styled items.

Goodyear Stores are located downtown at Spring and Third-sts, east at 917 S. Hamilton-rd, north on Cleveland-av next to Northern Lights Shopping Center, and south at Great Southern Shopping Center.

Coordinator . . . the guy who has a desk between two expediters.

NEWEST REFRIGERATOR from Westinghouse being featured at the Goodyear Stores is this 18.1 cubic foot thin wall model which fits a space only 33 inches wide by 65 inches high. The frost free freezer compartment has a big 156-pound capacity. Shelves and half shelves lift out easily for unlimited space arrangement. A newly designed meat keeper keeps meat seven days and the vegetable crisper has a half bushel capacity. It is offered in copper, white, turquoise or yellow.

Berwick Builders Offers Tips On Home Space Problems

Homes are made of many things. Lumber, brick, mortar. But how many times have you wished yours were made of elastic?

Shortage of living space is a major problem today with many families. What was adequate space when the home was purchased is often no longer adequate due to the growth of the family, or to parents living with married children.

Fortunately, says Berwick Builders, most homes are somewhat elastic. If you want to stretch your house there are three basic ways to do it — up, down, and to the side.

Up, naturally, means converting unused space in the attic into useful rooms. Usually, a dormer is required to provide the necessary headroom, light and ventilation.

Down, is generally a family room in the basement which provides extra living space for the entire family as well as valuable storage space.

Sideways, is either a room addition or porch enclosure which can serve as practically any type of room your family needs.

Extra rooms, conversion of space to living and play area, modernization such as a new kitchen or extra bath — these add comfort and "Happier Living" to your home as well as added resale value.

Considering the size of your home investment, Berwick Builders point out, resale value should never be overlooked. Each year, many families are faced with the need to sell. And —

Remodeling is an excellent way to increase the return on your home sale.

However, before investing in remodeling there are certain aspects to consider.

Berwick Builders say it's seldom advisable to invest extensively in home improvement in areas of declining property values, or unless the home itself is solidly built. This is where you need the help of a reliable remodeler, one who has built his reputation not only on doing good work — but on giving good advice — even at the risk of losing the job.

What, then, is the best way to approach home remodeling?

First, consult a reliable contractor. Do not sign with anyone using high-pressure methods. Get a verified price — in writing — and be sure the contractor offers a guarantee —also in writing. If there is any doubt about the contractor's reputation, call the Better Business Bureau and ask their advice.

After selecting your contractor, plans are drawn and permits are obtained. If your budget is limited and you are handy with tools, the folks at Berwick Builders advise you to have the more difficult exterior work done by the contractor and you can do the interior work yourself. This can result in big savings for you. However, if you are not handy, or if your budget allows, the contractor can do the entire job for you.

If there are other aspects of remodeling in which you are in doubt, call Berwick Builders at 253-5581. Or visit them for an informative session at 1064 E. Livingston-av.

NEW SUBDIVISION, NEW MODELS

Sun-Vali Terrace Will Be Developed By Ettore

The Ettore Company, builders of Sun-Vali, have announced they will begin development of a new section in the area to be called "Sun-Vali Terrace."

Located south of Livingston-av east of Noe-Bixby-rd, Sun-Vali Terrace will feature many new and larger model homes with up to 2,295 square feet of space, says E. R. Hill, district sales manager. In design and features they will meet the demands of the discriminating home buyer.

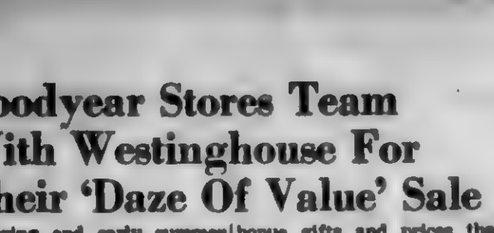
The family room model, shown on page 12 of this Home Section, offers over 1,278 square feet of space, breakfast area, separate dining room and a family room. Another, the "Citadel," is pictured here. Many other models will be featured.

All homes in the fully landscaped area will have sodded front and rear lawns, blacktop driveways, textolite window sills, vinyl floor tile, hardwood oak flooring (in basement models) and mosaic tile in kitchen work areas.

The already over-large lots have been increased to an average 7,800 square feet, making park-like fairways of the adjoining rear sodded lawns.

Winding streets and the warm evening glow of natural gas post lanterns will enhance Sun-Vali Terrace.

"This is to be a beautiful prestige community," Mr. Hill stated, "one of which Columbus will be proud."



He said applications for home ownership in Sun-Vali Terrace are now being taken, and that down payments could be cut in half by interior cleaning and decorating of the home by the purchaser.

A few homes are still available in Sun-Vali's original section for those seeking immediate occupancy. These are offered at lower down payment.

THE CITADEL — features a balcony style living room overlooking a sunken foyer with a duo-level staircase. This beautiful bi-level model with twice the amount of floor space of previous models is attractively priced with terms to satisfy modest incomes.

French Cottage Architecture Offered By Neil E. Crabbe

In tune with today's accent on provincial appeal, Neil E. Crabbe is showing the "Denise," a home of French cottage architecture designed for family living.

Located in Ravenwood at 5892 Effingham-rd, the Denise model features a provincial interior with a central hall plan leading into the activity center of the home, or into the formal living room.

There is a separate dining room, a paneled family room with beamed ceiling and fireplace, with sliding glass doors that open onto the outside patio for cookouts and summer living.

The kitchen offers embossed floors, sculptured provincial cabinets, appliances in the popular copper color, and a food pantry.

Two large bedrooms and a master bedroom with extra bath, plus a 2½-car garage complete the one-floor design. There is a full divided basement and a finished recreation room with space for hobbies, workshop and laundry.

Crabbe is president of the Columbus Home Builders Association, a director of the National Home Builders Association and a member of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce.

His firm, Neil E. Crabbe Builders, Inc., at 3729 Trabue-rd, builds model homes and creates distinctive homes for clients. Some of these are located in Forest Park, Ravenwood, Old Orchard and Walnut Hill Park.

A West High School graduate, Crabbe served in the U.S. Navy. He returned to civilian life in 1953 and attended Bliss University and Ohio State.

Presently, he is planning and building about 50 homes yearly, mostly on contract. The sale of homes is handled by his own company, Distinctive Homes Realty.

Crabbe and his wife, Deignese, reside at 4303 White Ash-dr.

Air Conditioning Reduces House Work, Adds Value

E. H. Davis

Natural gas — long-established as the favorite for all types of space heating in Franklin County — also is increasing steadily in popularity as the preferred fuel for air conditioning area homes, commercial establishments and industries, it was reported today.

Elden H. Davis, Central District manager for Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., said natural gas air conditioning installations have doubled in the Columbus area, and increased 58 per cent in Columbia of Ohio's 56-county Ohio territory in the last three years.

Columbia of Ohio also added more than 7,500 new space heating customers in the Columbus area. More than 96 percent of Columbia of Ohio's customers in the Columbus area use natural gas for home heating, Davis said.

One important reason for the steady increase in gas air conditioning installations, Davis said, is the fact that homes equipped with whole-house air conditioning will be worth more in the years ahead.

Recently the Federal Housing Administration issued a statement encouraging inclusion of air conditioning systems in new homes, observing that "within a few years any house not air conditioned will be obsolescent."

Central gas air conditioning systems are a practical present-day reality within the financial reach of many homemakers, Davis pointed out. The gas industry and gas appliance manufacturers have led in development of whole-house air conditioning systems. One manufacturer's model has become a standard of efficient and dependable operation. It is a single unit, fueled by natural gas, and produces either warm or cool air as needed throughout the house. A single thermostat, located in the main part of the house, controls its operation.

This same manufacturer has developed a chilled water-hot water unit that also provides year-around air conditioning — and the unit may be placed outside the house as a space-saver, or inside if desired, Davis said.

While air conditioning may mean just temperature control to most of the family, it means much more to today's busy homemaker in terms of time and effort saved from wearisome housecleaning, Davis said.

A nationwide survey of such homes by the gas industry showed that seven of eight housewives believe that air conditioning has reduced their work load. Most report less need for dusting, washing walls and woodwork — and less frequent expenditures of time, energy and money for cleaning drapes, curtains, slip covers, upholstery and rugs.

"If you are considering air conditioning, the first step is to have a survey made of your existing warm air system. Columbia of Ohio experts make these surveys and there is no charge for the service," Davis said.

A survey will establish: (1) the effectiveness of the present duct system for cooling use, (2) what, if any, duct work, air intakes, and circuit connections need be added and 3) the size of the gas air conditioning unit needed to cool the house.

If the present forced warm air furnace is in good operating condition, there is no need to replace it in order to enjoy year-around air conditioning. All that is necessary is to install an air cooling unit near the furnace. If space is a factor, the unit can be installed outside the home.

'Snyder Interiors' Combine Individuality With Economy

"Creating fine home interiors with unusual furnishings at the price of ordinary items," says Snyder Furniture and Interiors, at 3097 W. Broad-st, "is a feature of our service which has won many compliments from our customers."

A "Snyder Interior" reflects more than a decade of experience in creating room beauty and original design that tastefully interprets the atmosphere desired by the owner. A home, Mr. Snyder stressed, should portray the people living in it — not the designer.

This is achieved through careful planning and coordination with the customer. Colors, textures, wood tones and light effects are skillfully balanced to obtain the desired room image, and provide function and livability as well. All this is second nature to Mr. Snyder who is a graduate designer from Ohio State University and has been active in the field for the past 16 years.

Snyder Furniture and Interiors offers this interior design service and planning without additional cost beyond the price of items used. Additionally, they offer to coordinate your present furniture into the scheme, allowing you to keep those precious items that mean so much to you.

"We are constantly shopping for new ideas and better values for our customers," Mr. Snyder states. "It is our responsibility, we feel, to keep our customers alerted to the newest items added each season to the top rated lines."

These now pour from more than 200 mills, factories and distributors. Drapery fabrics number well over 4,000 patterns, some with 101 colors. Carpets from leading mills are offered in wide standard color and design categories as well as custom sizes and colors.

This multitude of offerings can be confusing to a purchaser. Mr. Snyder feels that working out an "interior" in the home, rather than in a store, is the practical and satisfying way to chose the correct color, scale and texture for a room.

Under their plan, samples are brought to the home for selection. A scaled design is drawn, furniture located and colors coordinated. The company believes this saves the customer time, money and — more importantly—allows him to see the overall effect before he buys it.

These are a few of the reasons why a "Snyder Interior" offers quality, service and functional design that is a guarantee of economy through the years, Mr. Snyder explained.

For either a complete or partial redecorating and furnishing job, Snyder Furniture and Interior offers their extended payment plan. They invite you to call 276-5142 for further information.

FIX-IT TIP

Scratch Protector

A small slip when driving a screw into a finished surface can cause deep scratches. Use a piece of an old inner tube as a protective shield. Slit the inner tube and place over the screw hole until the screw is almost tight. Remove and finish turning the screw tight.

Plumber: I understand you have something here that does not work.

Housewife: Yes, he's in the living room on the couch.

Buckeye Federal Keeps Pace With City's Rapid Expansion

Since its start in 1895, the record of Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan Association has been one of continuous growth and service to the community throughout the past 70 years.

Today, Buckeye Federal is one of Central Ohio's largest savings and loan associations with assets totaling well in excess of $130,000,000.

Also of interest is the fact that since its founding Buckeye Federal has financed more than one-half billion dollars in real estate. Currently, first mortgage loans total over $114,000,000.

Buckeye Federal's loan department is noted for its prompt service in closing loans and much of this is due to quick appraisal service. Buckeye's own teams of appraisers provide overnight service on property appraisal. Another reason that conventional Buckeye Federal loans are popular is the fact that they contain no escalator or arbitrary call clauses.

Helpful Buckeye Federal loan officers are readily available with advice and assistance on loan transactions for the purchase of existing homes or for new construction by individuals, contractors and developers.

For added customer convenience, Buckeye Federal service is available at 10 locations. These include the main office, 36 E. Gay-st; drive-in office, 43 E. Long-st; Thurber Village Shopping Center; Great Western Shopping Center; Eastern office, 4380 Livingston-av; North Arlington office, 4455 Kenny-rd; Westerville office, 9 S. State-st; Gahanna office, 94 E. Granville-st; Southern office, 1800 Parsons-av, and Northland office, 1330 Morse-rd.

In order to provide additional service to home owners, Buckeye Federal has just established a new home improvement loan department at their main office. Home improvement loans up to $5,000 are offered to home owners wishing to remodel, enlarge and in many other ways improve their property.

That man is richest whose pleasures are the cheapest.

Layout Is Key To Real Improvement

Every homemaker dreams of the ideal kitchen. Expert, well-planned remodeling can turn a harried housewife's daydream into reality. Whether a kitchen is of tiny or spacious proportions, there is an ideal, space-saving layout which would utilize the space provided most efficiently and attractively.

Layout and lighting are two of the most important features in kitchen planning. It's best to start any remodeling with a scale drawing, listing all available counter and storage space, as well as room for appliances and eating space.

Overhead lighting should be soft, with additional fixtures directly over the cooking and eating areas. Skylights and suspended illuminated ceilings are some possibilities.

Plan for Maximum Convenience

For maximum convenience, kitchen layout can provide for the sink to be placed between the cooktop and the refrigerator, with counters placed to form a continuous line between the major appliances.

The "U" shaped layout is a popular and convenient one. This consists of the sink, dishwasher and ample counter space on one arm of the "U," cooking appliances on another arm and storage cabinets and a large work counter which can double as a breakfast bar on the third arm. Other layout formations are the "L," "V" and "G" patterns.

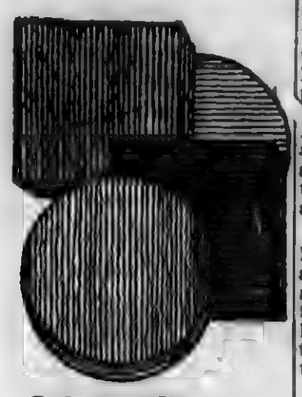
To reduce expense in remodeling a kitchen, it is wise to investigate plumbing and wiring and try to stick to existing lines whenever it is feasible. However, avoid false economy.

Designed for 'Built-In' Look

Be sure wiring and plumbing capacity are equal to the additional load created when new appliances are installed. Making necessary changes in plumbing and wiring right at the start of kitchen remodeling projects can avoid a lot of unnecessary trouble and expense later.

In a larger kitchen, extra work space can be had through the addition of a work-island, complete with extra sink and chopping block.

Built-in appliances eliminate the bulk of free-standing appliances in small kitchens and free valuable floor space. Many new models of kitchen appliances are designed for a "built-in look" and space-saving convenience.



Whether the kitchen is large or small, its storage space and convenience can be enhanced by making full use of wall space, with everything from pegboards to built-in cabinets and shelves. Use range hoods or an exhaust fan whenever possible.

PAD WRENCH JAWS

When changing washers in a faucet, be sure to pad the jaws of your wrench to prevent marring the fine finish of the fitting.

OUTSIDE SINK

A patio sink with hot and cold water provides the perfect place to wash cook-out utensils, garden tools and dirty hands.

A SWIFT "PROVINCIAL" model home built by Ray Hammack, at 4480 Glenmawr-av. Ray estimated that he saved approximately $3,000 so far by doing interior work under the Swift "Helping Hand" plan.

Swift's 'Helping Hand' Plan Aids Early Home Purchase

"If there is anyone who is anxious to convert their rent payments into equity in a home of their own, but can't quite cut the financial end of it at this time, a drive out to 837 S. Hamilton-rd might save them several thousand dollars and several years of waiting."

The speaker was Paul Kemmerer, president of Buckeye Swift Homes, Inc., at the Great Eastern Shopping Center. They have been located there for 14 years and have helped more than 4,000 home owners in Central Ohio into homes of their own under the Swift "Helping Hand" plan.

There are several Swift features which are worthy of consideration by prospective home purchasers.

They have a no-down-payment plan for lot owners. They offer a 16-year pay plan. They will build a complete home on your lot or they will build what they call a basic home. This is where you really begin to save money, in addition to rent.

This is where you buy as little or as much labor as you need to finish the interior of your house. You can do all the work yourself and save expensive labor. You can buy Swift's "interior packages" and have them lend you technical assistance while you do the bulk of the work. Or you can let Swift do the entire job.

There are probably a hundred models to choose from in provincial, colonial, ranch or modern architecture. You can choose the siding you want including wood, aluminum in six colors, brick or stone veneer. In some models, you can choose the window styles you desire, breezeway and garage, one and two car garages, car ports and family rooms, exterior doors and a choice of colors in roof shingles.

The homes are precision cut at the Swift factory in Elizabeth, Pa. Quality features built into Swift homes can be seen in a brochure they give you and in model homes. Three of the model homes can be seen at the Hamilton-rd address.

William Arthur, Swift's sales manager, is frank and outspoken about the homes he sells and the "Helping Hand" plan which Swift offers. So are Swift home owners in the area. Bill has a collection of letters from them praising the values they received.

He'll also arrange for you to talk to them, hear the story from people who saved thousands of dollars on Swift homes — and tell you so unhesitatingly.

Did you hear about the conceited mummy who was all wrapped up in himself?

Gardens & Flowers

By JIM GRUETT

In addition to turning a young man's fancy to love each spring, mother nature, much like an alarm clock, wakes resting plants and encourages them to spring to life donned in their prettiest spring attire.

Evidence of spring beauty is everywhere: The crocus flowers of a few weeks ago; the bright yellow flowers of forsythia and daffodils; the reds, yellows and blues of tulips and hyacinths.

Queen of spring flowering plants is still the magnolia, in my book. Its pink and white tulip-shaped blossoms lend matchless beauty to any landscape.

In a few weeks we will be able to enjoy the picturesque flowering crabs, dogwoods and redbuds, to name a few. Looking over my notes from conversations with local garden centers and nurseries, plus observations made this past week . . . I am reminded of the following:

LAWNS — Sow grass seed and make spring fertilizer applications as soon as possible, apply a combination fertilizer-pre-emergant crabgrass control in lawns where crabgrass is a problem. Avoid missed streaks with your spreader. Nix to digging dandelions now in bloom, kill them later chemically.

TREES — Don't wait too long to plant flowering trees or shade trees. Remember newly planted trees require lots of water. Consider either a flowering crab, dogwood, or redbud tree this spring. In shade trees, consider a pin oak, sugar maple or a mountain ash. Silver maples grow fast, but have brittle wood.

SHRUBS — Forsythia, spirea, magnolia, lilac, mock-orange, honeysuckle and quince are all good selections this spring.

BULBS — Time to buy glads, tuberous begonias, hardy lilies, delphiniums and cannas.

ANNUALS — Start sensitive annuals such as: marigolds, asters and petunias in cold frames. Buy other annual seeds.

PERENNIALS — Getting late — ask your garden dealer's advise.

ROSES — Not too late to plant. Old canes should be pruned by now. All mulch removed and first feeding completed.

VEGETABLES — Too late for spinach. Onion sets available. Plant rhubarb and asparagus roots, also early cabbage.

FRUITS — Select and plant strawberries now. Good time for raspberries too.

Easter came late this year but proved to be one of the busiest floral holidays on record for our city's 100 florists.

For those of you who were delighted to receive a colorful flowering plant for Easter the following hints may prove helpful in extending this enjoyment:

EASTER LILIES — Keep plants out of direct sunlight, preferably in a cool place. As soon as the danger of frost passes, usually May 15, remove from the pots into your garden and cross your fingers.

AZALEAS — Were exceptionally beautiful this year and proved to be popular Easter gifts. This type of azalea is not normally hardy and should be kept indoors as a house plant. Flowering continues up to 30 days in a well lighted location.

CINERARIAS — Are short lifed after flowering. Frequent watering promotes longer blooming if kept in cool location.

HYDRANGEAS — Require moderate watering, usually every other day. Plants may be moved outdoors after flowers have bloomed. Cut stems back half way and plant, pot and all in garden.

BEGONIAS — Should be kept in moderate good light and out of drafts.

POTTED ROSES — Plant outdoors as soon as possible if pot is of material other than hard plastic or metal plant container with plant. Make sure to pierce holes in container before planting: also feed.

Your florist is now getting ready for two more big floral holidays. Mother's Day comes May 9 and Memorial Day, May 30.

If you are planning to give red roses to mom, better get your order in early since there is a shortage of red roses every Valentine's Day and Mother's Day.

Gloxinias should be available by Mother's Day. These colorful trumpet shaped flowers bloom continuously for 30 days or more. Flowers contrast perfectly with large green leaves. These plants usually cost around $5.

During a recent visit to Westerville I was impressed with a tropical plant show sponsored by Westerville florists. Manager Daisy Rice displayed numerous tropical plants that will live in the house as unique house plants.

Among these I recall a miniature orange tree and a pineapple plant bearing a young pineapple. I suggest that admirers of unique plants contact Mrs. Rice for details.
